“Based on my thirty years’ experience and research, I have determined there are thousands of victims who have been targeted by an illegal U.S. government rogue criminal enterprise - military intelligence, probably, tied into CIA and FBI and so forth - that is active 24 hours a day throughout the United States," Gunderson stated in an October 2008 speech posted last fall on YouTube.

NOTE: It appears that the link to the Ted Gunderson YouTube video has been sabotaged. Please search "Ted Gunderson" and "YouTube" and look for the link to his speech at the Gulf Symposium. I believe this is more blatantly illegal and malicious interference with telecommunications by operatives of Lockheed Martin, under contract to U.S. Homeland-mil-intel, or another entity representing the agencies, commands and corporations of the U.S. fusion center network.

"It is far too extensive to be controlled by private enterprise," Gunderson said. "I believe this well organized and sophisticated operation has a central command located somewhere in the United States, with multiple satellite offices scattered throughout the country."

[Ed Donegan suggests Masons, Metro Churches, other entities of Little Rock Arknasas and MENA Airoport and Vatican-OSS-CIA-DARPA

Said Gunderson:

> Theodore L. Gunderson was an American Federal Bureau of Investigation Special Agent In Charge and head of the Los Angeles FBI. According to his son, he worked the case of Marilyn Monroe and the John F. Kennedy cases. Born: November 7, 1928, Colorado Springs, CO : November 7, 1928, Colorado Springs, CO Died: July 31, 2011, Memphis, TN

“It appears those who administer the program can call any location in the United States for surveillance, a telephone tap, or … harassment directed at a victim, and immediately dispense manpower to the source … This well-greased, covert operation makes the old FBI counterintelligence program (code-named “Cointelpro”) look like a Sunday school class.”

Gunderson also maintains that federal security and law enforcement agencies and commands have been infiltrated by members of secret societies such as the Illuminati, which he has described as a satanic criminal cult.

This correspondent has reported that Lockheed Martin, the world’s largest defense contractor and the prime cyber-security and information technology supplier to the federal government, coordinates the communications and trains the “team leaders” of a nationwide Gestapo-like apparatus, which has tentacles into every security and law enforcement agency in the nation, including state and local police and 72 regional “fusion centers” administered by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. According to company literature, Lockheed Martin has operations in 46 of the 50 states.

nowpublic.com/world/rule-law-morality-die-usa-fusion-center-slow-kill-genocide

Lockheed Martin also has operational command and control over a U.S. government microwave radio frequency weapon system, deployed on cell tower masts throughout the U.S., that is being used to silently torture, impair, subjugate and electronically incarcerate so-called “targeted individuals.” The nexus of this American “torture matrix” appears to be Lockheed Martin’s Mission and Combat Support Solutions central command center in Norristown, Montgomery County, PA., which employs several thousand workers. The defense contractor's global headquarters is in Bethesda, MD, just outside the nation's capital.

nowpublic.com/world/u-s-silently-tortures-americans-cell-tower-microwaves

Lockheed Martin, under contract to U.S. security and intelligence agencies and commands, also conducts warrantless surveillance of the telecommunications of targeted persons, and routinely censors and tampers with the content of their communications, as this reporter has documented in a series of recent articles:

nowpublic.com/world/u-s-govt-uses-spoofed-web-pages-and-urls-censor-internet

Thousands of Americans, including this veteran journalist, have publicly reported being the victims of silent electromagnetic assault and community-based home intrusions, vandalism, and even the poisoning of food, water and air. Federal and local law enforcement routinely dismiss their reports as the product of delusions or mental illness, and refuse to investigate their complaints.

These “targets” and their families have been physically harmed and financially destroyed as a result of taxpayer-funded “psychological operations,” police-protected community “stalking” harassment and malicious vandalism, and other covert programs of personal destruction, including government-assisted financial sabotage. Many appear to have been targeted as a result of their politics; their activism or corporate whistle-blowing activities; their ethnic background; or as a result of score-settling vendettas by persons in positions of power - in government and in the private sector.

The former FBI executive’s remarks are only now attracting widespread exposure on this and other web sites. This correspondent believes that recent revelations of government-sponsored domestic terrorism against U.S. citizens have prompted some conscientious insiders to call attention to Gunderson’s public statements.

Gunderson has said that government-sponsored gang stalking terrorism is financed “through illegal black operations,” such as sales of illegal drug; gambling; prostitution; and even sexual exploitation of children. But this reporter believes it is more likely that programs of government-sponsored domestic terrorism are funded from military and security “black ops” budgets that have been illegally diverted to covert domestic programs administered and conducted primarily by defense contractors.

Late last year, The New York Times disclosed that an official of the U.S. Air Force had set up an unauthorized military intelligence spy ring in Pakistan and Afghanistan, run by Lockheed Martin and funded by defense appropriations.

nytimes.com/2010/10/29/world/asia/29intel.html

This correspondent suspects that a similar arrangement could be funding government-sponsored “gang stalking” operations throughout the nation, and has urged Congress to immediately hold public hearings as part of a comprehensive investigation of military-style “black ops” targeting American citizens and their families - a silent, slow-kill genocide motivated by ideology and hate.

Subversion, Pure Risk, War Risk, War Operations

https://www.iedunote.com/pure-risks

There was a liability at least in murdering JFK. There was a risk of Nazism returning or racial strife destroying White European civilization.

My theory of this book is a Treason, successful, using the US Military and units within for objectives of the NWO in a war close enough with USA interests its ideology and purpose seems within the USA and the USA Command and Control.

In fact though this subversion of the USA and Military Forces creates a New Age John Harts war whose interests, methods, and objectives are at odds with, not aligned with, USA interests and the survival of some USA citizens and civil servants where these citizens or civil servants our outside the interests of the NWO but are law abiding and in the Constitutional Rights jurisdiction of the USA.

Targeting for Assassination law abiding citizens is the missue of military and espionage for foreign objectives and is largely either concealed or operated by moles within USA Government or Media.

The basic form of the scam is that those who surround me to, in their own words, defeat white supremacism, will label me with their own acts by assaults upon me for their acts towards others and toward me.

My law abiding Libertarian Objectivist political philosophy and art and contributions to those spheres are co-oppted into other systems while those same entities engage in incursive tresspassing vigilantism against me abusing me under color of law and using blame for the conflict incidents to subvert me to other in all maters of my life.

Illegal as an equal protection matter in the first place and second place. I am not responsible nor liable for any matter and then using planted evidence to subvert me in other matters is as illegal as it gets.

In the matters below and in this book children are victimize, both my character, by moral system, and my presence in public in the areas of the crimes are blamed by the perpetrators who claim to prosecute me but instead in a string of Due Process avoiding shams merely backstab me and persecute me for public conflicts they themselves originate.

Generally Social Justice operatives and beneficiaries are framing me, my morality, my esteem, my philosophy, even my art, such that theirs is perceived as better than mine and property claims against me and my Radical Right Wing are made as well.

The outlandishness of the acts towards me which make statements and labile me and towards other are sufficient to both incite me in anger and to incite others.

This is espionage based incitement of others against me, against my rights, and against my property, even against my family line and is unparallelled in history by the backers of the plan have no other way out from what would otherwise occur, my normal reproductivity, life, and assertions about MKULTRA and being its victim..

The system takes my normal acts in reality and turns them into a play on a stage as actors surround me similar to or as the FISA scandal. My dialogue of I would like a personal pizza gets responded to by a covert operator turning that into some seedy WWII antique shop dialogue.

In extortion vendors assert that my normal purchases are code purchases and use my normal purchases as their foil. For instance at Subways Sandwich Corpus Christi my order of a southwestern chicken sandwich special on a poster on a wall led to a black female making statements like “how do you want that stake and cheese” and in other orders at that shop “well you you like your buns toasted/buttered?”

John Harts New Age War funded by claims against seeming slave owners, aka abusers of SJW beneficiary females.

They know I reject their entendere, putting words in my mouth, or changing the meaning of words in my mouth, but a protection racket which planted the vendors has a Doppelgänger of me who did order pizza and the cops will catch that person.

> [They pull up by an antiques shop and get out of the car.]
> Peggy Carter: This way.
> Steve Rogers: What are we doing here?
> Peggy Carter: Follow me. [They go inside.]
> Antique Store Owner: Wonderful weather this morning isn’t it?
> Peggy Carter: Yes, but I always carry an umbrella.
> [Peggy leads Steve into the hidden lab to Dr. Erskine and his team in a big circular room filled with machinery and a pod in the middle.] https://transcripts.fandom.com/wiki/Captain_America:_The_First_Avenger

What happens in that backroom the Doppelgänger of me is lead to a Honey Pot, an adult entertainer who attracts a pedophile who is the dopple of me, then the Dopple is forced to call the trust fund for a pay up or be arrested fee, the subject of what in cons are called The Grandparents Scam in shaking down the grandparent.

Before we get to the emergency, which does not exist, let us consider who wants to claim they are my emergency contact.

Christ Llloyd. His daughter worked for Genetech in marketing and he had some genetics companies he was working on including something phonetically called Flow Through and possible AIDS or or other research.

The ARC of Northern Virginia, retardation and Autism researchers seeking genetics cures.

Nueces County Social Services I refused to sign up for and never will, or the Nueces Texas District Attorney Matt Gonzales or US Marshalls who conduct asset seizures.

My brother Tom Donegan, gay rights activist and who has fought me for years as to whether I was competent or not, I always said I had far more actual real work and training than him.

Over the course of time I have learned that the emergency often is Doppelgangers of me mostly non white who have pictures of buttocks, especially white gym women, and have kept those pictures as “visual porn” and now those spontaneous masturbating Doppelgangers of me owe those white and other females MY DNA for them masturbating.

Again, this witness group includes “mop pushers” who through fraudulent acts inaccurately allege my masturbation, cause my self relief by denying me a partner, or themselves masturbate in gyms to white women in medical anonymity as the identity will be confused with my own.

The Sound and Fury Ploy I refer to is that as others photograph women character assassination of me before the public ascribes the event to me but denies me an allegation I could refute if it were made. Simply staring at me in aviator glasses is the baseless character assassination type of activity.

The Doppelgänger will have some sort of emergency and Grandparents will be called for the incompetent, the Doppelgänger of me, who needs some representation to settle matters.

This is the public appearances being manufactured linking me to things I am not linked to.

Thus PsyOps of MKULTRA and CIA Secret Service operations persecute me for activities I am not actually linked to, utilizing Marshall and other tactical groups can carry out lethal criminal and religious harassment conditions of my life through inciting vigilantism against me.

The work product of staging incriminating dialogue and photos I have no control of leads to the later assessment I must have been involved in something at the scene, but by the time of that confrontation I have been switched out with a Dopple who will take the circumstantial evidence and forge my confession to it creating a preponderance or complete case of my alleged involvement in calling adult entertainers, and those entertainers find the dopple of me has child porn.

In most likely some “deputized and self funding neighborhood watch the non whites or gays at the scene, or via the confession, are rewarded assets, genomic assets, for the sex offenses I appear to have been involved in.

It seems a Mr Hyde side of me came out, but in fact My Hyde is a real sex offender following me around dressed as me.

For the police/prosecutor, prosecuting THAT Mr. Hyde can get Dr Jekyll’s genome for the victims of Mr. Hyde and from Dr.

Jekyll, if misrepresentation of Dr Jekyll is actually working for the victims of Mr. Hyde.

It is Mr. Hyde, or Lesbian couple Mrs. Hyde and Mrs. Hyde, who created the offense and then solved the offense, and as such, like the victims, will be part of the settlement from my retardation assets trust fund.

Effectively, Prosecutors and even Masons can fund their Christmas Toys Bins for their beneficiaries by faking cases against me while also claim to REPRESENT ma and my interests.

They do not, they are using my assets for themselves, and assigning their liability to me.

	Me Denying to me there is any allegation against me these condescending SJWs will tell my “grandparents” they are entitled to my baby because of what they caught me [themselves] doing

Some John Harts New Age War warriors frame me morally and sexually assaulting me and faking claims made to my trust fund

When WE said we are going to have his baby because we caught him, we caught him, he shouted anti gay anti black things at me showing he was a a psycho. Premised on my belief he should be made to have inter racial children it is therefore his moral error he is unwilling to provide us usage of his genome and that psychosis is what is blocking him from giving up children to others.”

One of the pro non white affects of this is the white person looks bad because the the Hoax, and it is a hoax, makes Dr Jekyll look like scum and a harmer of the vulnerable.

Black Marshalls staged at least 20 photos of teens and tots being photographed by an ass fetishist. A protection racket will in secret proceedings allege I took the pictures.

Getting themselves substituted for me, Anti White Supremacists isolate me and surround those who may have been influenced by my

Dr Jekyll is proud of being white and defends the white race. His alleged “Mr Hyde side” loves minority children as his own and as his sex objects.

My Hyde is a dopple of me, not a side me, not a disassociated personality of mine. A fraudulent record of that being me was created and a fraudulent claim I have dissociative disorder fits the Mr Hyde personality attributes to me.

Mr Hyde is a alleged side, a character assassinating view of me, created by an Information Doppelganger and that acts of that information Doppelganger.

Black Marshalls	Mr Hyde	Related to neither, Ed Donega, Dr Jekyll

The paradox of who is Mr Hyde and how does he fit into some other identity

What “set off” Mr Hyde to masterbate to peeping tom acts and photos, that the Law Enforcement who invented and deployed Mr Hyde as FBI contractor was the need for the Government and Religious Missions to claim rights to my DNA and make a sock puppet Ed Donegan who has harmed others.

A fake “trigger” alleged in me is something set me off. In fact nothing ever did but women who the government wish away from me are told they should not be around me. Acts of others in my direction are women making a public show of apologizing for being around me, but vague that up with also the apologies is for tangling feet, shopping cart collision, etc.,

The sock puppet are my stolen clothes put onto the pupet of me to ID me.

Hyde, that puppet, is drawn from prison and homeless populations to “mind model” the allegations made behind my back which defame me and create liabilities in which property of mine (Dr Jekyll in this metaphor) is due to people victimized by Mr Hyde in my vicinity.

I have long said correctly the ass fetishism, peeping at women normally in my view, a need for white skin rather than Gothic or Victorian or leather or latex fashion was the prison felon aesthetic, not mine.

Mr Hyde disassociates, exists, in FBI operations per Jen Moore, the CIA and Secret Service from what I have heard directly, and flow from Eric Holder like programs targeting, defaming, and dispossession Whites who are seen as antagonistic to blacks and thus must be pre-empted and co-opted with the property of whites moved to blacks creating an equity rather than disequilibrium.

This is the fight against White Supremacism, “Targeting” me as Targeted Individual with defamatory and illegal evidence plants, etc., then inciting vigilantism against me.

As i sought the answer for racial hate crimes against me that only further polarized and issue still do not as my calling out black or other aggression and research the reason.

Further, that seems tied to MKUTRA history of 1961 tied to Obama, MKULTRA, religious use of my DNA, and the fake claim, claim backwards, that all of the was justified and allowed.

In fact this is mere persecution of me for acts and interests not my own, but created cover stories of who can create claims to my DNA as I move from homeless shelter to homeless shelter.

That others have an interest in use of my DNA they will not admit to me solves the paradox of why Mr Hyde is tied to illegal State persecution of me and why the State will not stop the acts against me.

Color Code

AG

The Aviator Glasses Wearers almost always are non-white, gay, or non-white gays. Their placing of Shill female vicitms near or in front of me, ass flashing me, or their photographing of women near me create the Legend that I am threat to women and women are a threat to me and that my DNA is due to those who were exploited [by the racket]

The black male and black nationalist above moved into apartment 40 of the floor I am on and another black male moved into apartment 47. Constant drug use, fighting, and violence was the result of them in the building and they repeatedly fl\ramed me while planted in the prepared building.

Because this scheme depends on inciting vigilantism against somebody scorned and that is done by planting evidence, physical assaults upon me, staging sympathetic figures as victims of a supposed scum bag, the total record is of manufacture of allegations against me to gain a fraudulent result.

Hundreds of material witness to this plan to defeat the appearance of white supremacism will be listed along with a gig at least of proof in evidence that this is all a sham and based in felonies, allegedly harmless, but not, allegedly ethical, but not.

The cover operation makes victims of Tom Dunham, myself, my parents, and others by asking neutral parties, the good guys, to do some dirty tricks for the social good including racket activity for the social good.

The operation of these assaults upon me in both the home, medical recovery, grocery, and other locations I use is part of the offensiveness of these acts the public and the press have supported though.

These self interested parties in the langauge of the street started it both surrounding me and my mother and those I know or knew such as Tom Dunham to fake a sexploitation of women ring that does not exist but is used to persecute me.

Hear Sayers

As is typical in PsyOps the the Good Guys often have been duped into acts by manipulators and these Good Guys will even help communicate the falsity they themselves hold as truth.

These dupes I call under the PsyOps sway of position 3 only speak honestly with postion 3, that position dishonest with them.

Thus in position 1 I have only this book to correct the record.

The Color of Law has been misused to gain the trust and cooperation of people in a very evil con scheme.

30 Yard Flips

Many Hear Sayers are those I would have been near or friends with but I was socailly sabotaged to. Thus a 15 yard forward play I would have made is flagged behind the scenes and I lose 15 yards instead.

Its a bad call on faked or staged photos, etc., but it leaves me with a 15 yard loss and 30 yard deficit.

This has been used to defeat my housing and seuxal reproductive rights, publishing rights, etc.,

This chart lays out the persecution of my by the protection racket and will be usefull for the classes of people witness will be listed by.

Conspirato Against Rights	Assets or Agents	Public Label Surounding Me	Me	Displacement of me with under privileged

Locations and Psuedo Locations

Locations I was at and locations I might have gone to but did not.

At locations I was at the class of witnesses of Mop Pushers, Doppelgangers, Marshalls, FBI, Teens as Pizza, were at.

Mop Pushers make statements like “have a handkerchif in your pocket” towards me or ass flash me as though they “are my porn” rather than people in public.

Etiology, Mens Rea, and Actus Rea

The need to sabotage me to women, making me look like an exploiter of women, a danger to women, and a teen or tot fetishist with no artistic or sexual sophistication created black nationalist desired assault upon me as character attack and allowed the imagery of me being assaulted with these teens and tots to inflame others against me since I was blamed for them getting in my path and I also am assualted on the scene for them being in my path.

Creating similar assaults on my intellect allow retardation firms to create a management of my genome for use in minorities as Social Justice.

Stalking and being assaulted (as I always am) Stalking

Stalking involves “repeated visual or physical proximity, non-consensual communication, threats, or a combination thereof” that are repeated on at least two occasions. There are seven specific tactics used by stalkers:

Hyperintimacy

The stalkers knows more about the stalked that expected and displays that.

Mediated contact

(Aggressive and hostile position maintained by subterfuge failing to concretely identify themselves or motives or reason for stalk impeding response and proof of stalk.

Interactional contact

(In my case blacks and non whites accuse me of pedophilia or teen phelia and peeping tom activity by disgustingly sexualizing alleged victims during my activities and police deny to me I an being stalked. During the course of the stalk ghetto non whites will make vague statements about “liking my watermelons and how big they are or my cookies and how they will have my baby, no further explanation though some have said I owe for teens and tots being near me and “I wanted it.” The Zoom photographer who will victimize the exploitable female is the peeper)

Surveillance

Use of surveillance data on me such as knowing I ordered an amazon weigh bar in the privacy of my home allows evidence manufacture in public I was led to that idea by a stalker, thus the stalker creating a visual appearance of being a helper to me rather than a Shiill and stlaker)

Invasion

Using Building Super and rental staff to facility break ins, evidence plants, physical and sexual assaults and robberies from neighbors and mail theft.

Harassment or intimidation

Frequent death threats on the basis I DID photograph the exploitable victim though a shill working with the other shills did, death threats on my filming the entire scene of then faking the exploitation of the teen or tot, police threats of mental health detention for thinking these stalkers are in any way tied to me)

“Dabbing” or “Cohorting” has been used with me. While I am actually in the dark of why call girls seem to be visiting those around me or who the parties are or what they are doing the males will often bang the wall in between separate apartments or hotel rooms as if to say “we are getting started now together” through the banging on the shared wall.

Similarly blacks or gay scam artist who wrongfully have knowledge of anything I am doing inside my apartment will bang or knock on my door as though we are doing things together, we are doing things together, when we are not. The cover story of why the Ethiopian maid shows up as I am typing something intelligent is both psychological inflammatory to me as well as their pretending of involvement of my own independent work.

E.G. “Pork Chop” of Casa Linda and Donald who assaulted me was I was emailing Sarah Tonin, and these will be a class of witnesses themselves.)

I have requested an expungment of my record so i can obtain a shotgun and clear my front door outdoor side or patio from harassing assailants, including roaring engines.

Repeatedly those assaulting me during work or acts of necessity such as food or gym have said they will have my children and I have insisted any child with genome from me will be incinerated if ever found.

No one has any dount I mean that and part of trying to incite me to punch is rape baby taunting openly laughing about have buckets of grease, etc,

I have long speculated this was launched in the program Okeefe exposed of trying to provoke me to punch in any way that can be accomplished via stressors.

Coercion or threat

(Death threats from the those did did peep against me to establish the public appearance it was e who took the picture. Doppelgänger AKA Zoom photographer will give into Payup or Be Arrested using identity theft, in my identity to money launders.

Basic Operation of Zoom Photographer Scheme on locations and Persons operating it over decades

Zoom Photography Long Cons claiming Sperm Bank Access

Muddy Waters San Francisco Castro seems likely

Key elements were there. On one side of the street an Internet Cafe I was writing from and on the other side an apartment building. Someone from NA pointed out a woman chaning fairly frequently ala The Naked Guy and a scuzzy non white ex prisoner borrowed my SLR until he acted so creepy I demanded back earlier than he was borrowing it under verbal agreement.

Bizzare treatment of me followed that though I considered my own acts highly credible. Similar at Firehouse meeting of NA and also North Point where very scuzzy black person was making a scene. I think he said he was police but seemed more Marshall or something like that. Kept is acts hidden but was stalking me, often with his hands towards his genetilas in an upscale meeting AA location.

Folsom Street Eviction

I was living a a major scene area of FOlsom street very close to Tom Dunham and across the street from a bar he and I often hung out at. With no provocation whatsover my belongings were destroyed and I was thrown out while not there. Nothing made any sense butI was obviosouly being gang stalked in the gay bar downstairs in which innuendo and verbal assaults of me made no sense whatsoever.

The judge and everyone else refused any allegation against me and all non-sequitor assault on me (not flowing from anything I ever did) was non stop and unexplained.

Similar to my near rental with a meth dealer of an apartment across the street from Story Leather. Again, just all went cold on me, nothing to do with me or my actions.

Ball Park West. Foolish “Meet by the Poolside in the bushes” notice sent to me as a moron thinking I was in a college class, and of course I did not go along with it but a Doppelgänger did and I was evicted before getting there, all back females seem to set that up, and I had every legit right to live in Austin without fake allegations.

Both Stay and Play and Captiola same acts, and Casa Linda and Princess Apartments, all runing Doppelgänger scams.

Golds Gym, In Shape Fitness, LA Fitness, others placed bait for the Doppelgänger photograhper.

Same with Omin Hotel and Stripes.

In all cases negative activity of others in my vicinity will be ascribed to me and my positive activity will be ascribed to assailants positioning themselves in my vicinity during my work such as writing.

Mop Pushers create a fake legend of Fapping not occurring

At the DC Thermal Shelter, Bay Area Laundry, Target, Arlington County Sherrifs Detention, San Francisco streets, North Beach, Sea Wall, Golds Gym, Alrington Sport and Health, and other locations police reports, witnesses, photos, and other evidence show non whites engaged in masturbation at the site of women, particularly white women and often in swimwear, yoga pants, or cutoffs, not any particular fetish of mine.

In the Long Con these are also the Zoom Photographers who victimize women in my vicinity and work it out behind my back with a Protection Racket.

Character assaults upon me will be made associating me with the acts of others though any actual accusation against me will be absent from the staged innuendo.

Use of complicit personnel at homeless shelters chaning out sleeping locations or hotels claiming adjoing rooms has facilitated swapping the fapping from another to me or simply stigmatizing me need to get off in lue of having a partner.

Finally normal acts are escalated into peeping though not related to that so that evidence of peeping seems to exist while it is in fact not present.

Etiology again knocks

Everyone I ask says there is nothing at all in anyway unique to my genome yet people keep saying they are going to have my baby, also as they accuse me of irregular acts.

My belief is a scheme was needed to claim rights to my genome so it can be moved in such a way as to move the origins of the maternal side of the Obama family to sought locations and also at the same time prevent me, the half brother of Obama, from living normally and developing my own family tree.

This is probably Enrique Prado's under ground CIA contracting using cirminals hired and payed through CIA contracting including Mena Airport and other locations, this is Andy Ellington connected, and this is Jeffery Epstein connected blackmail for genetic rights designer babies for elite of society and US Military use including through the Ukraine as a genomics rebel base which operates on behalf of the Illuminati as does Little Rock connected people.

PAUL OLSON #42 retrieved from SIGHTINGS and copied or modified to here

PAUL OLSON - A Federal witness in investigations to drug money corruption in Chicago politics, Paul had just finished 2 days of FBI interviews when his plane ride home crashed, killing Paul and 130 others on Sept 8 1994. The Sept. 15, 1994 Tempe Tribune newspaper reported that the FBI suspected that a bomb had brought down the airplane.

USAir Flight 427 was a scheduled flight from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport to Pittsburgh International Airport, with a final destination of West Palm Beach, Florida.

After the longest investigation in the history of the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB), it was determined that the probable cause was that the aircraft's rudder malfunctioned and went hard over in a direction opposite to that commanded by the pilots, causing the plane to enter an aerodynamic stall from which the pilots were unable to recover. All 132 people on board were killed, making the crash the deadliest air disaster in Pennsylvania's history.

USAir Flight 1016 was a regularly scheduled flight in the southeastern United States, between Columbia, South Carolina, and Charlotte, North Carolina. On July 2, 1994, the flight encountered heavy thunderstorms and microburst-induced windshear while attempting to land, and crashed into heavy trees and a private residence near the airport.The crash and ensuing fire caused 37 fatalities and seriously injured twenty others.

Witnesses to what?

Before I list the California main witness (Jim Vocelka and William Ruiz) it will be necessary to understand the long con being run which until about 8/1/2019 I did not understand because the scheme was protected from my scrutiny, protected by the appearance of statements made to me which when I attempted to pin them down were withdrawn, protected by blind conservator ship misrepresentation of me, and media support for the protection racket operates by plant stories to create the “Legend” cover stories.

(In the conduct of Espionage covert operatives operate in a bubble of cover story as to who they are and what they are doing and in at least my case they manufacture a Legend of who I am by staging photos out of my control, planting evidence with access to my apartments, elsewhere, paying off witnesses or pretending to be neutral witnesses, etc.,)

Arriving in Texas homeless in about 2014 and using Gold’s gym Corpus Christ in about 2014 I saw unusual activity around my gym bag on the floor. I had it with me because I did not have a good quality lock to protect it from evidence plants. Plain clothes people surrounded it and warned people away from it as though a hazard, at the time I thought an alleged bomb.

Over the course of years, I saw that surrounding my forearm smart phone etc., and in late 2019 realized others were peeping tom photographing the gym, begging me to take yoga, and alleging a yoga pants gym shorts buttock fetishism of mine.

The “Legend” I was the one with such fetish gave others the cover story to engage in peeping tom acts, deny to me there was any issue, and tell others to stay away from me, babysitting me” in plain clothes, denying to me any cause or need existed for any party to be near me, told me mere coincidence.

Part of the Legendary acts occur when a Doppelgänger of me is invited to a secret room, Capt Rogers antique store style, where Capt Rogers is caught with peeping tom porn and must pay up with his DNA. That I really was in the store was true, and somebody did say something codewords like to me. Resultantly, babysitting me” in plain clothes, denying to me any cause or need existed for any party to be near me, told me mere they were normal gym patrons near me by mere coincidence but told others they and I were protected by plain clothes people in between me and women.

Thus they never showed good cause to me for their acts and they knew the appearance I was aberrant and needed babysitting was actually based on their own acts dressed as me and said to others to be my acts.

Over many years I would find a Doppelgänger of me was a peeper and being assessed my DNA for that persons act of peeping, agreed to a blind trust of me, one with stated racial hatred of me, and for social justice in the fight of white Supremacism launching law-fare against me for acts not my own but for biological property of my own.

Use of empty character assassinations or retractable implications in conversation with me gave the cover for the fraud to exist. The fraud is that a Doppelgänger of me was the offender, I was blamed by parties alleging to support me, and I have been denied accounting. Though it not necessary to explain a motive for fraud I believe this is CIA, FBI, and Secret Service connected as well a black nationalist connected and tied to racial experimentation with my family's DNA dating back to 1961 and that now a cover story must be created for continuing CIA operations regarding my DNA.

From 2007 to 2009 I was in a federal medical hospital trying to trace the theories of black nationalism which was the belief of assailants of my mother and I. Someone said to have been FBI SIS or Marshalls undercover as a prisoner made death threats against me repeatedly that my throat would be slashed, my balls would be cut off, and Jessica SImpson would be fucked by blacks, Jessica Simpson a bikini blonde on his coffee mug.

This person also assaulted me about my mother's heart stopping from Potassium congestive heart failure while I was in prison, a worry of me at the time, proving to me he was some sort of plant to assault me, he would not have otherwise in any possible way known the situation with my mother.

This I think is tied to the long term black nationalist street thug assaults that have been inexplicable over the course of my life and my mother's life and I now think tied to Black Hebrew Israelite and an Illuminati plan tied to my DNA in religious foreign racial use, Feb 20 Spiritual Code. My reproductivity ended and the appearance of the value of DNA as it exists in me must be erased if this DNA is to become "black DNA."

In Mountain Prophecies from Linda Newkirk it does seem black nationalists have targeted my mother and myself, in my case certainly for three decades.

With the core scheme outlined the witnesses to it will be identified in each location starting with Stay and Play then Capitola.

The core scheme is I will be defamed by a frame job behind my back, a peeping event probably at a teen or tot and probably buttocks. The actual perpetrators will character assassinate me with the moral high ground of a Sheriffs cap or something suggesting the Sheriff is an inch behind me, but the what I am not accused of was done by the person in the Sheriff's hat who will then ask any woman I was near to take the fake Sheriff as a substitute for me, behind my back, and that women will ask the fake Sheriff to sign my DNA over to others around the world and inter racially.

Finally, the White Supremacist Scum Bag will be sent packing. As I have pointed out this is the cause of my racial issues, this aggression towards me, and not the effect of them.

Defining Subversion

Subversion, like terrorism and insurgency, has no universally accepted definition (Spjut, 1979, p. 254). For scholars such as Charles Townshend (1993, p. 116), the term is so elastic as to be virtually devoid of meaning, and its use does little more than convey the "enlarged sense of the vulnerability of modern systems to all kinds of covert assaults." Indeed, during the Cold War, the British Security Service (MI5) defined subversion as a generalized intention to "overthrow or undermine parliamentary democracy by political, industrial or violent means" (UK Security Service, 2005). Among American officials, "subversion" was an equally imprecise term, most often used when describing real or more fanciful clandestine efforts (by communists, typically) to undermine the United States and its friends and allies.7

Viet Cong: The Proselytizing Program

he communist opposition in South Vietnam embraced a strategy that employed both violentand nonviolent methods in an interconnected way. What Douglas Pike (1966), p. 85) termed the NLF's "violence program" included terrorism, guerrilla warfare, and conventional military operations. The NLF's "political struggle" included a range of actions intended to build support among the Vietnamese people, mobilize the population, and weaken the ability of the Saigon government to prosecute the war. For the NLF, however, the political struggle was by no means secondary to the armed campaign; rather, these two elements were conceptualized as equal d complementary components of the overall campaign against the Saigon regime (CIA, 1966, p. 14

Wikipedia retrieved from Psychological warfare and copied or modified to here

Psychological warfare (PSYWAR), or the basic aspects of modern psychological operations (PSYOP), have been known by many other names or terms, including MISO, Psy Ops, political warfare, “Hearts and Minds”, and propaganda.[1] The term is used “to denote any action which is practiced mainly by psychological methods with the aim of evoking a planned psychological reaction in other people”.[2]

Various techniques are used, and are aimed at influencing a target audience’s value system, belief system, emotions, motives, reasoning, or behavior. It is used to induce confessions or reinforce attitudes and behaviors favorable to the originator’s objectives, and are sometimes combined with black operations or false flag tactics. It is also used to destroy the morale of enemies through tactics that aim to depress troops’ psychological states.[3][4]

Target audiences can be governments, organizations, groups, and individuals, and is not just limited to soldiers. Civilians of foreign territories can also be targeted by technology and media so as to cause an effect in the government of their country.[5]

In Propaganda: The Formation of Men’s Attitudes, Jacques Ellul discusses psychological warfare as a common peace policy practice between nations as a form of indirect aggression. This type of propaganda

drains the public opinion of an opposing regime by stripping away its power on public opinion. This form of aggression is hard to defend against because no international court of justice is capable of protecting against psychological aggression since it cannot be legally adjudicated. “Here the propagandists is [sic] dealing with a foreign adversary whose morale he seeks to destroy by psychological means so that the opponent begins to doubt the validity of his beliefs and actions.”[6][7]

Forms of Subversion

In addition to fomenting riots, what other activities might be characterized as subversive? Subversive actions can be grouped into three interrelated categories: (1) establishing front groups and penetrating and manipulating existing political parties; (2) infiltrating the armed forces, the police, and other institutions of the state, as well as important nonstate organizations; and (3) generating civil unrest through demonstrations, strikes, and boycotts. These categories will be discussed in turn below and will be explored more fully in the case studies.

Front Groups

To gain public credibility, attract new supporters, generate revenue, and acquire other resources, terrorist and insurgent groups need to undertake political activities that are entirely separate, or appear to be entirely separate, from the overtly violent activities of those groups. Sometimes this is achieved by infiltrating political parties, labor unions, community groups, and charitable organizations. Working in and through existing organizations, which provide a façade of legitimacy that might otherwise be unobtainable, terrorists and insurgents can bolster political allies, attack government policies, and attract international support. For those situations in which infiltration is too difficult, terrorists and insurgents may establish their own front groups - that is, organizations that purport to be independent but are in fact created and controlled by others. Front groups, notes John Thompson (2003), "can draw the sting of disapproval away from the cause and re-direct it against the state or institution that the terrorists are attacking." During the Cold War, front groups were established by many insurgent and terrorist groups, including the FMLN, the Viet Cong, and Sendero Luminoso (Shining Path). Today, groups as diverse as al Qaeda, the Kurdistan People's Congress (formerly known as the Partiya Karkaren Kurdistan), Lashkar-i-Taiyibah in Jammu and Kashmir, and the LTTE operate through political, social, and charitable fronts (Gunaratna, 2004, p. 95; Foreign Broadcast Information Service [FBIS], 2002; "Workers' Party," n.d.). Sinn Fein, the so-called "political wing" of the Provisional Irish Republican Army and arguably the most famous terrorist front in modern times, continues to serve as the respectable public face of Irish republican terrorism.

Infiltration

Terrorists and insurgents who penetrate state institutions can derive at least five significant benefits. The first is information: Infiltrating organs of the state, particularly the security forces, can help generate invaluable information about the government's capabilities, intentions, and weaknesses. Such infiltration, therefore, might be considered a form of intelligence collection against the state. Second, penetration can give terrorists and insurgents opportunities to plant false information, redirect the state's potentially lethal gaze, force the authorities to misallocate resources, and otherwise derail the state's campaign. This too is a type of intelligence operation; like counterintelligence (CI) carried out by government intelligence services, it (secretly) aims to disrupt the organization and operations of enemy forces. Third, successful infiltration may lead to opportunities to steal government funds, weapons, equipment, and other resources. Fourth, penetration allows insurgents and terrorists to "talent spot" potential recruits and identify candidates for blackmail or bribery. Finally, infiltration can contribute to the terrorist and insurgent strategy of weakening and delegitimizing the incumbent power.15 Just as infiltrators can help derail the state's counterterrorist or counterinsurgency campaign, so too can they degrade the state's ability to provide key public services by misdirecting resources, stealing funds, and spreading false and divisive rumors among those in the government workforce.

Infiltration of government institutions has been a tactic of revolutionaries at least sincethe time of Lenin, who concluded more than a century ago that "unless the revolution assumesa mass character and affects the troops, there can be no question of a serious struggle. Thatwe must work among the troops goes without saying" (Lenin, 1900).16 But the tactic is by nomeans confined to Marxist-Leninist groups. Al Qaeda reportedly claims to have infiltrated keygovernment agencies within the United Arab Emirates (Lathem, 2006), and in Bangladesh,the radical Jamaat-e-Islami party, which sponsors a network of 15,000 guerrillas, has filled thecountry's armed forces, security services, and civilian agencies with its sympathizers (Harrison,2006, p. 15). In Iraq, as mentioned above, insurgents have reportedly infiltrated the armedforces, the police, and intelligence services (Inspectors General, 2005, p. 22; "Insurgents,"2005). Such penetrations can have deadly consequences. An insurgent mortar attack on anIraqi National Guard base north of Baghdad in October 2004 killed four and wounded 80;according to a press account (Schmitt and Shanker, 2004, p. 1), the attack "came at the exacttime guardsmen were mustering for a ceremony, which is seen by experts as an indication thatthose firing off the mortars held inside information."

Finally, it must be mentioned that insurgent infiltration is not limited to state institutions, as again demonstrated today in Iraq. In Anbar province, insurgents have systematically infiltrated universities, where they reportedly occupy top academic and administrative positions. Iraq's oil industry, the country's most important economic sector, is also thoroughly penetrated by the insurgents, who have gone so far as to establish affiliated front companies to rake off illicit earnings.

Civil Unrest

As with infiltration, fomenting riots, organizing strikes, and staging demonstrations can have a corrosive effect on the power, presence, and capabilities of the state. Such unrest is first and foremost an affront to governmental authority, and the failure to suppress it can have damaging political repercussions for the state by demonstrating that it is incapable of living up to its fundamental responsibility to maintain public order. At the same time, however, overreaction by the security forces can play into the hands of terrorists and insurgents by seeming to confirm the opposition's claims about the fundamentally repressive nature of the state.

The death of a demonstrator at the hands of the Berlin police in 1967 helped radicalize a generation of German young people, who came to believe that the Federal Republic of Germany was the Nazi regime reborn - a key component in the ideology of subsequent terrorist groups, most notably the RAF.

Civil unrest can prove useful in a variety of other political and operational ways. Largescale discord can deplete the resources of the state by forcing the authorities to deploy additional police, pay overtime, and in some cases send troops into the streets. With the security forces otherwise occupied, insurgents and terrorists gain a respite from the incumbent's campaign against them (U.S. Marine Corps Intelligence Activity, n.d. [1999]). Additionally, the greater presence of the security forces in response to unrest - in the form of patrols, roadblocks, and searches - can help the cause of the terrorists and insurgents by seeming to confirm the opposition's inevitable charge that the state has "militarized" the conflict and is now "at war" with people.

Strikes can cause serious economic damage. As Carlos Marighella observed in his Minimanual of the Urban Guerrilla (1969), perhaps the most widely read revolutionary "how-to" manual of the 1960s, > strikes … although they are of brief duration, cause severe damage to the enemy … [by] disrupting daily life, occurring endlessly, one after the other, in true guerrilla fashion.

Even less violent forms of unrest, such as worker absenteeism, passive resistance, boycotts, and deliberate attempts to cripple government agencies by "overloading the system" with false reports, can have powerfully disruptive effects, both economically and politically (Molnar, 1963, p. 102). According to one scholar associated with HT, "a regime could be brought down through acts of civil disobedience such as strikes, non-cooperation with the authorities, or demonstrations" (quoted in ICG, 2003, p. 7).

Types of Subversion

I continue to assert many crimes and murders took place in Seattle events of the April 1962 Worlds Fair in which Donald Barr along wi Windsors and Kennedy family created Barrack Obama Jr. Recent se including under DOJ William Barr flash mobs invading and destory police station of which Willam Barr was quite forgiving.

Subversion can generally be broken down into internal and external subversion, but this distinction is not meant to imply that each follows a specific set of unique and separate tools and practices. Each subversive campaign is different because of the social, political, economic, cultural, and historical differences that each country has. Subversive activities are employed based upon an evaluation of these factors. This breakdown merely clarifies who the actors are. While the subversive actors may be different, the soon to be subverted targets are the same. As Paul Blackstock identifies, the ruling and political elites are the ultimate targets of persuasion because they control the physical instruments of state

Internal subversion is actions taken by those within a country and can be used as a tool of power. In most cases the use or threat of force is the last step of internal subversion.[19]

External subversion is actions taken by another country in cooperation with those inside the subverted country and can be used as a tool of statecraft. Foreign volunteers from another country are not enough to qualify for external subversion.[17] The reason for this is that the individuals may legitimately share the cause of the internal subversive dissidents and have legitimately volunteered. Only when the government itself furnishes a nation with money, arms, supplies, or other help to dissidents can it be called external subversion.[20]

Tactics

Insurgencies differ in their use of tactics and methods. In a 2004 article, Robert R. Tomes spoke of four elements that “typically encompass an insurgency”:[24]

- cell-networks that maintain secrecy (such as mole staffed Law Enforcement Intelligence Units)
- terrorism used to foster insecurity among the population and drive them to the insurgents for protection
- multifaceted attempts to cultivate support in the general population, often by undermining the new regime

- attacks against the government

Those recruiting Subversives often use motivations of nationalizing private resources, dispossessing property owners for divy, and ethnic or racial based robberies in my case genetics.

Offensive terror

Offensive terror can be defined as the killing of people, destruction of property, kidnapping, etc. It is usually a minor part of subversion and, “is used not to exert force in the transfer of state power, but is meant to cower the people or ruler”.[33] Force used in this manner is meant to reinforce other forms or persuasion in addition to cowering the people or leaders.[37] Additionally, much like civil unrest and agitation, it raises the question of whether or not the state can provide security for the population. Terror also provides a practical motivation of physically removing political opponents. The assassination of an organization’s leader may open the door to a successor that is more friendly to the subversives position or possibly someone that has successfully infiltrated the organization and is in fact one of the subversives.

Bribery

Bribery is one of the most common tools of subversion. Most societies see bribery as a form of corruption and it used as a subversive tool because it, “implies the undermining of existing rules of political or moral conduct”.[38] It can also be one of the less reliable tools as well. Bribed officials are only useful if they take action. However actions taken over a period of time > draw suspicion from the public. The official must be able to carefully conceal their actions or perform only key functions and action. For these reasons bribed officials are most effective when they are asked to take immediate action. In the case of external subversion, bribery is usually used for influence rather than for actions.[39]

> Subversive activity is the lending of aid, comfort, and moral support to individuals, groups, or organizations that advocate the overthrow of incumbent governments by force and violence. All willful acts that are intended to be detrimental to the best interests of the government and that do not fall into the categories of treason, sedition, sabotage, or espionage are placed in the category of subversive activity.

Lancelot Analogy

Lancelot du Lac (Frenchy for Lancelot of the Lake), also written as Launcelot and other variants (such as early German Lanzelet, early French Lanselos, early Welsh Lanslod Lak, Italian Lancelotto, Spanish Lanzarote del Lago, and Welsh Lawnslot y Llyn), is a character in some versions of Arthurian legend, where he is typically depicted as King Arthur's close companion and one of the greatest Knights of the Round Table. In the French-inspired Arthurian chivalric romance tradition, Lancelot is the orphaned son of King Ban of the lost kingdom of Benwick, raised in the fairy realm by the Lady of the Lake. A hero of many battles, quests and tournaments, and famed as a nearly unrivalled swordsman and jouster, Lancelot becomes the lord of Joyous Gard and personal champion of Arthur's wife Queen Guinevere. But when his adulterous affair with Guinevere is discovered, it causes a civil war that is exploited by Mordred to end Arthur's kingdom.

A Knight's Tale

I care for the meat that I eat, that it is good, not spoiled, and thus I am healthy and at my prime.

I choose that from my father and uncle Harold of South Carolina and the farm.

Working on cars and keeping the old ones in the back yard in a row of overgrown weeds was a Southern way.

At any time the thinking might begin and one brought out of mothball again. Harold, my mother's adoptive brother always told me driving was not about the paint but knowing under the hood was O.K, the rest was busy work if there was time.

My father flew great planes in his life and he depended on them too.

We are people of our choices and of our decisions. I did drugs in college and made lots of mistakes.

At times I have been called delusional on my many missions including MKULTRA Birther / Truther.

Whether it is true or not I do not know. Was Glorian the daughter of King Edward VIII, an out of wedlock child of then Prince Edward of Wales and Maria Kutschera Von Trapp rescued by the Catholic Church?

That is my best guess. But I am a pawn on the chess board with an Inquisition system of attacks on that belief.

Perhaps I am more Miguel de Cervantes

> (Spanish: [miˈɣel de θeɾˈβantes saˈβeðɾa]; 29 September 1547 (assumed) 22 April 1616 NS)[6] was a Spanish writer widely regarded as the greatest writer in the Spanish language, and one of the world's pre-eminent novelists. He is best known for his novel Don Quixote, a work often cited as both the first modern novel,[7][8][9] and one of the pinnacles of literature.[10][11]
> Much of his life was spent in poverty and obscurity, many of its details are disputed or unknown, and the bulk of his surviving work was produced in the three years preceding his death. Despite this, his influence and literary contribution are reflected by the fact that Spanish is often referred to as "the language of Cervantes".[12]
> By 1580, Spain was occupied integrating Portugal, and > suppressing the Dutch Revolt, while the Ottomans were at war with Persia; the two sides agreed a truce, leading to an improvement of relations.[46] After almost five years, and four escape attempts, in 1580 Cervantes was set free by the Trinitarians, a religious charity that specialised in ransoming Christian captives, and returned to Madrid.[47]

> While Cervantes was in captivity, both Don John and the Duke of Sessa died, depriving him of two potential patrons, while the Spanish economy was in dire straits. This made finding employment difficult; other than a period in 1581 to 1582, when he was employed as an intelligence agent in North Africa, little is known of his movements prior to 1584.[48]
> Cervantes and his manservant have been imprisoned by the Spanish Inquisition, and a manuscript by Cervantes is seized by his fellow inmates, who subject him to a mock trial in order to determine whether the manuscript should be returned. Cervantes' defense is in the form of a play, in which Cervantes takes the role of Alonso Quijano, an old gentleman who has lost his mind and now believes that he should go forth as a knight-errant. Quijano renames himself Don Quixote de La Mancha, and sets out to find adventures with his "squire", Sancho Panza.

Like Spanish atheist philosopher Santayana much or their life works rose out of the many long tribulations of Spain and the medieval forms of oppressions which regulated its people and art and like many Cubas or others (or Eastern Europeans) arriving in the United States during the cold war the fiercest of liberty loyalism is found in them, those such as Andy Grove.

Maybe some of Prince Andrews blood runs in me. I keep setting up web sites trying to deny that.

All that doesn't matter too much. I have found the USA and perhaps much of Europe may still be under disguised Medival Masons control and it is that I am fighting.

I will just have to let history work on this matter and keep studying philosopy and art and jump rop and dance to my own Knights music on my magical mission.

Good enough for me.

What I can tell is stealthy assailants have concealed themselves and identity and activities which have surrounded in particular my mother and myself.

Funding it the operation out of my trust fund left by my mother was a way to get funding clandestinely with shakedown law suits which then funded the operation acting under various disguises, such researching psychology, studying racism, or stopping exploitation of minors, created conflicts with me which are not naturally occurring.

Seth Rich killed by Rosenstein Started by Fishy Fisher, 7 hours ago

Joseph Rosati is a DEA agent, and according to the whistleblower, someone considered a "cleaner" by higher ups in Washington D.C.

According to whistleblower testimony I have now received, Joseph Rosati is, in fact, the man who hired two MS-13 agents to shake down Seth Rich that fateful night. The intention that night, according to the whistleblower, wasn't to murder Rich, but to scare him into submission and shake him down for a USB key he was supposedly still carrying on his person - perhaps containing even more revelations, and destined for Wikileaks? Instead, what ended up happening was Rich fought back and then ran when confronted by the armed men, and was subsequently shot in the back by the panicked MS-13 goons.

Rosati was supposedly on the scene, overseeing the whole debacle.

The whistleblower would go on to say that they would take the USB key and flee the scene because they had never intended to kill Rich in the first place, and in a moment of panic, a young man's life was cut short.

And again, shortly after this, two MS-13 members would turn up dead.

According to this whistleblower, Joseph Rosati was the man responsible for orchestrating all of this.

Rich would succumb to his wounds shortly thereafter, leading to rampant speculation as to the motive for his murder, and despite his family suing various individuals and corporations along the way, many were still left thinking that Rich was murdered by the the DNC and the Clinton Machine for, they speculated, leaking incriminating DNC files to Julian Assange and Wikileaks, eventually causing Hillary to lose the 2016 election, and to fuel the then-nascent Pizzagate investigations, as millions of concerned patriots became aware of just what exactly these leaked e-mails implied. After much research and deliberation, a large contingent of the community would go on to posit that two MS-13 gang members had been involved in the murder of Seth Rich, acting as guns for hire in a not-so-random hit. Two potential suspects would turn up dead in a nearby area shortly thereafter; perhaps the result of a kind of clean-up job.

Dune as a metaphor

The London, Midland and Scottish Railway (LMS) Coronation Class[a] is a class of express passenger steam locomotives designed by William Stanier. They were an enlarged and improved version of his previous design, the LMS Princess Royal Class, and on test were the most powerful steam locomotives ever used in Britain at 2,511 dbhp.[1]:The Heavy Press Program was motivated by experiences from World War II. Nazi Germany held the largest heavy die forging presses during the war, and translated this advantage into high performance jet fighters. Because of the shortage of aluminum, German aircraft manufacturers used forged magnesium structural components, formed to shape in closed-die hydraulic presses. After finding this, in 1944, the Federal Government asked Wyman-Gordon for assistance, and this program evolved into the Heavy Press Program. Work was started on an 18,000 ton press, built by Mesta Machinery, which was completed in 1946 at the Wyman-Gordon Grafton Plant. Post-war, the Soviet Union captured the largest German press to survive the war, with a capacity of 33,000 ton, and were suspected to have seized the designs for an even larger 55,000 ton press. The next two largest units were captured by the United States and brought across the Atlantic Ocean, but they were half the size at 16,500 ton. As Cold War fears developed, American strategists worried that this would give the Soviet Air Force a crucial advantage and designed the Heavy Press Program to help win the arms race. Seventeen presses were originally planned with an expected cost of $389 million, but the project was scaled back to 10 presses in 1953.86 87 The locomotives were specifically designed for power as it was intended to use them on express services between London Euston and Glasgow Central; their duties were to include the hauling of a proposed non-stop express, subsequently named the Coronation Scot.

The first ten locomotives of the Coronation class were built in a streamlined form in 1937 by the addition of a steel streamlined casing. Five of these ten were specifically set aside to pull the Coronation Scot. Although a later batch of five unstreamlined locomotives was produced in 1938, most of the ensuing Coronation class were outshopped as streamliners.

6229 Duchess of Hamilton on display at the National Railway Museum. Duke of Hamilton is an extant title in the Peerage of Scotland which was created in 1643

James Hamilton, 1st Duke of Hamilton, KG, PC (19 June 1606 9 March 1649), known as the 3rd Marquess of Hamilton from March 1625 until April 1643, was a Scottish nobleman and influential political and military leader during the Thirty Years' War and the Wars of the Three Kingdoms. (England, Scottland, and Ireland)

London Midland and Scottish Railway (LMS) Coronation Class 6229 (British Railways number 46229) Duchess of Hamilton is a preserved steam locomotive built in September 1938 by the LMS Crewe Works and operated until February 1964.

the original five 6220-4 had been given a unique Caledonian blue livery with silver stripes. In 1939 no. 6229 swapped identities with the first of the class 6220 Coronation and was sent to North America with a specially-constructed Coronation

Scot train to appear at the 1939 New York World's Fair.[1] There was therefore for a while a blue 6229 Duchess of Hamilton in the UK and a red 6220 Coronation in the US.

Roman [Empire contrlled] Britain was the territory that became the Roman province of Britannia after the Roman conquest of Britain, consisting of a large part of the island of Great Britain. The occupation lasted from AD 43 to AD 410.

Caledonia was the Latin name used by the Roman Empire to refer to the part of Scotland that lies north of the River Forth, which includes most of the land area of Scotland.[1] Today, it is used as a romantic or poetic name for all of Scotland.[2] During the Roman Empire's occupation of Scotland, the area they called Caledonia was physically separated from the rest of the island by the Antonine Wall. The Romans several times invaded and occupied it, but unlike the rest of the island, it remained outside the administration of Roman Britain.

This Sunday is March 24, the date in 1603 when Queen Elizabeth I died, and James VI of Scotland became king of England. When James succeeded Elizabeth to the English monarchy, he also inherited the crown of Ireland. Although a high king of Ireland was both a legal and historical reality, the concept of an Irish crown was innovative in this period. The bardic poet Fearghal Óg Mac an Bhaird may be the first to have articulated the notion of ‘the crown of Ireland’ as part of a triple monarchy, which he did in his famous poem “Tri coróna i gcairt Shéamais” (Three crowns in James’s charter), an inaugural poem celebrating James’s accession to the triple monarchy of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

he current Folger exhibition, Nobility and Newcomers in Renaissance Ireland, which I curated with Thomas Herron, Associate Professor of English at East Carolina University, includes a facsimile manuscript of Mac an Bhaird’s poem, in the original Irish language. The poem is one of several Irish-language works on display. A fundamental, and immensely interesting, part of the exhibition, these works have been a way for us to show how the Irish language itself was a powerful cultural and social force in the world of Renaissance Ireland. You can hear a spoken passage from the poem, in Irish, in this online audio stop from our exhibition audio tour (the passage from the poem begins after my spoken introduction) and see an image of the poem here as well. https://manifoldgreatness.wordpress.com/2013/03/22/three-crowns-in-jamess-charter-an-irish-poem-for-the-new-king/

Know then that it is the year 10,191 [19,11,0]

The known universe is ruled by the Padishah Emperor Shaddam IV, my father.

In this time the most precious substance in the Universe is the spice melange. The spice extends life. The spice expands consciousness. The spice is vital to space travel. The spice exists on only one planet in the entire Universe … A desolate, dry planet with vast deserts.

Hidden away within the rocks of these deserts are a people known as the Fremen who have long held a prophecy that a man would come … a Messiah … who would lead them to true freedom.

The planet is Arrakis. Also known as Dune. We are the secret of the Universe. Bi-la kaifa. We are the secret. We know of CHOAM in the Universe Combine Honnete Ober Advance Mercantiles controlled by the Emperor Shaddam IV and all the Great Houses of the Landsraad.

We know of CHOAM …yet we are the secret. We know of the Bene Gesserit sisterhood, their selective breeding plan for 90 generations to produce the Kwisatz Haderach, whom they will control.

The ones they call the witches …yet we are the secret. We know of the Guild and their Navigators' power to fold space and their control over all interplanetary travel. We know they have the seeing eye …yet we are the secret. The Bakka shall weep no more, for there is now at work a higher power. Bi-la kaifa. And now the prophecy. One will come … the voice from > Enemies strengthen you; allies weaken." - Emperor Elrood IX, Deathbed Insights.

Lady Jessica I think is Glorian Donegan is a Lady no-Royal used to produce a Royal who will bridge the gap between the Harkonnens of Planet Giedi Prime who are rather unpleasant and House Atreides of Planet Caladan. Though Lady Jessica is a Planet Caladan female she is NOT to produce a child with Duke Leto Atreides, her Caladanian husband yet she does and the son is Paul Atreides. She will also have a daughter with Leto Atreides totaling three children. One child from a Harkonnen, I think that child represents Barrack Obama Jr, and two other children, those children by James Paul Donegan, those two children being Thomas Neil and Edward Donegan.

The book version appears in 1969 following the assasination of Robert F. Kennedy and the movie version as George H.W. Bush attempts a coup d'etat on Ronald Reagan.

This is arranged by the Great Britain's English Crown, ruler of all Commonwealths.

Book I The Great Houses

- Book I : The Great Houses
  - Planet Arrakis: Source of the Spice
  - Planet Caladan: Home of House Atreides
  - Planet Giedi Prime: Home of House Harkonnen
  - Planet Kaitain: Home of the Emperor of the Know Known Universe

- Book II Dune : House Atreides take over Planet Arrakis from the Harkonnes and encounter resistance from the Harkonnen but assistance from the Fremen and Sandworms

- Book III Muad'Dib : The Desert mouse, also known as Muad'Dib, is an adapted [perhaps animal model experiment] kangaroo mouse found on and adapted to the planet Arrakis.

  It is associated in Fremen earth-spirit mythology with a design visible on the planet's second moon, and is admired by Fremen for its ability to survive in the open desert.

  Paul Atreides takes this as his name in the Dune where he will rise to power and lead.

- Book IV The Prophet: "He who can destroy a thing, controls a thing." The Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries is an intergovernmental organization or cartel of 13 countries. Founded on 14 September 1960 in Baghdad by the first five members, it has

> As Leader of the Jihad against Oil Barron Harkonnen the Freemen are able to bring the Empire to its knees.

In the world of Dune a Feudal Galactic Order exists. Two competing crowns below the main crown are House Harkonnen and House Atreides.

The Padishah Emperors are the hereditary rulers of the Old Empire in Frank Herbert's science fiction Dune universe. In Herbert's originating novel Dune (1965) it is established that while the Padishah Emperor is supreme sovereign ruler of the known universe, and might be likened to The Queen of England ruling other Commonwealth Crowns such as the Three Crowns, Scotland, Northern Ireland and England, of the Island of Great Britain.

The Navigators may be taken for Oil Companies who move the Spice from Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and other locations on their supertankers. They push the the highest crown, the Padishah, quite easily though formally they deny existing as an influence on politics.

The Navigators who move spice do not see Duke Leto Atreides as a threat whether the House Atreides wins on Arrakis or is defeated by the Harkonnens when the Harkonnes lay a trap leaving oil (spice contracts) to be fulfilled by Atreides (subcontractors ot Harkonnes) growing Duke Leto in popularity and House Atreides becomes more relevant and successful.

The Feudal Order is re-ordered but preserved. A nightmare vision for the Movers of Spice that the of Duke Leto Atreides son Paul will join the anti-feudal jihad and upset the Feudal Order.

In the trap the Emperor has laid for the Atreides who as subcontractors are being led into a trap the only important consideration to the Navigators is Joseph Kennedy Sr's son JFK must die of fueal order is to be preserved.

Twin Pillars Policy: The decision by Great Britain in the late 1960s to withdraw its military forces from the Persian Gulf and to grant independence to its ten protectorates along the east coast of the Arabian Peninsula confronted the United States with a strategic dilemma.

It was the height of Cold War rivalry with the Soviet Union, and the United States was deeply involved in Vietnam. Consequently, the United States decided instead of direct intervention to build up its two regional allies, Iran and Saudi Arabia, as local powers that could protect the region from the spread of Soviet influence.

As the “twin pillars” of U.S. policy, both countries were encouraged to acquire billions of dollars of the most advanced arms during the 1970s. Iran embraced the twin pillars policy more enthusiastically than Saudi Arabia and intervened militarily, with U.S. approbation, in Iraq and Oman. The policy collapsed suddenly in 1979, when the shah (king) of Iran was overthrown in a revolution that brought to power a republican regime opposed to U.S. influence in the region. Aristotle taught that a speaker’s ability to persuade an audience is based on how well the speaker appeals to that audience in three different areas: logos, ethos, and pathos. Considered together, these appeals form what later rhetoricians have called the rhetorical triangle.

Google knowledge panel retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

What is ethos and pathos and logos?

Logos appeals to the audience’s reason, building up logical arguments. Ethos appeals to the speaker’s status or authority, making the audience more likely to trust them. Pathos appeals to the emotions, trying to make the audience feel angry or sympathetic, for example.

Equals (film)

Pathos

Using pathos is to appeal to the emotions of the audience. This angle is arguably the most effective and most immediate rhetorical appeal within the triangle. Using it establishes common ground and connection between the audience and the speaker.

Logos

Ancient Greek philosophers used the term in different ways. The sophists used the term to mean discourse. Aristotle applied the term to refer to “reasoned discourse” or “the argument” in the field of rhetoric, and considered it one of the three modes of persuasion alongside ethos and pathos Pyrrhonist philosophers used the term to refer to dogmatic accounts of non-evident matters. The Stoics spoke of the logos spermatikos (the generative principle of the Universe) which foreshadows related concepts in Neoplatonism

Ethos

Ethos means “custom” or “character” in Greek. As originally used by Aristotle, it referred to a man’s character or personality, especially in its balance between passion and caution. Today ethos is used to refer to the practices or values that distinguish one person, organization, or society from others.

To appeal to ethos is to show the credibility of the speaker or writer. Doing this establishes the author as an authority on the subject they are speaking about. It explains why the audience or reader should trust the information and opinions given by that person.

- Logos: Logic

Atomism (from Greek ἄτομον, atomon, i.e. “uncuttable, indivisible”)[1][2][3] is a natural philosophy proposing - the physical universe is composed of fundamental indivisible components known as atoms.

Atmosphere and Atoms, Hemosphere (orbit of blood) Cosmpsphere area of the Cosmos, Eros and Erotica, Cronos and Time, Xenos, Apollo, Crypto, Acro Acromony and the Acropolis, Agro and Agroculture.

In discussing counseling systems of Wise Mind I brought these subjects up with Arlington County Mental Health Services and used examples working from membory of Head Royce Schools and travels in Greece with my family and also continous learning since then. From memory I made an error or to but fixed the errors with reference materials.

James Paul Donegan, Glorian Donegan, Tom Donegan, and Ed DOnegan, each of us took turns talking in the Oracle of Deplhi amphitheater stage as the rest of sat in the audience rows and listened to the accustics and affects of the shape of the amphitheater. Amphius - In Greek mythology, the name Amphius (Ancient Greek: Ἄμφιος) refers to two defenders of Troy; later these will mean power and also amplification or strengthening. of power.

Pytho: Pythia (/ˈpɪθiə/;[1] Ancient Greek: Πυθία [pyːˈtʰi.aː]) was the name of the high priestess of the Temple of Apollo at Delphi. She specifically served as its oracle and was known as the Oracle of Delphi. Her title was also historically glossed in English as the Pythoness.

The name Pythia is derived from Pytho, which in myth was the original name of Delphi. Etymologically, the Greeks derived this place name from the verb πύθειν (púthein) “to rot”, which refers to the sickly sweet smell from the decomposing body of the monstrous Python after she was slain by Apollo.[3]

The Pythia was established at the latest in the 8th century BC,[4] (though some estimates date the shrine to as early as 1400 BC[5][6][7]), and was widely credited for her prophecies uttered under divine possession (enthusiasmos) by Apollo.

The oracle is one of the best-documented religious institutions of the classical Greeks. Authors who mention the oracle include Aeschylus, Aristotle, Clement of Alexandria, Diodorus, Diogenes, Euripides, Herodotus, Julian, Justin, Livy, Lucan, Nepos, Ovid, Pausanias, Pindar, Plato, Plutarch, Sophocles, Strabo, Thucydides, and Xenophon.

Nevertheless, details of how the Pythia operated are scarce, missing, or non-existent entirely, as authors from the classical period (6th to 4th centuries BC) treat the process as common knowledge with no need to explain. Those who discussed the oracle in any detail are from 1st century BC to 4th century AD and give conflicting stories..

As for Libertarian influence in my life, Objectivity as Scientific Philosophy and Rationalism, Objectivism, not subjectivity.

I left counseling services because the Obamas were using things like “Forward” as a viewpoint in life (what I had decided in AA in the 1990s) as campaing stump speech and campaign theme materials and I did not want my work handed over to politicians.

> Equals is a 2015 American science fiction romantic drama film directed by Drake Doremus Drake (born March 29, 1983), produced by Michael Pruss, Chip Diggins, Ann Ruak, Michael Schaefer, and Jay Stern, and written by Nathan Parker from a story by Doremus. It stars Nicholas Hoult born 7 December 1989) and Kristen Stewart (born April 9, 1990) as two people living in a dystopian, post-apocalyptic world where all the people are robotic, emotionless workers, and any sign of emotions is treated as a disease. Additional roles are played by Guy Pearce and Jacki Weaver.

The story matches “suiciding” of “SOS” (Swtiched-On_Syndrom) Which I say is a metaphoer for FOXP2 Syndrome that I also say is being smeared in metaphor as a disease by those who assert they do not have the disease; however, they seem to live in a world in which those very identical to them who express a minor quirk of otherwise the same brain are shunned and suicides as a dangerous evil, perhaps a Nazi-esque terror.

Elsewhere in the book talking about Evil I use the chart below but I now in a section in blue text color for the puposes of discussing Equals.

Classical Elements

Classical elements typically refer to water, earth, fire, air, and (later) aether, which were proposed to explain the nature and complexity of all matter in terms of simpler substances.[1][2] Ancient cultures in Greece, Tibet, and India had similar lists, sometimes referring in local languages to “air” as “wind” and the fifth element as “void”.

These different cultures and even individual philosophers had widely varying explanations concerning their attributes and how they related to observable phenomena as well as cosmology. Sometimes these theories overlapped with mythology and were personified in deities. Some of these interpretations included atomism (the idea of very small, indivisible portions of matter), but other interpretations considered the elements to be divisible into infinitely small pieces without changing their nature. Periodic table

The periodic table, also known as the periodic table of (the) (chemical) elements, is a tabular display of the chemical elements. It is widely used in chemistry, physics, and other sciences, and is generally seen as an icon of chemistry. It is a graphic formulation of the periodic law, which states that the properties of the chemical elements exhibit a periodic dependence on their atomic

Navin R. Johnson is the white adopted son of black sharecroppers, who grows to adulthood naïvely unaware of his obvious adoption. He stands out in his family not just because of his skin color but because of his utter lack of rhythm when his adoptive family plays spirited blues music. One night, he hears a champagne-style rendition of “Crazy Rhythm” on the radio and spontaneously begins to dance; he excitedly sees this as a calling and decides to leave for St. Louis, from where the song was broadcast. On the way, he stops at a motel, where a dog wakes him up by barking at his door. Navin thinks the dog is trying to warn of a fire. He wakes up the other hotel guests to rescue them, telling the dog they will name him “Lifesaver.” After everyone realizes it was a false alarm, one of the guests suggests naming the dog “Shithead.” Navin takes the dog as his own, indeed naming it Shithead.

[At one hour, the finest hour his dog Marie and he leave for Los Angeles to make a start in an apartment and almost immediately is found by a Private Detective who informs him he is rich because his nose bridge based eye glasses handle is a big seller now.

Navin Who is Navin Johnson (played by Martin)

Announcer American Time News Magazine turns its probing eye on Navin Johnson inventor of the Opti-grab. That little glasses handle that sold ten million units in a few short months. Mr. Johnson you've become a millionaire overnight. Who are you?

Navin Who is Navin Johnson? Navin is a complex personality, as are most of the small breed of modern day renaissance millionaires.

Announcer We had planned to show you the entire Johnson interview, however when we returned to our studio, our news department informed us of a sensational development in the Johnson story. It seems that an irate group of citizens led by the celebrity, Mr. Carl Reiner has filed a class action suit against Mr. Johnson and his Opti-Grab. Here's what Mr. Reiner had to say at a press conference.

Carl Reiner When Opti-grab came out, I thought it was the greatest thing ever, and I bought a pair. And this is the result. (Mr. Reiner removes his pair of dark glasses to reveal …) This little handle is like a magnet, your eyes are constantly drawn to it and you end up cock-eyed. Now as a director I am constantly using my eyes and this Opti-grab device has caused irreparable harm to my career. Let me show you a clip from my latest film where my faulty depth perception kept me from yelling cut at the proper time. (scene of a little red sportscar speeding off a cliff. Reiner yells "Cut!" just after the car goes over the edge) If I had yelled cut on time, those actors would be alive today. That's why I > am spearheading the ten million dollar class action suit against Mr. Johnson and his irresponsible selling of a product he didn't even test on prisoners. Thank you.

Griffith Park retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Griffith Park is a large municipal park at the eastern end of the Santa Monica Mountains, in the Los Feliz neighborhood of Los Angeles, California. The park covers 4,310 acres (1,740 ha) of land, making it one of the largest urban parks in North America. It is the second-largest city park in California, after Mission Trails Preserve in San Diego, and the 11th-largest municipally-owned park in the United States.

After successfully investing in mining, Griffith J. Griffith purchased Rancho Los Feliz (near the Los Angeles River) in 1882 and started an ostrich farm there. Although ostrich feathers were commonly used in making women's hats in the late 19th century, Griffith's purpose was primarily to lure residents of Los Angeles to his nearby property developments, which supposedly were haunted by the ghost of Antonio Feliz (a previous owner of the property). After the property rush peaked, Griffith donated 3,015 acres (1,220 ha) to the city of Los Angeles on December 16, 1896.

Griffith J. Griffith Griffith was tried and convicted of shooting and severely wounding his wife in a 1903 incident. When released from prison, he attempted to fund the construction of an amphitheater, observatory, planetarium, and a girls' camp and boys' camp in the park. As his reputation in the city was tainted by his crime, the city refused his money.

and the Hollywood Sign frequently viewed from the Griffith Observatory patio area overlooking Los Angeles vistas . Due to its presence in many films, the park is among the most famous municipal parks in North America.

It has been compared to Central Park in New York City and Golden Gate Park in San Francisco, two other notable American municipal parks, but it is much larger, more untamed, and more rugged than either park.

In 1912, Griffith designated 100 acres (40 ha) of the park, at its northeast corner along the Los Angeles River, be used to "do something to further aviation". The Griffith Park Aerodrome was the result. Aviation pioneers such as Glenn L. Martin and Silas Christofferson used it; afterwards the aerodrome was passed to the National Guard Air Service. Air operations continued on a 2,000-foot (600 m)-long runway until 1939, when it was closed, partly due to danger from interference with the approaches to Grand Central Airport across the river in Glendale, and because the City Planning commission complained that a military airport violated the terms of Griffith's deed.

At the one hour mark in the movie Sauve logician Steve Martin is flying his private plane and drinking Champagne. He consults for IT and helps use logic to keep costs low on computer systems availability, near "lights out" no personell at all having to watch systems. Moments later the Schwartzmen character is a loser riding a bus around urinating into a field at a public bus stretch your legs break.

He offers this girl he found in a shop "Private plane food" and sleeps with her trying not to break her heart too much since she is so much younger than him. She lives on Griffith Park Blvd but in the basin, not the Stars portal.

The "Shop" is Saks Fifth Avenue Los Angeles store, not of much importance to a man like Steve Martin and his wealth.

Ray Porter (Steve Martin) is an older, suave, wealthy, divorced logician who charms Mirabelle over several dates, one of which ends at his house. Mirabelle offers herself to him, and the morning after they have sex, Ray tells her that he does not intend for their relationship to be serious due to his constant travel between L.A. and Seattle. Each has a different understanding of this talk: Ray tells his psychiatrist that Mirabelle knows he will see other people, and Mirabelle tells her acquaintances that Ray wants to see her more.

palaeoanthropologist Davidson Black persuaded the Peking Union Medical College (his employer), the Geological Survey of China (headed by Wēng), and the Rockefeller Foundation to found and fund the Cenozoic Research Laboratory

After Black's sudden death in 1934, Jewish anatomist Franz Weidenreich, who fled Nazi Germany, carried on Black's study of the Zhoukoudian.

On 2 December 1929, Chinese anthropologist Péi Wénzhōng discovered a surprisingly complete skullcap,[7][a] and the Zhoukoudian proved to be a valuable site, with a preponderance of human remains, stone tools, and potential evidence of early fire use,[9] becoming the most productive Homo erectus site in the world. An additional four rather complete skullcaps were discovered by 1936, three of which were unearthed over an 11 day period in November 1936, overseen by Chinese palaeoanthropologist Jiǎ Lánpō. From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

"Another modern discovery which we own the hydrangea concerns the influence of air drainage upon plant climate many years ago when I was traveling about the country I know this magnificent hydrangeas on the hill where the air drainage was perfect and very for specimens or perhaps not at all in the valleys we used to consider sheltered valleys more favorable to plants than hilltops but the avoidance of late spring and early autumn Frost enjoyed by sites with good air drainage where the cold air can brain safely away to lower levels gives the hills a decided advantage thus it was the hydrangeas again the first pointer in another modern discovery of horticultural importance from us it might appear that the hydrangea is a fairly simple plant but there are more complications the cultivation of hydrangeas was involved from a number of varieties originally found in Japan not all of which of course have the same characteristics two of them do not share the quality of producing bloom flowers in mineral rich soils" erectus which inhabited the Zhoukoudian Cave of northern China during the Middle Pleistocene. The first fossil, a tooth, was discovered in 1926, and the Zhoukoudian has since become the most productive H. erectus site in the world. Peking Man was instrumental in the foundation of Chinese anthropology, and fostered an important dialogue between Western and Eastern science for decades to come.

The fossils became the centre of anthropological discussion, and were classified as a direct human ancestor, propping up the Out of Asia hypothesis that humans evolved in Asia.

Peking Man also played a vital role in the restructuring of the Chinese identity following the Chinese Communist Revolution, and was intensively communicated to working class and peasant communities to introduce them to Marxism and science (overturning deeply-rooted superstitions and creation myths).

As a consequence of the former, early models of Peking Man society strongly leaned towards communist or nationalist ideals, leading to discussions on primitive communism and polygenism. This produced a strong schism between Western and Eastern interpretations, especially as the West adopted the Out of Africa hypothesis by the late 20th century, and Peking Man's role in human evolution diminished as merely an offshoot of the human line. Now that the hypothesis is ubiquitous, Peking Man interbreeding with human ancestors is frequently discussed especially in Chinese circles.

thus it was the hydrangeas that gave the first pointer in another modern discovery of horticultural importance from this it might appear that the hydrangea is a fairly simple plant but there are more complications the cultivation of hydrangeas was evolved from a number of varieties originally found in Japan not all of which of course have the same characteristics two of them do not share the quality of producing bloom flowers [The USA and Republic of Ireland both of which JFK supported?] in mineral rich soils allow me to introduce our American visitors

State of Mind in Self Defense

Does one soldier have a self defense need against a different soldier? Does one soldier PERCIEVVE he has a right or need to shoot another solider? Can the soldier percieving the need PROVE the need if the soldier being shot has denied wrongdoing?

It wasn't a Good Shoot if Dr Lo (or someone else representing State) shoots the shooter who was in self defense against Dr Lo's Confidential Assailant, the first solder shot, though Dr Lo will deny he initiated the conflict between the two soldiers, both of whose lives will end lethally.

Dr Lo as The State has the right to fire on the shooter. The Shooter may have a defense right against the other soldier but not be able to prove it if the shooter is held without trail for shooting fellow soldier for no reason.

I Edward Paul Donegan frequently retaliated against for my self defense against Confidential (plausibly denied) assailants of me. Thus the state can can me crazy for thinking I have a self defense need or acting under the state of mind that I have a self defense neeed.

In public I am suposed to attack people (Confidential Assailants) totaly out of the blue and even do so in public where I have chased them to or they have chased me to.

After many rounds of this and always being in custody I have learned to always turn the other chick but I am left homeless and have other problems the assailants like Cynthia Nino generate in my life.

Poisoner In Chief: Sidney Gottlieb and the CIA Search for Mind Control by Stephen Kinzer, September 2019, Henry Holt & Co., 368 pages

In the 1962 film adaptation of Richard Condon's The Manchurian Candidate, a diabolical North Korean doctor named Yen Lo tells Staff Sergeant Raymond Shaw to "pass the time with a little solitaire." These trigger words, accompanied by a Queen of Diamonds playing card, prompts the lanky soldier to get up, and when instructed, brutally kill two of his own comrades sitting on the stage, both of whom appear under the same trance as Raymond.

Later, we find out this was not a dream but a real test of Shaw's programming through elaborate mind control, undertaken before he is sent home to the United States as a sleeper agent for a Communist Party cell, led by his own mother. "His brain has not only been washed, as they say, but cleaned," declares a gleeful Dr. Lo.

After Presidential candidate Robert Kennedy's assassination in a bid to replace Johnshon (Johnson could have run again since he had only a partial first term under 2 year replacing JFK), Johnson rallied the party bosses and unions to give Humphrey the nomination at the 1968 Democratic National Convention. Personal correspondences between the President and some in the Republican Party suggested Johnson tacitly supported Nelson Rockefeller's campaign. He reportedly said that if Rockefeller became the Republican nominee, he would not campaign against him (and would not campaign for Humphrey)

After leaving the presidency in January 1969, Johnson went home to his ranch in Stonewall, Texas, accompanied by a former aide and speechwriter Harry J. Middleton, who would draft Johnson's first book, The Choices We Face, and work with him on his memoirs entitled The Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency 1963-1969, published in 1971.[280] That year, the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library and Museum opened on the campus of The University of Texas at Austin. He donated his Texas ranch in his will to the public to form the Lyndon B. Johnson National Historical Park, with the provision that the ranch "remain a working ranch and not become a sterile relic of the past".

Gardening Clubs Fertile Ground for Women's Activism

In the early 19th century, bright, educated women became active in various reform movements. The activists among them joined abolitionist societies and petitioned for woman suffrage. With the advent of the Civil War, a wider circle of women joined together to support the causes of soldiers and their families. They formed sewing circles, held fundraising fairs, and volunteered directly with causes. After the war, women seeking intellectual and social outlets continued to rapidly establish women's clubs.

Clubs formed around many different issues from literary and musical societies, social reform movements, and beautification. In the years between the 1870s and 1920s, women's clubs became the major vehicle by which American women could exercise their developing talents to shape the world beyond their homes. Clubs afforded not only social opportunity but also leadership. As clubs grew, and counted locally influential women among their rolls, clubs could effect change both nationally and locally. They rapidly became part of the growing Progressive Movement.

Germinating a Movement

Forming garden clubs was a natural expression of interest in nature and beauty. Horticultural societies and botany groups, some dating back to colonial times, restricted women's membership. In response women formed their own clubs within their own communities. The first garden club in America was founded in January 1891 as The Ladies Garden Club of Athens, Georgia. On May 1, 1929, 13 federated states became charter members of the National Garden Clubs at an organizational meeting in Washington, DC. The Garden Club of America was founded in 1913. While many started with the goal of exchanging information and cuttings, they soon adopted larger missions, which indelibly shaped the American landscape.

Some may even say that it was a long overdue acknowledgment of Ruth Carter's accomplishments within the film industry during a career that has spanned over three decades. Ironically the Oscar triumph followed recognition of a different sort at the Senator John Heinz History Center in Pittsburgh, which premiered an exhibit of costume designs from Carter's thirty years in the industry entitled Heroes and Sheroes: The Art and Influence of Ruth E. Carter in Black Cinema.

The exhibit - which opened on August 25, 2018, and ran through December 2, 2018 - featured original costumes and jewelry from such noteworthy motion pictures as Amistad, What's Love Got to Do with It, Malcolm X, Do the Right Thing, and yes, Black Panther. Heroes and Sheroes did more than showcase the clothes worn in the above mentioned films, however, as it also followed the design process of Ruth E. Carter and how she meticulously constructs the costumes to reflect both the subject matter and atmosphere of each production.

His father was raised Catholic (John's paternal grandparents were Austro-Hungarian Jewish immigrants who converted to Catholicism) and his mother was Episcopalian. He was raised with an elder sister Margaret, a younger sister Diana, and a younger brother Cameron. The children were raised in their father's Catholic faith, and John served as an altar boy.[2]

Kerry was originally a military brat,[3] until his father was discharged from the Army Air Corps. Kerry lived in Groton, Massachusetts in his first year and Millis, Massachusetts afterwards before moving to the Georgetown neighborhood of Washington, D.C. at age seven, when his father took a spot in the Department of the Navy's Office of General Counsel and soon became a diplomat in the State Department's Bureau of United Nations Affairs.

His maternal extended family enjoyed great wealth as members of the Forbes and Dudley-Winthrop families.[7] Kerry's parents themselves were upper-middle class, and a wealthy great-aunt paid for him to attend elite boarding schools[2] such as Institut Montana Zugerberg in Switzerland.[8] Through his maternal ancestry, Kerry also descends from Rev. James McGregor who was among the first 500 Scots-Irish immigrants to Boston Harbor in the 18th century.

In 1957, his father was stationed at the U.S. Embassy in Oslo, Norway, and Kerry was sent back to the United States to attend boarding school. He first attended the Fessenden School in Newton, Massachusetts, and later

St. Paul's School in Concord, New Hampshire, where he learned skills in public speaking and began developing an interest in politics.[2] Kerry founded the John Winant Society at St. Paul's to debate the issues of the day; the Society still exists there.[10][6] In 1960, while at St. Paul's, he played bass in a minor rock band called The Electras with six of his classmates.[11][12][13] They had about five hundred copies of one album printed in 1961, which they sold some of at dances at the school; it was made available on streaming platforms many years later.

In 1962, Kerry entered Yale University, majoring in political science and residing in Jonathan Edwards College.[16] By that year, his parents returned to Groton.[17][18] While at Yale, Kerry briefly dated Janet Auchincloss, the younger half-sister of First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy. Through Auchincloss, Kerry was invited to a day of sailing with then-President John F. Kennedy and his family.

By Brenden Sager, Post-Gazette Staff Writer

Joan Diehl McCauley, mother of the late U.S. Sen. John Heinz and a patron of the arts, commercial artist and aviator, died Wednesday in San Francisco, her longtime home. She was 87.

Mrs. McCauley's life was marked by achievements both in the skies and on terra firma. Her pilot's license bore the number 12, denoting her status as the 12th woman in the nation to be licensed to fly - in 1928, at age 17.

During the two years prior to the United States' entry into World War II, Mrs. McCauley served as lieutenant in the Civil Air Patrol. As chairwoman of the National Defense Aviation Committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, she flew patrol missions in her Bellanca Cruisair and recruited women into an aircraft warning network.

Mrs. McCauley was born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and raised in Pittsburgh by Ambrose and Frances Diehl. She graduated from the Carnegie Institute of Technology. In Pittsburgh, she met Henry J. Heinz II.

They were married in 1935 and divorced in the early 1940s. She later moved to San Francisco and married Capt. C.C. "Monty" McCauley, a naval aviator.

In San Francisco, Mrs. McCauley was a founding member of the Achievement Rewards for College Scientists Foundation, which provides scholarships for students studying science.

Mrs. McCauley served for 20 years as a member of the board of the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, where she was active on the Women's Board and assisted in planning major events. She was involved with the California Academy of Sciences, San Francisco Exploratorium and the Indian and Mexican museums. Denton, North Carolina July 14, 1940 - November 4, 2018

The Rocky Horror Picture Show is a 1975 musical comedy horror film set in Denton in the early 1960s in a late November night say between the 18 birth and 19th birth certificate by 20th Century Fox, produced by Lou Adler (Lester Louis Adler (born December 13, 1933) is an American record and film producer and the co-owner of the Roxy Theatre in West Hollywood, California.) and Michael White and directed by Jim Sharman. The screenplay was written by Sharman and actor Richard O'Brien, who is also a member of the cast. The film is based on the 1973 musical stage production The Rocky Horror Show, with music, book, and lyrics by O'Brien. The production is a parody tribute to the science fiction and horror B movies of the 1930s through to the early 1960s. Along with O'Brien, the film stars Tim Curry, Susan Sarandon, and Barry Bostwick and is narrated by Charles Gray with cast members from the original Royal Court Theatre, Roxy Theatre, and Belasco Theatre productions including Nell Campbell and Patricia Quinn

White produced his first West End play, the London premiere of Jack Gelber's The Connection in 1961.[2][4]

Known for bringing the risqué to the stage his productions included Sleuth,[5] Oh! Calcutta!,[6] Two Gentlemen of Verona and the original Theatre Upstairs production of The Rocky Horror Show.

The Mother Ship

"Yes, I am in contact with them. They brought us here and they will return for us. It's true. Thank you all for coming tonight to learn about Human Individual Metamorphosis. And thank you, Miss Carter, for the delicious hors d'oeuvres. Some of us were chatting a few moments ago, and you asked about how they contact me. They send me messages. I receive them directly or I see the signs. They have told me to go to Montana and wait for them. The mothership will land there and take us back. We come from the Level Above Human and we are looking for people who want to return there with us. Please wait for Peep to call you to the table. She will ask: Is the journey right for you? Are you right for the journey? Gloria has a personal matter she wants to ask me about, so I will step aside with her for a few moments. When I return, I will answer any questions you have. Peep can answer your questions, too, during the interviews. Gloria, let's go down the hall here, there is another conference room we can use."

"Thank you for taking the time for me, Bo."

"That's what I came here to do. We are moving back to the next level. All the signs are here. We want to bring other people with us. We need more people. We need you. Now, what did you want to ask about?"

"They came for me."

"They did? When?"

"Last year."

"What happened?"

"There was a bright light outside my window. A loud hum. I was in bed, sleeping. I woke up and I looked out the window. There was a space ship! It was spinning! It was beautiful!"

"Did they communicate with you?"

"I'm not sure. I know they took me into their craft. When I woke up, I had been gone for days. They did their tests on me."

“Zuciferians. They abduct humans for genetic experiments. They rob healthy human specimens of their bodies to use as a suit of clothes. They walk among us to cloud our knowledge of the Kingdom of Heaven. They are hiding the truth from us.”

“But Bo - ”

“Don’t worry Julia. We will teach you how to be born into the Level Above Human. We are non-mammalian and we are not Zuciferians. You have nothing to fear.”

“I don’t understand.”

“You will. We will teach you if you join us.”

“But I came because - ”

“Yes, Gloria?”

“They stole my baby. The space aliens stole my baby. I was pregnant. When I woke up, my baby was gone.”

“Don’t cry, Gloria, don’t cry. We will help you.”

“You believe me?”

“Of course I believe you.”

“No one else believes me. Everyone thinks I’m crazy.”

“The father? The baby’s father didn’t believe you?”

“There was no father.”

“You don’t know who the father was?”

“No! It wasn’t like that!”

“I’m sorry, I didn’t mean to say - ”

“I know I was pregnant! I was going to have a baby! No one believes me! I know I was! I was so happy. I’d never been so fulfilled. I was going to be a mother! And then the aliens came and stole my baby! Can you get my baby back for me, Bo? Can you help me?”

“Gloria, I - ”

“Please, Bo. Please tell me you’ll take me to them so I can find my baby!”

“Take my hand, Gloria. Look into my eyes. Listen to me: Everything will be possible in the Kingdom of Heaven, Gloria.”

“Will I find my baby? I will go with them if I have to. Did you say they were Zuciferians? Will you find them for me? Please, Bo, please find them. Please find my baby for me. No one else has ever believed me. Please, Bo, please help me.”

“I can help you, Gloria. Stop crying. Will you come with us to Montana and wait for the mother ship?”

“I’ll do anything, Bo, anything.”

“The journey will be long and hard.”

“I can do it. I will do it.”

“So you will come with us?”

“I knew I was pregnant. I didn’t tell anyone. After they took the baby, no one believed me. They thought I was crazy! But you believe me, Bo! You believe me! Of course I’ll come with you.”

“This is the final fight for Earth’s spoils. We must triumph over the Zuciferians. All that is here is illusion. But we need the means to go make the journey.”

“Means? What do you mean?”

“We will build a house to simulate the space ship environment. It will be dark. We will sit quietly inside, practicing for the voyage. A rehearsal. We will strive to eliminate all human desire. Can you contribute?” v“I don’t know - ”

“Do you have a house? Do you have a car?”

“I rent an apartment. I have a car.”

“Do you have savings?”

“It will be a long trip to Montana and we have to prepare. The trip into space will be longer. We have to be ready, Gloria.”

“I will be ready. I will contribute. I will do anything I have to do to find the way to my baby.”

“Good, good. Don’t cry. Here. Let me hold you. Let me take you in my arms. There … there.”

“Oh my goodness! Oh! Bo! Bo!”

“What is it? What’s wrong, Gloria?”

“I just had a vision!”

“What did you see?”

“A saint!”

“Which saint?”

“Santa Margarita!”

“I don’t know that saint.”

“She was floating over us! She was blessing us! I saw everything! It was so clear! We were in a big house! A mansion! We were all wearing black! With running shoes! But we weren’t running! We were lying on beds. And we all had purple scarves covering our faces! What’s wrong, Bo? Your eyes are so wide!”

“My eyes are always wide, Gloria, wide open to the infinite mysteries of the universe. This vision of yours: It was a sign.”

“A sign?”

“A sign that you must come with us.”

“I must?”

“You must. Will you? Will you say yes?”

“I must. I will. Yes. I will say yes. Yes.”

“Good. Let’s go back to the others now. They are waiting. It will be a long road to the mother ship.”

“The mother ship.”

We have to be ready.

“The mother ship. I will be ready for the mother ship.”

Rocky Horror Picture Show Spaced Out Space Aliens

It is my (Edward Paul Donegan's) assertion Rocky Horry Picture Show was a comic retelling of a story of self approving Great Britain supporters clumped around Peter Lawford in an era that the fight against the Irish Republican Army by Northern Ireland was a massive issue spliting Catholics and Protestants apart.

Rocky Horror was both a politial story of the "radicals" who in the War for Independence the US Colonies became independent from England and it is biological science tale. Just as all these plans for subversion and overhtrows are coming IVF is being tried, atomic testing of DNA is going on, and an out of wedlock woman Glorian Donegan will under pressure contribute eggs for sperm bank testing. This allowed Windsors to test DNA move covertly than under their own name. The children though of Eva Ban whose uterus is on the medical plan on the wall of the Rich Wierdo's home will produce a person thought to be a secret or covert cousin to the Windsors who would be placd in some influential family somewhere, Kenya, Saudi Arabia, Indonesia, or perhaps here in the USA and watched for biolgocial/eugincs reasons for expression of genetic featurs still under question in Windsor relative.

As the Democrat Party Black-Tie Dinner guests arriev at Peter Lawford's Santa Monica home Norma Jean probably there too, JFK is brought in by the motorcycle detail. At JFK;s death you can see photos of the motorvycels outside the Lawford-Schriver (Patricai Kennedy) Santa Monica home again. LBJ looks a lot like Riff Raff and sees a light in the sky perhaps 33 miles above earth.

After Frankenfurter slaughters Eddie who had "baby" on his motorcycle jacket Rocky who is bearing the Charles Atlas seal of approval carrying the weight of the world on his should and will face the 7 tests is also called "baby." Again going to PEter Lawford in the house an investigator has arrived now working for the FBI investigating Aliens. That person Dr Scott finds his way to an Opium den. The Opium poppy was part of India's history. Fans say Eddie was a drug dealer and Frankenfurter had bandaids on is arms.

I have thought Brad and Janet parrallell James and Glorian Donegan and that Dr Scott could have elements of Robert Donegan, brother of James Donegan and likely from the Happy Valley Magnetic Containment atomic facility that had the pool. Robert Happy Donegan worked in atomic energy including Three Mile Island and I would be his nephew.

Another element could be Truman who investigated the military for waste and fraud in The Truman Comittee who had doubts about the level of Manhattan Project spending.

The characters are likelhy partly composites and some purely for the quality of the fictional movie but the ending seems to have JFK about to give a speech but all that eveporates and ONLY Riff Raff will return to D.C.

It has a couple of rivets and at least one hole that looks like an eyelet (it's an air vent). The 17th/21st Lancers was a cavalry regiment of the British Army. The 12th (Prince of Wales's) Royal Lancers was a cavalry regiment of the British Army first formed in 1715. It saw service for three centuries, including the First World War and the Second World War. The regiment survived the immediate post-war reduction in forces, but was slated for reduction in the 1957 Defence White Paper, and was amalgamated with the 9th Queen's Royal Lancers to form the 9th/12th Royal Lancers (Prince of Wales's) in 1960.

Rosalind Elsie Franklin (25 July 1920 - 16 April 1958) graduated in 1941 with a degree in natural sciences from Newnham College, Cambridge, and then enrolled for a PhD in physical chemistry under Ronald George Wreyford Norrish, the 1920 Chair of Physical Chemistry at the University of Cambridge.

Franklin is best known for her work on the X-ray diffraction images of DNA while at King's College London, particularly Photo 51, taken by her student Raymond Gosling, which led to the discovery of the DNA double helix for which Francis Crick, James Watson, and Maurice Wilkins shared the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine in 1962.

Disappointed by Norrish's lack of enthusiasm,[8] she took up a research position under the British Coal Utilisation Research Association (BCURA) in 1942. The research on coal helped Franklin earn a PhD from Cambridge in 1945. Moving to Paris in 1947 as a chercheur (postdoctoral researcher) under Jacques Mering at the Laboratoire Central des Services Chimiques de l'État, she became an accomplished X-ray crystallographer. After joining King's College London in 1951 as a research associate uder her supervision, Franklin discovered some key properties of DNA, which eventually facilitated the correct description of the double helix structure of DNA by Franklin and Crick whoi would be awared the Nobel Prize for discovery of Owing to disagreement with her director, John Randall, and her colleague Maurice Wilkins, Franklin was compelled to move to Birkbeck College in 1953. - https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rosalind_Franklin/

Photo 51 is an X-ray diffraction image of a paracrystalline gel composed of DNA fiber taken by Raymond Gosling,[2][3] a graduate student working under the supervision of Rosalind Franklin in May 1952 at King’s College London, while working in Sir John Randall’s group. The image was tagged “photo 51” because it was the 51st diffraction photograph that Franklin and Gosling had taken.[8] It was critical evidence in identifying the structure of DNA

James Dewey Watson April 6, 1928 (age 93) Chicago, Illinois, U.S. was shown the photo by Maurice Wilkins of Kings College, after Raymond Gosling, the author of the picture, had returned to working under Wilkins' supervision. Rosalind Franklin did not know this at the time because she was leaving King's College London. Randall, the head of the group, had asked Gosling to share all his data with Wilkins. Along with Francis Crick, Watson used characteristics and features of Photo 51, together with evidence from multiple other sources, to develop the chemical model of the DNA molecule. Their model, and manuscripts by Wilkins and colleagues, and Gosling and Franklin, were first published, together, in 1953, in the same issue of Nature. In 1962, the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine was awarded to Watson, Crick and Wilkins. The prize was not awarded to Franklin; she had died four years earlier, and although there was not yet a rule against posthumous awards, the Nobel Committee generally does not make posthumous nominations. Likewise, Gosling's work was not cited by the prize committee.

After reading Erwin Schrödinger's book, What Is Life? in 1946, Watson changed his professional ambitions from the study of ornithology to genetics. Watson earned his BS degree in Zoology from the University of Chicago in 1947. In his autobiography, Avoid Boring People, Watson described the University of Chicago as an "idyllic academic institution where he was instilled with the capacity for critical thought and an ethical compulsion not to suffer fools who impeded his search for truth", in contrast to his description of later experiences. In 1947 Watson left the University of Chicago to become a graduate student at Indiana University, attracted by the presence at Bloomington of the 1946 Nobel Prize winner Hermann Joseph Muller, who in crucial papers published in 1922, 1929, and in the 1930s had laid out all the basic properties of the heredity molecule that Schrödinger presented in his 1944 book.[24] He received his PhD degree from Indiana University in 1950; Salvador Luria was his doctoral advisor. From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

Russo was an insurance salesman from Baton Rouge, Louisiana. He attended Tulane University, received a bachelor's degree from Loyola University New Orleans in 1964, and attended one year of law school at Loyola.[2][3] He moved away from New Orleans in September 1965.[3] Russo came forward after his friend David Ferrie died on February 22, 1967, while being investigated by New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison in regard to Kennedy's death. In four television and newspaper interviews that Russo gave,[4] he talked at length about Ferrie. He said that Ferrie had told him about a month before the assassination: “We will get him, and it won’t be long,” and on another occasion, “You know we can get Kennedy if we want him.”

Russo said nothing in the interviews about Oswald, Shaw, or a conspiracy.[5] When a television reporter asked him on February 24 if Ferrie had ever mentioned Oswald’s name, Russo said, “No. I had never heard of Oswald until the television [coverage] of the assassination.”

However, when he was interviewed by Garrison’s office on February 27, Russo described a roommate of Ferrie’s in New Orleans as having “sort of dirty blond hair and a husky beard … a typical beatnik, extremely dirty.” When Russo was shown a picture of Oswald, he said that Oswald was the person whom Ferrie had introduced to him as his roommate sometime between May and October of 1963.[7] When shown a picture of Shaw, Russo said he saw him and Ferrie talking in a car at Ferrie’s service station. But still Russo said nothing about Shaw or Oswald conspiring with Ferrie to murder Kennedy.[8] Russo added that if he were hypnotized he may have total recall on names and places and dates.

Maybe the next time you find yourself in the UK, you should make a pit stop in Windsor, where you can snap a selfie of yourself doing the “Time Warp” in one of the ultimate filming locations.

Marylin Monroe lived one door down from Peter Lawford and she and JFK along with the Lawford Shrivers, Rat Pack, and others, were often under the same roof, not just neighbors.

… and what really happened the night the bombshell sang “Happy Birthday” to him. BY TAYSHA MURTAUGH Sep 29, 2017

In April 1957, both Monroe and Kennedy reportedly attended the April in Paris Ball at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City, but did not meet. After all, they were with their respective spouses (Monroe with playwright Arthur Miller, and Kennedy-then the senator of Massachusetts-with Jacqueline), and there were over 1,000 people in attendance.

Four years later, in 1961, the actress and the newly elected President of the United States were rumored to have both been at a dinner party hosted at the Santa Monica home of actor Peter Lawford. Lawford’s wife, JFK’s sister Patricia Kennedy Lawford, happened to be a close friend of Monroe’s. However, while JFK did attend a luncheon at Lawford’s on the day in question, it can’t be confirmed that Monroe was also in attendance, Buzzfeed reports.

The most plausible night for an affair would have been March 24, 1962, multiple historians agree. Both Monroe and Kennedy are thought to have been at Bing Crosby’s Palm Springs, California, home for a party.

I suggest the movie suggests James Donegan and Glorian Donegan are Brad and Janet Majors, perhaps in the military such as the US Army Air Corps or later USAF he had the rank of Major.

James Paul Donegan of Boston (the hero ((B))rad) and (Glorian Donegan (why did she need to get wet?) having met or attended at wedding in North Carolina, perhaps Von Trapp related Dew-Gainey related, move on to marry themselves and honeymoon on the Government or TWA dime at a Los Angeles SIMI Valley SSFL and Manhattan Project Inglewood P-51 plant reprise, not from 1945, but 1959 and a honeymoon and birth of Thomas Neil Donegan and Edward Paul Donegan) with continuing DNA testing.

Perhaps moved on from the North Carolina wedding they are now at least temporarily staying at the Lawfords residence. We will live, the Donegans, in Manhattan Beach for a few years as my father (now flying for TWA) flies out of LAX.

There he encounters some of the figures already tied to MKULTRA and the Kennedy's. Sidney Gottlieb and Donald Barr are possibilities along with body building Arnold Swartzeneger who starts bodybuilding in Venice Beach, next to Manhattan Beach, about that same year.

Brad is "the hero" but an "asshole" while Janet Wiees is Janet VIESS who does not seem such good apple pie to Rocky. It is likely the Kutschera background of my mother was being disavowed as well as my father for marrying her; my father was no asshole nor was my mother a Nazi but both were maligned and GangStalked likely to shut them down so they would not be much of a risk to the secrecy of MKULTRA and what happened at my Manhattan Beach atomic testing program birth Arnold Schwarzenegger, Lawfords, Shrivers, and JFK seemed to be at as the Windsors later met with JFK in Seattle 1962 about a half brother of mine Barrack Obama Jr.

Pre Medusa and Post Medusa

The program in a few years surrounding the assassinations of JFK and RJK and the assassinations of others as well such as Malcom X and the Mafia are fearful of detection and J Edgar Hoover likely can't out the program but wont support it either leaving it in limbo.

The pre-medusa phase might be Donald Barr in the CIA.

The post-medusa phase is when William Pellham Barr and others join the CIA and files destructions begin, the Watergate break-in to the Irish supporter of FJK gets underway and detected, and GangStalkers begin to surveil MKULTRA victims leading to the Church committee and investigations by Leo Ryan that then accelerate the assassination's based coverups still under way.

A central part of the cover up is the cover-up of the FOXP2 gene and making people who show the gene look retarded rather than have a grammar like defect.

Recall the theory of accommodations of disabilities which I have used and argued. Often a disabled person has some deficit such as not having use of working legs but if accommodated for instance with the use of a wheelchair that same person could function quite normally on most jobs.

Minimal Brain Dysfunction creates some visible but not too problematic psychiatric symptoms and the royals have merely wished to hide the gene and that it runs in their family.

The cover-up is worse than the original matter, and what was done to research the gene and hide the clones and associations is the real cover-up now.

Julia Child's Spy Days Included Work on a Shark Repellent retrieved from History.com and copied or modified to here

She started as a clerk-typist, but when she got to the OSS Emergency Sea Rescue Equipment Section, she began to do more significant work. NATASHA FROST

During the final two years of the Second World War, the woman who would one day be renowned for bringing French cuisine to American kitchens was stationed in Asia, working with top security clearance at the organization which would eventually become today's Central Intelligence Agency. Child, then still Julia McWilliams, wasn't a traditional secret agent. Rather than hiding in bushes and peering through binoculars, she spent most of her time at a desk. Yet between riding elephants and helping to find a recipe for shark repellent, she excelled, eventually receiving the "Emblem of Meritorious Civilian Service" for her work at her final posting, in Chunking, China.

When Child first volunteered her services to the Office Strategic Services in 1942, the military had recently turned her away for being too tall. (The Women's Army Corps was recruiting, but stipulated a maximum height of 6 feet; she was 6 ft. 2 in.) The OSS, however, was happy to have her, writing in their interview notes: "Good impression, pleasant, alert, capable, very tall."

Like most women at the OSS at the time, she toiled as a research assistant in the Secret Intelligence division, spending most of her time typing up the names and addresses of government executives-in declassified government files, Child describes how she "typed over 10,000 little white cards and put in for a transfer." This was likely mind-numbingly boring work, but her talents and experience got her noticed. She moved steadily up the ranks, from department to department, gaining more responsibilities along the way.

It was in the OSS Emergency Sea Rescue Equipment

Section where Child first began to take part in more significant work, and gained exposure to the kind of alchemy that may have sown the seeds for her culinary career. In July 1942, the OSS began to search for a shark repellent. Shark attacks were actually quite rare-only 20 had taken place in less than three years of wartime-but frenzied media accounts had bred panic among frightened men. Morale was low. There was another reason to find a way to detract curious (or hungry) sharks: On some occasions, American naval explosives had been accidentally set off by inquisitive sharks mistaking them for a snack.

Two men headed this investigation: Captain Harold J. Coolidge, a scientist from the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology, and Dr. Henry Field, curator of the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago. Throughout 1943, Child was Coolidge's executive assistant, working closely with the zoologist and explorer. "I must say we had lots of fun," Child told fellow OSS Officer, Betty McIntosh, during an interview for McIntosh's book Sisterhood of Spies. "We designed rescue kits and other agent paraphernalia. I understand the shark repellent we developed is being used today for downed space equipment-strapped around it so the sharks won't attack when it lands in the ocean."

Naval Aviation Training Division issued training guide based on the ERE research into sharks called "Shark Sense," created in March 1944. (Credit: The Central Intelligence Agency)

Over the course of a year, researchers tested more than 100 substances, ranging from gruesome decayed shark meat to a gamut of acids and alkalis. The final recipe was a mixture of copper acetate and black dye, which together gave off a smell rather like a dead shark. It wasn't perfect (success rate was a little over 60 percent), but it was better than nothing, keeping sharks away for six to seven hours per dose.

In her next role, Child went farther afield, working first in Ceylon (present-day Sri Lanka) and then in China. In an early letter from her far-off posting, she wrote: ”There are movies and dances twice a week at the American officers’ club, walks in the moonlight. On Sundays there are picnics, golf, tennis, swimming or a weekend down in Colombo.” The work she was doing, and the top-secret papers that passed through her hands as Chief of the OSS Registry, must have been still more fascinating, even if she couldn’t always write home about it.

When the war ended, Child left the OSS for good. But she took with her two important souvenirs: the French she had picked up at thrice-weekly private lessons in Washington D.C., and her husband, Paul Cushing Child, who would, in time, introduce her to French food.

W. K. Kellogg Foundation retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The W. K. Kellogg Foundation was founded in June 1930 as the W. K. Kellogg Child Welfare Foundation by breakfast cereal pioneer Will Keith Kellogg. In 1934, Kellogg donated more than $66 million in Kellogg Company stock and other investments to the W. K. Kellogg Trust (equivalent to $1 billion in 2019[1]). As with other endowments, the yearly income from this trust funds the foundation.

In the early 21st century, the foundation is the seventh largest philanthropic foundation in the U.S. In 2005, the foundation reported that the total assets of the foundation and its trust were US$7.3 billion; about US $5.5 billion of this was in Kellogg Company stock. The foundation funded US$243 million in grants and programs in its 2005 fiscal year. 82% of this was spent in the United States; 9% in southern Africa; and 9% in Latin America and the Caribbean.

In 1996, it supplied a multi-year grant worth $750,000 ($1.15 million in 2019 dollars[1]) to start mass salt fluoridation programs which were then carried out by the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), covering 350 million people in Bolivia, Dominican Republic, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, and Venezuela. The project was part of a multi-year plan launched by PAHO in 1994 to "fluoridate the entire Region of the Americas". More recently, they have provided funding for HealthCorps to prevent childhood obesity by encouraging students to take personal responsibility for their health and wellness.

Ladies Gardening Socity of Georgia?

Shirley Sherrod is a former Georgia State Director of Rural Development for the United States Department of Agriculture. On July 19, 2010, she became a subject of controversy when parts of a speech she gave were publicized by Breitbart News, and she was forced to resign.

19931996 Fellowship awardee Kellogg National Fellowship program

Sherrod (née Miller) was born in 1948 in Baker County, Georgia, to Grace and Hosie Miller.[2][3] In 1965, when she was 17 years old, her father, a deacon at the local Baptist Church, was shot dead by a white farmer, reportedly over a dispute about livestock.[3] No charges were returned against the shooter by an all-white grand jury.[3] This was a turning point in her life and led her to feel that she should stay in the South to bring about change.[3] Several months after Miller's murder, a cross was burned at night in front of the Miller family's residence with Grace Miller and her four daughters, including Shirley, and infant son, born after her husband's killing, inside. - Wikipedia

After Sherrod and her husband lost their farm when they were unable to secure United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) loans,[5] they became class action plaintiffs in the civil suit Pigford v. Glickman. The Department agreed to a settlement in which compensation was paid between January 1, 1981 and December 31, 1999,[3] in what has been described as "the largest civil rights settlement in history, with nearly $1 billion being paid to more than 16,000 victims."

A federal law passed in 2008 with then-Senator Barack Obama's sponsorship to allow up to 70,000 more claimants to qualify,[3] which included New Communities, for the communal farm in which Sherrod and her husband had partnered. In 2009, chief arbitrator Michael Lewis ruled that the USDA had discriminated against New Communities by denying a loan to the operation and extending more favorable terms to white farmers.[6] New Communities received a $12.8 million settlement that included $8.2 million in compensation for loss of farm land, $4.2 million for loss of income and $330,000 to Sherrod and her husband[13] for "mental anguish".

Sherrod was hired by the USDA in August 2009 as the Georgia director of rural development, the first black person to hold that position.

In 1969, Sherrod and her husband were among the U.S. civil rights and land collective activists co-founding New Communities, a collective farm in Southwest Georgia[6][7][8] modeled on kibbutzim in Israel.[3][9] According to scholarship by land trust activists Susan Witt and Robert Swann, New Communities' founding in 1969 by individuals such as the Sherrods connected to the Albany Movement[8] served as a laboratory and model in a movement toward the development of Community Land Trusts throughout the U.S.: "The perseverance and foresight of that team in Georgia, motivated by the right of African-American farmers to farm land securely and affordably, initiated the CLT movement in this country."

Located in Lee County, Georgia, the 5,700-acre (23 km2) project was one of the largest tracts of black-owned land in the U.S.[9][11] The project soon encountered difficulties in the opposition of area white farmers, who accused participants of being communists,[3] and also from segregationist Democratic Governor Lester Maddox, who prevented development funds for the project from entering the state.[9] A drought in the 1970s and inability to get government loans led to the project's ultimate demise in 1985.

About this time MKULTRA is restarted as William Barr graduates colleddge works for CIA and restarts the Experimental Santa Monica monkey program of Donald Barr again with the Bush eugenics team and Arnold Swatzenegger.

Elizabeth II (Elizabeth Alexandra Mary; born 21 April 1926)[a] is Queen of the United Kingdom and 15 other Commonwealth realms.

Elizabeth was born in Mayfair, London, as the first child of the Duke and Duchess of York (later King George VI and Queen Elizabeth). Her father ascended the throne in 1936 upon the abdication of his brother, King Edward VIII, making Elizabeth the heir presumptive. She was educated privately at home and began to undertake public duties during the Second World War, serving in the Auxiliary Territorial Service. In November 1947, she married Philip Mountbatten, a former prince of Greece and Denmark, with whom she had four children: Charles, Prince of Wales; Anne, Princess Royal; Prince Andrew, Duke of York; and Prince Edward, Earl of Wessex.

When her father died in February 1952, Elizabeth-then 25 years old-became queen regnant of seven independent Commonwealth countries:

Dr. Frank-N-Furter The Creator of Two Creatures

Dr. Frank-N-Furter FBI Director J Edgar Hoover) is a self-proclaimed ‘Sweet Transvestite from Transsexual Transylvania’ and the main antagonist of the 1974 musical The Rocky Horror Show and its 1975 film adaptation The Rocky Horror Picture Show.

In 1920, Edgar Hoover was initiated[25] at D.C.‘s Federal Lodge No. 1 in Washington D.C., becoming a Freemason[26][27] at the age of 25, becoming a 33rd Degree Inspector General Honorary in 1955.[28]

Hoover and his chosen assistants, George Ruch,[20] monitored a variety of U.S. radicals with the intent to punish, arrest, or deport those whose politics they decided were dangerous.[clarification needed] Targets during this period included Marcus Garvey;[21] Rose Pastor Stokes and Cyril Briggs;[22] Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman;[23] and future Supreme Court justice Felix Frankfurter, who, Hoover maintained, was “the most dangerous man in the United States.”[24]

Felix Frankfurter (November 15, 1882 February 22, 1965) was an American lawyer, professor, and jurist who served as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. Frankfurter served on the Supreme Court from 1939 to 1962 and was a noted advocate of judicial restraint in the judgments of the Court

J Edgar Hoover was appointed director of the Bureau of Investigation - the FBI’s predecessor - in 1924 and was instrumental in founding the FBI in 1935, where he remained director for another 37 years until his death in 1972 at the age of 77

Hoover stuttered as a boy, which he later learned to manage by teaching himself to talk quickly-a style that he carried through his adult career. He eventually spoke with such ferocious speed that stenographers had a hard time following him.

His main goal was to create a perfect man as his own reproductive plaything which he does in the form of Rocky Horror. via Fandom

During the 1930s, Hoover persistently denied the existence of organized crime, despite numerous gangland shootings as Mafia groups struggled for control of the lucrative profits deriving from illegal alcohol sales during Prohibition, and later for control of prostitution, illegal drugs and other criminal enterprises.[40] Many writers believe Hoover's denial of the Mafia's existence and his failure to use the full force of the FBI to investigate it were due to Mafia gangsters Meyer Lansky and Frank Costello possession of embarrassing photographs of Hoover in the company of his protégé, FBI Deputy Director Clyde Tolson.

He will create two and split one brain between them, Rocky and Eddie.

Criminal Syndicalism: Mafia as hitmen who will kill Communists: Although Hoover built the reputation of the FBI arresting bank robbers in the 1930s, his main interest had always been Communist subversion, and during the Cold War he was able to focus the FBI's attention on these investigations. From the mid-1940s through the mid-50s, he paid little attention to criminal vice rackets such as illegal drugs, prostitution, and extortion and flatly denied the existence of the Mafia in the United States. In the 1950s, evidence of the FBI's unwillingness to investigate the Mafia became a topic of public criticism. After the Apalachin meeting of crime bosses in 1957, Hoover could no longer deny the existence of a nationwide crime syndicate. At that time Cosa Nostra's control of the Syndicate's many branches operating criminal activities throughout North America was heavily reported in popular newspapers and magazines.[43] Hoover created the "Top Hoodlum Program" and went after the syndicate's top bosses throughout the country.[44][45]

Professor Marston and the Wonder Women is a 2017 American biographical drama film about American psychologist William Moulton Marston, who created the fictional character Wonder Woman.

The story is told in flashbacks set during a 1945 testimony that William Moulton Marston gives to representatives of the Child Study Association of America. In the year 1928, William and his wife Elizabeth teach and work on their research at the associated Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges. One day, William hires one of his students, Olive Byrne as a research assistant. Olive aids in the Marstons' work in inventing the lie detector and conducting research on William's DISC theory on human interactions, and the three soon grow close. One after another, tests by the lie detector reveal that they have fallen in love with one another, and all three of them begin to engage in a polyamorous relationship.

Felix Frankfurter Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Frankfurter was born into a Jewish family on November 15, 1882, in Vienna, then part of Austria-Hungary. He was the third of six children of Leopold Frankfurter, a merchant, and Emma (Winter) Frankfurter.[4] His uncle, Solomon Frankfurter, was head librarian at the Vienna University Library.[5][6] Frankfurter's forebears had been rabbis for generations.

In 1894, when he was twelve, his family immigrated to New York City, settling on the Lower East Side, a dense center of immigrants. Frankfurter attended P.S. 25, where he excelled at his studies and enjoyed playing chess and shooting craps on the street. He spent many hours reading at The Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art and attending political lectures, usually on subjects such as trade unionism, socialism and communism.

After graduating in 1902 from City College of New York, where he was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa,[10] Frankfurter worked for the Tenement House Department of New York City to raise money for law school. He applied successfully to Harvard Law School, where he excelled academically and socially. He became lifelong friends with Walter Lippmann and Horace Kallen, became an editor of the Harvard Law Review, and graduated first in his class with one of the best academic records since Louis Brandeis.

In September 1917, Felix Frankfurter was appointed counsel to a commission, the President's Mediation Committee, established by President Wilson to resolve major strikes threatening war production. Among the disturbances he investigated were the 1916 Preparedness Day Bombing in San Francisco, where he argued strongly that the radical leader Thomas Mooney had been framed and required a new trial.[20] He also examined the copper industry in Arizona, where industry bosses solved industrial relations problems by having more than 1,000 strikers forcibly deported to New Mexico.[21] Overall, Frankfurter's work gave him an opportunity to learn firsthand about labor politics and extremism, including anarchism, communism and revolutionary socialism. He came to sympathize with labor issues, arguing that "unsatisfactory, remediable social conditions, if unattended, give rise to radical movements far transcending the original impulse." His activities led the public to view him as a radical lawyer and supporter of radical principles.[20] Former President Theodore Roosevelt accused him of being "engaged in excusing men precisely like the Bolsheviki in Russia."

MEDUSA

MEDUSA (Mob Excess Deterrent Using Silent Audio) is a directed-energy non-lethal weapon designed by WaveBand Corporation in 2003-2004 for temporary personnel incapacitation.[1] The weapon is based on the microwave auditory effect resulting in a strong sound sensation in the human head when it is subject to certain kinds of pulsed/modulated microwave radiation. The developers claimed that through the combination of pulse parameters and pulse power, it is possible to raise the auditory sensation to a "discomfort" level, deterring personnel from entering a protected perimeter or, if necessary, temporarily incapacitating particular individuals.[1] In 2005, Sierra Nevada Corporation acquired WaveBand Corporation.

The microwave auditory effect, also known as the microwave hearing effect or the Frey effect, consists of the human perception of audible clicks, or even speech, induced by pulsed or modulated radio frequencies. The communications are generated directly inside the human head without the need of any receiving electronic device. The effect was first reported by persons working in the vicinity of radar transponders during World War II. In 1961, the American neuroscientist Allan H. Frey studied this phenomenon and was the first to publish information on the nature of the microwave auditory effect.[1][2] The cause is thought to be thermoelastic expansion of portions of the auditory apparatus,[3] although competing theories explain the results of holographic interferometry tests differently.[4]

Psychologists have identified many examples of people reporting 'mind control experiences' (MCEs) on self-published web pages that are "highly likely to be influenced by delusional beliefs". Common themes include "Bad Guys" using "psychotronics" and "microwaves", frequent mention of the CIA's MKULTRA project, and frequent citing of Frey's 1962 paper entitled "Human auditory system response to modulated electromagnetic energy".

Allan H. Frey was the first American to publish on the microwave auditory effect (MAE). Frey's "Human auditory system response to modulated electromagnetic energy" appeared in the Journal of Applied Physiology in 1961.[1] In his experiments, the subjects were discovered to be able to hear appropriately pulsed microwave radiation, from a distance of a few inches to hundreds of feet from the transmitter. In Frey's tests, a repetition rate of 50 Hz was used, with pulse width between 1070 microseconds. The perceived loudness was found to be linked to the peak power density, instead of average power density. At 1.245 GHz, the peak power density for perception was below 80 mW/cm2. According to Frey, the induced sounds were described as "a buzz, clicking, hiss, or knocking, depending on several transmitter parameters, i.e., pulse width and pulse-repetition rate". By changing transmitter parameters, Frey was able to induce the "perception of severe buffeting of the head, without such apparent vestibular symptoms as dizziness or nausea". Other transmitter parameters induced a pins and needles sensation. Frey experimented with nerve-deaf subjects, and speculated that the human detecting mechanism was in the cochlea, but at the time of the experiment the results were inconclusive due to factors such as tinnitus.

In 200304, WaveBand Corp. had a contract from the U.S. Navy for the design of an MAE system they called MEDUSA (Mob Excess Deterrent Using Silent Audio) that was intended to temporarily incapacitate personnel through remote application.[8] Reportedly, Sierra Nevada Corp. took over the contract from WaveBand.[9] Experts, such as Kenneth Foster, a University of Pennsylvania bioengineering professor who published research on the microwave auditory effect in 1974, have discounted the effectiveness of the proposed device. Foster said that because of human biophysics, the device “would kill you well before you were bothered by the noise”. According to former professor at the University of Washington Bill Guy, ”There’s a misunderstanding by the public and even some scientists about this auditory effect,” and “there couldn’t possibly be a hazard from the sound, because the heat would get you first”.[10] Microwave effects have been proposed as the cause of otherwise unexplained illnesses of U.S. diplomats in Cuba and China occurring since 2017 and 2018.[11][12][13] However, this explanation has been debated. Bioengineer Kenneth R. Foster noted of the health effects observed in the diplomats, “it’s crazy, but it’s sure as heck not microwaves.”[14] As of October 2021, a microwave cause remains one of the major hypotheses.[15][16]

Allan Frey: A Pioneer of Radiation Research retrieved from Multidata.com and copied or modified to here

There are a few people who have influenced research on radiation, one of whom is Dr. Allan Frey, biophysicist, and engineering psychologist.

His work has changed the scientific approach to the subject of radiation and made it an important topic for other scientists. What has he done?

Can you hear radiation? - The Frey effect Measurement devices such as Geiger counters make a series of clicking or static buzzing noises in response to radiation. Older measurement devices converted radioactive activity into electricity, which could be heard through a speaker. This is often the ‘radiation’ sound we might hear on films and television programmes today.

In 1960 Allan Frey was 25 years old, he was working at General Electric’s Advanced Electronics Center at Cornell University. One day a technician came to him with unexpected news, his job was to measure the signals emitted by radars and he claimed to be able to hear them. The radar was giving off short signals over several periods of time. When Frey visited the facility where the technician worked, he said he also could hear the signals. He then decided to investigate this further.

Frey decided that the effect described by the technician was in his opinion, factual; the radiation could cause audible buzzes or clicks. Microwave radiation (as that was the kind of radiation emitted from the radar mentioned above) could be heard by humans but not in the same way that sound waves are perceived.

According to Frey, it occurred in the brain itself where tiny electrical fields were generated by the microwaves interacting with the brain cells. Supposedly, many deaf people were also able to hear microwave radiation.

This phenomenon was called ‘microwave hearing’ and it is also known by the name ‘the Frey effect’. Some of the workers claimed that ‘microwave hearing’ was accompanied by side effects such as dizziness and headaches and that signals of radiation could be heard by them even at a distance of 100m from the radar.

Allan Frey became the most active researcher on the health effects of microwave radiation in the United States. His studies were funded by the Office of Naval Research and the American army because of the expanding use of radars by the U.S. military at that time. He was testing his theories on rats and frogs, these animals reacted to smaller doses of radiation than we know are emitted from modern smartphones. He was a pioneer in the field of radiation and its impact on living creatures.

The word semaphore is related to a Greek word meaning “signal,” and that’s exactly the purpose of semaphores: they give signals. The place you’re most likely to have seen a semaphore is a railroad crossing: the gadget with moving arms is a semaphore. Some semaphores have mechanical arms, while others just use lights to communicate. A semaphore system can also use flags. In all cases, semaphores give visual signals that communicate something important, especially to people traveling.

In this book The Medical State I say literary characters and literary tales are devices, semaphores of telling real stories through semaphores which substitute for the real people but are comparable and in places like outer space where the events are fictional and do not involve real acts or real law enforcement in the cypher representation of the stories thus become “safe” communication.

The now defunct RKO Radio corp was a Joseph Kennedy business merged with RCA projection. RKO Pictures was an American film production and distribution company. In its original incarnation, as RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. (a subsidiary of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, aka: RKO)[1] it was one of the Big Five studios of Hollywood's Golden Age. The business was formed after the Keith-Albee-Orpheum (KAO) theater chain and Joseph P. Kennedy's Film Booking Offices of America (FBO) studio were brought together under the control of the Radio Corporation of America (RCA) in October 1928.[a] RCA chief David Sarnoff engineered the merger to create a market for the company's sound-on-film technology, RCA Photophone. By the mid-1940s, the studio was under the control of investor Floyd Odlum.

Photo 51 is an X-ray diffraction image of a paracrystalline gel composed of DNA fiber[1] taken by Raymond Gosling,[2][3] a graduate student working under the supervision of Rosalind Franklin in May 1952 at King’s College London, while working in Sir John Randall’s group.[4][5][6][7] The image was tagged “photo 51” because it was the 51st diffraction photograph that Franklin and Gosling had taken.[8] It was critical evidence[9] in identifying the structure of DNA.[10]

Use in discovering structure of DNA James Watson was shown the photo by Maurice Wilkins of Kings College, after Raymond Gosling, the author of the picture, had returned to working under Wilkins’ supervision. Rosalind Franklin did not know this at the time because she was leaving King’s College London. Randall, the head of the group, had asked Gosling to share all his data with Wilkins.[11] Along with Francis Crick, Watson used characteristics and features of Photo 51, together with evidence from multiple other sources, to develop the chemical model of the DNA molecule. Their model, and manuscripts by Wilkins and colleagues, and Gosling and Franklin, were first published, together, in 1953, in the same issue of Nature. In 1962, the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine was awarded to Watson, Crick and Wilkins. The prize was not awarded to Franklin; she had died four years earlier, and although there was not yet a rule against posthumous awards,[12] the Nobel Committee generally does not make posthumous nominations.[13] Likewise, Gosling's work was not cited by the prize committee.

After university Kellogg worked for Charities magazine before carrying out an unprecedented, in-depth study of industrial life in Pittsburgh. Published as The Pittsburgh Survey (191014), it became a model for sociologists wishing to employ research to aid social reform.[citation needed] His studies which helped to abolish the seven-day work week.

Kellogg returned to Charities magazine, now retitled Survey magazine. He became editor in 1912 and over the next few years turned into America's leading social work journal.

Activist = An opponent of U.S. involvement in the First World War, Kellogg joined Jane Addams and Oswald Garrison Villard, to persuade Henry Ford, the American industrialist, to organize a peace conference in Stockholm. Ford came up with the idea of sending a boat of pacifists to Europe to determine if they could negotiate an agreement to end the war. He chartered the ship Oskar II, and it sailed from Hoboken, New Jersey, on December 4, 1915. The Ford Peace Ship reached Stockholm in January, 1916, and a conference was organized with representatives from Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and the United States.

In 1918 Kellogg became the chairman of the Foreign Policy Association in New York. By the 1920s, Kellogg had become appalled by the way people were being persecuted for their political beliefs, particularly by President Woodrow Wilson's appointee A. Mitchell Palmer. In 1920, Kellogg joined with Roger Baldwin, Norman Thomas, Crystal Eastman, Addams, Clarence Darrow, John Dewey, Abraham Muste, Elizabeth Gurley

Flynn and Upton Sinclair to form the American Civil Liberties Union.

In 1927 Kellogg joined with John Dos Passos, Alice Hamilton, Addams, Upton Sinclair, Dorothy Parker, Ben Shahn, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Floyd Dell, George Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells in an effort to prevent the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. Although Webster Thayer, the original judge, was officially criticized for his conduct at the trial, the execution took place on August 23, 1927.

The M. W. Kellogg Company, headquartered in Jersey City, NJ, specialized in chemical engineering projects. A year before the Manhattan Project began, the S-1 Section of the Office of Scientific Research and Development asked Kellogg to work with John R. Dunning and other scientists at Columbia University to ascertain the feasibility of gaseous diffusion.

The Office of Scientific Research and Development (OSRD) was an agency of the United States federal government created to coordinate scientific research for military purposes during World War II. Arrangements were made for its creation during May 1941, and it was created formally by Executive Order 8807 on June 28, 1941. It superseded the work of the National Defense Research Committee (NDRC), was given almost unlimited access to funding and resources, and was directed by Vannevar Bush, who reported only to President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The research was widely varied, and included projects devoted to new and more accurate bombs, reliable detonators, work on the proximity fuze, guided missiles, radar and early-warning systems, lighter and more accurate hand weapons, more effective medical treatments, more versatile vehicles, and, the most secret of all, the S-1 Section, which later became the Manhattan Project and developed the first atomic weapons.

Human experimentation From October 1943 to October 1946, OSRD used conscientious objectors from Civilian Public Service as subjects for research of malaria, altitude pressure, life raft rations, high altitude, frostbite, psycho-acoustics, poison gas, ingestion of and exposure to seawater, temperature extremes, climate, physiological hygiene, thiamine, bed rest and aero medicine.

To study the effects of diet and nutrition, Ancel Keys of the University of Minnesota Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene placed 32 conscientious objectors on a controlled diet. For three months they were given a normal 3,200 calorie diet. This was followed by six months of an 1800 calorie diet, fewer calories than provided by the famine diet experienced by the civilian population in wartime Europe. The research documented the men’s ability to maintain physical output and the psychological effects such as introversion, lethargy, irritability, and severe depression. The study then studied the men's recovery as they returned to a normal diet and regained the weight lost during the experimentation. The men indicated later they would not have volunteered for this project had they known how rigorous it would be.

The OSRD was discontinued in December 1947.

The Kellex Corporation was a wholly owned subsidiary of M. W. Kellogg Company. Kellex was formed in 1942 so that Kellogg's operations relating to the Manhattan Project could be kept separate and secret.[1] "Kell" stood for "Kellogg" and "X" for secret.[2] The new company's goal was to design a facility for the production of enriched uranium through gaseous diffusion. In gaseous diffusion, isotopes of Uranium-235 could be separated from Uranium-238 by turning uranium metal into uranium hexafluoride gas and straining it through a barrier material.

History The M. W. Kellogg Company, headquartered in Jersey City, NJ, specialized in chemical engineering projects. A year before the Manhattan Project began, the S-1 Section of the Office of Scientific Research and Development asked Kellogg to work with John R. Dunning and other scientists at Columbia University to ascertain the feasibility of gaseous diffusion.[4] The pilot project at Kellogg was led by Percival C. "Dobie" Keith,[2] vice-president of engineering at Kellogg, with A. L. Baker as Project Manager, and J. H. Arnold as Director of Research and Development.[4] The work that Kellogg and Keith were doing on the pilot project made them obvious choices when the Manhattan Project looked for a company to create a production level processing plant.

The newly formed Kellex company was headquartered in the Woolworth Building in Lower Manhattan, co-located with the New York Area Engineers Office, which oversaw the contract and the nearly one hundred Special Engineer Detachment personnel which had been assigned to the firm headquarters.[5][2] Kellex facilities were also located at Columbia University's Nash Garage Building in New York City, in Decatur, Illinois,[6] in Kellogg's Jersey City plant,[7] and at the Clinton Engineer Works in Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

The K-25 building of the Oak Ridge Gaseous Diffusion Plant Kellex was charged with developing processes and equipment and to design the plant. Several technical challenges needed to be met before gas extraction techniques could be effectively applied to separation of uranium. Such a system would need an adequate porous barrier, a workable gas pump, and a pipe that could resist the corrosive effects of uranium hexafluoride gas.[2] Scientists developed and tested different possible processes for uranium extraction at various locations. These included a pilot gaseous diffusion plant built at Columbia University in the Nash Garage Building at 3280 Broadway, New York, NY.[8] Scientists and engineers were developing technology for the proposed production plant at the same time that architects were designing a building to house it.

The project was known as K-25; "K" stood for Kellex while "25" was a common designation for uranium-235 during the Manhattan project. The K-25 production plant at the Clinton Engineer Works was built by the J. A. Jones Construction Company.[4] The mile-long, U-shaped plant covered 44 acres (18 ha), was four stories high and contained hundreds of miles of specially coated, hermetically sealed pipes and equipment.[9][3] The K-25 plant was the single most expensive facility of the Manhattan Project.[9] Once built it was operated by the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation.

In 1950, Kellex Corporation was acquired by Vitro Corporation.

Vannevar Bush, prophet of high tech retrieved from Le Monde diplomatique, originally published in French, has editions in 20 other languages and copied or modified to here

> Here is a terrific article you should definitely read: “Vannevar Bush, prophet of high tech”, by Peter A. Coclanis (January 2019) // https://mondediplo.com/9127

Bushes were much in the news in 2018, with the death of George HW Bush, the 41st president, at the end of November, and former First Lady Barbara Bush in April. All the recent talk of Bushes got me thinking about another Bush, who is scarcely remembered today, Vannevar Bush. But for small numbers of engineers, a cadre of MIT alums, erudite historians of science and technology, and the occasional economic and political historian, this Bush - no relation to the presidents - is virtually forgotten. Yet it can be argued that he was the chief architect, or enabler, of today’s high technology.

Not only was he an exceptional scientist in his own right but, as Alan Greenspan and Adrian Wooldridge point out in their insightful new book Capitalism in America, Bush ‘did more than anyone else’ to elevate the position of science on the American political agenda and to inspire the private sector, academia, and government to work together and in so doing, create the scientific ecosystem that underpins US technological prominence today.

The son of a Unitarian minister, Vannevar Bush (1890-1974) was born and educated in Massachusetts. He took his bachelor's and master's degrees from Tufts University and worked at GE for a short period, before returning to school and earning his PhD in 1916 in electronic engineering, in a programme administered jointly by MIT and Harvard. He spent the 1920s and 1930s at MIT. During those decades he cofounded the company that became known as Raytheon in , and made a name for himself as an engineer/inventor in what we would now call analog computing, in particular with the development of a machine (the Differential Analyzer) that could solve problems hitherto beyond the reach of researchers. That much of his research was funded by government (the US Navy) and foundations (Rockefeller) was at once instrumental and indicative.

Appointed Vice President and Dean of Engineering at MIT in 1932, Bush used his perches to elevate the status of science and engineering in American culture, to network, and to build stronger cross-sectoral research relationships between and among academia, the private sector and government. Elected president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington (now known as the Carnegie Institution for Science in 1938), he moved to DC where he quickly assumed leadership roles as well in governmental scientific initiatives. In 1940 he became the first chairman of the National Defense Research Committee; soon after this was incorporated into the Office of Scientific Research and Development, which he directed between 1941 and 1947.

Under Bush's helm, these entities coordinated the government's wartime scientific efforts, which not surprisingly focused on military-related research. Bush's background, contacts and abilities led to impressive results, including improvements in radar technology and something more monumental: the development of the atomic bomb (he organised the Manhattan Project early on). Bush and his role in the war, though largely forgotten today, were certainly recognised by his contemporaries (he made an unsurprising appearance on the cover of Time magazine in 1944).

Two wartime publications associated with Bush were to prove important in the postwar period. In a piece in the Atlantic Monthly in July 1945, he sketched out the properties of a device he called the ‘memex’, which historians of the Internet consider the theoretical foundation for today’s hypertext links. But more important was a 1945 governmental report he organised and helped write, titled ‘Science, The Endless Frontier’, which made a spirited case for the creation of what is now known as the National Science Foundation, formally established in 1950.

If Bush became largely forgotten in later decades (1), his crucial insight into the need for, and rich possibilities of, scientific collaboration by private industry, government and academia was prophetic. Facilitated, to be sure, by the addition of a generation of venture capitalists, US scientific leadership in the world today is largely predicated on that vision.

Peter Lawford – Mysterious Secret Keeper of the Rat Pack

Posted on June 1, 2014

Peter Lawford may be the least well-known member of the Frank Sinatra "Rat Pack." Lawford is sometimes called "The Man Who Kept The Secrets" because of his clandestine efforts to connect his brother-in-law, John F. Kennedy and Marilyn Monroe, and his work as a liaison between Kennedy. Some historians even speculate about Peter Lawford's purported involvement in the death of Marilyn Monroe.

You may remember that Peter Lawford was a suave and handsome British movie star. But, off the top of your head, can you name any movie he was in other than "Ocean's 11"? In the years just before he joined the Rat Pack, however, his career had stalled. He actually made a lot of movies, and some of them were pretty good. His best titles include "Little Women," "Advise And Consent," "Exodus," and "It Should Happen to You." However, he was merely a Lawford knew his place. His association with Sinatra, Martin, and Davis made him seem much more prominent in Hollywood than he actually was. Sinatra never let him forget that, either. His nickname became “Brother-in-Lawford.” Kennedy and the Sinatra Clan genuinely enjoyed each other’s company. However, they also used each other to increase their visibility and glamour. As a result, Lawford became a key member as he connected JFK to the Hollywood community.

It was through Frank Sinatra, via Peter Lawford, that John F. Kennedy met Marilyn Monroe. Peter Lawford Marilyn MonroeLawford also arranged trysts for JFK with other Hollywood beauties. The connections made by Peter Lawford led to the powerful Sinatra endorsing, raising money, and campaigning for Senator Kennedy as he ran for President. It was through Lawford that many members of the entertainment community gained access to Kennedy.

When the time came for JFK to prepare for his historic debate with Richard Nixon, he turned to brother-in-law Peter Lawford for advice. JFK learned how to present on camera, what gestures to use, and even accepted advice on what suit to wear. In fact, students of the debate claim that Lawford’s preparation of his brother-in-law was a key factor in JFK’s dazzling performance.

The Rat Pack was an informal group of entertainers, the second iteration of which ultimately made films and appeared together in Las Vegas casino venues. They originated as a group of A-list show business friends who met casually at the Los Angeles home of Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall.[1] In the 1960s, the group featured Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Joey Bishop, and (before falling out with Sinatra in 1962) Peter Lawford, among others. They appeared together on stage and in films in the early 1960s, including the films Ocean's 11,[2] and Sergeants 3; after Lawford's expulsion, they filmed Robin and the 7 Hoods with Bing Crosby in what was to be Lawford's role. Sinatra, Martin, and Davis were regarded as the group's lead members after Bogart's death.

A cropped version of the photograph was published on page 15 of the November 28, 1957, issue of the jazz magazine DownBeat (Vol. 24, No. 24). The accompanying story, titled “Sinatra: He’s Frank” and written by John Tynan, detailed the entertainer’s preparations before the premiere of the second Frank Sinatra Show (195758) on ABC. In 1959, United Artists distributed the photograph as a “keybook” publicity photo.

Dean Martin (born Dino Paul Crocetti; June 7, 1917 December 25, 1995) was an American singer, actor and comedian. One of the most popular and enduring American entertainers of the mid-20th century, Martin was nicknamed “The King of Cool.”[2][3] Martin gained his career breakthrough together with comedian Jerry Lewis, billed as Martin & Lewis, in 1946. They performed in nightclubs and later had numerous appearances on radio, television and in films.

Sammy Davis Jr.

Samuel George Davis Jr. (December 8, 1925 May 16, 1990) was an American singer, dancer, actor, vaudevillian, and comedian.

At age three, Davis began his career in vaudeville with his father Sammy Davis Sr. and the Will Mastin Trio, which toured nationally, and his film career began in 1933. After military service, Davis returned to the trio and became an overnight sensation following a nightclub performance at Ciro's (in West Hollywood) after the 1951 Academy Awards. With the trio, he became a recording artist. In 1954, at the age of 29, he lost his left eye in a car accident. Several years later, he converted to Judaism, finding commonalities between the oppression experienced by African-American and Jewish communities.[2]

Sidney Gottlieb who had undiclosed relatives was also involved in the C.I.A.‘s assassination plots. In the Eisenhower and Kennedy Administrations, Gottlieb, always under orders from the Director of Central Intelligence or his chief spymaster, developed a poison handkerchief to kill an Iraqi colonel, an array of toxic gifts to be delivered to Fidel Castro, and a poison dart to kill a leftist leader in the Congo. None of the plans succeeded.

After he left the C.I.A., Gottlieb and his

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy advised his brother to sever ties to Sinatra because of his association with Mafia figures such as Sam Giancana and he cancelled the visit.[14] Kennedy instead stayed at Bing Crosby's estate, which further infuriated Sinatra.[15] Lawford was blamed for this and Sinatra "never again had a good word" for him.[16] Lawford's role was written out of the upcoming 4 for Texas, and his part in Robin and the 7 Hoods was given to Bing Crosby.

Marilyn Monroe Didn't Actually Pose for the First Issue of 'Playboy' retrieved from www.biography.com and copied or modified to here

The naked truth about Marilyn Monroe's famed appearance on the first Playboy cover: The iconic blonde bombshell (born Norma Jeane Mortenson) never actually posed for the magazine at all. In fact, when the late Hugh Hefner used "the famous Marilyn Monroe nude" (the exact words emblazoned upon the publication's splashy inaugural cover) to launch the men's lifestyle and entertainment glossy and his storied Playboy brand as a whole in 1953, Monroe hadn't consented to the then-four-year-old images' use, nor had Hefner directly paid her a dime.

Hefner quickly hitched his wagon to Monroe's rapidly rising star. He purchased the rights to Monroe's nude photos from the Chicago-area company in fall 1953 for a reported $500. As described in Playboy's first issue: "There were actually two poses shot au naturel back in

’49, just before the gorgeous blonde got her first movie break. When they appeared as calendar art, they helped catapult her to stardom. We’ve selected the better of the two as our first Playboy Sweetheart.”

Hefner was born in Chicago on April 9, 1926,[2] the first child of Glenn Lucius Hefner (1896-1976), an accountant, and his wife Grace Caroline (Swanson) Hefner (1895-1997) who worked as a teacher. His parents were from Nebraska.[3][4] He had a younger brother, Keith (1929-2016).[5][6][7] His mother was of Swedish ancestry, and his father was German and English.

Through his father’s line, Hefner was a descendant of Plymouth governor William Bradford.[10][11] He described his family as “conservative, Midwestern, [and] Methodist”.[12] His mother had wanted him to become a missionary.

He attended Sayre Elementary School and Steinmetz High School, then served from 1944 to 1946 as a U.S. Army writer for a military newspaper. Hefner graduated from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 1949 with a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology and a double minor in Creative Writing and Art, having earned his degree in two and a half years. After graduation, he took a semester of graduate courses in Sociology at Northwestern University, but dropped out soon after.

In January 1952, Hefner left his job as a copywriter for Esquire after he was denied a $5 raise. In 1953, he took out a mortgage loan of $600 and raised $8,000 from 45 investors (including $1,000 from his mother-“not because she believed in the venture," he told E! in 2006, "but because she believed in her son") to launch Playboy, which was initially going to be called Stag Party. The first issue was published in December 1953 and featured Marilyn Monroe from a 1949 nude calendar shoot she did under a pseudonym when she was in financial distress before she was famous. Monroe did not consent to her pictures to be used by Hefner and she was not compensated by Hefner for them.[15] That first issue sold more than 50,000 copies.[16] (Hefner never met Monroe, but he bought the crypt next to hers at the Westwood Village Memorial Park Cemetery in 1992 for $75,000.)

Sam Giancana retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Giancana was born in Chicago to Italian immigrant parents. He joined the 42 Gang as a teenager, developing a reputation in organized crime which gained him the notice of Chicago Outfit leaders. During the late 1930s, Giancana joined the Chicago Outfit. From the 1940s through the 1950s, he controlled the illegal gambling, illegal liquor distribution, and political rackets in Louisiana. In the early 1940s, Giancana was involved in Chicago's African-American lottery payout system for the Outfit. In 1957, Giancana became the boss of the Chicago Outfit.

According to some sources, Giancana and the Mafia were involved in John F. Kennedy's victory in the 1960 presidential election. During the 1960s, he was recruited by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in a plot to assassinate Cuban leader Fidel Castro. Conspiracy theorists consider Giancana along with Mafia leaders Santo Trafficante Jr. and Carlos Marcello associated with the assassination of Kennedy. In 1965, Giancana was convicted of contempt of court, serving one year in prison. After his release from prison, Giancana fled to Cuernavaca, Mexico. In 1974, he was deported to the United States, returning to Chicago. Giancana was murdered on June 19, 1975, in Oak Park, Illinois, shortly before he was scheduled to appear before the Church Committee.

Gladys Pearl Baker Mortensen Eley (née Monroe; 27 May 1902 - 11 March 1984) was the mother of actress Marilyn Monroe and author Berniece Baker Miracle.

In 1924, Gladys remarried with Norwegian immigrant Martin Edward Mortensen (1897-1981). They divorced a few years later, after Gladys met her superior at RKO Pictures, Charles Stanley Gifford (1898-1965).

While working for him as a film negative cutter, she became pregnant and gave birth to her third and final child, Norma Jeane Baker on 1 June 1926 in the Los Angeles County Hospital (Dandial Freeman?).

Gifford is often assumed to be her father, though the identity remains uncertain. Gladys registered the surname Mortenson on Norma Jean's birth certificate, using the name of her ex-husband and specifying his address as unknown. Norma Jean was baptised with the name Baker, in an act of her grandmother Della to hide the illegitimacy. Della Monroe died shortly thereafter of a heart attack. Gladys' brother Otis disappeared in October 1929 and was pronounced dead in 1955.

Aldous Leonard Huxley (/ˈɔːldəs/ AWL-dəs; 26 July 1894 - 22 November 1963) was an English writer and philosopher.[1][2][3][4] His bibliography spans nearly 50 books,[5][6] including novels and non-fiction works, as well as essays, narratives, and poems.

Born into the prominent Huxley family, he graduated from Balliol College, Oxford, with an undergraduate degree in English literature. Early in his career, he published short stories and poetry and edited the literary magazine Oxford Poetry, before going on to publish travel writing, satire, and screenplays. He spent the latter part of his life in the United States, living in Los Angeles from 1937 until his death.[7] By the end of his life, Huxley was widely acknowledged as one of the foremost intellectuals of his time.[8] He was nominated for the Nobel Prize in Literature nine times,[9] and was elected Companion of Literature by the Royal Society of Literature in 1962.

Huxley was a pacifist.[11] He grew interested in philosophical mysticism,[11][12][13] as well as universalism,[11][14] addressing these subjects in his works such as The Perennial Philosophy, which illustrates commonalities between Western and Eastern mysticism, and The Doors of Perception, which interprets his own psychedelic experience with mescaline. In his most famous novel Brave New World and his final novel Island, he presented his visions of dystopia and utopia, respectively.

English Heritage blue plaque at 16 Bracknell Gardens, Hampstead, London, commemorating Aldous, his brother Julian, and his father Leonard Huxley was born in Godalming, Surrey, England, in 1894.[15] He was the third son of the writer and schoolmaster Leonard Huxley, who edited The Cornhill Magazine,[16] and his first wife, Julia Arnold, who founded Prior's Field School. Julia was the niece of poet and critic Matthew Arnold and the sister of Mrs. Humphry Ward. Julia named him Aldous after a character in one of her sister's novels.[17] Aldous was the grandson of Thomas Henry Huxley, the zoologist, agnostic, and controversialist who had often been called "Darwin's Bulldog". His brother Julian Huxley and half-brother Andrew Huxley also became outstanding biologists. Aldous had another brother, Noel Trevenen Huxley (1889-1914), who took his own life after a period of clinical depression.[18]

As a child, Huxley's nickname was "Ogie", short for "Ogre".[19] He was described by his brother, Julian, as someone who frequently [contemplated] the strangeness of things".[19] According to his cousin and contemporary Gervas Huxley, he had an early interest in drawing.[19]

Huxley's education began in his father's well-equipped botanical laboratory, after which he enrolled at Hillside School near Godalming.[20][21] He was taught there by his own mother for several years until she became terminally ill. After Hillside he went on to Eton College. His mother died in 1908, when he was 14 (his father later remarried). He contracted the eye disease Keratitis punctata in 1911; this "left [him] practically blind for two to three years"[22] and "ended his early dreams of becoming a doctor".[23] In October 1913, Huxley entered Balliol College, Oxford, where he studied English literature.[24] He volunteered for the British Army in January 1916, for the Great War; however, he was rejected on health grounds, being half-blind in one eye.[24] His eyesight later partly recovered. He edited Oxford Poetry in 1916, and in June of that year graduated BA with first class honours.[24] His brother Julian wrote:

I believe his blindness was a blessing in disguise. For one thing, it put paid to his idea of taking up medicine as a career ... His uniqueness lay in his universalism. He was able to take all knowledge for his province.[25]

Following his years at Balliol, Huxley, being financially indebted to his father, decided to find employment. He taught French for a year at Eton College, where Eric Blair (who was to take the pen name George Orwell) and Steven Runciman were among his pupils. He was mainly remembered as being an incompetent schoolmaster unable to keep order in class. Nevertheless, Blair and others spoke highly of his excellent command of language.[26]

Huxley also worked for a time during the 1920s at Brunner and Mond, an advanced chemical plant in Billingham in County Durham, northeast England. According to an introduction to his science fiction novel Brave New World (1932), the experience he had there of "an ordered universe in a world of planless incoherence" was an important source for the novel.[citation needed]

Death On his deathbed, unable to speak owing to advanced laryngeal cancer, Huxley made a written request to his wife Laura for "LSD, 100 μg, intramuscular." According to her account of his death[88] in This Timeless Moment, she obliged with an injection at 11:20 a.m. and a second dose an hour later; Huxley died aged 69, at 5:20 p.m. PST on 22 November 1963 the same day JFK was assassinated.

"World bankers, by pulling a few simple levers that control the flow of money, can make or break entire economies.

Huxley endorsed training in general semantics and "the nonverbal world of culturally uncontaminated consciousness," writing that "We must learn how to be mentally silent, we must cultivate the art of pure receptivity.... [T]he individual must learn to decondition himself, must be able to cut holes in the fence of verbalized symbols that hems him in.

General semantics is concerned with how events translate to perceptions, how they are further modified by the names and labels we apply to them, and how we might gain a measure of control over our own cognitive, emotional, and behavioral responses.

[Ed Donegan uses the following term for these semantics NIA. The Name of a thing, Information about a thing, and then who it is Applied.

Star Wars the movie brand builds up special forces leverage operators. The information is they keep the peace. The application is we should have special operators control the world covertly and feel good about that in real life.

On 21 October 1949, Huxley wrote to George Orwell, author of Nineteen Eighty-Four, congratulating him on "how fine and how profoundly important the book is". In his letter, he predicted:

> "Within the next generation I believe that > the world's leaders will discover that infant conditioning and narcohypnosis are more efficient, as instruments of government, than clubs and prisons, and that the lust for power can be just as completely satisfied by suggesting people into loving their servitude as by flogging them and kicking them into obedience."

By controlling press releases of economic strategies that shape national trends, the power elite are able to not only tighten their stranglehold on this nation's economic structure, but can extend that control world wide.

Those possessing such power would logically want to remain in the background, invisible to the average citizen." Aldous Huxley

DeVore disappeared in June 1997, while driving at night from Santa Fe, New Mexico to Santa Barbara, California, prompting an extensive search and media speculation.[4] DeVore was working in his office in Santa Fe, New Mexico trying to finish a script. DeVore had recently complained of writer's block, and so had decided to change his environment. When he finally finished the script, DeVore decided to drive home through the Mojave Desert. His wife Wendy was waiting for him at their beachfront house in Carpinteria, California.[5] When she did not hear from him she decided to call around 1 am, a call which it was later discovered to have not been recorded by the telephone company.[6] He answered, but was not very specific on his location. This was the last time Wendy spoke with him.

A year later, he and his car were discovered submerged below a bridge over the Aqueduct in Palmdale, California.[4] Once the police had retrieved the vehicle from the water, it was found that his laptop containing the script (titled The Big Steal), his hands, and his gun were missing. This was considered very suspicious as the aqueduct was searched when the disappearance was reported, and it had showed no signs of impact at the time.[6] Police concluded that for DeVore to crash his vehicle in this location meant that he would have had to have driven 3 mi (4.8 km) against traffic without being seen. This would have been doubly difficult because the vehicle's lights were not switched on.[6] Gary DeVore's murder has not been solved to date.

The British and Knights One and Two one being Delen from the Minbari do not destroy Sinclair in battle from their gigantic battle ship but bring his small fighter in and he does not remember what happened (MIND KONTROL) but during his black out the Minbari surrender rather than destroy Earth (Humans.)

The Narn are no way friends to Earth nor are the Italian Catholics (Centari) but the Narns did sell weapons like Lafayetted did to the humans.

It turns out by something much like a DNA test the Mimmbari found the Humans were from the their Royal cast - Galen, and wish peace with their sould mates.

Part of that story is acted out in Season 1 Episode 8 And the Sky is Full of Stars.

Two mysterious men kidnap Sinclair in hopes of learning what happened during his 24-hour blackout at the Battle of the Line

kay. In Season 1 (Soul Hunter) we learn that the Minbari believe that humans and Minbari cycle the same souls through their populations, based on the Minbari examination of Sinclair at the Battle of the Line.

But in Season 3 (War Without End, Parts I and II), we learn the true fate of Babylon 4. And that fate is that the Sinclair of two years after the events of Soul Hunter moved it through time to the Shadow War fought by the forces of Light 1000 years ago, becoming the Minbari religious-founder Valen on the way.

So, if the Minbari belief that humans and Minbari share souls was based on Sinclair's soul's resemblance to Valen's soul, doesn't that invalidate the "share souls" belief completely? They were similar because they were identical!

Is this visited further in the arc? I'm currently near the end of Season 3 (we watched Grey 17 Is Missing last night).

As I understand it, Sinclair's soul was the cue to inspire them to consider the idea, but it was otherwise confirmed (how or when, I'm not sure). Besides which, Sinclair/Valen's soul appeared as a Mimbari soul, not as a human one, and whatever Sinclair became, he was born of human parents.

My take was that the Minbari “soul scanner” or whatever it was was actually picking up on Sinclair’s DNA. He used the chrysalis device to become part Minbari, but still retained some of his human DNA. That is what the scanner was detecting. No need to consider a “soul”.

Souls are verifiably real in the B5 universe. If they meant DNA, they’d have said DNA.

Actually, no. The thingy was detecting genetic descendants of Galen, who was in fact Sinclair. Up to that point, the thingy was only used to track Minbari descendants of Galen. The thingy pegged on Sinclair because Galen was Sinclair.

That's how I remember it, too. It's a circular time-travel thing. IIRC, Valen was Sinclair because Sinclair went back in time, preached a message of peace and in time became Valen. Millenia later, the Minbari, just minutes or hours away from breaching Earth's thin defensive line and destroying the planet, examined just one captured Earth pilot - Sinclair - and realize that he has Valen's soul. So they surrender. A few years later, Sinclair goes back in time to Minbari prehistory … and becomes Valen.

Lets try substituting some countries on the map using functional and spacial cipher keys

- Minbari : Surrended to Humans when they did not have to. The memory of the USA Humans is empty in a certain area wiped out but it turns out Humans were tested for British (Minbari) DNA and they have it, they are related to each other thus surrended to Humans (USA)

- Centuri : The past empire likely Italian Catholic. High order like the Minbari they are defeated as an empire with the more liberal and Council based

Minbar leadership a bettef form

- Narn : Could be the French but so could the Centari. The CEntari tried to convince Humans USA they were Centari but it turns out Humans are Mimbari instead or desecnded from them

- Vorlon : Very elite proto intelligence. Urge Earth to ignore both fuedin gpwers, CEntari and Mimbari. Perhaps reject Fuedal houses all together

The main Babylon 5 story arc occurs between the years 2257 and 2262. The show depicts a future where Earth has a unified Earth government and has gained the technology for faster-than-light travel using ‘jump gates’, a kind of wormhole technology allowing transport through the alternate dimension of hyperspace. The Colonies within the solar system and beyond, make up the Earth Alliance, which has established contact with other spacefaring species. Ten years before the series is set, Earth barely escaped destruction by the technologically superior Minbari, who sought revenge after an Earth starship unwittingly killed their leader during first contact, only for them to unexpectedly surrender on the brink of victory. Earth has since established peaceful relationships with them and the Earth Alliance has become a significant and generally respected power within the galactic community.

The North American F-86 Sabre was the iconic American fighter aircraft of the Korean War (1950-1953). Though initially developed for the US Navy through the FJ Fury program, the F-86 design was adapted to meet the US Air Force's need for a high-altitude, day fighter and interceptor. Introduced in 1949, Sabres were sent to Korea in late 1950 to answer the threat presented by the arrival of Soviet-built MiG-15.

In the skies over North fKorea, the F-86 proved a highly effective fighter and ultimately claimed a positive kill ratio against the MiG. Frequently clashing in an area known as "MiG Alley," the two fighters effectively pioneered jet-to-jet aerial combat. With the end of the conflict, the F-86 began moving into a reserve role as newer, more-advanced aircraft were developed. Exported widely, the Sabre saw combat in a variety of conflicts around the world during the middle decades of the 20th century. The last F-86s were retired from operational status in the mid-1990s.

If you have ever seen video and still photos of America's Army in action while watching the nightly news, or while watching one of the many documentaries containing archive combat footage on television today, then you most likely have seen some of the extraordinary video and photos taken by one of the United States Army's unseen front-line warriors, the combat camera Soldier.

Under the operational control of the Network Enterprise Technology Command/9th Signal Command (Army) - commonly called the Army Signal Command - the 55th Signal Company (Combat Camera) is the only active duty Combat Camera company in the Army.

The photo documentation mission of the 55th stretches back more than 125 years. Since the 1880s, the Signal Corps has been taking photos for the Army. Then, in 1917, the Army Signal Corps established a Photographic Section responsible for both ground and aerial photography.

Today, the mission of the 55th is to provide tactical visual information support for operational and contingency missions in support of the Department of the Army, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Office of the Secretary of Defense, and Army and Unified Commands.

"In short, the mission of the 55th is to provide directed imagery that supports the decision making from the strategic level through the Combatant Commanders down to the tactical level," said Maj. Donald W. Reeves, 55th Signal Company commander. "The 55th also has the mission to document all types of operations and events for historical preservation of the actions.

Thunderbird is one of the recognizable P-51 mustangs from the post war era. The cobalt blue P-51C NX5528N, most notably won the 1949 Bendix race piloted by Joe DeBona where it set the piston driven speed record at 470 mph. Thunderbird was finished with 48 coats of primers and the iconic gloss cobalt blue paint adorned with the Red Pegasus logo of Mobile Oil. Polished to a high shine, the paint job reportedly added 8 mph to the speed of the aircraft.

subject matter retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Thunderbird Field was a military airfield in Glendale, Arizona, used for contract primary flight training of Allied pilots during World War II. Created in part by actor James Stewart,[1] the field became part of the United States Army Air Forces training establishment just prior to American entry into the war and was re-designated Thunderbird Field #1 after establishment of Thunderbird Field #2 at nearby Scottsdale, on 22 June 1942. Thunderbird # 1 is located southeast of the intersection of West Greenway Road & North 59th Avenue in Glendale, Arizona.

After the conclusion on World War II, the property was sold as surplus for educational purposes, eventually becoming Thunderbird School of Global Management, a post-graduate business school. In November 2018 the property was transferred to Arizona Christian University. ACU now operates its undergraduate liberal arts university on the site. Acclaimed Television Producer Gerry Anderson names Thunderbird Field as the inspiration for the naming of the television show Thunderbirds as his brother, Lionel, had written to him some years prior, saying he'd been stationed there.[2]

“The Man Who Wasn’t There, ‘George Bush,’ C.I.A. Operative”
By Joseph McBride

THE NATION, July 16/23, 1988

Vice President George Bush’s resume is his most highly touted asset as a candidate. But a recently discovered F.B.I. memorandum raises the possibility that, like many resumes, it omits some facts the applicant would rather not talk about: specifically, that he worked for the Central Intelligence Agency in 1963, more than a decade before he became its director [as a mole covering up 1963.

some facts the applicant would rather not talk about: specifically, that he worked for the Central Intelligence Agency in 1963, more than a decade before he became its director.

The F.B.I. memorandum, dated November 29, 1963, is from Director J. Edgar Hoover to the State Department and is subject-headed "Assassination of President John F. Kennedy November 22, 1963." In it, Hoover reports that the Bureau had briefed "Mr. George Bush of the Central Intelligence Agency" shortly after the assassination on the reaction of Cuban exiles in Miami. A source with close connections to the intelligence community confirms that Bush started working for the agency in 1960 or 1961, using his oil business as a cover for clandestine activities.

Informed of this memorandum, the Vice President's spokesman, Stephen Hart, asked, "Are you sure it's the same George Bush?" After talking to the Vice President, Hart quoted him as follows: "I was in Houston, Texas, at the time and involved in the independent oil drilling business. And I was running for the Senate in late '63." "Must be another George Bush," added Hart.

Because the Vice President's response seemed something of a non-denial denial (he described what else he was doing rather than specifically denying C.I.A. involvement), I put the following queries to him via Hart:

Director of Central Intelligence

In January 1976, Ford brought Bush back to Washington to become the Director of Central Intelligence (DCI), placing him in charge of the CIA.[80] In the aftermath of the Watergate scandal and the Vietnam War, the CIA's reputation had been damaged for its role in various covert operations, and Bush was tasked with restoring the agency's morale and public reputation.[81][f] During Bush's year in charge of the CIA, the U.S. national security apparatus actively supported Operation Condor operations and right-wing military dictatorships in Latin America.[82][83]

Pearl Harbor (2001)

The basic requirements for those interested in joining the Eagle Squadron were a high school diploma, being between 20 and 31 years of age, eyesight that was 20/40 correctable to 20/20, and 300 hours of certified flying time. These requirements, with the exception of the flight time, were not as strict as those required for service in the United States Army Air Corps, which was a reason for some of the pilots joining the squadron. Most Eagle Squadron pilots did not have a college education or prior military experience.

Photo from front page of the Paris edition of Le Petit Journal from August 6, 1925 of General Dumesnil of France and Colonel Sweeny of the United States. Colonel Sweeny organized the "Escadrille Cherifienne," a volunteer squadron of rogue American pilots that would bombard Chefchaouen, Morocco in service of France September 1925. Text reads: "The American volunteer pilots have left for Morocco / Before departure: General Dumesnil gives the American colonel Sweeny a 'bon voyage' toast."

Charles Michael Sweeny (January 26, 1882 - February 27, 1963) was an American soldier of fortune, United States Army lieutenant colonel, French Foreign Legion officer,[1] Polish army brigadier general, Royal Air Force (RAF) captain, and journalist who fought in numerous conflicts in the 20th century.

He recruited fellow Americans to fight in World War II prior to the United States entering the war.

With the United States still neutral, many Americans simply crossed the border and joined the Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF) to learn to fly and fight. Many early recruits had originally gone to Europe to fight for Finland against the Soviet Union in the Winter War.

At 2 Hours 20 Minutes into the movie Pearl Harbor (think February 20) the Eagle pilots in Europe are asked to volunteer as the Doolitle led team of B-25s into Japan, ulitmately a trial run for the B-29 atomic bombing with B-29s.

In 1926, following 1925, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics (BuAer), asked King if he would consider a transfer to naval aviation.

Ernest Joseph King (23 November 1878 - 25 June 1956) was Commander in Chief, United States Fleet (COMINCH) and Chief of Naval Operations (CNO) during World War II. As COMINCH-CNO, he directed the United States Navy's operations, planning, and administration and was a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He was the United States Navy's second most senior officer in World War II after Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, who served as Chief of Staff to the Commander in Chief.

Shortly after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, King was appointed as Commander in Chief of the United States Fleet.

Doolittle studied as an undergraduate at University of California, Berkeley, graduating with a Bachelor of Arts in 1922. He also earned a doctorate in aeronautics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1925. Think Cal tech and Parsons

He was a flying instructor during World War I and a reserve officer in the United States Army Air Corps, but he was recalled to active duty during World War II. He was awarded the Medal of Honor for personal valor and leadership as commander of the Doolittle Raid, a bold long-range retaliatory air raid on some of the Japanese main islands on April 18, 1942, four months after the attack on Pearl Harbor. The raid was a major morale booster for the United States and Doolittle was celebrated as a hero.

Doolittle was promoted to lieutenant general and commanded the Twelfth Air Force over North America, the Fifteenth Air Force over the Mediterranean, and the Eighth Air Force over Europe. After World War II, he retired and left the Air Force but remained active in many technical fields, and was eventually promoted to general 26 years after retirement.

In the confusing event of the George Zimmerman Trayvon Martin shooting event does the history of Sanford figure in?

Is George Zimmerman a Targeted Individual?

Here's a look at the February 2012 shooting death of 17-year-old Trayvon Martin. Former neighborhood watch captain George Zimmerman was acquitted in the case.]

Facts Trayvon Benjamin Martin, born February 5, 1995, was an African-American high school student who lived in Miami Gardens, Florida, with his mother, Sybrina Fulton. In February 2012, Martin was visiting his father, Tracy Martin in Sanford, Florida, after receiving a ten-day suspension from Krop Senior High School. The suspension stemmed from the discovery of drug residue in Martin's book bag.

George Michael Zimmerman, born October 5, 1983, was a part-time student at Seminole State College and a neighborhood watch captain for the Retreat at Twin Lakes gated community in Sanford, Florida, at the time of the shooting.

Timeline February 26, 2012 - George Zimmerman, a neighborhood watch captain in Sanford, Florida, calls 911 to report "a suspicious person" in the neighborhood. He is instructed not to get out of his SUV or approach the person. Zimmerman disregards the instructions. Moments later, neighbors report hearing gunfire. Zimmerman acknowledges that he shot Martin, claiming it was in self-defense. In a police report, Officer Timothy Smith writes that Zimmerman was bleeding from the nose and back of the head.

February 27, 2012 - Martin's father, Tracy Martin, files a missing person's report, telling authorities that his son hasn't returned from going to the store the previous evening. Police show Martin a picture taken from the crime scene, and he confirms the dead teenager is Trayvon.

George Zimmerman's girlfriend wants case dropped, document says Janet DiGiacomo and Catherine E. Shoichet, CNN Updated 8:12 AM EST, Tue December 10, 2013 *

George Zimmerman's girlfriend is asking a judge to lift an order that blocks her from seeing him and says she doesn't want charges filed against him.

In a court document obtained by CNN Monday, Samantha Scheibe says she wants a no-contact provision against Zimmerman lifted so the couple can "talk and be together."

"I am not afraid of George in any manner and I want to be with him," she says.

Zimmerman was arrested on November 18 at Scheibe's Apopka, Florida, home after the two had a heated fight. According to a police report about the incident, Scheibe said that after an argument, Zimmerman broke a table with a shotgun and then pointed it at her "for a minute."

But in a signed affidavit filed by Zimmerman's attorney, Jayne

Weintraub, Scheibe says Zimmerman “never pointed a gun at or toward my face in a threatening manner” and claims police misinterpreted her.

“I believe that the police misinterpreted me and that I may have misspoken about certain facts in my statement to the police,” she said. “I do not feel that the arrest report accurately recounts what happened.”

Zimmerman is accused of aggravated assault and misdemeanor counts of domestic violence battery and criminal mischief in the incident. His arraignment is scheduled for January 7.

> Judicial Watch announced today that it has obtained documents proving that the Department of Justice played a major behind-the-scenes role in organizing protests against George Zimmerman. Zimmerman is on trial for second-degree murder in the shooting death of Trayvon Martin in February 2012.

RUTHERFORD - A Rutherford lawyer who served as Bergen County’s top prosecutor and led a federal anti-political corruption squad apparently shot and killed himself under a bridge over Route 17 Wednesday, according to published reports.

Two children found the body of John “Jay” Fahy around 5 p.m. in East Rutherford, authorities said. A handgun was found nearby and Fahy reportedly died from a single gunshot wound to the head.

“Jay was someone all of us knew, so it comes as a surprise and a shock to all of us here,” Bergen County Prosecutor John L. Molinelli said at a briefing near the scene, NorthJersey.com reported. “He was known as a good lawyer and someone who was well liked in the community.”

It was not immediately clear if Fahy, 58, left a suicide note or what led to his death.

“Even though there is no evidence of foul play, one has to wonder why a person like Mr. Fahy would bring himself to this,” Molinelli said, according to the news site.

Fahy was a frequent contributor to national news programs, offering his legal insights on the Tyler Clementi case and the Florida trial of George Zimmerman.

Gunshot to the head and a lawsuit just dissapeared?

It sounds like something that could have come out of Hollywood. After years of legal maneuvering, a prominent, accomplished attorney promises a client a whopping six-figure settlement. Facing unrelated disciplinary actions from another case, that same attorney takes his own life. When his former client tries to collect her check, she discovers no such lawsuit was ever filed - and moves against his mourning estate for millions of dollars in damages.

It’s a strange, sad story which demonstrates that even the best and most highly-regarded attorneys sometimes become tangled in malpractice. John Fahy was well-known, well-respected, and successful. What happened toward the end of his life? Friends and family still struggle to find answers - even as they struggle against a massive malpractice lawsuit that has opinions sharply divided.

Naval Air Station Sanford retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Naval Air Station Sanford (IATA: NRJ, ICAO: KNRJ, FAA LID: NRJ) was a naval air station of the United States Navy in Sanford, Florida, approximately 20 miles north of Orlando, Florida. Opening less than a year after the start of World War II, NAS Sanford's initial function was as an advanced training base for land-based patrol bombers, followed by carrier-based fighter aircraft. The air station briefly closed following the war and was placed in caretaker status, then reactivated in 1950, eventually serving as a Master Jet Base for carrier-based heavy attack and reconnaissance aircraft until 1969.

Naval Air Station Sanford was commissioned as an active naval installation on 3 November 1942 and was initially assigned the airport codes NRJ and KNRJ. The base initially concentrated on advanced land-based patrol plane training, operating PV-1 Venturas, PBO Hudsons and SNB-2 Kansans. Peak wartime complement during 1943-1945 reached approximately 360 officers and 1400 enlisted men, both Navy and Marine Corps, with an additional complement of Naval Reserve officer and enlisted WAVES (Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service) who served in air traffic control, meteorological services, administrative support, and aircraft maintenance.[1]

In 1943, training at NAS Sanford shifted to carrier-based fighter aircraft using the F4F, FM-1 and FM-2 Wildcat and F6F Hellcat.[2][3] The air station also held oversight of an auxiliary airfield known as Outlying Field Osceola (OLF Osceola) approximately 6 nautical miles (11 km) east-southeast of NAS Sanford.[4]

F4F Wildcat fighter, circa 1943, similar to examples flown at NAS Sanford during same time period.
Decommissioned in 1946 and placed in a caretaker status, the base was recommissioned as Naval Auxiliary Air Station Sanford (NAAS Sanford) in 1950 in response to both the Korean War and the Cold War. Subsequently, redesignated as a full naval air station and renamed NAS Sanford once again, the installation initially served as a home station for carrier-based AD Skyraider and AJ Savage attack aircraft assigned to the Atlantic Fleet. In the late 1950s, substantial upgrades followed in order to turn the air station into a Master Jet Base for the carrier-based Douglas A-3 Skywarrior (at the time, designated the A3D Skywarrior) nuclear attack aircraft of Heavy Attack Wing ONE (HATWING ONE). In addition to the Skywarrior, other associated sea-based and land-based training aircraft supporting A3D training, such as the F9F-T Cougar and P2V-3W Neptune, were also assigned.

The upgrades to the former NAAS to achieve status as a full-fledged NAS and Master Jet Base included lengthening of the main runway to 8,000 feet (2,400 m) with additional overruns of approximately 2,000 feet (610 m) on both ends; construction of additional new hangars; barracks and administrative support buildings for the air station, heavy attack wing, heavy attack squadrons, and Marine Barracks; installation or upgrades to precision approach radar/ground controlled approach (PAR/GCA), non-directional beacon (NDB) and tactical air navigation (TACAN) navigational aids; a robust storage and distribution system for JP-5 jet fuel (which relied on resupply via a railroad spur into the base); secure weapon/air-dropped ordnance storage facilities; a Navy Dispensary; a Navy Exchange complex and associated garage/service station/MiniMart; and morale, welfare and recreation (MWR) facilities that included a base movie theater, two swimming pools, lakeside recreational facilities and separate clubs for officers, chief petty officer and enlisted personnel pay grade E-6 and below. Like Pinecastle AFB (later renamed McCoy AFB), a Strategic Air Command installation approximately 25 miles (40 km) to the south, a commissary and full-fledged Naval Hospital facilities were not considered necessary at NAS Sanford due to the relatively close proximity of a commissary and USAF Hospital at Central Florida's other major military installation at the time, the nearby Orlando AFB (which was transferred to the U.S. Navy's control in December 1968 and renamed Naval Training Center Orlando), approximately 12 miles (19 km) to the south.

NAAS / NAS Sanford also retained control of OLF Osceola into the early 1960s. However, OLF Osceola's 4000 to 5,000-foot (1,500 m) runways lacked sufficient length and pavement strength for contemporary carrier-based jet aircraft like the A3D. As a result, no improvements were made to the OLF's infrastructure and it was effectively abandoned as an operational facility.[4]

HATWING ONE consisted of nine Heavy Attack Squadrons (VAH), also known as HATRONs: VAH-1, VAH-3, VAH-5, VAH-6, VAH-7, VAH-9, VAH-11, VAH-12 and VAH-13. All were Fleet deployable units with the exception of VAH-3, which conducted Replacement Air Group (RAG) / Fleet Replacement Squadron (FRS) functions. In addition to the HATWING ONE squadrons, Air Development Squadron FIVE (VX-5), based at NAWS China Lake, California, also maintained a detachment at NAS Sanford (VX-5 Det Alfa) at NAS Sanford until its relocation to Kirtland AFB, New Mexico in 1962.[2]

Due to the Skywarrior's nuclear strike mission and the presence of an associated special weapons storage area at NAS Sanford, U.S. Marine Corps personnel provided both base security and special weapons storage area security, leading to the establishment of Marine Corps Barracks Sanford aboard the air station.[6]

On 6 February 1959, NAS Sanford was dedicated as Ramey Field in honor of Lieutenant Commander Robert W. Ramey, USN, who lost his life in 1958 by electing to guide his crippled A3D Skywarrior away from a residential area. By staying with the aircraft, LCDR Ramey not only gave his flight crew time to bail out of the aircraft, but also saved the lives of numerous families in the residential community.[7][8]

In the early 1960s, the A3D aircraft (redesignated as the A-3B in 1962) began to be replaced by the Mach 2+ North American A3J Vigilante (redesignated the A-5A in 1962). But by 1964, the strategic nuclear strike mission for carrier-based aircraft was eliminated and the Navy's strategic nuclear strike mission under the SIOP was transferred to the Fleet Ballistic Missile (FBM) nuclear submarine force. As a result, all Vigilante squadrons were converted to a carrier-based tactical reconnaissance mission and redesignated as Reconnaissance Attack Squadrons (RVAH). Existing A-5A and A-5B aircraft were modified to the RA-5C Vigilante configuration and the North American production line shifted to producing all subsequent aircraft as RA-5Cs. Heavy Attack Wing ONE was renamed Reconnaissance Attack Wing ONE (RECONATKWING ONE) and its subordinate squadrons as Reconnaissance Attack Squadrons (RVAH). Unlike HATWING ONE, which concentrated on supplying aircraft squadrons to the Atlantic Fleet, RECONATKWING ONE would be the Navy's sole functional wing for the RA-5C and would supply squadrons to both the Atlantic Fleet and Pacific Fleet.

NAS Sanford-based squadrons routinely deployed aboard both Atlantic and Pacific Fleet aircraft carriers of the Forrestal, Kitty Hawk and Enterprise classes, seeing extensive action during the Cold War and the Vietnam War. Numerous RA-5C flight crews and aircraft were also lost to enemy action in the Vietnam War, with several NAS Sanford-based Naval Aviators and Naval Flight Officers becoming prisoners of war in Vietnam until repatriation in 1973. In addition to RA-5C aircraft, NAS Sanford also continued to operate the TA-3B variant of the Skywarrior, several examples of which were attached to the RA-5C Fleet Replacement Squadron (FRS), Reconnaissance Attack Squadron THREE (RVAH-3), for training Naval Flight Officers as Reconnaissance Attack Navigators (RAN) in the RA-5C. NAS Sanford also operated the R4D-8/C-117 Skytrain as an operational support aircraft assigned to the air station proper.[9][10] Transient aircraft from NAS Key West, NAS Jacksonville and NAS Cecil Field, Florida and NAS Glynco, Georgia would also utilize NAS Sanford for training or as a weather or fuel divert from the Atlantic offshore training areas or the Navy's Pinecastle Bombing Range in the Ocala National Forest.

In late 1967, in addition to the nine existing RVAH squadrons that had previously been VAH squadrons, a tenth RVAH squadron was formed in preparation for the impending commissioning of the new aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy, culminating with the establishment of RVAH-14 on 1 February 1968.

Unfortunately, only a few months later, Congress directed the closure of NAS Sanford in 1968 due to funding constraints caused by the Vietnam War and [[Lyndon B. Johnson|President Lyndon Johnson's concurrent Great Society programs that necessitated the closure or realignment of several stateside air force bases and naval air stations as Department of Defense economy measures. As a result, flying operations rapidly scaled back at NAS Sanford during 1968 as the wing and squadrons were incrementally transferred to Turner AFB, a former Strategic Air Command B-52 and KC-135 installation, which was renamed as NAS Albany (Turner Field), Georgia. The Navy officially vacated NAS Sanford in 1969 and the installation was turned over to the City of Sanford.

With the later post-Vietnam closure of NAS Albany in 1975, RECONATKWING ONE and its squadrons subsequently relocated again, this time to NAS Key West, Florida, during the 1974-75 time frame and continued to deploy to both the Atlantic, Mediterranean and Pacific aboard Forrestal, Kitty Hawk, Enterprise and Nimitz-class aircraft carriers. RA-5C units remained operational at NAS Key West until the RA-5C's retirement from active naval service in January 1980. [10]

A commemorative NAS Sanford Memorial Park, along with plaques and a retired RA-5C Vigilante aircraft on loan from the National Naval Aviation Museum were dedicated in May 2003 and are positioned on the main entrance road within the Orlando Sanford International Airport perimeter in memory to NAS Sanford personnel who served their country during World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War and the Cold War. Additional Seminole County historical markers were placed at both the park and at the main passenger terminal, while additional markers and memorials to NAS Sanford exist in the city's redeveloped RiverWalk riverfront area facing Lake Monroe in downtown Sanford.

A restored PV-1 Ventura, also on loan from the National Museum of Naval Aviation, was placed on display inside the airport's passenger terminal along with additional NAS Sanford historical displays in September 2020.[11]

An A-3 Skywarrior has also been requested from the Navy for future restoration and display, but the paucity of remaining airframes not already on display elsewhere will make this a challenge.[12]

Following base closure, the City of Sanford assumed control of the facility, initially developing it as an uncontrolled regional general aviation airport and adjacent industrial park, later reactivating the former Navy control tower as a non-federal control tower in 1972. This was later upgraded to an FAA-operated control tower in 1994. Today, the airfield operates as Orlando-Sanford International Airport, a commercial airport with domestic and international airline service, augmenting commercial service at nearby Orlando International Airport (the former McCoy AFB) and Daytona Beach International Airport (the former NAS Daytona Beach).

TRAYVON MARTIN/GEORGE ZIMMERMAN CASE
retrieved from Concealed Carry Weapon Safe CCWsSAFE.com and copied or modified to here

LESSONS FROM THE GEORGE ZIMMERMAN CASE FOR THE CONCEALED CARRIER THE FACTS OF THE ZIMMERMAN CASE The shooting of Trayvon Martin dominated headlines in 2012. It triggered a national debate about so-called “Stand-Your-Ground” laws, rekindled a long-smoldering conversation about racism in America, and sparked a conversation about guns and self-defense. At the center of the controversy was George Zimmerman, a 28-year-old man who encountered unarmed, 17-year-old Trayvon Martin on a dark, rainy February evening.

After a rash of burglaries within a gated community called The Retreat at Twin Lakes in Sanford, Florida, located just north of Orlando, Zimmerman had been instrumental in forming a neighborhood watch program. On any given evening, this captain of the watch program could be seen walking his dog around the small neighborhood, which consisted of just three interconnected roads.

Zimmerman was not on his official neighborhood watch, however, when he encountered Trayvon Martin on the night of February 26, 2012. Rather, he was leaving the neighborhood to do his weekly grocery shopping. From behind the wheel of his pickup truck, Zimmerman spotted Martin entering the neighborhood from between two townhomes on the perimeter road. He thought that Martin’s behavior was suspicious, especially considering the dark and rainy conditions, so he pulled into the parking lot of the community clubhouse to call the Sanford Police Department's non-emergency line.

The recorded call reveals what happened next. At the dispatcher's request, Zimmerman described Martin's appearance and behavior, stating that Martin was black and acting strangely - "like he's on drugs or something." As Martin proceeded down the road, Zimmerman slowly followed him in his pickup truck. During that time, he made comments including the phrases, "fing punks" and "they always get away."

When Martin reached a sidewalk that ran between two long rows of townhomes, he started to run. Zimmerman could be heard stopping his truck and exiting the vehicle, subsequently pursuing Martin on foot. The dispatcher asked Zimmerman if he was following him, and Zimmerman responded, "Yes." The dispatcher said, "We don't need you to do that," to which Zimmerman responded, "Okay."

Contrary to media reports, Zimmerman did end his pursuit at that time, and during the remainder of the phone call with the dispatcher, it became clear that Zimmerman had lost sight of Martin in the dark corridor between two rows of townhomes.

Approximately 90 seconds later, a 911 operator began recording a phone call from Jenna Lauer, the resident of a townhome near where Zimmerman had exited his vehicle. The recording picks up desperate screams that continue for about 45 seconds - screams that end abruptly after the distinct sound of a single gunshot.

While Jenna Lauer was on the phone with 911, her next-door neighbor, John Good, opened his backdoor and witnessed the altercation. In his testimony, Good said that a man in a red jacket, Zimmerman, lay prone on his back while being beaten by a man in a dark jacket, Martin. Evidence at trial further supported that Martin was the person on top during the altercation. Good yelled at the men to stop fighting and went back into his home before Zimmerman fired the fatal shot.

In recorded statements to police, Zimmerman claimed that after losing contact with Martin, the 17-year-old reappeared, and following a short verbal exchange, Martin punched Zimmerman in the nose and wrestled him to the ground. Zimmerman alleged that Martin mounted him, continued to punch him, and smashed his head into the sidewalk. In the struggle, according to Zimmerman, the bottom of his shirt rode up, revealing his concealed Kel-Tec 9, and that is when he pulled the pistol and fired the already chambered round.

Less than a minute after the shooting, Martin lay dead on the ground, and another neighbor, Jonathan Manalo, rushed outside and encountered Zimmerman. With his cellphone camera, Manalo photographed Zimmerman, documenting the injuries to his head. Moments later, the officer dispatched in response to Zimmerman's original non-emergency call arrived on the scene and took Zimmerman into custody for questioning. While Zimmerman was in the back of the police cruiser, another photograph was taken that revealed injuries to Zimmerman's nose and face.

Officers took Zimmerman to the police station and questioned him for approximately five hours. Zimmerman, without advice from a lawyer, cooperated fully and answered all of the detectives' questions. Without any evidence to refute his self-defense claim, Sanford Police released Zimmerman without filing charges.

Within days, however, claims that Zimmerman had "profiled, pursued and shot Trayvon Martin in cold blood," propelled the story into the national spotlight. Massive protests were staged in Sanford, and civil rights leaders began publicly demanding George Zimmerman's arrest. After 45 days of escalating tensions and near-constant media attention, Florida Governor Rick Scott appointed a special prosecutor, who disbanded a grand jury and filed second degree murder charges against Zimmerman.

It would eventually be up to a jury to decide if George Zimmerman's self-defense claims were true.

Rick Scott retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Rick Scott was born Richard Lynn Myers[10] in Bloomington, Illinois, on December 1, 1952. Scott never met his biological father, Gordon William Myers,[10] who was described by Scott's mother, Esther J. Scott (née Fry; 1928 - 2012), as an abusive alcoholic.[11] Scott's parents divorced in his infancy.[11]

In 1954, Esther married Orba George Scott Jr. (died 2006), a truck driver. Orba adopted Rick, who took his stepfather's surname and became known as Richard Lynn Scott.[12] Scott was raised in North Kansas City, Missouri, the second of five children. His family was lower-middle-class and struggled financially; Esther Scott worked as a clerk at J. C. Penney, among other jobs.[13]

Scott graduated from North Kansas City High School in 1970.[15] He attended community college and enlisted in the United States Navy in 1970.[16][failed verification] Scott was in the Navy for 29 months[17] and served on the USS Glover (FF-1098) as a radar technician.

Scott attended college on the GI Bill,[19] and graduated from the University of Missouri-Kansas City with a Bachelor of Science in business administration.[20] He earned a Juris Doctor degree by working his way through Southern Methodist University.[21] He was licensed by the Texas Bar to practice law on November 6, 1978.

Scott made his first foray into business while working his way through college and law school, initially buying and reviving a failing doughnut shop (the Flavor Maid Do-Nut) by adding workplace delivery instead of relying on foot traffic. He later bought and revived another doughnut shop.[23] After graduating from law school, Scott worked as an attorney at the law firm of Johnson & Swanson in Dallas, Texas.

Columbia Hospital Corporation - In 1988, Scott and Richard Rainwater, a financier from Fort Worth, each put up $125,000 in working capital in their new company, Columbia Hospital Corporation;[25] they borrowed the remaining money needed to purchase two struggling hospitals in El Paso for $60 million.[26] Then they acquired a neighboring hospital and shut it down. Within a year, the remaining two were doing much better.[17] By the end of 1989, Columbia Hospital Corporation owned four hospitals with a total of 833 beds.[26]

In 1992, Columbia made a stock purchase of Basic American Medical, which owned eight hospitals, primarily in southwestern Florida. In September 1993, Columbia did another stock purchase, worth $3.4 billion, of Galen Healthcare, which had been spun off by Humana Inc. several months earlier.[27] At the time, Galen had approximately 90 hospitals. After the purchase, Galen stockholders had 82% of the stock in the combined company, with Scott still running the company.

Columbia/HCA In April 1987, Scott made his first attempt to buy the Hospital Corporation of America (HCA). While still a partner at Johnson & Swanson, Scott formed the HCA Acquisition Company with two former executives of Republic Health Corporation, Charles Miller and Richard Ragsdale.[28] With financing from Citicorp conditional on acquisition of HCA,[29] the proposed holding company offered $3.85 billion for 80 million shares at $47 each, intending to assume an additional $1.2 billion in debt, for a total $5 billion deal. After HCA declined the offer, the bid was withdrawn.[30]

In 1994, Columbia Hospital Corporation merged with HCA, “forming the single largest for-profit health care company in the country.” Scott became CEO of Columbia/HCA.[31] According to The New York Times, “[in] less than a decade, Mr. Scott had built a company he founded with two small hospitals in El Paso into the world’s largest health care company - a $20 billion giant with about 350 hospitals, 550 home health care offices and scores of other medical businesses in 38 states.”

On March 19, 1997, investigators from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service and the Department of Health and Human Services served search warrants at Columbia/HCA facilities in El Paso and on dozens of doctors with suspected ties to the company.[33] Eight days after the initial raid, Scott signed his last SEC report as a hospital executive. Four months later, the board of directors pressured him to resign as chairman and CEO.[34] He was succeeded by Thomas F. Frist Jr.[35] Scott was paid $9.88 million in a settlement, and left owning 10 million shares of stock then worth more than $350 million.[36][37][38] The directors had been warned in the company's annual public reports to stockholders that incentives Columbia/HCA offered doctors could run afoul of a federal anti-kickback law passed in order to limit or eliminate instances of conflicts of interest in Medicare and Medicaid.

During Scott's 2000 deposition, he pleaded the Fifth Amendment 75 times.[39] In settlements reached in 2000 and 2002, Columbia/HCA pleaded guilty to 14 felonies and agreed to a $600+ million fine in what was at the time the largest health care fraud settlement in U.S. history. Columbia/HCA admitted systematically overcharging the government by claiming marketing costs as reimbursable, by striking illegal deals with home care agencies, and by filing false data about use of hospital space.

It also admitted to fraudulently billing Medicare and other health programs by inflating the seriousness of diagnoses and to giving doctors partnerships in company hospitals as a kickback for the doctors referring patients to HCA. It filed false cost reports, fraudulently billing Medicare for home health care workers, and paid kickbacks in the sale of home health agencies and to doctors to refer patients. In addition, it gave doctors "loans" never intending to be repaid, free rent, free office furniture, and free drugs from hospital pharmacies.

In late 2002, HCA agreed to pay the United States government $631 million, plus interest, and $17.5 million to state Medicaid agencies, in addition to $250 million paid up to that point to resolve outstanding Medicare expense claims.[41] In all, civil lawsuits cost HCA more than $2 billion to settle; at the time, this was the largest fraud settlement in U.S. history.

GHQ Liaison Regiment retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

GHQ Liaison Regiment (known as Phantom) was a special reconnaissance unit first formed in 1939 during the early stages of World War II. The regiment's headquarters were at The Richmond Hill Hotel in Richmond, Surrey (now in London);[1] its base (including the officers' mess and billet) was at Pembroke Lodge, a Georgian house in Richmond Park, London.

It had its origins as the No 3 British Air Mission in France in 1939. Moving with the Belgian General Staff, its role was to report back information about the Allied forward positions from Belgian GHQ to the Advanced Air Striking Force HQ so as to pinpoint the changing locations of "bomb lines". These were the battle areas not occupied by Allied troops, and therefore suitable targets for bombs and shells.

In November 1939, Lieut-Col George Frederick 'Hoppy' Hopkinson was sent as a military observer to the No 3 British Air Mission and subsequently changed the method of operations to focus upon greater use of wireless communications and mobility to provide real-time assessment from the front line. The collective codename for these missions was classified by themselves as 'Phantom', which later became an official designation.

After the Dunkirk evacuation, the unit was re-formed as No 1 GHQ Reconnaissance Unit. As such, it was intended to have a key intelligence role following any Nazi invasion of Britain. In January 1941, the Reconnaissance Corps was established and Phantom was reclassified as GHQ Liaison Regiment to avoid confusion. Phantom recruited men with various skill-sets linguists, drivers and mechanics and undertook rigorous training in wireless communication and cipher.

In January 1944, the Reconnaissance Corps was absorbed into the Royal Armoured Corps and with it the Phantom GHQ Liaison Regiment. Phantom was disbanded in 1945; however it was reborn as the Army Phantom Signals Regiment (Princess Louise's Kensington Regiment) until 1960, when it was clear that technology provided for alternative solutions.

Operation Overlord

During Operation Overlord, in June 1944, many patrols from Phantom came to Normandy on D+1. Their task was to go around day and night to find all the British, Canadian and American units they could, marking their locations on a map, and passing the information to the main HQ.

Operation Market Garden

During Operation Market Garden, in September 1944, the only communication between the surrounded airborne troops at Arnhem and headquarters was via a Phantom patrol. This included the famous, desperate, message from General Urquhart that " … unless physical contact is made with us early 25 Sept …consider it unlikely we can hold out long enough …" Two Phantom officers were subsequently awarded the Military Cross for maintaining these vital communications during the operation.

Phantom units also operated with XXX Corps and with General Browning whose HQ was next to 82nd Airborne HQ in Groesbeek.

Organisation

Phantom deployed in squadrons in North West Europe, South East Europe, North Africa and Italy. Each squadron supported an Army and consisted of a squadron HQ (SHQ) and a number of patrols (one per Corps and a further ten further forward of Corps). Each patrol consisted of an officer, an NCO and up to 9 other ranks. They were typically equipped with Norton motorcycles, Jeeps, Morris 15cwt trucks and White M3 A1 Scout cars and carried a 107 Receiver, 52 and 22 sets. The patrols either embedded with other formations or went on specially-directed missions from their individual Army HQs. The patrols' role was to provide collection, passage and dissemination of real-time information on the progress of battle back to Corps HQ.

For Operation Overlord, one patrol was assigned to each Divisional HQ of 1 and 30 Corps to land with Main Divisional HQ. Thus on D-Day, three Patrols (5, 8 & 14) landed with 3rd BR, 50th Northumbrian and 3rd Canadian Divisions.

Some patrols undertook parachute drops with the SAS to provide communications with SAS Brigade HQ. Later, with Phantom efficiency proven and with US forces under the leadership of 12 US Army Group, similar arrangements were made for Phantom to provide communications with US Corps.

John Jacob Astor VII (Jakie) was born 29 August 1918, the youngest of the four sons of Waldorf Astor, 2nd Viscount Astor and Nancy Astor, Viscountess Astor (18781964). His mother was the first woman elected to Parliament to take her seat in Parliament.[3] His siblings in include Robert Gould Shaw III (18981970), his half-brother from his mother's first marriage, William Waldorf Astor II (19071966), Nancy Phyllis Louise Astor (19091975), Francis David Langhorne Astor (19122001), and Michael Langhorne Astor (19161980). Astor was married three times. He married firstly on 23 October 1944 to Ana Inez “Chiquita” Carcano y Morra (19181992),[9] daughter of the Argentine ambassador (from 1942 to 1946[10]) and a prominent Catholic woman, which hurt his relationship with his mother.[2][11][12] His mother had abandoned the Church of Rome for Christian Science.[1] Ana’s sister, Stella Carcano y Morra, married William Ward, 4th Earl of Dudley in 1946. Before their divorce in 1972, Jakie and Ana had three children:

Founding

ONI was founded by the Secretary of the Navy, William H. Hunt with General Order 292, which read:

> An "Office of Intelligence" is hereby > established in the Bureau of Navigation for the purpose of collecting and recording such naval information as may be useful to the Department in time of war, as well as in peace.

>
> To facilitate this work, the Department Library will be combined with the "Office of Intelligence," and placed under the direction of the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation.
>
> Commanding and all other officers are directed to avail themselves of all opportunities which may arise to collect and to forward to the "Office of Intelligence" professional matters likely to serve the object in view.

9/11 Attack

Noting that the plane that hit the pentagon made a very difficult 330 degree corkscrew turn before hitting the pentagon to crash into the ONI, E. P. Heidner concludes that "the Office of Naval Intelligence in the Pentagon, which sustained a direct hit that day, was without a doubt, a target that was pinpointed for destruction".

Mark Gorton notes that the ONI was "investigating a gold price fixing/gold laundering scheme that could have implicated the Bush Syndicate. Also killed in the Pentagon on 9/11 were a large number of budget analysts and accountants who may have been looking into the $2.3 trillion of unaccounted military spending that Donald Rumsfeld announced on Sept 10th, 2001."[2] E. P. Heidner suggests that the ONI may have been targetted as a way of keeping them quiet about Project Monarch.

"Moving to Indonesia the Obama campaign are also suppressing the Indonesian immigration and passport records, which I believe show him as a Kenyan citizen, and the naturalisation records. They have not denied Internet claims he was naturalised in Indonesia. If he was a US citizen there should be a visa record to back that up."

“Obama Senior was murdered in Kenya in 1982 to silence him. Interesting story re his sister Auma as well - she appears to be a full sister, not a half-sister as he is claiming, i.e. they share the same mother. She was ordered back to Kenya in 2007 to prevent DNA testing …. CIA did a DNA test on the grandparents, using saliva from glasses, which conclusively rules out any relationship between Obama and the Dunhams.”

“The source said that the Dunham family became involved because Stanley Dunham, Sr. was suspected of espionage. Boeing, he said, has “a 1944 security file on Stanley Dunham in connection with suspected sabotage of B-17G aircraft at their Wichita Kansas plant and the theft of B-29 blueprints, a full set of which were passed to the German Abwehr via Lisbon by June 1944. Ann Dunham appears to have been chosen as the surrogate mother in 1963 because of the family connection to German Intelligence. German assets in the US, including Rezko, who is connected to the Syrian Mukhabarat and the German DVD, sponsored his career.

Well, this is a lot to take in, and on first reading it struck me that the source had been reading too many Le Carre novels or Bond movies. I mean, really: “The Manchurian Candidate” meets “The Boy from Mombassa”?

It was al-Mansour who asked Percy Sutton, a high profile black lawyer active in the civil rights movement in the 1950s and 1960s, to help Obama get into Harvard. Sutton described Mansour as “the principal adviser to one of the world’s richest men.

He told me about Obama and asked him to “write a letter in support of Obama’s application to Harvard Law School, Sutton recalled. ““And his introduction was there is a young man that has applied to Harvard.

I know that you have a few friends up there because you used to go up there to speak. Would you please write a letter in support of him?” Sutton obliged:““I wrote a letter of support of him to my friends at Harvard, saying to them I thought there was a genius that was going to be available and I certainly hoped they would treat him kindly.”

How in the world would Percy Sutton know that Obama, a young man he had never met, was a “genius”? It turns out that Sutton was among the lawyers for Malcolm X.

And why would a big wheel like al-Mansour take such an interest in a drug-taking party boy from a second-rate college? While helping Obama get into Harvard, he was representing top members of the Saudi Royal family, Saudi billionaires Abdul Aziz and Khalid al-Ibrahim, and Prince Alwaleed bin Talal, nephew if King Abdallah of Saudi Arabia. So there was, early on, a direct connection between Obama and Saudi royalty and an aggressive effort by a Saudi agent to make Obama’s way in the world.

> France24

Two lawsuits pitting Saudi Arabia's de facto ruler against a former intelligence czar threaten to expose highly sensitive US government secrets, prompting Washington to consider a rare judicial intervention, documents show.

The cases in US and Canadian courts centre on corruption allegations levelled by state-owned Saudi companies against Saad Aljabri, a former spymaster who long worked closely with American officials on covert counterterrorism operations.

That marks the latest twist in a long-running feud between Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman (MBS) and Aljabri.

in Saudi detention after being deposed as heir to the throne in a 2017 palace coup.

The legal drama sheds light on Shakespearean rivalries in the top echelons of the Saudi royal family, but Washington fears that a bitter courtroom showdown risks exposing sensitive information related to its covert operations.

A rare US Justice Department filing in a Massachusetts court in April noted Aljabri's intention to "describe information concerning alleged national security activities".

"The (US) government is considering whether and how to participate in this action, including if necessary and applicable, through an assertion of appropriate governmental privileges," the filing said, without elaborating.

In a second filing a month later, the Justice Department asked the court for more time as national security matters require "'delicate' and 'complex' judgements by senior officials”.

The Monarchies of the Middle East - Saudi Arabia
retrieved from https://courses.lumenlearning.com/boundless-worldhistory and copied or modified to here

The Middle East after the Ottoman Empire

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia was founded in 1932 by Ibn Saud. King Saud united the four regions into a single state through a series of conquests beginning in 1902 with the capture of Riyadh, the ancestral home of his family, the House of Saud.

Saudi Arabia, officially known as the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, is an Arab state in Western Asia constituting the bulk of the Arabian Peninsula. The area of modern-day Saudi Arabia formerly consisted of four distinct regions: Hejaz, Najd, and parts of Eastern Arabia (Al-Ahsa), and Southern Arabia (‘Asir). The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia was founded in 1932 by Ibn Saud. He united the four regions into a single state through a series of conquests beginning in 1902 with the capture of Riyadh, the ancestral home of his family, the House of Saud. Saudi Arabia has since been an absolute monarchy, effectively a hereditary dictatorship governed along Islamic lines. The ultraconservative Wahhabi religious movement within Sunni Islam has been called “the predominant feature of Saudi culture,” with its global spread largely financed by the oil and gas trade. Saudi Arabia is sometimes called “the Land of the Two Holy Mosques” in reference to Al-Masjid al-Haram (in Mecca) and Al-Masjid an-Nabawi (in Medina), the two holiest places in Islam.

The new kingdom was one of the poorest countries in the world, reliant on limited agriculture and pilgrimage revenues. In 1938, vast reserves of oil were discovered in the Al-Ahsa region along the coast of the Persian Gulf, and full-scale development of the oil fields began in 1941 under the U.S.-controlled Aramco (Arabian American Oil Company). Oil provided Saudi Arabia with economic prosperity and substantial political leverage internationally. Saudi Arabia has since become the world's largest oil producer and exporter, controlling the world's second largest oil reserves and the sixth largest gas reserves. The kingdom is categorized as a World Bank high-income economy with a high Human Development Index, and is the only Arab country to be part of the G-20 major economies. However, the economy of Saudi Arabia is the least diversified in the Gulf Cooperation Council, lacking any significant service or production sector (apart from the extraction of resources). The country has attracted criticism for its restrictions on women's rights and usage of capital punishment.

Key Takeaways

Key Points

- Saudi Arabia, which was unified from four regions in 1932 by its first king, Ibn Saud, was once one of the poorest nations in the world, but quickly became one of the wealthiest in the Arab world after the discovery of massive oil reserves in 1938.

- Since then, its stated foreign policy objectives are to maintain its security and its paramount position on the Arabian Peninsula, and as the world's largest exporter of oil, to maintain cooperative relations with other oil-producing and major oil-consuming countries.

- Consequently, it has enjoyed good relations with the West, especially the United States, as a strategic energy and security ally.

- Saudi Arabia is an absolute hereditary monarchy, governed by a king, and the royal family dominates the political system.

- The royal family's vast numbers allow it to control most of the kingdom's important posts and be involved and present at all levels of government.

- The ultraconservative Wahhabi religious movement within Sunni Islam has been called "the predominant feature of Saudi culture," with its global spread largely financed by the oil and gas trade.

Key Terms

- Sunni Islam: The largest denomination of Islam. Its name comes from the word Sunnah, referring to the exemplary behavior of the Islamic prophet Muhammad. The differences between this sect and Shia Muslims arose from a disagreement over the choice of Muhammad's successor and subsequently acquired broader political significance, as well as theological and juridical dimensions.

- absolute monarchy: A form of monarchy in which one ruler has supreme authority that is not restricted by any written laws, legislature, or customs. These are often, but not always, hereditary monarchies. In contrast, in constitutional monarchies, the head of state's authority derives from and is legally bounded or restricted by a constitution or legislature.

Politics: Absolute Monarchy

Saudi Arabia is an absolute monarchy. However, according to the Basic Law of Saudi Arabia adopted by royal decree in 1992, the king must comply with Sharia (Islamic law) and the Quran, while the Quran and the Sunnah (the traditions of Muhammad) are declared to be the country's constitution. No political parties or national elections are permitted. Critics regard it as a totalitarian dictatorship.

In the absence of national elections and political parties, politics in Saudi Arabia takes place in two distinct arenas: within the royal family, the Al Saud, and between the royal family and the rest of Saudi society.

Outside of the Al-Saud, participation in the political process is limited to a relatively small segment of the population and takes the form of the royal family consulting with the ulema, tribal sheikhs, and members of important commercial families on major decisions. This process is not reported by the Saudi media.

The king combines legislative, executive, and judicial functions and royal decrees form the basis of the country's legislation. The king is also the prime minister and presides over the Council of Ministers (Majlis al-Wuzarāʾ), which comprises the first and second deputy prime ministers and other ministers.

The royal family dominates the political system. The family's vast numbers allow it to control most of the kingdom's important posts and be involved and present at all levels of government. The number of princes is estimated to be at least 7,000, with most power and influence being wielded by the 200 or so male descendants of Ibn Saud. The key ministries are generally reserved for the royal family, as are the thirteen regional governorships. The royal family is politically divided by factions based on clan loyalties, personal ambitions, and ideological differences.

Abdul Aziz Ibn Saud, the first king of Saudi Arabia, ruled for 21 years. In 1953, Saud of Saudi Arabia succeeded as the king of Saudi Arabia upon his father's death, until 1964 when he was deposed in favor of his half brother Faisal of Saudi Arabia, after an intense rivalry, fueled by doubts in the royal family over Saud's competence. In 1975, Faisal was assassinated by his nephew, Prince Faisal bin Musaid, and was succeeded by his half-brother King Khalid. King Khalid died of a heart attack in June 1982. He was succeeded by his brother, King Fahd, who added the title "Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques" to his name in 1986 in response to considerable fundamentalist pressure to avoid use of "majesty" in association with anything except God.

Fahd continued to develop close relations with the United States and increased the purchase of American and British military equipment. In response to civil unrest, a number of limited “reforms” were initiated by King Fahd. In March 1992, he introduced the “Basic Law”, which emphasized the duties and responsibilities of a ruler. In December 1993, the Consultative Council was inaugurated. It is composed of a chairman and 60 members - all chosen by the King to respond to dissent while making as few actual changes in the status quo as possible.

In 2005, King Fahd died and was succeeded by Abdullah, who continued the policy of minimum reform and clamping down on protests. The king introduced a number of economic reforms aimed at reducing the country’s reliance on oil revenue: limited deregulation, encouragement of foreign investment, and privatization. In 2015, Abdullah was succeeded as king by his half-brother Salman.

Foreign Relations

Saudi Arabia is a non-aligned state whose stated foreign policy objectives are to maintain its security and paramount position on the Arabian Peninsula, and as the world’s largest exporter of oil, to maintain cooperative relations with other oil-producing and major oil-consuming countries.

Saudi Arabian stated policy is focused on cooperation with the oil-exporting Gulf States, the unity of the Arab world, Islamic strength and solidarity, and support for the United Nations. In practice, the main concerns in recent years have been relations with the United States, the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, Iraq, the perceived threat from the Islamic Republic of Iran, the effect of oil pricing, and using its oil wealth to increase the influence of Islam and especially the conservative school of Islam supported by the country's rulers.

United States recognized the government of King Ibn Saud in 1931. In the 1930s, oil exploration by Standard Oil commenced. There was no U.S. ambassador resident in Saudi Arabia until 1943, but as World War II progressed, the United States began to believe that Saudi oil was of strategic importance.

In 1951, under a mutual defense agreement, the U.S. established a permanent U.S. Military Training Mission in the kingdom and agreed to provide training support in the use of weapons and other security-related services to the Saudi armed forces. This agreement formed the basis of a longstanding security relationship. The United States is one of Saudi Arabia's largest trading partners and closest allies, with full diplomatic relations since 1933 that remain strong today. However, Saudi Arabia's relationship with the United States has been put under pressure since late 2013 after the United States backed from its intervention in the Syrian Civil War and thawed relations with Iran.

Partition of the Ottoman Empire retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The partition of the Ottoman Empire (30 October 1918 - 1 November 1922) was a geopolitical event that occurred after World War I and the occupation of Constantinople by British, French and Italian troops in November 1918. The partitioning was planned in several agreements made by the Allied Powers early in the course of World War I,[1] notably the Sykes-Picot Agreement, after the Ottoman Empire had joined the Ottoman-German Alliance.[2] The huge conglomeration of territories and peoples that formerly comprised the Ottoman Empire was divided into several new states.[3] The Ottoman Empire had been the leading Islamic state in geopolitical, cultural and ideological terms. The partitioning of the Ottoman Empire after the war led to the domination of the Middle East by Western powers such as Britain and France, and saw the creation of the modern Arab world and the Republic of Turkey.

Bahrain's monarchy stokes divisions between Sunni and Shiite retrieved from The World and copied or modified to here

GlobalPost December 13, 2012 By Reese Erlich

MANAMA, Bahrain Farida Ghulam settled down on a brocaded couch in her home in an upscale district of Manama. She's a leader of the center-left Waad party. After pouring some strong, sweet tea, Ghulam explained how sectarian differences have begun to rip apart Bahraini life.

Bahrain's population of 1.2 million is about 70 percent Shiite Muslim and 30 percent Sunni. The ruling family of King Hamad bin Isa al Khalifa is Sunni, but for many years both groups coexisted.

But that began to change in February 2011 when, inspired by the Arab Spring uprising, tens of thousands of Bahrainis poured into the streets. The opposition initially included both Shiite and Sunni, united in their calls for democratic reform. But as the conflict dragged on, sectarian differences emerged.

Ghulam said that Sunnis know the government is a corrupt monarchy. But they fear a Shiite takeover even more. The government has convinced them, she said, that the Shiites are determined to create an Iranian-style religious state.

"They forgot [the Shiites] were neighbors," she said, "and denounced them for supporting the opposition. It's like McCarthyism in the US."

Government officials deny that they stoke the fires of sectarianism.

It was this connection to Saudi wealth that has led to Obama being dubbed the "Mansourian candidate."

And, of course, there is neighbor Louis Farrakhan, current leader of the Nation of Islam, who recently spoke of Obama as the "Messiah" and - as a report from Ken Timmerman, citing an insider, today confirms - enjoys an "open channel" of communication with him.

Then there were the revelations about Weather Underground co-founder Bill Ayers and his wife Bernadette Dohrn - unrepentant terrorists and communists both - who helped launch Obama's political career from their home. Ayers, indeed, may well have ghost-written Obama's memoir Dreams from my Father, creating the impression that Obama was also skilled in writing as well as "community organizing."

Or was there some other factor - a genetic factor, a secret legacy of heredity - that mysteriously opened the doors and wallets and elicited the kindness of strangers?

If Malcolm X secretly sired Barack Obama, then the title Dreams from My Father would indeed take on a whole new meaning, with Obama Sr. revealed as a kind of paternal proxy, a stand-in for a revolutionary of a higher spiritual and political order whose identity the self-creating son could never reveal if his own ambitions, and his real father's ambitions for him, were to be realized.

I also kept up with the other people that I expected that the investigators would want to talk to, including Bill Duncan and Russell Welch, the original law enforcement team that worked on the Barry Seal case, and Jean Duffey, former prosecuting attorney in Arkansas.

[Steve] Ganis and the investigators looked in every place that I thought that they should look. They went to Mena and took statements from Chuck Black the Polk county prosecutor, and others in Arkansas.

Ganis requested information from several federal agencies that up until that time had been silent on Seal and Mena, including Customs, FBI, CIA, and IRS.

I was impressed.

It was clear that the HBC and Steve Ganis were not slouching in their efforts to get information. Ganis worked closely with Bill Duncan, the former IRS agent that has made Mena a personal crusade. I trust Bill Duncan completely, and Bill told me that Ganis was a bulldog on the hunt, that he was honest and wouldn't give up.

During the first year of the HBC's investigation, Ganis seemed to me to be pessimistic about getting anything that he considered good evidence.

He discounted much of the information that I had collected.

After the first year, in the fall of 1996, Steve said that he was close to completing his investigation. One day in late 1996, he called me to ask about a certain person from Saudi Arabia. I never heard of the guy, and I told Steve that I didn't know who it was. Ganis didn't tell me anything about the Saudi, but he was obviously excited about his new lead.

It would be four years before I would find out what he had.

After all, by this time, late 1997, the investigation had been going on for more than two years. We had been expecting the report at any time since the fall of 1996. I started to worry when Jean Duffey told me that the word on the street in Washington was that Leach was going to bury the report since the evidence uncovered was all against George Bush and not Bill Clinton.

That bit of intelligence turned out to be almost true.

Guantanamo attorney dead in apparent suicide2 May, 2013 03:37

An American lawyer representing detainees at the Guantanamo Bay prison camp has been found dead in an apparent suicide.

The body of Andy P. Hart, a 38-year-old US federal public defender, was found last week with a self-inflicted gunshot wound. According to Truthout, an investigative blog, news of the attorney's death came only this Wednesday from an investigator working on Guantanamo detainees' habeas corpus petitions. That investigator requested anonymity.

According to court documents, Hart had previously represented Kahlid Saad Mohammed, a 39-year-old Guantanamo detainee from Saudi Arabia who was transferred back to his home country in 2009 after being identified as having only "low-level" terrorist affiliation.

Perhaps most notably, Hart was assigned to defend Mohammed Rahim al-Afghani, one of 16 detainees at Guantanamo which the US government has designated as "high-value." Al-Afghani, thought to be Osama bin Laden's translator, was detained by the CIA and allegedly tortured prior to his arrival in Cuba in 2008.

Malcolm X's family reveals letter implicating FBI and NYPD in his assassination retrieved from CBS News BY MCKAY BOLDEN

FEBRUARY 22, 2021 / 7:12 AM / CBS NEWS and copied or modified to here

The three daughters of Malcolm X joined civil rights attorney Benjamin Crump on Saturday to reveal what they say is evidence that proves the NYPD and the FBI conspired to have him assassinated.

The civil rights activist and prominent figure in the Nation of Islam was killed at the Audubon Ballroom in Manhattan in February 1965.

The family members and Crump said the allegations were in a deathbed letter by a former police officer, Raymond Wood.

In the January 25, 2011 letter, Wood, who was on duty the day of Malcolm X's death, said he "participated in actions that in hindsight were deplorable and detrimental to the advancement of my own black people."

"Under the direction of my handlers, I was told to encourage leaders and members of the civil rights groups to commit felonious acts," Wood said in the letter.

Wood stated he was coerced by his NYPD supervisors to entice members of Malcolm X's security detail into committing crimes that resulted in their arrest days before the deadly shooting.

"It was my assignment to draw the two men into a felonious federal crime so that they could be arrested by the FBI and kept away from managing Malcolm X's door security on February 21, 1965," Wood wrote. "At that time, I was not aware that Malcolm X was the target."

> Note this is typical Military Intelligence "foundation work" I cite in the Andrew Breitbart murder. Gain control of the environment by removing or murdering unfriednlies, replace them with insdie job people not loyal to the people the FBI is surrounding, then attack that person who has only FBI complicit shills as witnesses to real events. Essentially moves operation into controlled Langley sound stage of faked personell next to Malcom X

Those arrests were a part of conspiracy between the NYPD and FBI to have Malcolm X killed, according to the letter.

Malcolm X was a human rights activist and prominent Black nationalist leader who served as a spokesman for the Nation of Islam, an African-American Muslim group that embraced Black separatism, during the 1950s and 1960s. A skilled orator, Malcolm X encouraged Black people to fight against racism by any means necessary.

The civil rights leader broke with the Nation of Islam shortly before his assassination at the ballroom, where he was preparing to address the Organization of Afro-American Unity. Three members of the Nation of Islam were convicted in the shooting.

The office of Manhattan District Attorney Cy Vance started reviewing the convictions last year.

Malcom X objected to the non uniqueness of Barrack Obama as an experiment in twins studies and wanted no more studies be done.

National Democratic InstituteFrom Wikipedia the free encyclopedia retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

The NDI was founded in 1983, shortly after the United States Congress created the National Endowment for Democracy (NED).[3] The NED’s creation was followed by the establishment of three related institutes: the Center for International Private Enterprise, the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs, and the National Republican Institute for International Affairs (later renamed the International Republican Institute). The Endowment serves as the umbrella organization through which these three institutes and an expanding number of private sector groups would receive funding to carry out programs abroad.[4]

NDI receives financial support from the National Endowment for Democracy,[15] the US Agency for International Development,[16] the US Department of State,[17] and the Consortium for Elections and Political Process Strengthening.[18] Furthermore, NDI receives contributions from governments, foundations, multilateral institutions, corporations, organizations, and individuals. Some of these governments and multilateral institutions include the Government of Australia,[19] Government of Denmark,[20] and Government of Belgium.[21] They are also funded by the Open Society Foundation.[22]

The NDI is non-partisan and does not operate in the United States; it takes no position on US elections, however it has a loose affiliation with the Democratic Party,[5] and is a “cooperating organization” with the Liberal International.[6]

Awards and Honors

Andi Parhamovich Fellowship: In 2007 NDI announced the establishment of the Andi Parhamovich Fellowship, named in honor of NDI staff member Andi Parhamovich, who was killed on January 17, 2007, when her convoy was attacked while returning from a political party training session in Baghdad. Each year, the fellowship brings to Washington, DC, a young woman selected from NDI local staff or partner organizations who is deeply involved in building and consolidating democracy in her own country by advancing the participation of women.[23]

Centering on the Boston Bombing

Very strong victims killed by very strong murderers. Bodybuilders?

Gym Roughians and the Waltham Murders

A triple homicide was committed in Waltham, Massachusetts, in the United States, on the evening of September 11, 2011.[1][2][3] Brendan Mess, Erik Weissman, and Raphael Teken were murdered in Mess's apartment. All had their throats slit from ear to ear with such great force that they were nearly decapitated. Thousands of dollars' worth of marijuana and money were left covering their mutilated bodies; in all, $5,000 was left in the apartment. The local district attorney said that it appeared that the killer and the victims knew each other, and that the murders were not random. -From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

Waltham is a city in Middlesex County, Massachusetts, United States, and was an early center for the labor movement as well as a major contributor to the American Industrial Revolution. The original home of the Boston Manufacturing Company, the city was a prototype for 19th century industrial city planning, spawning what became known as the Waltham-Lowell system of labor and production. The city is now a center for research and higher education, home to Brandeis University and Bentley University as well as industrial powerhouse Raytheon Technologies. The population was 65,218 at the census in 2020.

In 1648, Cambridge set up a public grammar school, Master Elijah Corlett's "lattin schoole," making

Cambridge the fifth town (after Boston, Charlestown, Dorchester, and Salem) in the Massachusetts Bay Colony to do so. Corlett's schoolhouse came into the possession of Old Cambridge in 1660, and over the next century was succeeded by several new buildings. The public school that evolved from Cortlett's original was a "grammar school" in a double sense: an English grammar school for Old Cambridge and a Latin grammar school (teaching the rudiments of Latin and Greek) for all Cambridge.[6] The school generally aimed to prepare students for admission to college:

> "And by the side of the colledge a faire GRAMMAR Schoole, for the training up of young Schollars, and fitting of them for ACADEMICALL LEARNING, that still as they are judged ripe, they may be received into the colledge of this Schoole. Master CORLETT is the Mr., who hath very well approved himselfe for his abilities, dexterity and painfulness in teaching and education of the youth under him."[7]

Mess had been described by Tamerlan Tsarnaev as his best friend.[10][13] Mess, Weissman, and both Tsarnaev brothers had attended Cambridge Rindge and Latin School at various times.[10] Mess received a bachelor's degree in professional writing from Champlain College in 2008.[14]

The three men, who were described as being physically strong, were dragged to or killed in three different rooms.[15] Mess was a well-known mixed martial arts fighter, and is listed as a martial arts instructor on his death certificate. Teken is listed as a personal trainer on his death certificate.[2] Weissman was a bodybuilder.

In 1857, the Waltham Model 1857 watch was produced by the American Watch Company in the city of Waltham, Massachusetts. In the late 19th and early 20th century, Waltham was home to the brass era automobile manufacturer Metz, where the first production motorcycle in the U.S. was built.

Another first in Waltham industrial history involves the method to mass-produce the magnetron tube, invented by Percy Spencer at Raytheon. During World War II, the magnetron tube technology was applied to radar. Later, magnetron tubes were used as components in microwave ovens.

Waltham was also the home of the Walter E. Fernald State School, the western hemisphere's oldest publicly funded institution serving people with developmental disabilities. The storied and controversial history of the institution has long been covered by local and, at times, national media.

The Walter E. Fernald State School, later the Walter E. Fernald Developmental Center, was the Western hemisphere's oldest publicly funded institution serving people with developmental disabilities.[2][3] Originally a Victorian sanatorium, it became a "poster child" for the American eugenics movement during the 1920s. It later was the scene of medical experiments in the 20th century. Investigations into this research led to new regulations regarding human research in children.

The school occupies a 186 acres (75 ha) property off Trapelo Road in Waltham, Massachusetts.

> On May 22, 2013, a third person of interest in the[Waltham] murders, Ibragim Todashev, was fatally shot by an FBI agent in a Florida apartment while being interviewed in connection with the Boston marathon bombings and the Waltham homicides. Todashev, a 27-year-old Chechen native and former mixed martial arts

During the interview, Todashev began writing a formal statement implicating both himself and Tsarnaev in the Waltham murders, but before signing the confession, he violently attacked an FBI agent who fired in self-defense, killing him. *

What made Todashev's shooting national news in May was what he reportedly told interrogators before he was shot. On the day of the shooting the FBI made a terse statement that Todashev initiated a "violent confrontation." But the FBI has not yet issued a report on whether the use of deadly force was justified. And though FBI Director James Comey told reporters on Jan. 9 that he was "eager" to see the report released, the bureau has shown no sense of urgency to release any details of what happened, despite widely conflicting news accounts of the shooting, based on anonymous federal sources, and accusations by Todashev's family that he was murdered. the FBI even ordered the Florida state medical examiner to seal the autopsy report, which was ready for release in July.

When groups band together to control the supply of a product for their best interests, that's called a cartel. If you and the other kids running lemonade stands form a cartel, you can force up the price of lemonade.

The word cartel originally referred to political parties that joined forces to promote a common cause. Over the years, cartel took on a decidedly negative connotation, and now it's more likely to describe organizations that join together to limit supply of a product to force prices to remain high. You might read about an international drug cartel or a cartel of natural gas producers. To correctly pronounce the word cartel, put the accent on the second syllable: "car TEL."

1. noun. a consortium of independent organizations formed to limit competition by controlling the production and distribution (or rights or market opportunities) of a product or service

synonyms: combine, corporate trust, trust

Mercenaries Functioning via Illegal Acts in Charity Front Groups

In practice, whether or not a person is a mercenary may be a matter of degree, as financial and political interests may overlap, as was often the case in all of history. - Wikipedia

This book asserts religious and charitable practices have exceeded lawfull conduct and now use Mercenary acts of illegality and criminally founded racketeering to further charity group goals.

Weaponization of allegations against others via fraud as Lawfare dirty war or character or other conspiracy systems through charity groups are dirty war opportunities when combined with State retaliation for falsified pretexts asserted by charities against others.

Subversion

Subversion (from the Latin word subvertere, ‘overthrow’) refers to a process by which the values and principles of a system in place are contradicted or reversed in an attempt to transform the established social order and its structures of power, authority, hierarchy, and social norms. Subversion can be described as an attack on the public morale and, “the will to resist intervention are the products of combined political and social or class loyalties which are usually attached to national symbols.

- Bribery : Bribery is one of the most common tools of subversion. Most societies see bribery as a form of corruption, and it used as a subversive tool because it "implies the undermining of existing rules of political or moral conduct." It can also be one of the less reliable tools as well. Bribed officials are only useful if they take action. However, actions taken over a period of time draw suspicion from the public.

  This book suggest people were told if they join a Cartel supporting fake allegations about Ed Donegan they will benefit from it. The false legend about Ed Donegan will include that he owes others for alleged harms done to others.

- Money Laundering makes : the Racket of fabricated false claims against Ed Donegan will be a group decided upon divided up Cartel benefit for the Cartel as it operates to erode and destroy Ed Donegan by allegations against me the Cartel pushes in public ways

Infiltration and establishing front groups

In order for a group to be successful in subverting a government, the group itself and its ideas must be seen as an acceptable alternative to the status quo. However, groups that work toward subverting a government, in many cases, follow ideas and promote goals that on their surface would not receive the support of the population

Therefore, "to gain public credibility, attract new supporters, generate revenue, and acquire other resources, groups need to undertake political activities that are entirely separate, or appear separate, from the overtly violent activities of those groups.

Sometimes this is achieved by infiltrating political parties, labor unions, community groups, and charitable organizations."

Offensive terror

Offensive terror can be defined as the killing of people, destruction of property, kidnapping, etc. It is usually a minor part of subversion and "is used not to exert force in the transfer of state power, but is meant to cower the people or ruler."

A Sexual Attack Cartel of sapping in criminal racket activities the value of Ed Donegan life and biological assets by RICO activity organized participants into a Cartel of lethally destructive allegations against me funded and supported by enemies of me.

Building via confrontational contradictory statements Record or Legend created of Espionage vest.

When Espionage agents are in trouble they have a vest they create, a cover story. They invest in its structure by statements they make, records they produce, events they control often under-cover causing outcomes of a victim to be negative when a good outcome for the victim should occur ranging from a started rumor causing a potential date to turn down a defamed Espionage victim on a Friday night all the way to a healthy patient in a hospital for a routine checking being exposed to lethal radiation by a CIA influence X-Ray tech.

Cartel Attacks in Offensive Terror

- Argumentative statements to a victim: Argumentative statements to a Stalk victim raise an ambiguity which should not exist and even be hostile and offensive to the Stalk victim, but the under cover planted ambiguity builds the Legend, creates the Record of events (in an incremental way) Espionage needs for public perception their Legend) their Cover Story, is true although it is false.

- Manipulate Response from Stalk Victims as Perceived Stimuli : Police harassment of a pro police Stalk Victim will cause a Stalk Victim to flip off a police officer or shout police slurs that appear to indicate the Stalk Victim is signaling that he or she is anti-police

- Falsified Records : Bills or receipts for unused unwanted services, thank yous offered verbally to a Stalk Victim contribute to public perception the Stalk Victim has agreed to something when in fact the Stalk Victim has NOT but forgeries by Espionage elsewhere may reinforce the legend a Stalk Victim has agreed to something.

- Black Bag Jobs: Use of Landlord or Business co-operation with sham investigations may allow for access into a Stalk Victims home or places of business transactions for fake transaction records, forgeries, planted damning evidence or removed exculpatory evidence from an Espionage victims home or surroundings.

- Paid Actors : Acting as members of the public but under cover assets paid actors can create appearances altering the context of events or misrepresnting what occurred at various locations as though neutral witness

- Tricked Photos or asks for cooperation or access Claiming to be on some mission that is actually a sham police may ask a woman to submit to a strip search, pose for photos, etc., See the movie Compliance for an example. Compromising photos may later defame the person who cooperated with police and the photos that are uncharacteristic perceived as real.

- Money Laundering and Forgery. A Mimic and a Real Identity may be confused with each other by skilled Racketeers and Money Launders hiding faked identities using anthers assets OR when caught pretending to be someone else moving blame away from themselves to someone they pretend to be

- Stolen Valor. A Mimic may hope to be thought of as a war hero, etc., police, etc., by wearing insignia.

- Entail: A Stalk Victim engaged in a behavior, say exploitation of another and is entailed with the behavior

- Entrap : A Stalk Victim is Entrapped in a conduct or behavior; for instance, told as a business oportunity many tens of thousands of dollars paid for any child porn picture created if the stalk victim acts right away before the chance goes away

- Entangle : Other's behavior or conduct is in the vicinity of the Stalk Victim and a Mimic's behavior or deceitful appearances will entangle the Stalk Victim with conduct or appearances contrary to any actual truthfulness regarding the Stalk Victim's actual activities.

  Not performing a maintenance request such as broken toilet chain or removal of the ceiling fan at my apartment while laying plastr mix bags at another apartment or arriving at the bathroom of other apartments can entangle my service request with events and activities at other apartments where in truth I am not linked to those other locations. False A does not equal B + C B was the different apartment the service call was complete at, not my apartment.

ABUSE OF PROCESS

Abuse of Process takes ordinary acts in law enforcement, finances, or other periodic regularized activities including carrying out regulations or law in accordance with policies and acts on improper facts. Like and in some cases being Criminal Harassment Under Color Law a process is carried out but it is unfair because the matter has been wrongly decided not by accident by scheme of fraud.

- Wrongful evictions from housing or wrongful arrest and detentions.
- Wrongful findings by forensic experts on facts that should have been omitted, explained, or had been faked or altered or staged
- People free to make arbitrary choices in matter such as who to hire in a business or date on weekend evenings misled into misinformed choices
- Surveillance not allowed applied to a peson then that person under surveillience the subject of what is in reality political espionage not allowed for surveillance warrants
- Accountin fraud in racketeering, money laundering, and other financial crimes.

In short as my father explained in computers Garbage In Garbage Out. If you put Garbage data in you get Garbage data out, no matter how big and powerful a computer is.

- Office Mobbers : Shills placed in or found in office spaces or other societal locations wherein rumor mongering occurs and to keep the rumors from challenge are done at the water coolor when the subject of the rumor is not near the water cooler.

- Kingpin : Usually someone high in Government Espionage who needs a person in society harassed and sabotaged, not taken seriously, left without following or allies, without credibility

BULLY (AGENT PROVOCATEUR, FLYING MONKEY)

A bully using Braggadocio will act as if he or she is buoyed by good facts and perhaps coyly imply facts COULD be offered but fearfully will not offer facts and know for themselves they are engaging in fraud they hope to avoid being called out on factually. - A Picador enters the arena on horseback armed with a vara (lance). the picador stabs just behind the morrillo, a mound of muscle on the fighting bull's neck, weakening the neck muscles and leading to the animal's first loss of blood. As a result of the injury and also the fatigue of striving to injure the armoured heavy horse, the bull holds its head and horns slightly lower during the following stages of the fight.

- A coworker or store employee or other will verbally or otherwise assault someone often asserting the disinformation, pushing it, pushing the legend artfully hoping to get avoid a detailed fight but coyly inflating a vauge and even character assulting cloud of suspicion

- A Landlord, Police Officer, Sherrif, or other may act on a fragment of information in your presence such as holding you in detention or evicting you without cause and assert somewhre else behind your back the information is correct and complete with you not knowing it though.

Psychological warfare and Pscychiatric Shock Troops
retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Psychological warfare (PSYWAR), or the basic aspects of modern psychological operations (PsyOp), have been known by many other names or terms, including Military Information Support Operations (MISO), Psy Ops, political warfare, “Hearts and Minds”, and propaganda.[1] The term is used “to denote any action which is practiced mainly by psychological methods with the aim of evoking a planned psychological reaction in other people”.

Various techniques are used, and are aimed at influencing a target audience’s value system, belief system, emotions, motives, reasoning, or behavior. It is used to induce confessions or reinforce attitudes and behaviors favorable to the originator’s objectives, and are sometimes combined with black operations or false flag tactics. It is also used to destroy the morale of enemies through tactics that aim to depress troops’ psychological states.

Target audiences can be governments, organizations, groups, and individuals (political opponents or victims of dictators or victims of powerful figures of state), and is not just limited to soldiers. Civilians of foreign territories can also be targeted by technology and media so as to cause an effect in the government of their country.

In Propaganda: The Formation of Men’s Attitudes, Jacques Ellul discusses psychological warfare as a common peace policy practice between nations as a form of indirect aggression. This type of propaganda drains the public opinion of an opposing regime by stripping away its power on public opinion. This form of aggression is hard to defend against because no international court of justice is capable of protecting against psychological aggression since it cannot be legally adjudicated.

> "Here the propagandists is [sic] dealing with a foreign adversary whose morale he seeks to destroy by psychological means so that the opponent begins to doubt the validity of his beliefs and actions."

There is evidence of psychological warfare throughout written history. In modern times, psychological warfare efforts have been used extensively. Mass communication allows for direct communication with an enemy populace, and therefore has been used in many efforts. In recent times, social media channels and the internet allow for campaigns of disinformation and misinformation performed by agents anywhere in the world.

Brinkmanship is pushing a situation to the point of disaster without quite going over the edge. Brinkmanship is mainly a political policy.

When you're on the brink of something, you're right on the edge. In politics, brinkmanship is an approach in which a country pushes a situation extremely close to a dangerous point. Many considered the Cold War between the U.S. and Russia an example of brinkmanship; the accumulation of so many deadly weapons could have led to disaster. Brinkmanship is a gamble: by coming close to a dangerous outcome, you hope to get an agreement or concession you wouldn't otherwise get.

1. n. the policy of pushing a dangerous situation to the brink of disaster (to the limits of safety) type of: foreign policy a policy governing international relations

Brinkmanship (or brinksmanship) is the practice of trying to achieve an advantageous outcome by pushing dangerous events to the brink of active conflict. The tactic occurs in international politics, foreign policy, labor relations, contemporary military strategy (by involving the threat of nuclear weapons), and high-stakes litigation. The maneuver of pushing a situation with the opponent to the brink succeeds by forcing the opponent to back down and make concessions. That might be achieved through diplomatic maneuvers, by creating the impression that one is willing to use extreme methods rather than concede.

In the spectrum of the Cold War, the concept of brinkmanship involved the West and the Soviet Union using tactics of fear and intimidation as strategies to make the opposing side back down. Each faction pushed dangerous situations to the brink, with the intention of making the other back down in matters of international politics and foreign policy and obtaining concessions.

The term is chiefly associated with US Secretary of State John Foster Dulles from 1953 to 1956, during the Eisenhower administration. Dulles sought to deter aggression by the Soviet Union by warning that the cost might be massive retaliation against Soviet targets.

Thomas Schelling defined brinkmanship as "manipulating the shared risk of war."[6] The essence of such a crisis is that it leads neither side to be in full control of events, which creates a serious risk of miscalculation and escalation.[the Russians would later argue against Strategic Defense Initiative that if the US no longer feared war the shared risk of war was no longer a deterent to war]

skirmish

A skirmish is a small fight - more a dust-up than a full-out battle - and it can refer to a physical fight or just a battle of words. It is definitely confrontational, though.

Think of a skirmish as kind of a mini-battle, although a military skirmish can end with casualties. Still, although such an encounter can be serious, even the very word skirmish sounds slight, like a stirring of dust in the breeze. Shakespeare referred to the combative nature of his characters Beatrice and Benedick, in "Much Ado About Nothing," as "a kind of merry war betwixt Signior Benedick and her: they never meet but there's a skirmish of wit between them."

1. n. a minor short-term fight synonyms: brush, clash, encounter

2. v. engage in a skirmish

Line of battle

In naval warfare, the line of battle is a tactic in which a naval fleet of ships forms a line end to end.

Compared with prior naval tactics, in which two opposing ships closed on one another for individual combat, the line of battle has the advantage that each ship in the line can fire its broadside without fear of hitting a friendly ship. Therefore, in a given period, the fleet can fire more shots.

Another advantage is that a relative movement of the line in relation to some part of the enemy fleet allows for a systematic concentration of fire on that part. The other fleet can avoid this by maneuvering in a line itself, with a result typical for sea battle since 1675: two fleets sail alongside one another or on the opposite tack.

A ship powerful enough to stand in the line of battle came to be called a ship of the line (of battle) or line of battle ship, which was shortened to become the word battleship.

Indemnity

In contract law, indemnity is a contractual obligation of one party (indemnifier) to compensate the loss incurred to the other party (indemnity holder) due to the acts of the indemnitor or any other party. The duty to indemnify is usually, but not always, coextensive with the contractual duty to “hold harmless” or “save harmless”. In contrast, a “guarantee” is an obligation of one party assuring the other party that guarantor will perform the promise of the third party if it defaults.

Indemnities form the basis of many insurance contracts; for example, a car owner may purchase different kinds of insurance as an indemnity for various kinds of loss arising from operation of the car, such as damage to the car itself, or medical expenses following an accident. In an agency context, a principal may be obligated to indemnify their agent for liabilities incurred while carrying out responsibilities under the relationship. While the events giving rise to an indemnity may be specified by contract, the actions that must be taken to compensate the injured party are largely unpredictable, and the maximum compensation is often expressly limited.

Social Services and others have made a large scale bilking of Donegan assets by asserting via fraud I am an indemnator, a harmer of others, and thus owe others and the trust fund or other assets seizures systems pay the indemnities from RICO operations claiming I need them to manage my own assets including assets left just for me by a private trust fund.

CIA officials under Trump discussed assassinating Julian Assange - report retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

Senior CIA officials during the Trump administration discussed abducting and even assassinating WikiLeaks founder, Julian Assange, according to a US report citing former officials.

The discussions on kidnapping or killing Assange took place in 2017, Yahoo News reported, when the fugitive Australian activist was entering his fifth year sheltering in the Ecuadorian embassy. The then CIA director, Mike Pompeo, and his top officials were furious about WikiLeaks' publication of "Vault 7", a set of CIA hacking tools, a breach which the agency deemed to be the biggest data loss in its history.

Pompeo and the CIA leadership "were completely detached from reality because they were so embarrassed about Vault 7", Yahoo cites a former Trump national security official as saying. "They were seeing blood."

Some senior officials inside the CIA and the Trump administration went as far as to request "sketches" or "options" for killing Assange. "There seemed to be no boundaries," a former senior counterterrorist official was quoted as saying.

Mike Pompeo and officials requested 'options' for killing Assange following WikiLeaks' publication of CIA hacking tools, report says

The CIA declined to comment.

Every time my mother would leve the house she would come back shaking from having been in a fight and I often blamed her for that.

Now the same thing happens to me and I realize they are connected.

Constant assaults upon me at street level began in the mid 1990s which were bizzare and upprovoked and at times, some times, I thought maybe that stalking was the resutl of too much meth and paranoia.

When my father came out to visit me in San Francisco he watched the stalk to and noted to me he was seeing it too, though he did not make too much of it but he did see it too.

In fact unprovoked fights started by blacks have surrouneded my life since the 1990s and I grew to resent that hostility towards whites, leading to my Race Realism Social Science Model that hostility towards whites was unprovoked and people like me, ordinary whites, as I am, had not harmed blacks.

Thus non-whites should accept they are responsible for their outcomes and quite blaming whites.

This ultimately led to my arrest by the National Institute of Health.

Ramblings of a So-Called Paranoid Schizophrenic

In this follow-up to his ground-breaking memoir "Extrajudicial Execution," Michael Lutterschmidt-who was targeted for surveillance, intimidation, torture and death-presents a series of reflections and theories on subjects ranging from the frightening to the bizarre. Labelled a paranoid-schizophrenic by professionals attempting to discredit his knowledge of government secrets, the author's perceptive mind weighs in on the abuses and vagaries of religion; the manipulation of society by unseen forces; the presence of magic in our world; exotic new technologies used to spy on citizens and influence minds; explanations for aliens and other paranormal entities; criminal conspiracies in major organizations; and a host of other issues. These must-read "rambles" will both startle and illuminate anyone with an open mind.

Extrajudicial Execution

In his own words, a Targeted Individual (TI) exposes his tormented life and the heartless, sadistic and invasive methods used covertly to undermine his credibility, cause illness and excruciating pain, ruin him financially, tear apart his family, drive him mad and lead him to consider suicide. This dramatic and cautionary tale may seem extreme and far-fetched, but thousands of other Targeted Individuals throughout the world are suffering in silence right now. In this candid account, the author describes the psychological, emotional, mental and physical torture that he has endured for over six years, hoping that he will survive long enough to see this book in print.

Mountain Prophecies

Now, be advised, Oh Satan, that straightaway I shall begin to undermine your military foundation among the human armies! Before your very eyes, I shall break up NATO! I shall split it asunder; for this is now your price for the continued assault of My loved one, this prophetess, Linda Newkirk! And, on the heels of the break-up of NATO, shall come great cracks in the United Nations, to such a degree that you, yourself, will also see that it is falling apart!

But, this is only part of the price that you will continue to pay for your continued torture and persecution of My loved one, of my prophetess, Linda Newkirk. I shall, as of this day, begin to siphon off your personal power, your spirit power; and even some of your fallen angel generals will have more spirit power than you! And, seeing that you are weak, they shall compete for your position, in order to throw you out and to assume your leadership role.

Within a few short days of this message, I will cause this to be so, wherein three of your generals shall rise to overtake your power base! And, you, Oh Satan, shall struggle to maintain your power base! For every time hereafter that you touch this one, or torture her, or implant her with wires, or rods, or anything else and have your subordinates to do so, I shall siphon off more and more of your power until you are in the sick bed! Then, others will see and others will know that you are no longer fit to rule and there will be an all-out war for your position of power.

Be warned; for what my prophetess pens is so and all is at hand for you, Oh Satan; for you have chosen to torture and persecute this one, my loved one, knowing in advance that you stood to lose all! And, so it goes, even now, Satan, as this has been your choice and it has been the choice of my loved one to go under your feet in order to defeat you!

I am Yahweh, yea Jehovah, Most High and these words are so, Satan, so be warned!

SHOWDOWN OVER ARKANSAS

My Dear Ones, I can tell you for sure, that as of this day, Satan has only speeded up his attempts to take my life any way he can! What I am about to write, you will find somewhat comical and some of it may seem totally strange and absolutely bizarre, but remember that I am dealing with powers of great darkness, with the kingdom of Satan, with his fallen angels and with the Fourth Kingdom of the Book of Daniel.

The Fourth Kingdom!

Remember our Father's warnings about this Kingdom, (Daniel Ch12) that there have never been times such as these (so bad), not ever in the history of the whole earth; and there will never be such times again. This is the Kingdom of Clay and Iron, the clay being the humans and the iron being Satan and his fallen angels. We are told in the Book of Daniel, my Dear Ones, that these seed do not mix, that of the humans and the fallen angels. Nevertheless, this is the Fourth Kingdom of Daniel and the fallen angels and humans are all working side by side and all taking orders from Satan! But, they are destined to fail and fail they do in all of their attempts to kill me, and/ or to stop our Father's works, which He has for me to do! Blessed is His Holy Name! For, mighty is our God Yahweh!

The Power of Yahweh will sustain you! So, if you strain to follow what I am telling you and if you fail to grasp what I am saying, I can assure you that in due season, and soon, if you are left on this earth, you will see and you will understand.

I hope that during such times, if you are indeed here, that you remember what I have written in these books, and that you will remember WHO sustained me during such horrendous years at the feet of Satan and his evil Kingdom.

Satan's great attempts to stop the works of Revelation 12!

In the past I have written about the terrible technology, which those in the military of the USA, who work in conjunction with Satan and the fallen angels, even the Annunaki gods of old, have used against me. For a fact, my Dear Ones, since Satan and those in this government were given this terrible technology almost two years ago, they have perfected the use of it on me! And, they have done so in their efforts to stop the work of Revelation 12 and the growth of the manchild spirit, who is within me!

In other words, their great assaults against me have also been their attempts to stop these works of our Saviour and to keep the Bride from ever leaving the Earth, and from receiving what our Saviour has for them, which is the heritage of the manchild spirit, or the spiritual DNA or our Saviour. For, this is how the Bride will "marry" our Saviour! They will get His spiritual DNA, and they will become as HE is! Yet, they will also be beneath him and as such will carry the amount of power, which their spiritual cups are able to hold. So, in this way, there is a spiritual hierarchy in the Kingdom of our Saviour.

Satan and his fallen angel hoards and their counterparts in the US military and even in other militaries around the world, have worked night and day for many months to try and steal the manchild spirit! I have written about these things; and in the months, which have passed since our Saviour gave the manchild spirit to me, they have not stopped in their wicked assaults against me, but have only escalated. Therefore, our Saviour has grown the manchild in size and power, all in order that he may both defend himself and me through the power, which our Saviour puts into him! Therefore, he now exists several feet outside and above my body, but he also has much fire in him; and this fire is greatly needed to dissolve the great amount of foreign substances, which these evil ones forge into my body, both night and day!

JFK regrets wade into Bay of Pigs and other puppets being placed around the world

JFK's Irish roots

Irish Central.com *

It seems a jarring contrast to read such an admission about a man who wore his Irish roots proudly. Kennedy's family traces their roots back to Dunganstown in County Wexford. Patrick Kennedy, JFK's great-grandfather left Ireland during the Great Hunger in 1848. [That was the same hunger that brought the Donegan family to Boston, both as priests it seems per the records]

Kennedy's 20th-century hero is said to have been Winston Churchill, even though his own father, diplomat Joseph Kennedy, and the English hero did not see eye to eye. Kennedy took a great lesson from the failure of the 1930s appeasement policy with Hitler, one that informed the President's foreign policy perspective for the rest of his life.

JFK's life with the English

JFK also briefly attended the London School of Economics in 1935, where he became enamored of the English way of life. There he experienced lively political discussions and eccentric characters. He visited country houses, attended parties, with champagne, gossip, free-spirits and English women.

One of England's richest and most influential aristocratic families, the Cavendish's, became one of his favorites. Kennedy's sister, Kathleen, eventually married into the family. In fact, Andrew Cavendish and his wife Deborah Mitford were guests at JFK's January 1961 inauguration.

Probably one of Kennedy's closest friendships was with David Ormsby-Gore, who he met in 1938. Vice-President Lyndon Johnson referred to Ormsby-Gore as "the limey."

Sandford describes his meeting with Ormsby-Gore taking place "in the midst of an academically glittering if debauched, undergraduate career at Oxford." The pair were friends right up until Kennedy's death in 1963.

His love for things English did not mean that John F. Kennedy rejected his Irish heritage. To him, there was no conflict.

JFK coming home to Ireland

He was clearly passionate and affected by his Irish roots. Sandford refers to the President's 1947 trip to Ireland when he stayed at the Cavendish's Lismore Castle. His visit was to allow him to track down his relatives in Dunganstown, Wexford. When he found the farmhouse, so the story goes, he held his hand out and introduced himself as "your cousin John from Massachusetts."

William Cavendish, 1st Duke of Newcastle upon Tyne, KG, KB, PC (c. 16 December 1593 - 25 December 1676) was an English courtier and supporter of the arts. He was a renowned horse breeder, as well as being patron of the playwright Ben Jonson, and the intellectual group known as the Welbeck Circle.

William John Robert Cavendish, Marquess of Hartington (10 December 1917 - 9 September 1944) was a British politician and British Army officer.

He received a commission as an officer into the British Army's Coldstream Guards regiment during the Second World War. In August 1944, during the liberation of Europe in the West from Nazi Germany, Hartington's unit, the 5th Battalion Coldstream Guards, as a part of the Guards Armoured Division, was engaged in heavy fighting in France.

He married American socialite Kathleen Kennedy on May 6th 1944 at the Register Office in Chelsea Town Hall on King's Road in London. She was the daughter of former U.S. Ambassador to the United Kingdom Joseph Kennedy Sr, and the sister of John, Robert, and Ted Kennedy. The Duke of Devonshire and the bride's eldest brother Joseph P. Kennedy Jr, then a lieutenant in the United States Navy, signed the marriage register, and the Duke of Rutland served as best man. Her mother, Rose Fitzpatrick wife of Josesph Kennedy Sr, disapproved of the union because the Kennedy family were Roman Catholic and the Dukes of Devonshire were Anglican, and neither would be married in the other's faith.

On September 9th 1944 three months after marriage Hartington was shot dead at the age of 26 by a sniper whilst leading a company trying to capture the town of Heppen in Belgium from troops of the German Waffen-SS.

April 22, 1961 JFK and former President Dwight Eisenhower meet at Camp David (named after Eisenhower's grandson). Ike is privately sharply critical of the handling of the military operation known as the Bay of Pigs incident.

Dwight David "Ike" Eisenhower (October 14, 1890 - March 28, 1969) was an American military officer and statesman who served as the 34th president of the United States from 1953 to 1961. During World War II, he served as Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Force in Europe, and achieved the rare five-star rank of General of the Army.

In 1952, Eisenhower entered the presidential race as a Republican to block the isolationist foreign policies of Senator Robert A. Taft; Taft opposed NATO and wanted no foreign entanglements. Eisenhower won that election and the 1956 election in landslides, both times defeating Adlai Stevenson II. Eisenhower's main goals in office were to contain the spread of communism and reduce federal deficits. In 1953, he considered using nuclear weapons to end the Korean War, and may have threatened China with nuclear attack if an armistice was not reached quickly.

Infiltrator to Communist Party to talk Ideology and what new Communist Recruits are thinking?

In a 1944 Pathé News newsreel titled "Fund Raising for Roosevelt", Ball was featured prominently among several stage and film stars at events in support of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's fundraising campaign for the March of Dimes.[73] She stated that in the 1952 United States presidential election, she voted for Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

On September 4, 1953, Ball met voluntarily with HUAC investigator William A. Wheeler in Hollywood and gave him sealed testimony. She stated that she had registered to vote as a Communist "or intended to vote the Communist Party ticket" in 1936 at her socialist grandfather's insistence.[74] She stated she "at no time intended to vote as a Communist". Her testimony was forwarded to J. Edgar Hoover in an FBI memorandum

J. Edgar Hoover did not place her on the Security Index nor was she black-listed in Hollywood.

When Ball registered to vote in 1936, she listed her party affiliation as Communist, as did her brother and mother.

To sponsor the Communist Party's 1936 candidate for the California State Assembly's 57th District, Ball signed a certificate stating, "I am registered as affiliated with the Communist Party."

The same year, the Communist Party of California appointed her to the state's Central Committee, according to records of the Secretary of State of California. In 1937, Hollywood writer Rena Vale, a self-identified Communist, attended a class at an address identified to her as Ball's home according to her testimony given before the United States House of Representatives' Special House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC), on July 22, 1940.[71] Two years later, Vale affirmed this testimony in a sworn deposition:

> ... within a few days after my third application to join the Communist Party was made, I received a notice to attend a meeting on North Ogden Drive, Hollywood; although it was a typed, unsigned note, merely requesting my presence at the address at 8 o'clock in the evening on a given day, I knew it was the long-awaited notice to attend Communist Party new members' classes ... on arrival at this address I found several others present; an elderly man informed us that we were the guests of the screen actress, Lucille Ball, and showed us various pictures, books, and other objects to establish that fact, and stated she was glad to loan her home for a Communist Party new members' class; ...

Desilu Productions 1950 to 1968

Desilu Productions (/ˈdɛsiluː/) was an American television production company founded and co-owned by husband and wife Desi Arnaz and Lucille Ball. The company is best known for shows such as I Love Lucy, The Lucy Show, The Untouchables, Mission: Impossible and Star Trek. Until 1962, Desilu was the second-largest independent television production company in the United States, behind MCA's Revue Studios, until MCA bought Universal Pictures and Desilu became and remained the number-one independent production company, until being sold in 1968.

Ball and Arnaz jointly owned the majority stake in Desilu from its inception until 1962, when Ball bought out Arnaz and ran the company by herself for several years. Ball had succeeded in making Desilu profitable again by 1968, when she sold her shares of Desilu to Gulf+Western for $17 million (a valued $132 million in 2020).

I Love Lucy is an American television sitcom that originally aired on CBS from October 15, 1951, to May 6, 1957, with a total of 180 half-hour episodes, spanning six seasons. The show starred Lucille Ball, her husband, Desi Arnaz, along with Vivian Vance and William Frawley. The series followed the life of USA born Lucy Ricardo (Ball), a young, middle-class housewife living in New York City, who often concocted plans with her best friends, Ethel and Fred Mertz (Vance and Frawley), to appear alongside her bandleader husband, Cuban refugee Ricky Ricardo (Arnaz), in his nightclub.

Born in Jamestown, New York, Lucille Désirée Ball was the daughter of Henry Durrell "Had" Ball (1887-1915), a lineman for Bell Telephone, and Désirée Evelyn "DeDe" Ball (née Hunt; 1892-1977). Her family belonged to the Baptist church. Her ancestors were mostly English, but a few were Scottish, French, and Irish. Some were among the earliest settlers in the Thirteen Colonies, including Elder John Crandall of Westerly, Rhode Island, and Edmund Rice, an early emigrant from England to the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Her father's Bell Telephone career frequently transferred him and his family to new locations during Lucy's childhood. The family moved from 69 Stewart Avenue in Jamestown, where Lucy was born, to Anaconda, Montana; later, to Trenton, New Jersey.[18] In February 1915, while living in Wyandotte, Michigan, Lucy's father died of typhoid fever at age 27, when Ball was only three.[19][20] At the time of Henry's death, DeDe Ball was pregnant with her second child, Fred Henry Ball (1915-2007). Ball recalled little from the day her father died, except a bird getting trapped in the house, which caused her lifelong ornithophobia.

When Ball was 12 (1923), her stepfather encouraged her to audition for his Shriner's organization that was in need of entertainers for the chorus line of their next show.[24] While Ball was onstage, she realized performing was a great way to gain praise, and her appetite for recognition was awakened.[25] During this time in 1927, her family was forced to relocate into a small apartment in Jamestown after they suffered a misfortune when their house and furnishings were sold to settle a financial legal judgment. A neighborhood boy was accidentally shot and paralyzed by someone target shooting in their yard under the supervision of Ball's grandfather.

Ball produced[10] and starred in the Broadway musical Wildcat from 1960 to 1961. In 1962, Ball became the first woman to run a major television studio, Desilu Productions, which produced many popular television series, including Mission: Impossible and Star Trek.

In 1940, Ball met Cuban-born bandleader Desi Arnaz while filming the Rodgers and Hart stage hit Too Many Girls. When they met again on the second day, the two connected immediately and eloped the same year. Although Arnaz was drafted into the Army in 1942, he ended up being classified for limited service due to a knee injury.[74] As a result, Arnaz stayed in Los Angeles, organizing and performing USO shows for wounded GIs being brought back from the Pacific.

Ball filed for divorce in 1944, obtaining an interlocutory decree; however, Arnaz and she reconciled, which precluded the entry of a final decree.

Ball stated she has never been a member of the Communist Party "to her knowledge" … [She] did not know whether or not any meetings were ever held at her home at 1344 North Ogden Drive; stated … [that if she had been appointed] as a delegate to the State Central Committee of the Communist Party of California in 1936 it was done without her knowledge or consent; [and stated that she] did not recall signing the document sponsoring EMIL FREED for the Communist Party nomination to the office of member of the assembly for the 57th District … A review of the subject's file reflects no activity that would warrant her inclusion on the Security Index.

On September 4, 1953, Ball met voluntarily with HUAC investigator William A. Wheeler in Hollywood and gave him sealed testimony. She stated that she had registered to vote as a Communist "or intended to vote the Communist Party ticket" in 1936 at her socialist grandfather's insistence. She stated she "at no time intended to vote as a Communist". Her testimony was forwarded to J. Edgar Hoover in an FBI memorandum:

Fulgencio Batista y Zaldívar (/bəˈtiːstə/;[1] Spanish: [ful ˈxensjo βaˈtista i salˈdiβaɾ]; born Rubén Zaldívar,[2] January 16, 1901 - August 6, 1973) was a Cuban military officer and politician who served as the elected president of Cuba from 1940 to 1944 and as its U.S.-backed military dictator from 1952 to 1959 before being overthrown during the Cuban Revolution.

“The Dictator from Cuba arrives. Washington, D.C., Nov. 10. Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba’s Dictator, arrived in Washington today, he was met at the Union Station by General Malin Craig, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, who invited the Colonel to the Capitol, and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, as well as a hundred Cubans who bowed to the Colonel as he passed thru Union Station, left to right. Sumner Wells, Batista, Craig, and the Ambassador from Cuba Dr. Pedro Fraga, 11/10/38” (Title from unverified caption data received with the Harris & Ewing Collection.)

In power and receiving financial, military and logistical support from the United States government,[7][8] Batista suspended the 1940 Constitution and revoked most political liberties, including the right to strike. He then aligned with the wealthiest landowners who owned the largest sugar plantations, and presided over a stagnating economy that widened the gap between rich and poor Cubans.[9] Eventually it reached the point where most of the sugar industry was in U.S. hands, and foreigners owned 70% of the arable land.[10] As such, Batista’s repressive government then began to systematically profit from the exploitation of Cuba’s commercial interests, by negotiating lucrative relationships both with the American Mafia, who controlled the drug, gambling, and prostitution businesses in Havana, and with large U.S.-based multinational companies who were awarded lucrative contracts.[9][11] To quell the growing discontent amongst the populace-which was subsequently displayed through frequent student riots and demonstrations-Batista established tighter censorship of the media, while also utilizing his Bureau for the Repression of Communist Activities secret police to carry out wide-scale violence, torture and public executions.

Fidel Castro's 26th of July Movement and other rebelling elements led an urban- and rural-based guerrilla uprising against Batista's government, which culminated in his eventual defeat by rebels under the command of Che Guevara at the Battle of Santa Clara on New Year's Day 1959.

Félix Rodríguez, a Cuban exile turned CIA Special Activities Division operative, advised Bolivian troops during the hunt for Guevara in Bolivia.[227] In addition, the 2007 documentary My Enemy's Enemy alleges that Nazi war criminal Klaus Barbie advised and possibly helped the CIA orchestrate Guevara's eventual capture.

> Bolivian President René Barrientos ordered that Guevara be killed. The order was relayed to the unit holding Guevara by Félix Rodríguez reportedly despite the United States government's desire that Guevara be taken to Panama for further interrogation.[235] The executioner who volunteered to kill Guevara was Mario Terán, a 27-year-old sergeant in the Bolivian army who while half-drunk requested to shoot Guevara because three of his friends from B Company, all with the same first name of "Mario", had been killed in a firefight several days earlier with Guevara's band of guerrillas.
> To make the bullet wounds appear consistent with the story that the Bolivian government planned to release to the public, Félix Rodríguez ordered Terán not to shoot Guevara in the head, but to aim carefully to make it appear that Guevara had been killed in action during a clash with the Bolivian army.[236] Gary Prado, the Bolivian captain in command of the army company that captured Guevara, said that the reasons Barrientos ordered the immediate execution of Guevara were so there could be no possibility for Guevara to escape from prison, and also so there could be no drama of a public trial where adverse publicity might happen.

About 30 minutes before Guevara was killed, Félix Rodríguez attempted to question him about the whereabouts of other guerrilla fighters who were currently at large, but Guevara continued to remain silent. Rodríguez, assisted by a few Bolivian soldiers, helped Guevara to his feet and took him outside the hut to parade him before other Bolivian soldiers where he posed with Guevara for a photo opportunity where one soldier took a photograph of Rodríguez and other soldiers standing alongside Guevara. Afterwards, Rodríguez told Guevara that he was going to be executed.

A little later, Guevara was asked by one of the Bolivian soldiers guarding him if he was thinking about his own immortality. “No,” he replied, “I’m thinking about the immortality of the revolution.”[238] A few minutes later, Sergeant Terán entered the hut to shoot him, whereupon Guevara reportedly stood up and spoke to Terán what were his last words: “I know you’ve come to kill me. Shoot, coward! You are only going to kill a man!” Terán hesitated, then pointed his self-loading M2 carbine[239] at Guevara and opened fire, hitting him in the arms and legs.[240] Then, as Guevara writhed on the ground, apparently biting one of his wrists to avoid crying out, Terán fired another burst, fatally wounding him in the chest. Guevara was pronounced dead at 1:10 pm local time according to Rodríguez.

Soon after the success of the Communist's Cuban Revolution, militant counter-revolutionary groups developed in an attempt to overthrow the new regime. Undertaking armed attacks against government forces, some set up guerrilla bases in Cuba's mountainous regions, leading to the six-year Escambray Rebellion. These dissidents were funded and armed by various foreign sources, including the exiled Cuban community, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), and Rafael Trujillo's regime in the Dominican Republic.

Castro's Cuban government ordered the country's oil refineries - then controlled by U.S. corporations Esso, Standard Oil and Shell - to process crude oil purchased from the Soviet Union, but under pressure from the U.S. government, these companies refused. Castro responded by expropriating the refineries and nationalizing them under state control. In retaliation, the U.S. canceled its import of Cuban sugar, provoking Castro to nationalize most U.S.-owned assets, including banks and sugar mills.

The United States embargo against Cuba prevents American businesses, and businesses organized under US law or majority-owned by citizens of the United States, from conducting trade with Cuban interests. It is the most enduring trade embargo in modern history. The US first imposed an embargo on the sale of arms to Cuba on March 14, 1958, during the Fulgencio Batista regime. Again on October 19, 1960, almost two years after the Cuban Revolution had led to the deposition of the Batista regime, the US placed an embargo on exports to Cuba except for food and medicine after Cuba nationalized the US-owned Cuban oil refineries without compensation. On February 7, 1962, the embargo was extended to include almost all exports. The United Nations General Assembly has passed a resolution every year since 1992 demanding the end of the US economic blockade on Cuba, with the US and Israel being the only nations to consistently vote against the resolutions.

[The blockade was military by the US Navy and tensions were high during the cold war as to whether the blockwade would be challenged and become a tripwire into world war which became a backrop for Seatle World Expo and plans for sleeper agents in key locations such as ilsands.],

On 13 October 1960, the U.S. government then prohibited the majority of exports to Cuba - the exceptions being medicines and certain foodstuffs - marking the start of an economic embargo. In retaliation, the Cuban National Institute for Agrarian Reform took control of 383 private-run businesses on 14 October, and on 25 October a further 166 U.S. companies operating in Cuba had their premises seized and nationalized, including Coca-Cola and Sears Roebuck.[59][60] On 16 December, the U.S. ended its import quota of Cuban sugar.

The U.S. government was becoming increasingly critical of Castro's revolutionary government. At an August 1960 meeting of the Organization of American States (OAS) held in Costa Rica, U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter publicly proclaimed that Castro's administration was "following faithfully the Bolshevik pattern" by instituting a single-party political system, taking governmental control of trade unions, suppressing civil liberties, and removing both the freedom of speech and freedom of the press. He furthermore asserted that international communism was using Cuba as an "operational base" for spreading revolution in the western hemisphere, and called on other OAS members to condemn the Cuban government for its breach of human rights.

In turn, Castro lambasted the treatment of black people and the working classes he had witnessed in New York City, which he ridiculed as that “superfree, superdemocratic, superhumane, and supercivilized city.”

In August 1960, the CIA contacted the Cosa Nostra in Chicago with the intention to draft a simultaneous assassination of Fidel Castro, Raúl Castro and Che Guevara. In exchange, if the operation were a success and a pro-U.S. government were restored in Cuba, the CIA agreed that the Mafia would get their “monopoly on gaming, prostitution and drugs.”

Recognizing that Castro and his government were becoming increasingly hostile and openly opposed to the United States, Eisenhower directed the CIA to begin preparations of invading Cuba and overthrow the Castro regime.[81] Richard M. Bissell Jr. was charged with overseeing plans for the Bay of Pigs Invasion. He assembled agents to aid him in the plot, many of whom had worked on the 1954 Guatemalan coup six years before; these included David Philips, Gerry Droller and E. Howard Hunt.

in the 1960 presidential election between Nixon and JFK (close but Nixon conceded the disputed election), both main candidates,I Richard Nixon of the Republican Party and John F. Kennedy of the Democratic Party, campaigned on the issue of Cuba, with both candidates taking a hardline stance on Castro.[91] Nixon - who was vice president - insisted that Kennedy should not be informed of the military plans, to which Dulles of the CIA conceded to Nixon's request.

Following being sworn in January 20 1961 on 28 January 1961, President Kennedy was briefed, together with all the major departments, on the latest plan (code-named Operation Pluto), which involved 1,000 men landed in a ship-borne invasion at Trinidad, Cuba, about 270 km (170 mi) south-east of Havana, at the foothills of the Escambray Mountains in Sancti Spiritus province. Kennedy authorized the active departments to continue and to report progress.

Robert F. Kennedy as Attorney Genaral had or would gain oversight via JM/WAVE in Florida.

Top aides to Kennedy, such as Dean Rusk (Rockefeller foundation) and both joint chiefs of staff, later said that they had hesitations about the plans but muted their thoughts. Some leaders blamed these problems on the "Cold War mindset"

Despite these hesitations, Kennedy still ordered the attack to take place.[85] In March 1961, the CIA helped Cuban exiles in Miami to create the Cuban Revolutionary Council, chaired by José Miró Cardona, former Prime Minister of Cuba. Cardona became the de facto leader-in-waiting of the intended post-invasion Cuban government.

For the increasing number of recruits, infantry training was carried out at a CIA-run base code-named JMTrax. [likely Joint Mission]

Gunnery and flight training of Brigade 2506 Air Support aircrews was carried out by personnel from Alabama Air National Guard under General Reid Doster, using at least six Douglas B-26 Invaders in the markings of the Guatemalan Air Force.[109] An additional 26 B-26s were obtained from U.S. military stocks, 'sanitized' at 'Field Three' to obscure their origins

To create a navy, the CIA purchased five cargo ships from the Cuban-owned, Miami-based Garcia Line, thereby giving "plausible deniability" as the State Department had insisted no U.S. ships could be involved in the invasion.[112] The first four of the five ships, namely the Atlantico, the Caribe, the Houston and Río Escondido were to carry enough supplies and weapons to last thirty days while the Lake Charles had 15 days of supplies and was intended to land the provisional government of Cuba.

Guns Para Todo: In early 1961, Cuba's army possessed Soviet-designed T-34 medium tanks, IS-2 heavy tanks, SU-100 tank destroyers, 122mm howitzers, other artillery and small arms plus Italian 105mm howitzers. The Cuban air force armed inventory included B-26 Invader light bombers, Hawker Sea Fury fighters and Lockheed T-33 jets, all remaining from the Fuerza Aérea del Ejército de Cuba, the Cuban air force of the Batista government.[108][page needed] Anticipating an invasion, Che Guevara stressed the importance of an armed civilian populace, stating: "all of the Cuban people must become a guerrilla army; each and every Cuban must learn to handle and if necessary use firearms in defense of the nation".

The CIA, with the backing of the Pentagon, had originally requested permission to produce sonic booms over Havana on 14 April to create confusion. The request was a form of psychological warfare that had proven successful in the overthrow of Jacobo Arbenz in Guatemala in 1954. The point was to create confusion in Havana and have it be a distraction to Castro if they could “break all the windows in town.”[142] The request was denied, however, since officials thought such would be too obvious a sign of involvement by the United States.

On 15 April 1961, at about 6:00 am Cuban local time, eight B-26B Invader bombers in three groups simultaneously attacked three Cuban airfields at San Antonio de los Baños and at Ciudad Libertad (formerly named Campo Columbia), both near Havana, plus the Antonio Maceo International Airport at Santiago de Cuba. The B-26s had been prepared by the CIA on behalf of Brigade 2506 and had been painted with the false flag markings of the FAR. Each came armed with bombs, rockets, and machine guns.

As the men from Red Beach arrived at Girón, San Román and Oliva met to discuss the situation.[173] With ammunition running low, Oliva suggested that the brigade retreat into the Escambray Mountains to wage guerilla warfare, but San Román decided to hold the beachhead.[174] At about 11:00 am, the Cuban Army began an offensive to take San Blas.[175] San Román ordered all of the paratroopers back in order to hold San Blas, and they halted the offensive.[175] During the afternoon, Castro kept the brigadistas under steady air attack and artillery fire but did not order any new major attacks.

At 2:00 pm, President Kennedy received a telegram from Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow, stating the Russians would not allow the U.S. to enter Cuba and implied swift nuclear retribution to the United States heartland if their warnings were not heeded.[176]

The six B-26s were piloted by two CIA contract pilots plus four pilots and six navigators from the FAL.

The crews of the Barbara J and Blagar had done their best to land what ammunition they had left onto the beachhead, but without air support the captains of both ships reported that it was too dangerous to be operating off the Cuban coast by day. [179]

Without direct air support, and short of ammunition, Brigade 2506 ground forces retreated to the beaches in the face of the onslaught from Cuban government artillery, tanks and infantry.

[JFK would be blamed by the Mafia underworld figures Goerge H.W. Bush had recurited for the job for failing to commit US DOD resources to the operation but JFK was leery about getting the USA into a war with Russia over an act fo clear US aggression (detected) in a dangerous face off-situation.]

The attempts to avoid direct nuclear conflict turned into a search for leverage troops and warfare, gain control of the Media or top officials, and use soft power techniques to manipulate non warmaking decisions including support of those friendly to the USA in locations not friendly to the USA

Such Leverage acts have an inherent problem, the effort to gain allies in the world also becomes the justification for losing allies in the world, allies who wish their own sovereignty.

It is exactly this Sovereignty of high and noble Presidents I belief JFK was in defense of agaisnt Great Britian, Free Masons, and Mafia.

David Ormsby-Gore, 5th Baron Harlech retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Ormsby-Gore knew Kennedy well from his time in London, where his father Joseph P. Kennedy had served as American Ambassador. Like Macmillan, Ormsby-Gore was distantly related to Kennedy, but had a closer relationship than did Macmillan with the President-elect and his brother Robert. Six months after Kennedy took office Ormsby-Gore was in Washington, D.C. Referred to under the Kennedy administration as "our kind of Ambassador", he supplied Kennedy with a stream of advice and Cuban cigars via his diplomatic bag. He was almost a resident at the White House, being more a friend of the family than a mere ambassador. After President Kennedy's assassination there were rumours of a romance between Ormsby-Gore and Jacqueline Kennedy. In 1968 he proposed marriage to her, but, she did not accept.[7] Ormsby-Gore was one of the pallbearers at Robert F. Kennedy's funeral along with Robert McNamara, John Glenn, W. Averell Harriman, C. Douglas Dillon, Kirk Lemoyne Billings (schoolmate of John F. Kennedy), Stephen Edward Smith (husband to Jean Ann Kennedy), David Hackett, Jim Whittaker and John Seigenthaler. Under the Lyndon B. Johnson administration relations were more formal but remained excellent; and Ormsby-Gore maintained his position after the Labour government took power in Britain in 1964.

A fierce opponent of oil-barrel politics, Ormsby-Gore's terse dismissal of the phenomenon ran: "It would indeed be a tragedy if the history of the human race proved to be nothing more than the story of an ape playing with a box of matches on a petrol dump." The extent of his influence over the Kennedy administration is disputed. Unable to persuade the American government to agree with the British line over Yemen and the Congo, or to proceed with either a negotiated settlement with Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev over Berlin or the Skybolt ballistic missile programme, he nevertheless played a significant role in the Cuban Missile Crisis and ensured that Britain's views were taken into account by the American government.

The friendships of Ormsby-Gore and Macmillan with John F. Kennedy helped secure the first Test-Ban Treaty in 1963. Macmillan and Ormsby-Gore had been attempting to achieve a test-ban treaty with the Russians for the past ten years, and won Kennedy over through letters from Macmillan and frank discussions between Ormsby-Gore and Kennedy. They convinced him to act like a statesman and conclude Test-ban treaties with Russia and not fear being branded as an appeaser by political opponents in the United States.

Ormsby-Gore was a participant in what is referred to as a “twenty-five year conversation to do with the role of a leader in a democratic society”. He encouraged Kennedy to remain focused on issues relevant to the world and the future, rather than attempting to protect himself politically.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (July 5, 1902 February 27, 1985) was a Republican United States senator from Massachusetts in both Senate seats in non-consecutive terms of service and a United States ambassador. He was considered for the vice presidency, most significantly in 1952 by Dwight Eisenhower. Later, largely due to Eisenhower’s advice and encouragement, he ended up being chosen as the Republican nominee for Vice President in the 1960 presidential election alongside incumbent Vice President Richard Nixon. The Republican ticket narrowly lost to Democrats John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. In 1964, Lodge won by a plurality a number of that years‘ party presidential primaries and caucuses on the strength of his name, reputation, and respect among many voters. This effort was encouraged and directed by low-budget but high-impact grassroots campaign by academic and political amateurs.

12 December 1961 Description President John F. Kennedy meets with Director General of The Atlantic Institute, Henry

Cabot Lodge, Jr. Oval Office, White House, Washington, D.C.

The Atlantic Institute (full name, Atlantic Institute for International Affairs) was an independent, non-governmental institute that promoted economic, political, and cultural relations among NATO alliance members and the international community in general. Based in Paris, France, it was founded in 1961 and closed in 1988.

The institute was approved by the NATO Parliamentarians Conference in June 1959 and opened formally on January 1, 1961. Former Belgian Prime Minister Paul van Zeeland was the first Chairman of the institute, while Henry Cabot Lodge became Director-General later that year. Headquarters initially were at the Hôtel de Crillon, site of the 1919 Paris Peace Conference. Funding of $250,000 over five years was supplied by the Ford Foundation, with a further $800,000 given between 1969 and 1973.

In 1978, talks were held to consider a merger between the Atlantic Institute and the Trilateral Commission, a similar private institution promoting American, European, and Japanese cooperation,[3] but no merger proceeded.

El Bombo

On July 12, 1984, the offices of the Institute were bombed by the left-wing guerrilla group Action directe, who described the institute as an “imperialist” organization working for NATO.

Operation Red Dog - Overthrowing Indirect rule of Dame Mary Eugenia Charles, DBE

Indirect Rule of the Dominican Republic and an attempt to overthrow the government.

> … Perhaps the most interesting collaborator was Patrick R. John, the Black former Prime Minister of Dominica. The populist head of state had been ousted from running the country, and desperately sought to return to power, even if it meant betraying his country to the white supremacists behind Operation Red Dog.
> John was driven by a personal vendetta to oust his political enemy, his American-friendly successor Prime Minister Mary Eugenia Charles, called the "Iron Lady of the Caribbean."
>
> Perdue commented once that overthrowing Charles would help stem the influence of communism in the region, as she had "really made some ties with communist Cuba." [and perhaps drifed from Western control.]
>
> Former Texas Governor John Connally and Representative Ron Paul were nearly subpoenaed in connection to the plot, but the presiding judge refused and claimed the high-ranking politicians had no connection to Operation Red Dog.
>
> Stephen Don Black served three years in prison and > went on to found the notorious Neo-Nazi website Stormfront.

> Patrick R. John was sentenced to 12 years in prison for conspiracy to overthrow the government, but he was acquitted of treason. He ended up serving only five years.

Under what amounts to a false flag of White Supremacism a Communist leaning black is to replaced by a Western loyal black prime minister.

Eugenia Charles was born on 15 May 1919 in the fishing village of Pointe Michel in Saint Luke Parish, Dominica. She was the daughter of John B. Charles and his wife Josephine (née Delauney). She was the youngest of four children. Her family was considered part of the “coloured bourgeoisie”, descendants of free people of color. Her father was a mason who became a wealthy landowner and had business interests in export-import.

Dame Mary Eugenia Charles, DBE (15 May 1919 - 6 September 2005) was a Dominican politician who was Prime Minister of Dominica from 21 July 1980 until 14 June 1995. The first woman lawyer in Dominica, she was Dominica’s first, and to date only, female prime minister. She was the second female prime minister in the Caribbean after Lucina da Costa of the Netherlands Antilles. She was the first woman in the Americas to be elected in her own right as head of government. She served for the longest period of any Dominican prime minister, and was the world’s third longest-serving female Prime Minister, behind Indira Gandhi of India and Sirimavo Bandaranaike of Sri Lanka.[1] She established a record for the longest continuous service of any woman Prime Minister.

She was also described as the “Iron Lady of the Caribbean.”

In 1981, a crew of American and Canadian neo-Nazis and KKK members plotted a violent overthrow of the Dominican government, but their ship never made it out of New Orleans.

New Orleans was unusually calm and dry on the night of April 27, 1981. In spite of the balmy breeze that stirred the evening air, a political storm was brewing in The Big Easy.

On the docks of the Crescent City, a small group of white supremacists, armed to the teeth like a squad of John Rambos, prepared to cross the Gulf of Mexico.

The Operation Red Dog mercenaries gathered where the Mississippi meets the Gulf, waiting to set sail for the verdant shores of the Caribbean. Their goal: to create their own white ethnostate.

The American and Canadian mercenaries were a jumble of KKK members, neo-Nazis, and other white nationalists determined to assert their self-proclaimed superiority and make a fortune.

Operation Red Dog aimed to overthrow the government of Dominica and establish a white-run hedonistic island, with a little help from a disgraced former leader.

Something between The Birth of a Nation and the Three Stooges in terms of ideology and execution, their boondoggle was dubbed the “Bayou of Pigs.”

Frank Billings Kellogg (December 22, 1856 - December 21, 1937) was an American lawyer, politician, and statesman who served in the U.S. Senate and as U.S. Secretary of State. He co-authored the Kellogg-Briand Pact, for which he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1929.

The Banana Massacre (Spanish: Matanza/Masacre de las bananeras) was a massacre of United Fruit Company workers that occurred between December 5 and 6, 1928 in the town of Ciénaga near Santa Marta, Colombia. A strike began on November 12, 1928, when the workers ceased to work until the company would reach an agreement with them to grant them dignified working conditions. After several weeks with no agreement, in which the United Fruit Company refused to negotiate with the workers, the conservative government of Miguel Abadía Méndez sent the Colombian Army in against the strikers, resulting in the massacre of 47 to 2,000 people.

U.S. officials in Colombia and United Fruit representatives portrayed the workers' strike as "communist" with a "subversive tendency" in telegrams to Frank B. Kellogg, the United States Secretary of State. The Colombian government was also compelled to work for the interests of the company, considering they could cut off trade of Colombian bananas with significant markets such as the United States and Europe.

In 1905, Kellogg joined the federal government when Theodore Roosevelt asked Kellogg to prosecute a federal antitrust case.[16] In 1906, Kellogg was appointed special counsel to the Interstate Commerce Commission for its investigation of E. H. Harriman. In 1908, he was appointed to lead the federal prosecution against Union Pacific Railroad, under the Sherman Antitrust Act.[17][18][19] His most important case was Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey v. United States, 221 U.S. 1 (1911). Following this successful prosecution, he was elected president of the American Bar Association (1912-1913). He was a member of the World War Foreign Debts Commission.[20]

From the chapter Protection from the USA

This book researchers a truth found at its end, not at its begging. The reason I have been subjected to Espionage based abuse of human rights is not the merit of myself, which is virtuous, but rather the State's interest in hiding its vices, its acts towards Glorian Donegan, James Donegan, and myself by preempting the truth of my story from coming out, even before I myself had known the State interest in my family history and why I would need to get that story out.

Dissent is necessary for the State, to know you are ignorant is knowledge, and out state including its FBI, CIA, Marshalls, and others, need to suppress evidence and people.

Or do I have that wrong? I do. It is the Masons in the FBI, CIA, DARPA, DOJ who need to use the FBI and DOJ to hide from their own crimes by using the FBI, DOJ, and other agencies to destroy the evidence of Masonry misconduct.

Duuring much of my life I have been assaulted by seeming schizophrenic homeless people "bird dogging" me, assaulting me for fees paid by others and the assaults were reading bizarre scripts out towards me about atom smashing, yellow life jackets, various shark stories, and other curiosities of conversation to see how I might respond to those question, what I might mention knowing about.

Over time the inexplicable assaults built such a pattern I was able to figure out this was about radiation, DNA, mitochondria, my mother, and her history and the history of the Manhattan Project.

The most dangerous espionage agencies in the world including US Missle Command are openly controlled by Masons in fear of their own shadaw, the dark shadow they have cast over US history, and these espionage agencies must be dissented against and I have the foundations to do that.

I had wanted to make my living in IT or selling this book for perhaps 99 Cents per copy, or maybe 5 or 6 Dollars.

Such is not to be. But I will stake my life history, my character, and my stance in life on the contents of this book and stand by it, and encourage others to doubt the Color of Law, and understand its projects are shams and so are its projections of power.

In the Chapter CIA in which I accuse a Deep State cartel at 555 Tanchaua in Corpus Christi as CIA NDA FBI Vatican backed NDDA Deep state siezing assets in bankruptcy court I cite Linda Newirk and REveatlion1.ca on this about February 20 Nov 18 Dec 13 Aug 4 “spiritual code” “360 DNA” for the world through NASA.

The military junta led by General Jorge Videla (left) was responsible for countless assassinations, including priests and nuns who opposed military rule following the CIA sponsored March 24, 1976 coup which overthrew the government of Isabel Peron:

”Videla was among the generals convicted of human rights crimes, including “disappearances”, torture, murders and kidnappings. In 1985, Videla was sentenced to life imprisonment at the military prison of Magdalena.”

When the military junta relinquished power in 1983, the duly elected president Raúl Alfonsín set up a Truth Commission pertaining to the crimes underlying the “Dirty War” (La Guerra Sucia).

The military junta had been supported covertly by Washington. Wall Street and the Neoliberal Economic Agenda

One of the key appointments of the military junta (on the instructions of Wall Street) was the Minister of Economy, Jose Alfredo Martinez de Hoz, a member of Argentina’s business establishment and a close friend of David Rockefeller.

> The neoliberal macro-economic policy package adopted under Martinez de Hoz was a “carbon copy” of that imposed in October 1973 in Chile by the Pinochet dictatorship under advice from the “Chicago Boys”, following the September 11, 1973 coup d’Etat and the assassination of president Salvador Allende.

Lepke Buchalter retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Louis Buchalter, known as Louis Lepke or Lepke Buchalter, (February 6, 1897 March 4, 1944) was an American mobster and head of the Mafia hit squad Murder, Inc., during the 1930s. Buchalter was one of the premier labor racketeers in New York City during that era.

Charles Birger and Buchalter are the only American mob bosses to receive the death penalty after being convicted of murder. Louis Buchalter was executed using the infamous “Old Sparky” electric chair after being sent “up the river” to Sing Sing Correctional Facility.

Background

Buchalter was born in the Lower East Side neighborhood of Manhattan in February 1897. His mother, Rose Buchalter, called him “lepkeleh” (“little Louis” in Yiddish), which later became “Lepke”. Louis Buchalter had one sister and three brothers; one brother eventually became a dentist, another brother a college professor and rabbi, and the third brother a pharmacist.[2] His father, Barnett Buchalter, was a Russian immigrant who operated a hardware store on the Lower East Side. [3] The family was Jewish.

In 1909, when Buchalter was 12, his father died. In 1910, Buchalter finished elementary school and started a job selling theatrical goods. Reportedly, on the Lower East Side, he attended the Rabbi Jacob Joseph School, where he was an “honor roll” student.[5] Soon after, his mother moved to Arizona for health reasons, leaving Buchalter in the care of his sister, Sarah. However, Buchalter was beyond her control.

On September 2, 1915, Buchalter was arrested in New York for the first time for burglary and assault, but the case was discharged.

In late 1915 or early 1916, Buchalter went to live with his uncle in Bridgeport, Connecticut.[6] On February 29, 1916, Buchalter was arrested in Bridgeport on burglary charges and was sent to the Cheshire Reformatory for juvenile offenders in Cheshire, Connecticut, until July 12, 1917.[6] After a dispute with his uncle over wages, Buchalter moved back to New York City.

On September 28, 1917, Buchalter was sentenced in New York to 18 months in state prison at Sing Sing in Ossining, New York, on a grand larceny conviction.[7] After a transfer to Auburn Prison in Auburn, New York, Buchalter was released on January 27, 1919.[8] On January 22, 1920, Buchalter returned to Sing Sing on a 30-month sentence for attempted burglary.[7] He was released on March 16, 1922.

Rise to power

Upon Buchalter's 1922 release from prison, he started working with his childhood friend, mobster Jacob "Gurrah" Shapiro. Through force and fear, they began gaining control of the garment industry unions. Buchalter then used the unions to threaten strikes and demand weekly payments from factory owners while dipping into union bank accounts.[citation needed] Buchalter's control of the unions evolved into a protection racket, extending into areas such as bakery trucking. The unions were profitable for him and he kept a hold over them even after becoming an important figure in organized crime. Buchalter later formed an alliance with Tommy Lucchese, a leader of the Lucchese crime family, and together they controlled the garment district.

Buchalter and Shapiro moved into new and fashionable luxury buildings on Eastern Parkway (135) with family who were active synagogue goers (Union Temple and Kol Israel Synagogue of Brooklyn). In later years, Buchalter and his family lived in a penthouse in the exclusive Central Park West section of Manhattan.[

In 1927, Buchalter and Shapiro were arrested for the murder of Jacob Orgen (Little Augie) and the attempted murder of Irish-American bootlegger Jack Diamond, a criminal rival. However, the charges were later dropped due to a lack of evidence.

Buchalter was described as a quiet man who for years managed to avoid the public spotlight. In conversations with his criminal associates, Buchalter preferred listening over talking. Buchalter generously compensated his gang members and took them to hockey games, boxing matches, and even winter cruises.[11] On August 20, 1931, Buchalter married Betty Wasserman, a British-born widow of Russian descent, at New York City Hall.[12] Buchalter adopted Betty's child from her previous marriage.[

Murder, Inc.

In the early 1930s, Buchalter created an effective process for performing contract killings for Cosa Nostra mobsters; it had no name, but the press 10 years later called it Murder, Inc. The Cosa Nostra mobsters wanted to insulate themselves from any connection to these murders. Buchalter's partner, mobster Albert Anastasia, would relay a contract request from the Cosa Nostra to Buchalter. In turn, Buchalter would assign the job to Jewish and Italian street gang members from Brooklyn.

None of these contract killers had any connections with the major crime families. If they were caught, they could not implicate their Cosa Nostra employers in the crimes. Buchalter used the same killers for his own murder contracts. The Murder, Inc., killers were soon completing jobs all over the country for their mobster bosses.

In 1935, Buchalter arranged his most significant murder: the powerful New York gangster Dutch Schultz. Schultz had proposed to the National Crime Syndicate, a confederation of mobsters, that New York District Attorney Thomas Dewey be murdered. Luciano argued that a Dewey assassination would precipitate a massive law enforcement crackdown. An enraged Schultz said he would kill Dewey anyway and walked out of the meeting. After six hours of deliberations The Commission ordered Buchalter to eliminate Schultz.[15][16] On October 23, 1935, Schultz was shot in a Newark, New Jersey tavern, and succumbed to his injuries the following day.[17] In 1941, Buchalter killer Charles “The Bug” Workman was charged in the Schultz murder.

In 1935, law enforcement estimated that Buchalter and Shapiro had 250 men working for them, and that Buchalter was grossing over $1 million ($19,000,000 in current dollar terms) per year. They controlled rackets in the trucking, baking, and garment industries throughout New York.[7] Buchalter also owned the Riobamba, a posh nightclub in Manhattan.

Downfall

On September 13, 1936, Murder, Inc. killers, acting on Buchalter’s orders,[1] gunned down Joseph Rosen, a Brooklyn candy store owner. Rosen was a former garment industry trucker whose union Buchalter took over.[1] Rosen had angered Buchalter by refusing to leave town as Buchalter demanded when, despite the absence of proof, Buchalter believed Rosen was cooperating with District Attorney Thomas Dewey.[1] At the time, no one was indicted in the Rosen murder.

On November 8, 1936, Buchalter and Shapiro were convicted of violating federal anti-trust laws in the rabbit-skin fur industry in New York.[20] While out on bail, both Buchalter and Shapiro disappeared. On November 13, both men were sentenced while absent to two years in federal prison.[21] The two men later appealed the verdict, but in June 1937 both convictions were upheld.

Manhunt

Before they could be taken into custody, both Buchalter and Shapiro disappeared. On November 9, 1937, the federal government offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to Buchalter's capture.

On December 1, 1937, the fugitive Buchalter was indicted in federal court on conspiracy to smuggle heroin into the United States. The scheme involved heroin hidden in the trunks of young women and couples traveling by ocean liner from China to France, then to New York City. Lepke bribed U.S. customs agents not to inspect the trunks.

On April 14, 1938, Shapiro surrendered to authorities in New York.[22] However, Buchalter remained a fugitive.

Over the next two years, an extensive manhunt was conducted in both the United States and Europe, with reports of Buchalter hiding in Poland and Palestine. On July 29, 1939, Thomas Dewey requested that the City of New York offer a $25,000 reward for Buchalter's capture, citing a string of unsolved gangland murders.[25] On August 24, 1939, Buchalter surrendered to FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover in front of a Manhattan hotel. The surrender deal was allegedly negotiated by the columnist and radio broadcaster Walter Winchell.[26] It was later revealed that Buchalter had been hiding in New York City during his entire time as a fugitive.

After Buchalter was convicted on the federal narcotics trafficking charges, federal authorities turned him over to New York State for trial on labor extortion charges. On April 5, 1940, Buchalter was sentenced to 30 years to life in state prison on those charges. However, Buchalter was sent to Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary in Kansas to serve his federal sentence of 14 years for narcotics trafficking.

On August 20, 1940, Buchalter was indicted on murder charges in Los Angeles for the killing of Harry Greenberg, a mob associate of casino owner Meyer Lansky and mobster Bugsy Siegel.[27] However, Buchalter never went to trial on this killing.

Murder trial

On May 9, 1941, Buchalter was arraigned in New York state court on the 1936 Rosen murder along with three other murders.[28] Buchalter's order for the Rosen hit had been overheard by mobster Abe Reles, who turned state's evidence in 1940 and implicated Buchalter in four murders. Returned from Leavenworth to Brooklyn to stand trial for the Rosen slaying, Buchalter's position was worsened by the testimony of Albert Tannenbaum. Four hours into deliberation, at 2 am on November 30, 1941, the jury found Buchalter guilty of first degree murder.[10] On December 2, 1941, Lepke was sentenced to death along with his lieutenants Emanuel "Mendy" Weiss and Louis Capone.[29] Buchalter's lawyers immediately filed an appeal.

Buchalter during his sentencing

In October 1942, the New York Court of Appeals voted four to three to uphold Buchalter's conviction and death sentence. (People v. Buchalter, 289 N.Y. 181) Two dissenting judges thought the evidence was so weak that errors in the jury instructions as to how to evaluate certain testimony were harmful enough to require a new trial. The third dissenter agreed, but added that, in his opinion, there was insufficient evidence to sustain a guilty verdict, so the indictment should be dismissed altogether (failure of proof means no retrial). Buchalter's lawyers then appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The United States Supreme Court granted Buchalter's petition to review the case. In 1943, the Court affirmed the Buchalter conviction seven to zero, with two justices abstaining. (319 U.S. 427 (1943)). His appeals were now exhausted.

Execution

When the U.S. Supreme Court confirmed Buchalter's conviction, he was serving his racketeering sentence at Leavenworth Federal Prison. New York State authorities demanded that the federal government turn over Buchalter for execution. On January 21, 1944, after many delays and much controversy, federal agents finally turned Buchalter over to state authorities, who immediately transported him to Sing Sing prison.[33] Buchalter made several pleas for mercy, but they were rejected.

On March 4, 1944, Louis Buchalter was executed in the electric chair in Sing Sing.[36] He had no final words. A few minutes before Buchalter's execution, his lieutenants Weiss and Capone were also executed.

Louis Buchalter was buried at the Mount Hebron Cemetery in Flushing, Queens.

Was Liquor Quicker or did Joseph Kennedy Sr. make his money elsewhere?

While I can not say about Joseph Kennedy what I can say is my Uncle Harold, very close to the Catholic Church, WAS a liquor runner and dealer per my brother Tom Donegan who recently died.

When we went to the giant Harold Donegan's house on the cape, I think his wife was Nancy, my brother who was about two years older would tell me he had mafia liquor ties but was other than that honest and the Church put up with the liquore peice because though the business had been illegal it was victimless and he donateed to charity and the Church.

In fact this is exactly what I hear described by those writing about Al Capone who saw his in a postive light.

"The Net interprets censorship as damage and routes around it" Internet pioneer John Gilmore was first quoted saying that in the pages of TIME Magazine in 1993 *. That was how Al Capone sold himself to Chicago particularly in sharign proffits with the town via charities.

As a footnote Gilmore is an advocate of Cogntive Liberty and while in Arlington Virignia I tried getting in touch with him about being trapped in Mental Health exploitively.

How Joseph Kennedy Made His Fortune (Hint: It Wasn't Bootlegging) retrieved from History.com and copied or modified to here

One of the greatest American political dynasties of the 20th century was funded, in part, by alcohol. Rumors have swirled for decades that Joseph P. Kennedy, whose nine children included President John F. Kennedy, and U.S. Senators Robert and Edward Kennedy, made his early fortune as a bootlegger during Prohibition.

But while the patriarch of the Kennedy clan certainly had his foibles, including playing fast and loose with the pre-1929 crash stock market, trading in illicit liquor wasn't one of them, according to David Nasaw, author of The Patriarch: The Remarkable Life and Turbulent Times of Joseph P. Kennedy.

“As his biographer, I would have loved to have discovered that he was a bootlegger,” says Nasaw. “It would have given me all sorts of great stories. I tracked down every rumor I could find and none of them panned out. It became really clear that all of the stories about his bootlegging were just farcical.”

The rumors of Kennedy, the bootlegger, didn’t surface until the late 1960s and 1970s, says Nasaw, when conspiracy theorists were looking for reasons why the mafia might have played a role in the assassination of JFK. The theory was that the president’s father had made enemies in the underworld during his days as a bootlegger.

It didn’t help that various mafia characters came out of the woodwork to back up the accusations against Kennedy. Al Capone’s piano tuner said that he overheard conversations between “Scarface” and the elder Kennedy. The ex-wife of another Chicago mobster claimed her husband used to do business with Kennedy.

Nasaw doesn’t believe these stories, mostly because Richard Nixon, when he was running against JFK in 1960, hired a team of opposition researchers to investigate the Kennedy clan.

“They found all sorts of dirt on Joe Kennedy,” says Nasaw, “but not that he was a bootlegger.”

Also, by the 1960s the elder Kennedy had held high-profile government posts as the first chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and then as the U.S. Ambassador to the United Kingdom. Kennedy was undoubtedly extensively vetted before he took those jobs, says Nasaw, and the FBI would have known if he was a rum runner.

Bush and former Florida Governor Jeb Bush.

Born in Columbus, Ohio, Prescott Bush graduated from Yale College and served as an artillery officer during World War I. After the war, he worked for several companies, becoming a minor partner of the A. Harriman & Co. investment bank in 1931. He served in several high-ranking United States Golf Association offices, including president of that organization. Prescott Bush settled in Connecticut in 1925.

Prescott Bush won election to the Senate in a 1952 special election, narrowly defeating Democratic nominee Abraham Ribicoff. In the Senate, Bush staunchly supported President Dwight D. Established in 1952 by John D. Rockefeller III, with important funding from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, the Council is governed by an international board of trustees. After many years of evolving, the 2006 council board includes leaders in many different fields. These include: biomedicine, business, economic development, government, health, international finance, media studies, philanthropy, and social science.

Headquartered in New York City, the Population Council has 18 offices in Africa, Asia, and Latin America and does work in more than 60 countries. With an annual budget of around $74 million, it employs more than 500 people from 33 countries with expertise in a wide array of scientific disciplines. Roughly 55 percent are based outside the United States.

John D. Rockefeller III convened distinguished scientists in Williamsburg, Virginia, under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences, to begin the search for a better understanding of demographic trends. Shortly thereafter, in 1952, he established the Population Council as an independent, nonprofit organization. He served as the Council's first president.[4] Rockefeller eventually became non-executive chairman of the board, serving until his death in an auto accident in 1978.

Joseph P. Kennedy Sr.

Joseph Patrick Kennedy Sr. (September 6, 1888 - November 18, 1969) was a prominent American businessman, investor and politician. He is known for his own political prominence as well as that of his children and was the patriarch of the Irish-American Kennedy family.

Kennedy was born to a political family in East Boston, Massachusetts. He made a large fortune as a stock market and commodity investor and later rolled over his profits by investing in real estate and a wide range of business industries across the United States. During World War I, he was an assistant general manager of a Boston area Bethlehem Steel shipyard; through that position, he became acquainted with Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In the 1920s, Kennedy made huge profits by reorganizing and refinancing several Hollywood studios; several acquisitions were ultimately merged into Radio-Keith-Orpheum (RKO) Studios. Kennedy increased his fortune with distribution rights for Scotch whisky. He owned the largest privately owned building in the country, Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

Police responded to a 911 call about a woman in a pink shirt sitting next to an expressway and found Mrs. Cruz sitting on the ground ten feet from speeding traffic with her head in her hands.

The story appeared in Monday's New York Times and was first reported by Buzzfeed.

Fast forward to today and Heidi has taken a leave of absence from her job as an investment manager for Goldman Sachs to help raise money for her husband's presidential campaign.

Heidi Nelson Cruz says she wants to use the experience to "strengthen people around me." Ted Cruz's wife, Heidi, was once so depressed that a police officer wrote: "I believed that she was a danger to herself."

Rafael Bienvenido Cruz aka Ted Cruz Sr. retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Rafael Bienvenido Cruz y Díaz (born March 22, 1939) is a Cuban-American Protestant preacher and father of Texas U.S. Senator Ted Cruz. He regularly serves as a surrogate in his son's political campaigns.

Cruz was born in Matanzas, Cuba, in 1939. His father, Rafael Cruz, was a salesman for RCA, originally from the Canary Islands, Spain. His mother, Emilia Laudelina Díaz, was a teacher.

Cruz attended Arturo Echemendia primary school in Matanzas. Cruz claims he joined the Cuban Revolution as a teenager and "suffered beatings and imprisonment for protesting the oppressive regime" of dictator Fulgencio Batista.[10] Cruz enrolled at the age of 17 at the University of Santiago in September 1956. According to Cruz, as a teenager, he “didn’t know Castro was a Communist”. Cruz has stated in interviews that he was jailed by Batista for several days in June or July 1957 and after he was released he applied to and was accepted by the University of Texas in August 1957. He obtained a student visa after an attorney for the family bribed a Batista official to grant him an exit permit. Cruz said he left with $100 sewn into his underwear taking a two-day bus ride from Florida, arriving with little or no English to enroll at the University of Texas.

He graduated from UT with a degree in mathematics and chemical engineering four years later in 1961.[9][14] Cruz states he worked his way through college as a dishwasher, making 50 cents an hour and learned English by going to movies. When he arrived in Austin he gave dozens of speeches in support of the Revolution to various clubs, but later after a visit back to Cuba in the summer of 1959 he became a harsh critic of Castro after “the rebel leader took control and began seizing private property and suppressing dissent”.

Upon returning he revisited the same groups to give lectures opposing Castro and the Revolution.[14] Cruz recounts that his younger sister fought against the new regime in the counter-revolution and was consequently tortured. He remained regretful for his early support of Castro and expressed his remorse to his son on numerous occasions.

Cruz left the Catholic Church in 1975 and became an Evangelical Protestant after attending a Bible study with a colleague and having a born again experience. Explaining his leaving the Catholic church, Cruz stated in an interview with National Review, “The people at the Bible study had a peace that I could not understand, this peace in the midst of trouble. I knew I needed to find that peace by finding Jesus Christ.” Following his conversion, his son and wife also became born-again Protestants. In the Cruz home, talk at dinner time was frequently about the Bible.[4] He was ordained as a pastor in 2004.[19]

Cruz works from his home in Carrollton, a suburb of Dallas, as a traveling preacher and public speaker, campaigning as a surrogate for his son during the 2016 Presidential campaign season. In a 2014 Associated Press story, Cruz was quoted as saying, “I have a burden for this country and I feel that we cannot sit silent.” He went on to say that he feels “It’s time we stop being politically correct and start being biblically correct.”

About his political involvements in the 1980s, Cruz reflected, “I was on the state board of the Religious Roundtable, a Christian and Jewish religious organization that worked to elect Ronald Reagan.” At the time, he told his son, “God has destined you for greatness.”

At the New Beginnings Church in Irving, Texas, in August 2012, Cruz delivered a sermon where he described his son’s senatorial campaign as taking place within a context where Christian “kings” were anointed to preside over an “end-time transfer of wealth” from wicked people to the righteous. Cruz urged the congregation to “tithe mightily” to achieve that result. During an interview conducted by The Christian Post in 2014, Cruz stated, “I think we cannot separate politics and religion; they are interrelated. They’ve always been interrelated.” Salon described Cruz as a “Dominionist, devoted to a movement that finds in Genesis a mandate that ‘men of faith’ seize control of public institutions and govern by biblical principle.”

On Labor Day 2015, Cruz was hosted at the annual "Turning Hearts" celebration in Kalona, Iowa, by the Bontrager Family Singers, a gospel and bluegrass group which became active in the ongoing Ted Cruz presidential campaign.

After Cruz graduated from the University of Texas in 1961, he was granted political asylum in the United States following the expiration of his student visa.[1] In his late twenties, Cruz moved to New Orleans. In 1969 at age 30, during his employment at his new oil company job, he met Wilmington, Delaware, native and divorcée, Eleanor Elizabeth Wilson (born November, 23, 1934 as Eleanor Darragh). Eleanor's first marriage, at age 21, was to Alan Wilson, a mathematician, in 1956. Due to career opportunities, the couple moved to London, England, in 1960. They divorced in 1963. The then 34-year-old computer programmer returned to the United States in 1966. Cruz and Wilson were married in 1969, and shortly after were sent to Calgary, Canada, where their only child, Rafael Edward "Ted" Cruz, was born on December 22, 1970.[36] While in Calgary, the couple owned a seismic-data processing firm called R.B. Cruz and Associates for oil drillers. The firm later became Veritas and ultimately part of CGG. Cruz earned Canadian citizenship in 1973. The family of three then moved to Houston, Texas.[4][9] Eleanor and Rafael Cruz divorced in 1997.

In 2005 Cruz renounced his Canadian citizenship to become a naturalized U.S. citizen. Cruz now retains only Cuban and American citizenships.

From 1993 to 2009, Cruz was a top salesman for Mannatech.

Mannatech is a publicly traded, multinational multi-level marketing firm that sells dietary supplements and personal care products. It was founded in November 1993 by Samuel Caster, and is headquartered in Flower Mound, Texas. The company's stock is traded on the NASDAQ exchange under the symbol MTEX. As of 2017, Mannatech employed 252 people and sold its products through some 220,000 independent sales associates.[1]

In 2007, Mannatech and its salespeople made false claims of anti-disease benefits about its lead product called "Ambrotose" which contains sugars derived from plants.

Edwin Anderson Walker retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Edwin Anderson Walker (November 10, 1909 - October 31, 1993) - known as Ted Walker - was a United States Army officer who served in World War II and the Korean War. He became known for his staunch conservative political opinions and was criticized by U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower for promoting a personal political opinion while in uniform. Walker resigned his commission in 1959, but Eisenhower refused to accept his resignation and gave Walker a new command of the 24th Infantry Division in Augsburg, Germany. Walker again resigned his commission in 1961 after being publicly and formally admonished by the Joint Chiefs of Staff for allegedly referring to Eleanor Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman as “pink” in print and for violating the Hatch Act of 1939 by attempting to influence the votes of his troops. President John F. Kennedy accepted his resignation, making Walker the only US general to resign in the 20th century.

On August 4, 1959, Walker submitted his resignation to the U.S. Army. President Eisenhower denied Walker's request and instead offered him command of the more than 10,000 troops in Augsburg, Germany, in the 24th Infantry Division, which Walker accepted. He began promoting his "Pro-Blue" indoctrination program for troops, which included a reading list of materials by Hargis and the John Birch Society.

Billy James Hargis (August 3, 1925 - November 27, 2004) was an American Christian evangelist. [like many Soiuthern Deomcrat types he considered Negro activism a socialist threat.] At the height of his popularity in the 1950s and 1960s, his Christian Crusade ministry was broadcast on more than 500 radio stations and 250 television stations. He promoted an anti-Communist, segregationist message as well as evangelizing, and founded a radio station, monthly newspaper, and a college in Tulsa, Oklahoma, to support his ministries.

The name "Pro-Blue", said Walker, was intended to suggest "anti-red."

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy ordered Walker committed to a mental asylum for a 90-day evaluation, but psychiatrist Thomas Szasz protested and Walker was released in five days.

Walker was the target of an assassination attempt at his home on April 10, 1963, but escaped serious injury when a bullet fired from outside hit a window frame and fragmented. After its investigation into the assassination of John F. Kennedy, the Warren Commission concluded that Walker's assailant had been Lee Harvey Oswald who believed Walker was a rising Hitler.

Walker was born in the community of Center Point in Kerr County, Texas, in the Texas Hill Country. He graduated in 1927 from the New Mexico Military Institute. He attended the United States Military Academy at West Point, from which he graduated in 1931.

Walker was then assigned as commander of the Arkansas Military District in Little Rock, Arkansas. In 1957, he implemented an order by President Eisenhower to quell civil disturbances related to the desegregation of Little Rock's Central High School. Osro Cobb, the US Attorney for the Eastern District of Arkansas, recalls that Walker "made it clear from the outset … that he would do any and everything necessary to see that the black students attended Central High School as ordered by the federal court … he would arrange protection for them and their families, if necessary, and also supervise their transportation to and from the school for their safety."

Walker repeatedly protested to Eisenhower that using federal troops to enforce racial integration was against his conscience. Although he obeyed orders and successfully integrated Little Rock High School, he began listening to segregationist preacher Billy James Hargis and oil tycoon H. L. Hunt, whose anti-communist radio program Life Line was funded by conservative activist and publisher Dan Smoot. Anti-communist activists in the late 1950s claimed that communists controlled important parts of the U.S. government and the United Nations,[citation needed] and that some Soviet spies and agents occupied prominent jobs within the federal government, for example, some of the Silvermaster group.[citation needed]

In 1959, Walker met publisher Robert Welch. Welch founded the John Birch Society to promote his anti-communist opinions, one of which was that President Eisenhower was a communist.

On August 9, 1963, New Orleans native Lee Harvey Oswald stood in front of the Ward Discount House at the corner of Canal and St. Charles streets distributing his Fair Play for Cuba Committee leaflets. The Fair Play for Cuba Committee was a pro-Castro organization that supported the Cuban Revolution against attacks by the United States Government. It was at this location where Oswald found himself in an altercation with the Cuban exile Carlos Bringuier.

Was Oswlad aware inside the Whitehouse JFK was calling off the attacks on Cuba? Was the CIA playing him that it was JFK plotting against Cuba when the CIA need a pro-Cuban assassin of JFK?

Aaron Montgomery Ward (February 17, 1843 or 1844 - December 7, 1913) was an American entrepreneur based in Chicago who made his fortune through the use of mail order for retail sales of general merchandise to rural customers. In 1872 he founded Montgomery Ward & Company, which became nationally known.

St. Joseph, colloquially known as St. Joe, is a city in the U.S. state of Michigan. It was incorporated as a village in 1834 and as a city in 1891.[6] As of the 2010 census, the city population was 8,365. It lies on the shore of Lake Michigan, at the mouth of the St. Joseph River, about 90 miles (140 km) east-northeast of Chicago. It is the county seat of Berrien County. It is home of the American Society of Agricultural and Biological Engineers.

Energy and ambition drove Ward to seek employment in the town of St. Joseph, Michigan, where he went to work in a shoe store. This was a market town for a farm area devoted to fruit orchards.

The American Society of Agricultural and Biological Engineers (ASABE) is an international professional society devoted to agricultural and biological engineering. It was founded in December 1907 at the University of Wisconsin-Madison as the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE) and is now based in St. Joseph, Michigan. Today the organization has about 9,000 members in over 100 countries. ASABE serves many functions: it provides a forum for communication of research findings through conferences, scientific journals, and a magazine; it develops standards of practice; it provides opportunities for members to network.

British Zionism active in the USA in the year 1902

Jacob de Haas retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Jacob De Haas was born in London. He was the secretary of the First Zionist Congress and introduced Theodor Herzl to the UK in the Jewish World newspaper.[1] In 1896, he became the first member of Hovevei Zion to encourage the movement to adopt the political Zionist program of Theodor Herzl.[2] At the Third Zionist Congress in 1899, he and L. J. Greenberg were elected as members of the Zionist Organization's Propaganda Committee.[3]

He moved to the United States in 1902. Theodor Herzl had suggested to Richard Gottheil that he hire de Haas as the new secretary of the Federation of American Zionists (FAZ) to replace Stephen Samuel Wise. De Haas assumed the leadership of the fragmented American Zionist movement. One of his best known relationships was his friendship with Louis Brandeis, the most widely known and admired secular Jew in America. De Haas introduced Brandeis to the ideas of Theodor Herzl and ideals of Zionism. After a relatively short period of examination and self-examination, Louis Brandeis became an ardent, committed Zionist in 1908. More importantly, Brandeis would head the FAZ and the American Zionist movement by 1912.[4]

De Haas died at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City on 21 March 1937 after a lengthy illness.[5]

Justice Brandeis and others were acutely aware the Diaspora of displaced Jews were a tension in Europe, Russia, and around the world, and looked for a National Jewish Homeland to be re-established.

The "Chicago Boys" including Mitlon Freedman and Richard Helms, CIA, were advocates of military juntus in problematic 2nd and 3rd world countries because of the tendency of them to adopt socialism placing them in the political sphere of Russia or China

Obama Is A Rothschild Puppet

(Excerpted from prophecies.org) into Revalation 12

"It means a new world power base, which is centered in Europe! And, it is to this power base that your new king belongs."

"You said, King."

"Yes, I said, 'King.'"

"My Father, tell me more."

"My Little One, what do you see?"

"My Father, I see Barack Obama. He walks up the steps of this huge castle Buckinham palace], knocks on the door and he is greeted by a servant. This servant leads him down a long hallway and on the walls of the hall are portraits of many important past leaders, and just glancing among them, I see Winston Churchill and Bill Clinton, among others. The servant goes ahead of Obama and ushers him through an open door; and into the presence of the Rothschild man, who sits at a desk. The Rothshild man is dressed in a suit as a business man, but his countenance quickly changes and I no longer see a man, but a beastly creature.

The Rothschild man says, 'sit, my friend. For I have a need for speed. Here, take a pill and let me see what will be. Twiddly dee! Twiddly dee!' And, he takes a pill of speed and gives Obama a pill of speed and I see that someone then lowers a big, heavy, metal lever and a big ship, which was idle, begins to roar forth as it churns up the waters.

Therefore, what you see now, with this man, who is not even yet inaugurated, is a great push to uproot long-held, Bush-Rockefeller-Clinton power bases in America, thereby removing their power from this nation, so that it falls more readily into the hands of the power elite in Europe and into the hands of the Israeli Mossad, and in to the hands of other nations.

To all of you, it may appear that he is doing a great work to destabilize the drug empire of the Bushes and Clintons, and to bring back to America, what these have stolen and robbed from this nation! Do not be deceived!

For, his great push to take these trillions and to sit over this great amount of wealth is being driven by the European Satanists in their bid to destroy America and also by the Vatican, the Israeli Mossad, and even others.

Political ideology

Leninism is a political ideology developed by Russian Marxist revolutionary Vladimir Lenin that proposes the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat led by a revolutionary vanguard party, as the political prelude to the establishment of communism.

Stalinism is the means of governing and policies which were implemented in the Soviet Union from 1927 to 1953 by Joseph Stalin. It included the creation of a one-party totalitarian police state; rapid industrialization; the theory of socialism in one country; collectivization of agriculture; intensification of the class struggle under socialism; a cult of personality[1][2] and subordination of the interests of foreign communist parties to those of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, deemed by Stalinism to be the leading vanguard party of communist revolution at the time.

Douglas MacArthur, America's Emperor of Japan
retrieved from Association for Diplomatic Studies & Trainingk and copied or modified to here

Association for Diplomatic Studies & Training

He was a general's general, tough, unrelenting, a man who embraced the role history thrust on him. He was also haughty and controversial, traits that would lead to his eventual downfall. General Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Commander of the Allied Powers (SCAP), arrived in Japan on August 30, 1945 to oversee the ceremony formally marking its surrender. His mission was to organize a postwar Japanese government, with two primary goals: eliminating Japan's war potential, and turning it into a Western-style nation with a pro-American orientation.

MacArthur had full authority, almost unlimited power, to accomplish these tasks. As interim leader of Japan from Japan from 1945-48, he was responsible for confirming and enforcing sentences for Japan's war criminals and oversaw the rebuilding of the country, including drafting the country's new constitution and implementing a major land reform initiative.

In separate interviews with Charles Stuart Kennedy, Ulrich A. Straus (interviewed beginning in November 1992), Christopher H. Phillips (May 1993), Richard B. Finn (April 1991), and Abraham M. Sirkin (May 1997) recall their times in Japan during the occupation and discuss the trial of Japanese war criminals, as well as general feelings about General MacArthur's tenure as "Emperor of Japan," including how many Japanese seemed to regard him as an "Imperial Being," and the tensions between MacArthur and the State Department.

At the time, Ulrich A. Straus was a G-2 military intelligence officer stationed in Japan, while Phillips worked on MacArthur's staff. Richard B. Finn was a political officer in Tokyo, and Abraham Sirkin was the Chief of the News Division for MacArthur's Headquarters.

Quote retrieved from The end of the "wars on the cheap" for the United States and copied or modified to here

This analysis was written for the Unz Review.

With the Neocon coup against Trump now completed (at least in its main objective, that is the neutralization of Trump, the subsidiary objective, impeaching Trump and removing him from office remains something for the future) the world has to deal, yet again, with a very dangerous situation: the AngloZionist Empire is on a rapid decline, but the Neocons are back in power and they will do anything and everything in their power to stop and reverse this trend. It is also painfully obvious from their rhetoric, as well as from their past actions, that the only "solution" out the Neocons see is to trigger some kind of war. So the pressing question now becomes this: "whom will the Empire strike next?". Will it be the DPRK or Syria? Iran or Venezuela? In the Ukraine, maybe? Or do the Neocons seek war with Russia or China?

Now, of course, if we assume that the Neocons are completely crazy, then everything is possible, from a US invasion of Lesotho to a simultaneous thermonuclear attack on Russia and China. I am in no way dismissing the insanity (and depravity) of the Neocons, but I also see no point in analyzing that which is clearly irrational, if only because all modern theories of deterrence always imply a "rational actor" and not a crazy lunatic on an suicidal amok run. For our purposes, therefore, we will assume that there is a semblance of rational thinking left in Washington DC and that even if the Neocons decide to launch some clearly crazy operation, somebody in the top levels of power will find the courage prevent this, just like Admiral Fallon did it with his "not on my watch!" which possibly prevented a US attack on Iran in 2007). So, assuming a modicum of rationality is still involved, where could the Empire strike next?

The ideal scenario

We all by now know exactly what the Empire likes to do: find some weak country, subvert it, accuse it of human right violations, slap economic sanctions, trigger riots and militarily intervene in "defense" of "democracy", "freedom" and "self-determination" (or some other combo of equally pious and meaningless concepts). But that is only the 'political recipe'. What I want to look into is what I call "the American way of war", that is the way US commanders like to fight.

During the Cold War, most of the US force planning, procurement, doctrine and training was focused on fighting a large conventional war against the Soviet Union and it was clearly understood that this conventional war could escalate into a nuclear war. Setting aside the nuclear aspect for a while (it is not relevant to our discussion), I would characterize the conventional dimension of such a war as "heavy": centered on large formations (divisions, brigades), involving a lot of armor and artillery, this kind of warfare would involve immense logistical efforts on both sides and that, in turn, would involve deep-strikes on second echelon forces, supply dumps, strategic axes of communications (roads, railways, bridges, etc.) and a defense in depth in key sectors. The battlefield would be huge, hundreds of kilometers away on both sides of the FEBA (Forward Edge of Battle Area, or "front line"). On all levels, tactical, operational and strategic, defenses would be prepared in two, possibly three, echelons. To give you an idea of the distances involved, the Soviet 2nd strategic echelon in Europe was deployed as far back as the Ukraine! (this is why, by the way, the Ukraine inherited huge ammo dumps from the Soviet Union, and why there never was a shortage of weapons on any side for the conduct of the Ukrainian civil war). With the collapse of the Soviet Union's Empire, this entire threat disappeared, well, if not overnight, then almost overnight. Of course, the Gulf War provided the US armed forces and NATO one last, but big, "goodbye party" (against an enemy which had absolutely no chance to prevail), but soon thereafter it became pretty clear to US strategists that the "heavy war" was over and that armored brigades might not be the most useful war-fighting tool in the US arsenal.

This is when US strategists, mostly from Special Operation Forces, developed what I like to call "war on the cheap". It works something like this: first, get the CIA to fund, arm and train some local insurgents (if needed, bring some from abroad); next embed US Special Forces with these local insurgents and provide them with FACs (forward air controllers, frontline soldiers specially trained to direct close support fixed and rotary wing aircraft to strike at enemy forces in direct contact with US and "friendlies"); finally, deploy enough aircraft in and around the combat zone (on aircraft carriers, in neighboring countries or even on seized local airstrips) to support combat operations day and night. The key notion is simple: provide the friendly insurgents with an overwhelming advantage in firepower. You have all seen this on YouTube: US and "coalition" forces advance until they get into a firefight and, unless they rapidly prevail, they call in an airstrike which results into a huge BOOM!!! following by cheering Americans and friendlies and the total disappearance of the attackers. Repeat that enough times, and you get an easy, cheap and rapid victory over a completely outgunned enemy. This basic approach can be enhanced by various "supplements" such as providing the insurgents with better gear (antitank weapons, night vision, communications, etc.) and bringing in some US or allied forces, including mercenaries, to take care of the really tough targets.

While many in the US armed forces were deeply skeptical of this new approach, the dominance of the Special Forces types and the success, at least temporary, of this "war on the cheap" in Afghanistan made it immensely popular with US politicians and propagandists. Best of all, this type of warfare resulted in very few casualties for the Americans and even provided them with a high degree of "plausible deniability" should something go wrong. Of course, the various three letter spooks loved it too.

Ironically, Iraq, Libya, and Syria would likely not have had an opportunity to develop as far as they did had it not been for the backing by the USSR.

What so many failed to realize in the early euphoria about US invincibility was that this "war on the cheap" made three very risky assumptions:

1. First and foremost, it relied on a deeply demoralized enemy who felt that, like in the series "Star Trek", resistance to the Borg (aka the USA) was futile because even if the actual US forces deployed were limited in size and capabilities, the Americans would, no doubt, bring in more and more forces if needed, until the opposition was crushed.

2. Second, this type of warfare assumes that the US can get air superiority over the entire battlefield. Americans do not like to provide close air support when they can be shot down by enemy aircraft or missiles.

3. Third, this type of warfare requires the presence of local insurgents who can be used as “boots on the ground” to actually occupy and control territory. We will now see that all three of these assumptions are not necessarily true or, to put it even better, that the AngloZionists have run out of countries in which these assumptions still apply. Let’s take them one by one.

Hezbollah, Lebanon 2006

Okay, this war did not officially involve the USA, true, but it did involve Israel, which is more or less the same, at least for our purposes. While it is true that superior Hezbollah tactics and preparation of the battlefield did play an important role, and while it is undeniable that Russian anti-tank weapons gave Hezbollah the capability to attack and destroy even the most advanced Israeli tanks, the single most important development of this war was that for the first time in the Middle-East a rather small and comparatively weak Arab force showed no fear whatsoever when confronted with the putatively “invincible Tshahal”. The British reporter Robert Fisk was the first person to detect this immense change and its tremendous implications: (emphasis added)

Times of Rebellion and Civil v. Military Justice, Miligan

Brennan Center *

In the imagined scenario described earlier, the president set up military tribunals to try violators of federal immigration law. The Posse Comitatus Act, however, only applies to military participation in law enforcement. When it comes to military involvement in judicial functions, the analysis changes, and the law is characterized by profound uncertainty. While the Calling Forth Clause expressly contemplates the use of military forces to execute the law, no provision of the Constitution authorizes the military to perform the functions assigned to the judicial branch under Article III. Nonetheless, the Supreme Court's 1866 decision in Ex parte Milligan suggests that the president can, in certain circumstances, impose martial law in an area and replace the civilian courts there with military tribunals.

The Court's reasoning in Milligan has some striking inconsistencies and must be interpreted cautiously. In one part of the opinion, the Court firmly asserts that emergency conditions can never justify exceeding the bounds of the Constitution. Elsewhere, however, the Court says that "necessity" might warrant declaring martial law and using military tribunals to try civilians if regular courts are unavailable [perhaps subverted effectively by CIA, Marshalls, or other parties].

Secret infiltrator of the Real IRA retrieved from For the first time, the full story of the smuggler the FBI recruited to spy on terrorists is revealed Northern Ireland -

Observer special and copied or modified to here

He is a 6ft 5in giant, but no one knows what he looks like. He could be the key to one of the most important terrorist trials for decades - but no one knows his story.

Now The Observer can reveal both the first up-to-date picture of David Rupert, the 51-year-old FBI and MI5 spy who infiltrated the Real IRA, and tell the full tale of how a bankrupt businessman turned smuggler was drawn into the shadowy and lethal world of covert operations against Irish republican terror and ended up as the key witness against the group believed to be behind the Omagh bombing.

The 20-stone American arrived in Ireland in the early Nineties after being recruited by a female FBI informant who worked inside Noraid, the Provisional IRA's support group in the US.

Though with his Anglo-Saxon Protestant background Rupert was an unlikely supporter of Irish republicanism, infiltrating the movement proved straightforward. The FBI agent handling the female Noraid informer arranged for the pair to travel as a couple to Co Donegal to link up with Republican Sinn Fein (RSF), the only group then opposed to the Provisional IRA's ceasefire.

Rupert, who owed creditors $20 million (£14m) on accident claims against his Kentucky-based trucking company and in unpaid US tax, had strong financial motives for helping the FBI. He was also keen to keep his brother, who had been arrested in Florida while smuggling marijuana in watermelons, out of prison.

In 1996 Rupert used FBI funds to lease the Drowes pub and a holiday caravan park in Tullallen, Co Leitrim. He later abandoned the pub, which was subsequently burnt down in mysterious circumstances. Rupert and his wife, Maureen, became active in the politics of the RSF, gaining the confidence of former IRA prisoner Joe O'Neil.

At the end of 1996, the FBI asked Rupert to contact a detective in the Garda Siochana. Soon he was passing them information about republican dissidents.

Double Blind retrieved from The untold story of how British intelligence infiltrated and undermined the IRA By Matthew Teague and copied or modified to here

I first met the man now called Kevin Fulton in London, on Platform 13 at Victoria Station. We almost missed each other in the crowd; he didn't look at all like a terrorist.

He stood with his feet together, a short and round man with a kind face, fair hair, and blue eyes. He might have been an Irish grammar-school teacher, not an IRA bomber or a British spy in hiding. Both of which he was.

Fulton had agreed to meet only after an exchange of messages through an intermediary. Now, as we talked on the platform, he paced back and forth, scanning the faces of passersby. He checked the time, then checked it again. He spoke in an almost impenetrable brogue, and each time I leaned in to understand him, he leaned back, suspicious. He fidgeted with several mobile phones, one devoted to each of his lives. "I'm just cautious," he said.

He lives in London now, but his wife remains in Northern Ireland. He rarely goes out, for fear of bumping into the wrong person, and so leads a life of utter isolation, a forty-five-year-old man with a lot on his mind.

During the next few months, Fulton and I met several times on Platform 13. Over time his jitters settled, his speech loosened, and his past tumbled out: his rise and fall in the Irish Republican Army, his deeds and misdeeds, his loyalties and betrayals. He had served as a covert foot soldier in what has come to be called the Dirty War: a cutthroat and secret British effort to infiltrate and undermine the IRA, carried out in the shadows of the infamous Troubles. “It was a lot grayer and darker,” Fulton said of the clandestine war. “Darker even than people can imagine.”

But there’s this: it worked. British spies subverted the IRA from within, leaving it in military ruin, and Irish Republicans-who want to end British rule in Northern Ireland and reunite the island-have largely shifted their weight to Sinn Féin and its peaceable, political efforts. And so the Dirty War provides a model for how to dismantle a terrorist organization. The trick is to not mind killing, and to expect dying.

Colleagues [of Fulton] called both men “hard bastards” -true IRA boys, mothered by terrorism. They killed for the cause, time and again. But British spies had infiltrated the IRA, spreading deceit and rumors of deceit. The IRA had turned against itself. Scap couldn’t say for sure who fought on his side.

RUC Special Branch was the Special Branch of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, and was heavily involved in the British state effort during the Troubles, especially against the Provisional Irish Republican Army. It worked closely with MI5 and the Intelligence Corps. The RUC came under criticism for its handling of its agents within paramilitary organisations, including from other RUC officers.[1] Appointed in 1984 to investigate claims of a RUC “shoot-to-kill” policy, former Deputy Chief Constable of Greater Manchester Police, John Stalker, said that he “had never experienced …such an influence over an entire police force by one small section” in regard to Special Branch.

Ulster Ulster Scots: Ulstèr[5][6][7] or Ulster) is one of the four traditional Irish provinces, in the north of Ireland. It is made up of nine counties: six of these constitute Northern Ireland (a part of the United Kingdom); the remaining three are in the Republic of Ireland

Unlike the other provinces, Ulster has a high percentage of Protestants, making up almost half of its population. English is the main language and Ulster English the main dialect. A minority also speak Irish, and there are Gaeltachtaí (Irish-speaking regions) in southern County Londonderry, the Gaeltacht Quarter, Belfast, and in County Donegal; collectively, these three regions are home to a quarter of the total Gaeltacht population of Ireland.

Eras Some sources divide the history of the military-industrial complex into three distinct eras.[30]

First era

From 1797 to 1941, the government only relied on civilian industries while the country was actually at war. The government owned their own shipyards and weapons manufacturing facilities which they relied on through World War I. With World War II came a massive shift in the way that the American government armed the military.

With the onset of World War II President Franklin D. Roosevelt established the War Production Board to coordinate civilian industries and shift them into wartime production. Throughout World War II arms production in the United States went from around one percent of the annual GDP to 40 percent of the GDP.[30] Various American companies, such as Boeing and General Motors, maintained and expanded their defense divisions.[30] These companies have gone on to develop various technologies that have improved civilian life as well, such as night-vision goggles and GPS.

Second era

The second era is identified as beginning with the coining of the term by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. This era continued through the Cold War period, up to the end of the Warsaw Pact and the collapse of the Soviet Union. A 1965 article written by Marc Pilisuk and Thomas Hayden says benefits of the Military Industrial Complex of the United States include the advancement of the civilian technology market as civilian companies benefit from innovations from the MIC and vice versa.[31] In 1993 the Pentagon urged defense contractors to consolidate due to the collapse of communism and shrinking defense budget.

Third (current) era

In the third era, defense contractors either consolidated or shifted their focus to civilian innovation. From 1992 to 1997 there was a total of US$55 billion worth of mergers in the defense industry, with major defense companies purchasing smaller competitors.

Dynamite was invented by Swedish chemist

Alfred Bernhard Nobel retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Alfred Bernhard Nobel was a Swedish chemist, engineer, inventor, businessman, and philanthropist. He is best known for having bequeathed his fortune to establish the Nobel Prize, though he also made several important contributions to science, holding 355 patents in his lifetime. Nobel's most famous invention was dynamite, a safer and easier means of harnessing the explosive power of nitroglycerin; it was patented in 1867 and was soon used worldwide for mining and infrastructure development.

Nobel displayed an early aptitude for science and learning, particularly in chemistry and languages; he became fluent in six languages and filed his first patent at age 24. He embarked on many business ventures with his family, most notably owning Bofors, an iron and steel producer that he developed into a major manufacturer of cannons and other armaments.

After reading an erroneous obituary condemning him as a war profiteer, Nobel was inspired to bequeath his fortune to the Nobel Prize institution, which would annually recognize those who “conferred the greatest benefit to humankind”.[1][2] The synthetic element nobelium was named after him,[3] and his name and legacy also survives in companies such as Dynamit Nobel and AkzoNobel, which descend from mergers with companies he founded.

Nobel was elected a member of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, which, pursuant to his will, would be responsible for choosing the Nobel laureates in physics and in chemistry.

Emmanuel Nobel father of Nobel Prize namesake Alfred Nobel moved to Russia from Sweden in 1838, to sell his inventions in Saint Petersburg, where he lived for two decades with his family. In Saint Petersburg he was attached to the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Saint Katarina along with other Swedes such as Johan Patrik Ljungström, with whom he may have collaborated.[3] Among his successful creations was an improved version of an underwater exploding mine that personally interested Tsar Nicholas I of Russia. Immanuel founded a war supplies factory, Fonderies et Ateliers Mécaniques Nobel Fils, which turned out to be a very profitable business. However, the death of Nicholas I in 1855 and the end of the Crimean War in 1856 brought about a shift in Russian policies and the new Tsar Alexander II ordered a severe cut in the military budget that eventually placed Immanuel’s company in serious economic difficulties. In 1859, the technical management of Nobel Fils was passed to Immanuel’s son Ludvig and the former returned to Sweden. In 1862, Immanuel’s firm was finally sold by his creditors.

Following various business failures, Alred Nobel's father Immanuel Nobel moved to Saint Petersburg, Russia and grew successful there as a manufacturer of machine tools and explosives. He invented the veneer lathe (which made possible the production of modern plywood[9]) and started work on the torpedo.[10] In 1842,[11] the family joined him in the city. Now prosperous, his parents were able to send Nobel to private tutors and the boy excelled in his studies, particularly in chemistry and languages, achieving fluency in English, French, German and Russian.[4] For 18 months, from 1841 to 1842, Nobel went to the only school he ever attended as a child, in Stockholm.

Alfed Nobel gained proficiency in Swedish, French, Russian, English, German, and Italian. He also developed sufficient literary skill to write poetry in English. His Nemesis is a prose tragedy in four acts about Beatrice Cenci. It was printed while he was dying, but the entire stock was destroyed immediately after his death except for three copies, being regarded as scandalous and blasphemous. It was published in Sweden in 2003 and has been translated into Slovenian and French.

written shortly before his death in 1896 and printed while he was dying. Following Nobel's death the entire printed edition was destroyed, except for three copies. The first surviving edition (bilingual Swedish-Esperanto) was published in Sweden in 2003. It has been translated to Slovenian via the Esperanto version. Since 2005 it exists in Italian. In 2008 it was translated into French and Spanish and in 2010 it was published in a bilingual Russian-Esperanto edition.

The first, and so far the only, production was at the Intima theatre in Stockholm in 2005.

The play is based on the story of Beatrice Cenci, an Italian noblewoman, who was executed after a plot to murder her father in 1599.

in the 1860s and was the first safely manageable explosive stronger than black powder.

Alfred Nobel's father, Immanuel Nobel, was an industrialist, engineer, and inventor. He built bridges and buildings in Stockholm and founded Sweden's first rubber factory. His construction work inspired him to research new methods of blasting rock that were more effective than black powder. After some bad business deals in Sweden, in 1838 Immanuel moved his family to Saint Petersburg, where Alfred and his brothers were educated privately under Swedish and Russian tutors. At age 17, Alfred was sent abroad for two years; in the United States he met Swedish engineer John Ericsson and in France studied under famed chemist Théophile-Jules Pelouze and his pupil Ascanio Sobrero, who had first synthesized nitroglycerin in 1847. It was in France that Nobel first encountered nitroglycerin, which Pelouze cautioned against using as a commercial explosive because of its great sensitivity to shock.

In 1857, Nobel filed the first of several hundred patents, mostly concerning air pressure, gas and fluid gauges, but remained fascinated with nitroglycerin's potential as an explosive. Nobel, along with his father and brother Emil, experimented with various combinations of nitroglycerin and black powder. Nobel came up with a solution of how to safely detonate nitroglycerin by inventing the detonator, or blasting cap, that allowed a controlled explosion set off from a distance using a fuse. In the summer of 1863, Nobel performed his first successful detonation of pure nitroglycerin, using a blasting cap made of a copper percussion cap and mercury fulminate. In 1864, Alfred Nobel filed patents for both the blasting cap and his method of synthesizing nitroglycerin, using sulfuric acid, nitric acid and glycerin. On 3 September 1864, while experimenting with nitroglycerin, Emil and several others were killed in an explosion at the factory at Immanuel Nobel's estate at Heleneborg. After this, Alfred founded the company Nitroglycerin Aktiebolaget AB in Vinterviken to continue work in a more isolated area and the following year moved to Germany, where he founded another company, Dynamit Nobel.

Despite the invention of the blasting cap, the instability of nitroglycerin rendered it useless as a commercial explosive. To solve this problem, Nobel sought to combine it with another substance that would make it safe for transport and handling but yet would not reduce its effectiveness as an explosive. He tried combinations of cement, coal, and sawdust, but was unsuccessful. Finally, he tried diatomaceous earth, fossilized algae, that he brought from the Elbe River near his factory in Hamburg, which successfully stabilized the nitroglycerin into a portable explosive.

United States

Dynamite was first manufactured in the U.S. by the Giant Powder Company of San Francisco, California, whose founder had obtained the exclusive rights from Nobel in 1867. Giant was eventually acquired by DuPont, which produced dynamite under the Giant name until Giant was dissolved by DuPont in 1905.[11] Thereafter, DuPont produced dynamite under its own name until 1911-12 when its explosives monopoly was broken up by the U.S. Circuit Court in the “Powder Case”. Two new companies were formed upon the breakup, the Hercules Powder Company and the Atlas Powder Company, which took up the manufacture of dynamite (in different formulations) subsequently.

Currently only Dyno Nobel manufactures dynamite in the US. The only facility producing it is located in Carthage, Missouri, but the material is purchased from Dyno Nobel by other manufacturers, who put their labels on the dynamite and boxes.

Non-dynamite explosives

Other explosives are often referred to or confused with dynamite:

TNT

TNT is most commonly assumed to be the same as (or confused for) dynamite, largely due to the ubiquity of both explosives during the 20th century and the civilian practice of preparing dynamite charges in 203 mm × 25 mm (8 in × 1 in) “sticks” wrapped in red waxed paper and shaped to fit the cylindrical boreholes drilled in the rock face. This incorrect connection between TNT and dynamite was enhanced by Bugs Bunny cartoons where animators started labeling any kind of cartoon bomb (ranging from sticks of dynamite to kegs of black powder) as “TNT” because the acronym was shorter and more memorable and did not require literacy to recognize “TNT” meant “bomb” (similar to the use of XXX markings on whiskey bottles and barrels in cartoons). This eventually led to the general perception that TNT and dynamite were one and the same.

In actuality, aside from both being high explosives, TNT and dynamite have very little in common: TNT, or trinitrotoluene, is a second generation castable explosive adopted by the military. The German armed forces adopted it as a filling for artillery shells in 1902, some 40 years after the invention of dynamite, which is a first generation phlegmatized explosive primarily intended for civilian earthmoving. TNT has never been popular or widespread in civilian earthmoving, as it is considerably more expensive and less powerful by weight than dynamite,[12] as well as being slower to mix and pack into cylindrical boreholes; for its part, dynamite has never been popular in warfare because it degenerates quickly under severe conditions and can be detonated by either fire or a wayward bullet. TNT’s primary asset is its remarkable insensitivity and stability: it is waterproof and incapable of detonating without the extreme shock and heat provided by a blasting cap (or a sympathetic detonation); this conveniently also allows it to be melted at 81 °C (178 °F), poured into high explosive shells and allowed to re-solidify with no extra danger or change in the TNT’s characteristics. Accordingly, more than 90% of the TNT produced in America was always for the military market, with most filling shells, hand grenades and aerial bombs and the remainder being packaged in brown “bricks” (not red cylinders) for use as demolition charges by combat engineers.

“Extra” dynamite

In the United States, in 1885, the chemist Russell S. Penniman invented “ammonium dynamite”, a form of explosive that used ammonium nitrate as a substitute for the more costly nitroglycerin. Ammonium nitrate has only 85% of the chemical energy of nitroglycerin.

It is rated by either “weight strength” (the amount of ammonium nitrate in the medium) or “cartridge strength” (the potential explosive strength generated by an amount of explosive of a certain density and grain size used in comparison to the explosive strength generated by an equivalent density and grain size of a standard explosive). For example, high-explosive 65% Extra Dynamite has a weight strength of 65% ammonium nitrate and 35% “dope” (the absorbent medium mixed with the stabilizers and additives). Its “cartridge strength” would be its weight in pounds times its strength in relation to an equal amount of ANFO (the civilian baseline standard) or TNT (the military baseline standard). For example, 65% ammonium dynamite with a 20% cartridge strength would mean the stick was equal to an equivalent weight strength of 20% ANFO.

“Military dynamite” is a dynamite substitute, formulated without nitroglycerin. It contains 75% RDX, 15% TNT, 5% SAE 10 motor oil, and 5% cornstarch, but is much safer to store and handle for long periods than Nobel’s dynamite.[14] Military dynamite substitutes much more stable chemicals for nitroglycerin.

Was Obama's Grandma a Rockefeller?

Standard Oil ties. Madelyn's father worked for Rockefeller as an accountant, lived on Standard Oil lease rights property Madelyn Lee Payne Dunham (October 26, 1922 - November 2, 2008) was the American maternal grandmother of Barack Obama, the 44th and current President of the United States of America. She and her husband Stanley Armour Dunham raised Obama from age ten in their Honolulu, Hawaii apartment.

Considering her grandson's meteoric rise to the U.S. presidency, Madelyn's roots are questionable. Her "alleged" parents, Rolla Charles Payne (1892-1968) and Leona McCurry (1897-1930), lived on a farm and although the Paynes were not farmers, they enjoyed a 'modest income'. How is it a non-farmer, living on a farm in Kansas, earned his 'modest' living?

Well, he survived quite lucratively leasing his land to John D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil Company, managing oil leases for Standard Oil in Oklahoma and Kansas. You heard it right. Rolla Payne earned his living through 'oil-lease royalties' and also as an accountant for Standard Oil.

A question arises. Was Madelyn indeed the daughter of Rolla and Leona? The possibility exists that one of the Rockefeller's,John D. Rockefeller Jr. perhaps, while down in Kansas on business for the family company, enjoyed a farmer's daughter,if you will, and the Payne's were kindly asked to raise the result of that encounter. The result being baby Madelyn Lee. Not an outlandish thought for two reasons. Madelyn looks like a Rockefeller and her grandson became president of the U.S. which is owned by the Rockefeller's as they are co-owners of the private central bank company known as the Federal Reserve. It seems most likely that "Junior" fathered Madelyn as his sons were quite young though some of them were indeed physically mature enough to father a child.

The proof is in the pudding. Judge for yourself if the possibility exists that Barack Obama has Rockefeller blood.

A brother of Madelyn Lee Payne Dunham, Payne was former President Barack Obama's great uncle and was mentioned in Obama's speeches, including the one given in 2009 commemorating the anniversary of D-Day.

Barack Obama's grandmother dies retrieved from NBC News - AP and copied or modified to here

A day before the presidential election, Barack Obama announced the death Monday of his grandmother, who helped raise him and whom he praised as the cornerstone of his family.

> And as Edward Paul Donegan and Ted Gunderson assert they are being poisoned by the NWO, Ed Donegan on lock-down in FMC Butner, and Obama just about to be elected President of the USA.

Barack Obama's grandmother, whose personality and bearing shaped much of the life of the Democratic presidential contender, has died, Obama announced Monday, one day before the election. Madelyn Payne Dunham was 86.

Obama announced the news from the campaign trail in Charlotte, North Carolina. The joint statement with his sister Maya Soetoro-Ng said Dunham died peacefully late Sunday night after a battle with cancer.

"She's gone home," Obama said as tens of thousands of rowdy supporters at the University of North Carolina-Charlotte grew silent in an evening drizzle.

"And she died peacefully in her sleep with my sister at her side. And so there is great joy as well as tears. I'm not going to talk about it too long because it is hard for me to talk about."

But he said he wanted people to know a little about her - that she lived through the Great Depression and World War II, working on a bomber assembly line with a baby at home and a husband serving his country. He said she was humble and plain spoken, one of the “quiet heroes that we have all across America” working hard and hoping to see their children and grandchildren thrive.

Learning Objectives

With the expanding importance of the comprehensive and timely need for intelligence for nations as well as businesses, the student will explore the essential elements that make up the intelligence cycle with a focus on how these pivotal points are exploited. As part of this class, the exploration of the continued importance of critical thinking, as well as out-of-the-box analysis, will be heavily leveraged to improve the critical-thinking skills of the students. As cyber topics continue to evolve, the increased importance of cyber intelligence is growing and as such the protection of our intelligence cycles will expand as well; emphasizing the growing need to ensure our processes are not compromised in a cyber-dominated landscape. Cyber Counterintelligence is one aspect and possibly one of the most crucial topics at the core of protecting our collection efforts. The potential for active defense or offensive cyber counterintelligence operations will be covered.

The course will rely heavily on individual research and group discussion to explore the world of cyber counterintelligence, and where applicable, make use of the student's ability to do independent thinking and analysis of in-class problems assigned through weekly discussion threads. This course focuses on open source intelligence and adversaries while creating online personas to assist in data collection and information extraction. This introductory course examines open source intelligence collection as well as the availability and use of OSINT tools. Students will be able to understand the use methods of only anonymity, the fundamentals behind cyber persona development, enrollment in various social media sites and applications, and how these current methods can be employed in their organizations to assist in operational cyber security, their defense against adversaries, and passive data collection. The establishment of cyber personas takes patience and time to create a credible resource. Parallel activities occur through the outline above. Treadstone 71 maintains separation from the client as required maintaining confidentiality of methods and processes.

Frank Olson was born to Swedish immigrant parents in Hurley, Iron County, Wisconsin. Olson graduated from Hurley High School in 1927.

Olson enrolled at the University of Wisconsin, earning both a B.S. and, in 1938, a Ph.D. in bacteriology. He married his classmate, Alice, and would go on to have three children: Eric, Nils, and Lisa.

Olson enrolled in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps to help pay off his college costs, and was called to active duty at Fort Hood in Texas as the United States entered World War II. Olson worked for a short time at Purdue University's Agricultural Experimentation Station before being called to active duty.

Work with the Army & CIA Olson served as a captain in the U.S. Army Chemical Corps. In December 1942, he got a call from Ira Baldwin, his thesis adviser at UoW and the future mentor of Sidney Gottlieb, who would go on to be the CIA's leading chemist and director of MK-ULTRA. Ira had been called to leave his University post to direct a secret program regarding the development of biological weapons, and wanted Olson to join him as one of the first scientists at what would become Fort Detrick. The army transferred him to Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland. A few months later, the Chemical Corps took over Detrick and established its secret Biologicals Warfare Laboratories.

At Camp Detrick, Baldwin worked with industrial partners such as George W. Merck and the U.S. military to establish the top secret U.S. bioweapons program beginning in 1943, during World War II, a time when interest in applying modern technology to warfare was high. Olson also worked with ex-Nazis who had been brought into the country through Operation Paperclip on the utilization of aerosolized anthrax.

Olson was discharged from the Army in 1944 and remained at Detrick on a civilian contract, continuing his research into aerobiology. In 1949, he joined many other Detrick scientists in Antigua for Operation Harness, which tested the vulnerability of different animals to toxic clouds. In 1950, he was a part of Operation Sea Spray, where the bacterium “Serratia marcescens” was released into the coastal mists of San Francisco through a minesweeper, reaching all of San Francisco’s 800,000 residents, as well as people living in eight surrounding cities. Olson traveled often to Fort Terry, a secret army base off Long Island, where toxins too deadly to be brought onto the U.S. mainland were tested.

This was the period where senior military officials and CIA officers were becoming deeply troubled at Soviet progress, and feared they were heading towards mastery of microbe warfare. Their alarm led to the forming of the Special Operations Division at Detrick in spring of 1949, with the purpose of conducting research on covert ways to utilize chemical weapons. SOD was known as a “Detrick within a Detrick” due to its level of secrecy. Olson became acting chief of SOD within a year of its creation, originally invited to join by colleague and SOD’s first chief, John Schwab.

At some point while assigned as a civilian U.S. Army contractor, Olson began working as a CIA employee. [1] In May 1952, Frank Olson was appointed to the committee for Project Artichoke, an experimental CIA interrogation program.

John XXIII gave notice of his intention to convene the council on 25 January 1959, less than three months after his election in October 1958.[5] His announcement in the chapter hall of the Benedictine monastery attached to the Basilica of Saint Paul Outside the Walls in Rome came as a surprise even to the cardinals present.

He had tested the idea only ten days before with one of them, his Cardinal Secretary of State Domenico Tardini, who gave enthusiastic support to the idea.[8] Although the pope later said the idea came to him in a flash in his conversation with Tardini, two cardinals had earlier attempted to interest him in the idea. They were two of the most conservative, Ernesto Ruffini and Alfredo Ottaviani, who had already in 1948 proposed the idea to Pius XII and who put it before John XXIII on 27 October 1958.

Reaction to the announcement was widespread and largely positive from both religious and secular leaders outside the Catholic Church, William Joseph Burns born April 4, 1956 is an American diplomat and career ambassador serving as the Director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Burns previously served as Ambassador of the United States to Jordan from 1998 to 2001, Assistant Secretary of State for Near East Affairs from 2001 to 2005, Ambassador of the United States to the Russian Federation from 2005 to 2008, and Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs from 2008 to 2011.

In January 2021, President Joe Biden nominated Burns to become the director of the Central Intelligence Agency. He was unanimously confirmed by voice vote on March 18, 2021, sworn in officially as director on March 19, 2021,[2] and ceremonially sworn in by Vice President Kamala Harris on March 23, 2021.

Burns was born at Fort Bragg, North Carolina in 1956.[9] He is the son of Peggy Cassady and William F. Burns (June 23, 1932 June 5, 2021), who was a United States Army Major General, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Arms Control, Bureau of Political-Military Affairs at the Department of State; and served as Director of the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency in 19881989 in the Ronald Reagan administration and as the first U.S. special envoy to denuclearization negotiations with former Soviet countries under the legislation sponsored by Senators Sam Nunn and Richard Lugar.

He earned a B.A. in history from La Salle University and M.Phil. and D.Phil. degrees in international relations from St John's College, Oxford, where he studied as a Marshall Scholar. Burns was also a member of the Oxford University Men's Basketball Team.

His father William F. Burns graduated from La Salle University in 1954 and joined the Army from ROTC in that same year.[4] Reaching the rank of major general, Burns' commands included Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Arms Control, Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs, Joint Chiefs of Staff Representative to the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces negotiations from 1981 to 1984 and 1985 to 1986 as well as deputy commandant of the United States Army War College. Thomas Gregory Clines (August 18, 1928 - July 30, 2013[1]) was a Central Intelligence Agency covert operations officer who was a prominent figure in the Iran-Contra Affair.

At Trial On February 22, 1990, Clines was indicted on four felony counts of underreporting to the IRS his earnings from his business enterprises for the 1985 and 1986 tax years by at least $260,000, and failing to disclose on his 1985 and 1986 tax returns that he had foreign overseas bank accounts. The prosecutors were Stuart E. Abrams, Geoffrey S. Berman and William M. Treanor.

On September 18, 1990, Clines was found guilty of all charges.[4] On December 13, 1990, U.S. District Judge Norman P. Ramsey sentenced Clines to 16 months in prison, $40,000 in fines,[4] and Clines was ordered to pay the cost of the prosecution. The Fourth Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, on February 27, 1992, upheld his convictions, and Clines served his prison sentence. Clines is the only Iran-Contra defendant to have served a prison sentence.[4]

The FBI COINTELPRO assassination of Fred Hampton

The FBI COINTELPRO Program and the Fred Hampton Assassination

G. Flint Taylor, Contributor Founding Partner, People's Law Office 12/03/2013 10:40 am ET Updated Feb 02, 2014 *

e then focused on unearthing more details about the FBI's involvement in the conspiracy, identified the FBI conspirators, joined them as defendants in the lawsuit and sought the Chicago office's COINTELPRO file in order to establish a direct link between the FBI's illegal program and the raid. When the Government refused to produce the file and the Judge refused to compel them to do so, we turned to Senator Frank Church's Select Committee to Study Governmental Operations. The Committee, which was created in the aftermath of the Watergate scandal, was investigating rampant abuses by all U.S. Intelligence Agencies, including the FBI. In late 1975 a Church Committee staffer informed us that there were several Chicago documents which definitively established the link. Armed with the content of the still secret documents, we were able to embarrass the Judge, who had privately reviewed the documents and previously declared them irrelevant, into ordering the FBI to produce the file. Among the documents provided were several that revealed the FBI's efforts to foment violence against Fred Hampton and the Chicago Panthers, and one dated December 3, 1969 that claimed the impending raid as part of the COINTELPRO program.

Alumni Day honorees Heckman, Milley focus on service and public policy retrieved from by Michael Hotchkiss, Princetwon University Office of Communications Feb. 20, 2016, 3:19 p.m. and copied or modified to here

In a speech titled “Strength Through Service,” Milley began his remarks in Richardson Auditorium by recognizing members of the military and veterans in the audience, including those from World War II and Vietnam.

Gen. Mark Milley (above) and economist James Heckman (below) were presented with Princeton University’s top alumni awards during Alumni Day on Feb. 20. Milley was this year’s recipient of the Woodrow Wilson Award, the University’s highest honor for undergraduate alumni. Heckman received the James Madison Medal, the University’s top honor for Graduate School alumni.

Joking that he “was in the half of the class that made the top half possible,” Milley recalled the unsettled state of the world during his time at Princeton: The Cold War was in full swing, terrorists disrupted the Middle East, the Soviet Union invaded Afghanistan and there was instability in Asia.

Today, he noted, the world remains turbulent, citing the re-emergence of Russia as an aggressive nation state, the rise of China, an arms race in Asia, and a challenging situation in the Middle East.

"I was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army in that turbulent world of 1980," said Milley, who graduated with a degree in politics. "I had no idea then that I would spend my life dealing with the consequences of the international events that were surrounding me at our graduation."

Milley, whose parents were both veterans of World War II, said he was drawn to serve but hadn't initially planned a career in the military.

"The idea that rang true all my life was I wanted to help others in whatever I decided to do and to be part of something greater than self, to give meaning to Princeton in the nation's service," he said. "I found my calling in the United States Army."

Today, he leads more than one million soldiers on active duty, in the National Guard and the Reserve. He pointed to the more than 187,000 members of the Army currently deployed in 140 nations around the world, the 2.6 million Americans who have served in combat since 2001, and the 200 Princetonians currently serving.

Levying War retrieved from Law.justia.com and copied or modified to here

SECTION 3. Clause 1. Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying War against them, or in adhering to their Enemies, giving them Aid and Comfort. No Person shall be convicted of Treason unless on the testimony of two Witnesses to the same overt Act, or on Confession in open court.

Levying War ANNOTATIONS Early judicial interpretation of the meaning of treason in terms of levying war was conditioned by the partisan struggles of the early nineteenth century, which involved the treason trials of Aaron Burr and his associates. In Ex parte Bollman,1479 which involved two of Burr's confederates, Chief Justice Marshall, speaking for himself and three other Justices, confined the meaning of levying war to the actual waging of war. "However flagitious may be the crime of conspiring to subvert by force the government of our country, such conspiracy is not treason. To conspire to levy war, and actually to levy war, are distinct offences. The first must be brought into open action by the assemblage of men for a purpose treasonable in itself, or the fact of levying war cannot have been committed. So far has this principle been carried, that … it has been determined that the actual enlistment of men to serve against the government does not amount to levying war." Chief Justice Marshall was careful, however, to state that the Court did not mean that no person could be guilty of this crime who had not appeared in arms against the country. “On the contrary, if war be actually levied, that is, if a body of men be actually assembled for the purpose of effecting by force a treasonable purpose, all those who perform any part, however minute, or however remote from the scene of action, and who are actually leagued in the general conspiracy, are to be considered as traitors. But there must be an actual assembling of men, for the treasonable purpose, to constitute a levying of war.”1480

On the basis of these considerations and because no part of the crime charged had been committed in the District of Columbia, the Court held that Bollman and Swartwout could not be tried in the District, and ordered their discharge. Marshall continued by saying that “the crime of treason should not be extended by construction to doubtful cases” and concluded that no conspiracy for overturning the Government and “no enlisting of men to effect it, would be an actual levying of war.”1481

The Burr Trial.-Not long afterward, the Chief Justice went to Richmond to preside over the trial of Aaron Burr. His ruling1482 denying a motion to introduce certain collateral evidence bearing on Burr’s activities is significant both for rendering the latter’s acquittal inevitable and for the qualifications and exceptions made to the Bollman decision. In brief, this ruling held that Burr, who had not been present at the assemblage on Blennerhassett’s Island, could be convicted of advising or procuring a levying of war only upon the testimony of two witnesses to his having procured the assemblage. This operation having been covert, such testimony was naturally unobtainable. The net effect of Marshall's pronouncements was to make it extremely difficult to convict one of levying war against the United States short of the conduct of or personal participation in actual hostilities.

Aid and Comfort to the Enemy

ANNOTATIONS The Cramer Case.-Since Bollman, the few treason cases that have reached the Supreme Court were outgrowths of World War II and have charged adherence to enemies of the United States and the giving of aid and comfort. In the first of these, Cramer v. United States,1484 the issue was whether the "overt act" had to be "openly manifest treason" or if it was enough if, when supported by the proper evidence, it showed the required treasonable intention.1485 The Court, in a five-to-four opinion by Justice Jackson, in effect took the former view holding that "the two-witness principle" interdicted "imputation of incriminating acts to the accused by circumstantial evidence or by the testimony of a single witness,"1486 even though the single witness in question was the accused himself. "Every act, movement, deed, and word of the defendant charged to constitute treason must be supported by the testimony of two witnesses,"1487 Justice Jackson asserted. Justice Douglas in a dissent, in which Chief Justice Stone and Justices Black and Reed concurred, contended that Cramer's treasonable intention was sufficiently shown by overt acts as attested to by two witnesses each, plus statements made by Cramer on the witness stand.

The Haupt Case.-The Supreme Court sustained a conviction of treason, for the first time in its history, in 1947 in Haupt v. United States.1488 Here it was held that although the overt acts relied upon to support the charge of treason-defendant's harboring and sheltering in his home his son who was an enemy spy and saboteur, assisting him in purchasing an automobile, and in obtaining employment in a defense plant-were all acts which a father would naturally perform for a son, this fact did not necessarily relieve them of the treasonable purpose of giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Speaking for the Court, Justice Jackson said: "No matter whether young Haupt's mission was benign or traitorous, known or unknown to the defendant, these acts were aid and comfort to him. In the light of this mission and his instructions, they were more than casually useful; they were aids in steps essential to his design for treason. If proof be added that the defendant knew of his son's instruction, preparation and plans, the purpose to aid and comfort the enemy becomes clear."1489

The Court held that conversation and occurrences long prior to the indictment were admissible evidence on the question of defendant's intent. And more important, it held that the constitutional requirement of two witnesses to the same overt act or confession in open court does not operate to exclude confessions or admissions made out of court, where a legal basis for the conviction has been laid by the testimony of two witnesses of which such confessions or admissions are merely corroborative. This relaxation of restrictions surrounding the definition of treason evoked obvious satisfaction from Justice Douglas, who saw in Haupt a vindication of his position in Cramer. His concurring opinion contains what may be called a restatement of the law of treason and merits quotation at length:

"As the Cramer case makes plain, the overt act and the intent with which it is done are separate and distinct elements of the crime. Intent need not be proved by two witnesses but may be inferred from all the circumstances surrounding the overt act. But if two witnesses are not required to prove treasonable intent, two witnesses need not be required to show the treasonable character of the overt act. For proof of treasonable intent in the doing of the overt act necessarily involves proof that the accused committed the overt act with the knowledge or understanding of its treasonable character."

"The requirement of an overt act is to make certain a treasonable project has moved from the realm of thought into the realm of action. That requirement is undeniably met in the present case, as it was in the case of Cramer."

"The Cramer case departed from those rules when it held that 'The two-witness principle is to interdict imputation of incriminating acts to the accused by circumstantial evidence or by the testimony of a single witness.' 325 U. S. p. 35. The present decision is truer to the constitutional definition of treason when it forsakes that test and holds that an act, quite innocent on its face, does not need two witnesses to be transformed into a incriminating one."1490

The Kawakita Case.-Kawakita v. United States1491 was decided on June 2, 1952. The facts are sufficiently stated in the following headnote: "At petitioner's trial for treason, it appeared that originally he was a native-born citizen of the United States and also a national of Japan by reason of Japanese parentage and law. While a minor, he took the oath of allegiance to the United States; went to Japan for a visit on an American passport; and was prevented by the outbreak of war from returning to this country. During the war, he reached his majority in Japan; changed his registration from American to Japanese, showed sympathy with Japan and hostility to the United States; served as a civilian employee of a private corporation producing war materials for Japan; and brutally abused American prisoners of war who were forced to work there. After Japan's surrender, he registered as an American citizen; swore that he was an American citizen and had not done various acts amounting to expatriation; and returned to this country on an American passport." The question whether, on this record, Kawakita had intended to renounce American citizenship, said the Court, in sustaining conviction, was peculiarly one for the jury and their verdict that he had not so intended was based on sufficient evidence. An American citizen, it continued, owes allegiance to the United States wherever he may reside, and dual nationality does not alter the situation.

FBI investigation

On December 9, 1963, the Warren Commission received the FBI's report of its investigation which concluded that three bullets had been fired-the first hitting Kennedy, the second hitting Connally, and the third hitting Kennedy in the head, killing him. [122] The Warren Commission concluded that one of the three shots missed, one passed through Kennedy and then struck Connally, and a third struck Kennedy in the head.

The President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy, known unofficially as the Warren Commission, was established on November 29, 1963, by President Johnson to investigate the assassination.[123] Its 888-page final report was presented to Johnson on September 24, 1964, and made public three days later.[124] It concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald had acted alone in killing Kennedy and wounding Connally, and that Jack Ruby acted alone in killing Oswald. [125][126] The commission's findings have proven controversial and been variously criticized and supported by later studies.[127]

The commission took its unofficial name, "The Warren Commission", from its chairman, Chief Justice Earl Warren. According to published transcripts of Johnson's presidential phone conversations, some major officials were opposed to forming such a commission, and several commission members took part only with extreme reluctance.[128] One of their chief reservations was that a commission would ultimately create more controversy than consensus, and those fears ultimately proved valid.[128]

All of the Warren Commission's records were submitted to the National Archives in 1964. The unpublished portion of those records was initially sealed for 75 years (to 2039) under a general National Archives policy that applied to all federal investigations by the executive branch of government, a period "intended to serve as protection for innocent persons who could otherwise be damaged because of their relationship with participants in the case".[129][130] The 75-year rule no longer exists, supplanted by the Freedom of Information Act of 1966 and the JFK Records Act of 1992.

Ramsey Clark Panel

In 1968, a panel of four medical experts appointed by Attorney General Ramsey Clark met to examine photographs, X-rays, documents, and other evidence. The panel concluded that Kennedy was struck by two bullets fired from above and behind, one traversing the base of the neck on the right without striking bone, and the other entering the skull from behind and destroying its upper right side. They also concluded that the skull shot entered well above the external occipital protuberance, which was at odds with the Warren Commission's findings.

Rockefeller Commission

The United States President's Commission on CIA Activities within the United States was set up under President Gerald Ford in 1975 to investigate the activities of the CIA within the United States. The commission was led by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, and is sometimes referred to as the Rockefeller Commission.

Part of the commission's work dealt with the Kennedy assassination, specifically, the head snap as seen in the Zapruder film (first shown to the general public in 1975), and the possible presence of E. Howard Hunt and Frank Sturgis in Dallas.[132] The commission concluded that neither Hunt nor Sturgis was in Dallas at the time of the assassination.[133]

Church Committee

The Church Committee is the common term referring to the 1975 United States Senate Select Committee to Study Governmental Operations with Respect to Intelligence Activities, a U.S. Senate committee chaired by Senator Frank Church, to investigate the illegal intelligence gathering by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) after the Watergate incident. It also investigated the CIA and FBI conduct relating to the JFK assassination.

heir report concluded that the investigation into the assassination by FBI and CIA was fundamentally deficient and that facts that may have greatly affected the investigation had not been forwarded to the Warren Commission by the agencies. The report hinted that there was a possibility that senior officials in both agencies made conscious decisions not to disclose potentially important information.

United States House Select Committee on Assassinations

As a result of increasing public and congressional skepticism regarding the Warren Commission's findings and the transparency of government agencies, House Resolution 1540 was passed in September 1976, creating the United States House Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) to investigate the assassinations of Kennedy and Martin Luther King, Jr.

The committee investigated until 1978, and in March 1979 issued its final report, concluding that President John F. Kennedy was probably assassinated as a result of a conspiracy.[136] The chief reason for this conclusion was, according to the report's dissent, the subsequently discredited[137][5] acoustic analysis of a police channel dictabelt recording. The committee concluded that previous investigations into Oswald's responsibility were "thorough and reliable" but they did not adequately investigate the possibility of a conspiracy, and that Federal agencies performed with "varying degrees of competency".[138] Specifically, the FBI and CIA were found to be deficient in sharing information with other agencies and the Warren Commission. Instead of furnishing all information relevant to the investigation, the FBI and CIA only responded to specific requests and were still occasionally inadequate.[139] Furthermore, the Secret Service did not properly analyze information it possessed prior to the assassination and was inadequately prepared to protect Kennedy.

Concerning the conclusions of "probable conspiracy", four of the twelve committee members wrote dissenting opinions.[140] In accordance with the recommendations of the HSCA, the Dictabelt recording and acoustic evidence of a second assassin was subsequently reexamined. In light of investigative reports from the FBI's Technical Services Division and a specially appointed National Academy of Sciences Committee determining that "reliable acoustic data do not support a conclusion that there was a second gunman",[141] the Justice Department concluded "that no persuasive evidence can be identified to support the theory of a conspiracy" in the Kennedy assassination.

Although the final report and supporting volumes of the HSCA was publicly released, the working papers and primary documents were sealed until 2029 under Congressional rules and only partially released as part of the 1992 JFK Act.

JFK Act and Assassination Records Review Board

In 1992, the popular but controversial movie JFK renewed public interest in the assassination and particularly in the still-classified documents referenced in the film's postscript. Largely in response to the film, Congress passed the JFK Act, or "President John F. Kennedy Assassination Records Collection Act of 1992". The goal of the legislation was to collect at the National Archives and make publicly available all of the assassination-related records held by federal and state government agencies, private citizens and various other organizations.

The JFK Act also mandated the creation of an independent office, the Assassination Records Review Board, to review the submitted records for completeness and continued secrecy. The Review Board was not commissioned to make any findings or conclusions regarding the assassination, just to collect and release all related documents. From 1994 until 1998, the Assassination Records Review Board gathered and unsealed about 60,000 documents, consisting of over 4 million pages.[143][144] Government agencies requested that some records remain classified and these were reviewed under section 6 criteria of the JFK Act. There were 29,420 such records and all of them were fully or partially released, with stringent requirements for redaction.

A staff report for the Assassinations Records Review Board contended that brain photographs in the Kennedy records are not of Kennedy's brain and show much less damage than Kennedy sustained. Boswell refuted these allegations.[145] The board also found that, conflicting with the photographic images showing no such defect, a number of witnesses (at both the hospital and the autopsy) saw a large wound in the back of Kennedy's head.[146] The board and board member, Jeremy Gunn, have also stressed the problems with witness testimony, asking people to weigh all of the evidence, with due concern for human error, rather than take single statements as “proof” for one theory or another.

All remaining assassination-related records (approximately 5,000 pages) were scheduled to be released by October 26, 2017, with the exception of documents certified for continued postponement by succeeding presidents under the following conditions: (1) “continued postponement is made necessary by an identifiable harm to the military, defense, intelligence operations, law enforcement, or conduct of foreign relations” and (2) “the identifiable harm is of such gravity that it outweighs the public interest in disclosure.” There was some concern among researchers that significant records, particularly those of the CIA, might still remain classified after 2017.[149][150] Although these documents may include interesting historical information, all of the records were examined by the Review Board and were not determined to impact the facts of the Kennedy assassination.[151] President Donald Trump said in October 2017 that he would not block the release of documents.[150] On 26 April 2018, the deadline set by President Trump to release all JFK records, he blocked the release of some records until October 26, 2021.[152][153]

Thomas Hale Boggs Sr. (February 15, 1914 - disappeared October 16, 1972) was an American Democratic politician and a member of the U.S. House of Representatives from New Orleans, Louisiana. He was the House majority leader and a member of the Warren Commission.

In 1972, while he was still majority leader, Boggs was on a fundraising drive in Alaska when the twin engine airplane in which he was travelling with Alaska congressman Nick Begich and two others, disappeared while flying from Anchorage to Juneau, Alaska.

On November 24, 1972, the search was suspended

John Jay McCloy (March 31, 1895 - March 11, 1989) was an American lawyer, diplomat, banker, and a presidential advisor. He served as Assistant Secretary of War during World War II under Henry Stimson, helping deal with issues such as German sabotage, political tensions in the North Africa Campaign, and opposing the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

An indefatigable committee member, McCloy during the war served on the government task forces that built the Pentagon, created the Office of Strategic Services, which eventually became the Central Intelligence Agency, and he proposed both the United Nations and the war crimes tribunals. He chaired the predecessor to the National Security Council.

Earl Warren (March 19, 1891 - July 9, 1974) was an American politician and jurist who served as 30th governor of California from 1943 to 1953 and as the 14th Chief Justice of the United States from 1953 to 1969.

He served as Governer, Attorney General and Chairman of the Republican Party Of Calorinia, perhaps a right wing who would have supported the assasination of JFK over MKULTRA in California

In late 1918, Warren returned to Oakland, where he accepted a position as the legislative assistant to Leon E. Gray, a newly-elected member of the California State Assembly. Shortly after arriving in the state capital of Sacramento, Warren was appointed as the clerk of the Assembly Judiciary Committee.[6] After a brief stint as a deputy city attorney for Oakland, in 1920 Warren was hired as a deputy district attorney for Alameda County.[7] By the end of 1924, Warren had become the most senior person in the department outside of the district attorney, Ezra Decoto. Though many of his professional colleagues supported Calvin Coolidge, Warren cast his vote for Progressive Party candidate Robert La Follette in the 1924 presidential election. That same year, Warren made his first foray into electoral politics, serving as the campaign manager for his friend, Republican Assemblyman Frank Anderson.

ith the support of Governor Friend Richardson and publisher Joseph R. Knowland, a leader of the conservative faction of San Francisco Bay Area Republicans, Warren was appointed as the Alameda County district attorney in 1925.[9] Warren faced a tough re-election campaign in 1926, as local Republican boss Michael Joseph Kelly sought to unseat him. Warren rejected political contributions and largely self-funded his campaign, leaving him at a financial disadvantage to Kelly's preferred candidate, Preston Higgins. Nonetheless, Warren won a landslide victory over Higgins, taking over two-thirds of the vote.[10] When he ran for re-election again in 1930, he faced only token opposition.

The 1920s were economic boom years in the United States as a whole, and in California in particular. Economic growth was fueled by the general post-World War I recovery, as well as oil discoveries in Los Angeles and, most notably, the widespread introduction of the automobile. In 1916, General Motors opened a major Chevrolet automobile factory in East Oakland, making cars and then trucks until 1963, when it was moved to Fremont in southern Alameda County.[12] Also in 1916,[13] the Fageol Motor Company chose East Oakland for their first factory, manufacturing farming tractors from 1918 to 1923.[14] In 1921, they introduced an influential low-slung "Safety Bus", followed quickly by the 22-seat "Safety Coach."[15] Durant Motors operated a plant in Oakland from 1921 to 1930,[16] manufacturing sedans, coupes, convertibles, and roadsters.[17] By 1929, when Chrysler expanded with a new plant there, Oakland had become known as the “Detroit of the West.”

Dr. William M. Watts, photo from mid-1920s Oakland expanded during the 1920s, flexing enough to meet the influx of factory workers. Approximately 13,000 homes were built between 1921 and 1924,[19] more than between 1907 and 1920.[20] Many of the large downtown office buildings, apartment buildings, and single-family houses still standing in Oakland were built during the 1920s; and they reflect the architectural styles of the time.

In 1926 Dr. William M. Watts (pictured left) opened a 22-bed hospital facility to provide in-patient care to Oakland’s citizens of African descent who were not welcome at other health care institutions. The facility also offered training for African-American nurses.[21]

The Rocky Road ice cream was created in Oakland in 1929, though accounts differ about its first promoter. William Dreyer of Dreyer’s is said to have carried the idea of marshmallow and walnut pieces in a chocolate base over from his partner Joseph Edy’s similar candy creation.

Russell Clifford Durant (called “Cliff” by his friends) was a race car driver, speedboat enthusiast, amateur flier, President of Durant Motors in Oakland, and son of General Motors founder William “Billy” Crapo Durant. In 1916, he established Durant Field at 82nd Avenue and East 14th Street.

The first experimental transcontinental airmail through-flight finished its journey at Durant Field on August 9, 1920, with Army Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and Navy Lt. Bert Acosta (pictured right) at the controls of the Junkers F 13 re-badged as the model J.L.6.[24] The airfield served only secondary duties after 1927, as its runway was not long enough for heavily loaded aircraft. In April 1930, test pilot Herbert "Hub" Fahy and his wife Claire hit a stump upon landing, flipping their plane and mortally wounding Hub without injuring Claire.[25] Durant Field was often called Oakland Airport, though the current Oakland International Airport was soon established four miles (6.4 km) southwest/.

On September 17, 1927, Charles Lindbergh attended the official dedication of the new Oakland Airport. A month earlier, on August 16, participants in the disastrous Dole Air Race had taken off from Oakland's new 7,020-foot (2,140 m) runway headed for Honolulu, Hawaii 2,400 miles (3,900 km) away-three fliers died before getting to the starting line in Oakland; five were lost at sea, attempting to reach Honolulu; and two more died searching for the lost five.

On May 31, 1928, Charles Kingsford Smith and his crew departed Oakland in Southern Cross on their successful bid to cross the Pacific by air, finishing in Australia. In October 1928, Oakland was used as a base for the World War I aircraft involved in the final filming of Howard Hughes' Hell's Angels.[28] In 1928, aviator Louise Thaden took off from Oakland in a Travel Air to set a women's altitude record, as well as endurance and speed records.[

Is the Secret Team of bankers tied to the 43 lawsuit of the Bankster world mob and the Krim murders one day after the suit was filed?

Edge of Darkness: Book One of The Bankster Chronicle

September 4, 2012 by Dave Jewett (Author) *

Within these pages, you will learn the origin of modern banking. It is a shadowy world of bankers cloaked in mystical incantations and alchemy, conjuring money out of thin air … . And deeply embedded in its heritage, the banking cartel will be revealed as a culture of unspeakable violence - violence they use to advance their plan for world domination!

Also within these pages, you will know of fierce patriots who see the oncoming threat from the banksters and fight them on their terms - taking advantage of the cracks and fissures of their paper money system to defeat the banksters' nefarious schemes.

And then there are the common people, those who live, love, suffer, and perish at the hands of the banksters - for history also unfolds through their eyes!

Epic in scope, this novel teaches our system of money through the eyes of a 'Council of Bankers' - a council lead by a family of bankers of ancient heritage. Within this family, you will know Lord Basil, both as a child and as an aging patriarch; and you will see history unfold through his eyes as he molds the world according to his family's plan, not yet sensing the rising resistance he ultimately will face.

This first installment (Book One) chronicles the beginning of modern banking, and then advances to the present, depicting the economic malaise and depression we're living today.

October 2007 United Nations report on Blackwater

In October 2007, the United Nations released a two-year study that stated that private contractors, although hired as “security guards“, were performing military duties. The report found that the use of contractors such as Blackwater was a “new form of mercenary activity” and illegal under international law; however, the United States is not a signatory of the 1989 UN Mercenary Convention banning the use of mercenaries.[56] Nor is the US a signatory of the 1977 additional protocol to the 1949 Geneva Conventions in which Article 47 specifies that mercenaries are civilians who “take a direct part in the hostilities” and are “motivated to take part in the hostilities essentially by the desire for private gain

(The Protocol makes no distinction between defensive and offensive actions, but the U.S. does make such a distinction, in that it does not regard defensive actions by security guards to be combat.) From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

The Hidden Face of Terrorism: An Analysis of the Women in Islamic State retrieved from Journal of Strategic Security 9, no. 3 (2016) and copied or modified to here

Introduction

Women are increasingly holding roles in terrorism. Their involvement is significant as they perform in a myriad of activities, including procreating the next generation of militants, managing the logistics, recruiting new members to the organization, being political representatives, and also acting as operation leaders and militants.

Despite their contribution, there is a tendency amongst counterterrorism experts and policymakers to minimize the female influence in the success of extremist groups. The importance of women in terrorism is a topic that requires in-depth analysis especially in terms of understanding the validity of their presence in terrorism.

Specifically, this research study will merely explore the roles of women in the Islamic State (ISIS). ISIS was selected in this study because of the group's unique ability to effectively capitalize on its network of women.

Collegiate secret societies in North America retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

There are many collegiate secret societies in North America. They vary greatly in their levels of secrecy and independence from their universities. As the term is used in this article, a secret society is a collegiate society where significant effort is made to keep affairs, membership rolls, signs of recognition, initiation, or other aspects secret from the public

Columbia University has three secret societies: St. Anthony Hall (1847) and the Nacoms and Sachems (1898 and 1915, respectively). St. Anthony Hall, or St. A's, is a fraternal organization and literary society founded at Columbia that has ten other chapters, notably at Yale and MIT.[17] The Nacoms and Sachems are senior societies of fifteen members each. Though efforts have been made by the university's student body to force them to abolish their secrecy and register with the administration, efforts have been unsuccessful.[18]

Harvard does not have secret societies in the usual sense, though it does have final clubs, fraternities, sororities, and a variety of other secret or semi-secret organizations. [such as Skull and Bones]

This book asserts by "owning" government posts such as POTUS, DOJ AG, CIA, or FBI jobs the secret orders including Masons can run Cartels, dirty wars, for profit operations, and mafia based governmen through front companies, financial fraud and tampering, money laundering, etc., usually indistinguishable between the corporage boardroom or government conference room, lets say bere, a coropate board room where someone says "Well Seantor Rockafeller, how are we going to tank that Senate hearing coming up that you sit on " or "How can we bring down TWA and build up Pan Am at the next Congressional hearing" these things said by Congress people in board room meetings.

Robert Morrow's Reviews > Killing Kennedy: The End of Camelot retrieved from Goodreads and copied or modified to here Killing Kennedy? It was Lyndon Johnson, Texas oil executives & their friends in U.S. military intelligence who did it.

Is it worth your $20 and, more importantly, your precious time to read this book? No, because the author feels that he can just ignore 49 years of very fine research into the JFK assassination pretend this massive amount of quality research just does not exist.

The Warren Report farce has not just been machine gun riddled, shot up like Swiss Cheese. It has been put into a blender and sliced up into a fine puree, distilled & possibly approaching pure methane at the molecular level.

Who killed John Kennedy? It was It was Lyndon

Johnson, Texas oil executives (allied with LBJ) & their friends in U.S. military intelligence who did it for a variety of reasons both personal & ideological. LBJ, Hoover, Allen Dulles, H.L. Hunt, Clint Murchison Sr, D. H. Byrd, Nelson Rockefeller and George Herbert Walker Bush are all very likely inner circle plotters to murder John Kennedy. You can add to that Gen. Curtis LeMay and most especially Gen. Edward Lansdale who was identified at Dealey Plaza by 2 of his peers: Col. Fletcher Prouty and Gen. Victor Krulak.

Lansdale ran Operation Mongoose for the Kennedy's and later said it was one of the most frustrating experiences he ever had. U.S. military intelligence used anti-Castro Cubans and their affiliated CIA operatives to murder JFK. Anger and rage over Cuba policy was a very big reason for the JFK assassination.

As was the fact that the Kennedy's were within days of the political execution and personal destruction of VP Lyndon Johnson who they despised & who had blackmailed his way onto the 1960 Democratic ticket (see Evelyn Lincoln, Hy Raskin, Clark Clifford & Pierre Salinger for that).

What this book proves is that it is still not socially or politically acceptable to tell the truth about the JFK assassination 49 years after that assassination of democracy in America. The reason for that is the truth discredits US political leadership of both major parties for the past 49 years. The reputations of Lyndon Johnson, Gerald Ford, George Herbert Walker Bush, Richard Nixon would all be fatally tarnished by frank and honest discussion of what happened in Dallas on 11/22/63 and who helped to cover it (Ford, Nixon) and why.

JFK assassination truth discredits the leadership at the highest levels of the Democratic & Republican party, the government, the CIA controlled media, the FBI, the CIA, the US military, every single newspaper in America and their editorial boards and every history and political science department of every major university.

JFK assassination truth also discredits the NYT, Wash Post, WSJ, USA Today, LIFE, ABC News, CBS, NBC and CNN.

JFK assassination truth also discredits the heavily CIA-influenced Council on Foreign Relations and many of the political and historical commentators you see on TV and in the marquee spots in newspapers.

On June 30, 2009, President Obama had a private dinner with 9 top presidential historians: Michael Beschloss (CFR), H. W. Brands, Douglas Brinkley (CFR), Robert Caro, Robert Dallek, Doris Kearns Goodwin, David Kennedy, Kenneth Mack, and Garry Wills. As with Bill O'Reilly, I have never heard any of these reputable scholars say anything credible about the JFK assassination. In the case of Doris, it might be because she used to hop in bed with Lyndon Johnson who once asked to marry her. I don't know what Lady Bird would have done. Throw rice at the wedding of LBJ and Doris? Read Sally Quinn's blockbuster article on Doris in the Wash Post (8/24/75) entitled "A Tale of Hearts and Minds."

Ditto Larry Sabato, Chuck Todd of NBC & Michael Barone - those men all feed disinformation on the JFK assassination.

It is all about the power of tyranny to make black seem white, white seem black, up seem down and down seem up.

O'Reilly's treatment of US intelligence agent Oswald is truly pathetic. Oswald was a fake defector to Russia and when he came back he assumed a phony persona of a pro-Castro Marxist as he worked for intelligence operatives & rightwingers such as David Atlee Phillips and the ultra-rightist Guy Bannister in New Orleans.

In order to understand how and why O'Reilly puts out such junk - still covering for the murderers of John Kennedy - one has to understand the story of the Emperor's New Clothes. That is the one where the young kid points out the Emperor is butt naked while all the finest townspeople (doctors, lawyers, businessmen, FOX News personalities) are busy praising the Emperor's phantom clothes.

O'Reilly works for Roger Ailes at FOX. Roger Ailes is very close friends with George Herbert Walker Bush, who I think is one of the inner circle perps in the JFK assassination. GHW Bush is one record as saying he can't remember where he was on the day of the JFK assassination - somewhere down he Texas he thinks. That is absurb; it's like Rudy Guiliani saying he can't remember where he was on 9/11. GHW Bush was staying in the old Dallas Sheraton Hotel - we know that for a fact.

GHW Bush is also very close to the anti-Castro Cuban radicals and he even pardoned one of their top anti-Castro terrorists Orlando Bosch. Actually Bush commuted his sentence, a de facto pardon and he let Bosch out of jail.

Lebanon and the French Mandate

Mandate for Syria and the Lebanon 1923 – 1946)
retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

the Lebanese Republic,[a] is a country in Western Asia. It is bordered by Syria to the north and east and Israel to the south, while Cyprus lies to its west across the Mediterranean Sea;

The Mandate for Syria and the Lebanon was a League of Nations mandate founded in the aftermath of the First World War and the partitioning of the Ottoman Empire, concerning Syria and Lebanon. The mandate system was supposed to differ from colonialism, with the governing country intended to act as a trustee until the inhabitants were considered eligible for self-government. At that point, the mandate would terminate and an independent state would be born.

French deliberately gave different ethnic and religious groups in the Levant their own lands in the hopes of prolonging their rule. The French hoped to fragment the various groups in the region, to mitigate support for the Syrian nationalist movement seeking to end colonial rule.

Lebanon gained a measure of independence while France was occupied by Nazi Germany (a period called Vicory France.] General Henri Dentz, the Vichy High Commissioner for Syria and Lebanon, played a major role in the independence of the nation. The Vichy authorities in 1941 allowed Germany to move aircraft and supplies through Syria to Iraq where they were used against British forces. The United Kingdom, fearing that Nazi Germany would gain full control of Lebanon and Syria by pressure on the weak Vichy government, sent its army into Syria and Lebanon.

After the fighting ended in Lebanon, General Charles de Gaulle visited the area. Under political pressure from both inside and outside Lebanon, de Gaulle recognized the independence of Lebanon.

On 26 November 1941, General Georges Catroux announced that Lebanon would become independent under the authority of the Free French government. Elections were held in 1943 and on 8 November 1943 the new Lebanese government unilaterally abolished the mandate. The French reacted by imprisoning the new government. In the face of international pressure, the French released the government officials on 22 November 1943. The allies occupied the region until the end of World War II.

Following the end of World War II in Europe the French mandate may be said to have been terminated without any formal action on the part of the League of Nations or its successor the United Nations.

The Dirty War of Clones and insurgency back and forth

1983 Kuwait bombings retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Early on a Sunday morning, October 23, 1983, two truck bombs struck buildings in Beirut, Lebanon, housing American and French service members of the Multinational Force in Lebanon (MNF), a military peacekeeping operation during the Lebanese Civil War. The attack killed 307 people: 241 U.S. and 58 French military personnel, six civilians, and two attackers.

The first suicide bomber detonated a truck bomb at the building serving as a barracks for the 1st Battalion 8th Marines (Battalion Landing Team BLT 1/8) of the 2nd Marine Division, killing 220 Marines, 18 sailors and 3 soldiers, making this incident the deadliest single-day death toll for the United States Marine Corps since the Battle of Iwo Jima in World War II and the deadliest single-day death toll for the United States Armed Forces since the first day of the Tet Offensive in the Vietnam War.[1][better source needed] Another 128 Americans were wounded in the blast; 13 later died of their injuries, and they are counted among the number who died.[2]

An elderly Lebanese man, a custodian/vendor who was known to work and sleep in his concession stand next to the building, was also killed in the first blast.[3][4][5] The explosives used were later estimated to be equivalent to as much as 9,500 kg (21,000 pounds) of TNT.[6][7]

The 1983 Kuwait bombings were attacks on six key foreign and Kuwaiti installations on 12 December 1983, two months after the 1983 Beirut barracks bombing

On 12 December 1983, a truck laden with 45 large cylinders of gas connected to plastic explosives broke through the front gates of the American Embassy in Kuwait City and rammed into the embassy's three-story administrative annex, demolishing half the structure. The shock blew out windows and doors in distant homes and shops.

Only five people were killed (two Palestinians, two Kuwaitis, and one Syrian)[4] in large part because the driver did not hit the more heavily populated chancellery building and more importantly, only a quarter of the explosives ignited. An American diplomat told journalist Robin Wright: "If everything had gone off, this place would have been a parking lot".[5]

Other car bombs exploded at the control tower at the Kuwait International Airport, the Electricity Control Center, and the living quarters for American employees of the Raytheon Corporation, which was installing a missile system in Kuwait.

Another first in Waltham industrial history involves the method to mass-produce the magnetron tube, invented by Percy Spencer at Raytheon. During World War II, the magnetron tube technology was applied to radar. Later, magnetron tubes were used as components in microwave ovens and is part of the Donald J. Trump, John Trump, history. Notice this also figures into Jet Pilot and the history of Cliffs of Dover etc.,

Some analysts claim the bombings were the work of Iran in cooperation with Shia allies from Iraq and Lebanon.[13] Kuwait had given considerable support to Iraq in the 1980-1988 Iran-Iraq War.[14] Between 1983 and 1984, Kuwait provided $7 billion in financial assistance and was second to Saudi Arabia in aiding Iraq,[15] Massive destruction and loss of life in Kuwait would also have provided an example to the other oil-rich, population-poor, Arab monarchies of the Persian Gulf, also helping Iraq against its larger, non-Arab, anti-monarchist revolutionary Islamic neighbor. In 1985, the Arab States of the Persian Gulf provided Iraq with financial contributions, totaling in the range of $40 to 50 billion.[16]

Americans and the French are thought to have been targets in Kuwait because of their assistance to Iraq and lack of help to Iran. America had halted all shipments of arms to Iran, and extended $2 billion in trade credit to Iraq in “Operation Staunch” in 1983.[17]

BEIRUT, Oct 9 2021 (Reuters) - Lebanon has no centrally generated electricity after fuel shortages forced its two largest power stations to shut down, a government official told Reuters on Saturday.

“The Lebanese power network completely stopped working at noon today, and it is unlikely that it will work until next Monday, or for several days,” the official said.

The state electricity company confirmed in a statement that the thermoelectric plant at the Zahrani power station had stopped. The Deir Ammar plant stopped on Friday.

so I've heard some people are doing people say that's you know it's clearly the FBI spy ring in Congress which I would agree to to some extent but I say you know the the CIA is who infiltrated the FBI that's kind of how we have some of our you know our fusion centers and and I think if you go through historically some of the characters that are coming out you'll find that they actually started out in the CIA are somehow CIA attache is something to that effect so is it is Pakistan ISI spy ring really the CIA spy ring in Congress

The church fire was likely to raise concerns that the wave of post-election violence that has now claimed nearly 300 lives in Kenya could develop into a full-blown ethnic conflict.

The GangStalk and death of George de Mohrenschildt George H.W > Bush had killed by the CIA

George H.W. Bush _ "I Don't know this man"

Russian-born oilman, a real international man of mystery, a vivid presence in JFK files retrieved from Ray

Locker USA Today and copied or modified to here

WASHINGTON - Within days after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated on Nov. 22, 1963, the CIA's man in Dallas received a call from a friend who said he met Lee Harvey Oswald at a social function the previous January.

Oswald's host was George de Mohrenschildt, a Russian-born petroleum engineer whose story as detailed in long-secret JFK assassination files released Thursday reads like an off-kilter spy novel. That's one reason why de Mohrenschildt, who died in 1977, has been a staple of Kennedy assassination conspiracy theories for almost 54 years.

He was the uncle of President George H.W. Bush's prep school roommate, a friend of first lady Jacqueline Kennedy's parents, an associate of Oswald and a notorious womanizer and bon vivant who was rejected by the wartime Office of Strategic Services for alleged Nazi sympathies. In December 1963, he surfaced in Haiti to tell CIA operatives there that he knew Oswald, Kennedy's assassin.

"Dear George," de Mohrenschildt wrote Bush on Sept. 5, 1976, "You will excuse this hand-written letter. Maybe you will be able to bring a solution into the hopeless situation I find myself in."

> You will excuse this hand-written letter. Maybe you will be able to bring a solution to the hopeless situation I find myself in.
> My wife and I find ourselves surrounded by some vigilantes; our phone bugged; and we are being followed everywhere. Either FBI is > involved in this or they do not want to accept my complaints. We are driven to insanity by the situation.

> I have been behaving like a damn fool ever since my daughter Nadya died from [cystic fibrosis] over three years ago. I tried to write, stupidly and unsuccessfully, about Lee H Oswald and must have angered a lot of people - I do not know. But to punish an elderly man like myself and my highly nervous and sick wife is really too much. Could you do something to remove the net around us? This will be my last request for help and I will not annoy you any more. Good luck in your important job. Thank you so much.[62][63]

George Bush, Director of Central Intelligence responded:

> Let me say first that I know it must have been difficult for you to seek my help in the situation outlined in your letter. I believe I can appreciate your state of mind in view of your daughter's tragic death a few years ago, and the current poor state of your wife's health. I was extremely sorry to hear of these circumstances. In your situation I can well imagine how the attentions you described in your letter affect both you and your wife. However, my staff has been unable to find any indication of interest in your activities on the part of Federal authorities in recent years. The flurry of interest that attended your testimony before the Warren Commission has long subsided. I can only > speculate that you may have become "newsworthy" again in view of the renewed interest in the Kennedy assassination, and thus may be attracting the attention of people in the media. I hope this letter had been of some comfort to you, George, although I realize I am unable to answer your question completely.

> [CIA Exec Reg. # 76,51571 9.28.76][c]

Since the start of the hearings led by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, in 1975, de Mohrenschildt had appeared again on the public radar in connection with reports about the CIA and its involvement in plots against Cuban dictator Fidel Castro and their possible connection to the Kennedy assassination.

"I don't recall his role in all this," Bush continued. "At one time he had/or spent plenty of money. I have not heard from him for many years until the attached letter came in."

Before Bush responded to de Mohrenschildt's letter, the CIA's inspector general, John Waller, searched the agency's records for information about de Mohrenschlidt, reporting that the CIA's Dallas operative J. Walton Moore first met with de Mohrenschildt in 1957 after he returned from working in communist Yugoslavia.

"Enough charm to lie out of anything"

A detailed Feb. 28, 1964, FBI report interviewed his former wives, business associates and social contacts to provide an entertaining, gossip-filled look at de Mohrenschildt's life.

Wynne Sharples de Mohrenschildt Denton, his second wife, told the FBI that he "has enough charm to 'lie out of anything.' Sometime after I was married to the man, Mrs. Noble of Greenwich, Connecticut, told my mother, Mrs. Phillip Sharples, that George was a homosexual." In 1942, the FBI reported, de Mohrenschildt had tried to join the Office of Strategic Services (OSS), which was the precursor to the CIA. But he was rejected as "a Nazi sympathizer and possibly a German agent." Also, the bureau reported, he "has spent much time in Mexico City in the company of Senora Lilia Pardo de Larin, widow of the chocolate magnate, who has access to the best social, government, and diplomatic circles in Mexico."

Unraveling

By the 1970s, de Mohrenschildt's fortunes had faded. A report for the House Select Committee on Assassinations noted that he was "an emotionally disturbed publicity seeker who doesn't care what type publicity he receives."

In May and July 1976, reporters for Dell Publishing and Reader's Digest had contacted de Mohrenschildt in connection with the Kennedy assassination and also the CIA's Moore, who "neither confirmed nor denied" his earlier meetings with de Mohrenschildt.

Ray Wood, a former undercover police officer, wrote in a newly released confession letter that the NYPD and FBI worked with him to make sure the two men in charge of Malcolm X's security detail were arrested in the days before the speech.

Ray Wood first shared his confession with family when he was diagnosed with stomach cancer in 2011. At the time, he asked his cousin, Reggie, not to share the letter until after he died. Ray Wood died in November, and Reggie Wood shared his cousin's confession publicly on Saturday, flanked by a group that included Malcolm X's daughters, Qubiliah Shabazz, Ilyasah Shabazz and Gamilah Shabazz, and civil rights attorneys Benjamin Crump, Ray Hamlin and Paul Napoli.

"For 10 years, I have carried this confession secretly in fear of what could happen to my family and myself if the government found out what I knew," Reggie Wood said Saturday.

Ray Wood confessed that he, the NYPD and the U.S. government all made sure Malcolm X wasn't adequately protected from assassination during his final speech. "I participated in actions that in hindsight were deplorable and detrimental to the advancement of my own, Black people," Wood said.

John James Audubon (republican aka Jefferson Madison Self Governing political theory of Altantic Revolutions, and possible at odds with the Church) was notable for his extensive studies documenting all types of American birds and for his detailed illustrations that depicted the birds in their natural habitats. His major work, a color-plate book entitled The Birds of America (1827-1839), is considered one of the finest ornithological works ever completed.

Immigration From France to the United States in 1803

In 1803, his father obtained a false passport so that Audubon could go to the United States to avoid conscription in the Napoleonic Wars. Jean Audubon and Claude Rozier arranged a business partnership for their sons to pursue in Pennsylvania.

Liars Club and Psychological Warfare Dissinformation

Liar's Club is an American game show, originally produced by Ralph Andrews, featuring a panel of celebrity guests who offered explanations of obscure or unusual objects. Contestants attempted to determine which explanation was correct in order to win prizes.

A panel of four celebrity guests was presented with an unusual object, with each celebrity providing an explanation of the object's use. Contestants then attempted to guess which panelist was providing the accurate description. Two contestants competed on the 1969 version, while the first season of the 70s version and the 1988 revival featured four contestants, and the two seasons (1977-79) with Ludden had three.

That MKULTRA project Birther history being covered up

Investigative journalist Wayne Madsen has discovered CIA files that document the agency's connections to institutions and individuals figuring prominently in the lives of Barack Obama and his mother, father, grandmother, and stepfather. The first part of his report highlights the connections between Barack Obama, Sr. and the CIA-sponsored operations in Kenya to counter rising Soviet and Chinese influence among student circles and, beyond, to create conditions obstructing the emergence of independent African leaders.

President Obama's own work in 1983 for Business International Corporation, a CIA front that conducted seminars with the world's most powerful leaders and used journalists as agents abroad, dovetails with CIA espionage activities conducted by his mother, Stanley Ann Dunham in 1960s post-coup Indonesia on behalf of a number of CIA front operations, including the East-West Center at the University of Hawaii, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), and the Ford Foundation. Dunham met and married Lolo Soetoro, Obama's stepfather, at the East-West Center in 1965. Soetoro was recalled to Indonesia in 1965 to serve as a senior army officer and assist General Suharto and the CIA in the bloody overthrow of President Sukarno.

Barack Obama, Sr., who met Dunham in 1959 in a Russian language class at the University of Hawaii, had been part of what was described as an airlift of 280 East African students to the United States to attend various colleges - merely "aided" by a grant from the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation, according to a September 12, 1960, Reuters report from London. The airlift was a CIA operation to train and indoctrinate future agents of influence in Africa, which was becoming a battleground between the United States and the Soviet Union and China for influence among newly-independent and soon-to-be independent countries on the continent.

WEEKLY ADDRESS: A New Chapter with Cuba

WASHINGTON, DC - In this week's address, President Obama discussed his upcoming trip to Cuba, a visit that will further advance the progress we've made since he announced the new chapter of U.S. - Cuba relations more than a year ago. This will be the first visit of a U.S. President to Cuba in nearly 90 years. President Obama believes the best way to promote American interests and values, and help improve the lives of the Cuban people, is through engagement. During his trip, the President will meet with President Raul Castro to discuss the progress we've made in the ongoing process of normalizing relations, and reaffirm our support of universal values like freedom of speech, assembly, and religion. The President will also meet with members of civil society and Cuban entrepreneurs, and speak directly to the Cuban people about our shared beliefs and continued support as they build the future they want. The President acknowledges the serious differences we have with the Cuban government, and although the transformation of this new relationship will take time, the President noted that his visit to Cuba will advance the goals that guide us - promoting American interests and values, and assisting efforts to build a future of more freedom and more opportunity for the Cuban people.

After retiring from the military as a major in 1946, Shaw consulted with the CIA regarding the business dealings of Americans abroad. The idea was to point the American intelligence community towards any possible Soviet activity that could undermine U.S. interests. The Domestic Contact Service (DCS) was top-secret, and Shaw made 33 reports to the agency over seven years before ending the amicable relationship in 1956.

After the events of late November 1963, the nation was reeling. The Warren Commission took nearly a year to determine that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in the assassination. Oswald was gunned down before being Garrison's trail led him to a fellow New Orleans resident in Mr. Shaw in 1967.

Here's where the lie from six years earlier comes into play. The Italian newspaper Paese Sera printed a spurious headline one April 23, 1961. It read, "Was the Military Coup d'etat in Algeria Prepared in Consultation with Washington?"

The story then claimed CIA operatives were in league with the plotters of the coup. This link happened because one of the Algerian-based French Air Force generals was simply a pro-American supporter. At the time of the coup in 1961, there were real fears that communist regimes would spread and take over the world.

The headline from the Italian paper spread to other media outlets in Europe, and then eventually to American newspapers. That's where Garrison picked up on the thread.

Jen Moore from OSS to CIA, black budgets, Operation Paperclip, & Hidden Identities

[MKULTRA and its Twins Studies experiments and Experimenters] went into universities hospital programs various secret sites black-budget sites where the experimentation continued on all kinds of things and all kinds of Americans especially small children and I'm going to lead into things like the Kinsey studies if anyone has looked into that Masters and Johnson how they're all tied together some of the places that are still in operation as of today that I am aware of but uh these two interviews specifically start to bring into the politics of the United States of America at least since World War two the different players involved a lot of these players that call them players or politicians or you know businessmen or senators or you know what whatever title they might have there's some of them that don't want their identities known their real identities are the real history zone and I'm not gonna name names at this point except you could do some deduction use your deduction skills and you know kind of think about whose identities might have been hidden recently even even years and years and decades ago but recently really and so these interviews start talking about that and how that came about and why there's such a mystery and why there's so many sealed records and some of the information that I am in possession of to begin to peel back the layers of this onion so the American people can fully understand where we are today why we are here today and who these people really are

because this country is our country the American people's country we are in charge of the government they don't get to hide from us so it's time for their exposure and I'm going to be part of that so you can listen to interviews three and four and it gets into some pretty gnarly details but there's truth there and I've got court cases and documents to back it up personal eyewitnesses you name it this is the story of a whistleblower our whistleblowers in general yes it is dangerous I accept that at the same time I refuse to be silent anymore and so I'm going to carry on releasing this information

I have observed in my life “the power of three” in that in Semantics and most things, here checksuming, getting a complete and correct Information Circuit three things apply. Take a logic information circuit I call 2.5/3 Model. two things, a dialect in between over which the dialogue occurs, two substrates and a substrate between them as the transport.

In information storage a fairly common hard drive checksum is three disks hold a formulaic pattern of a total data picture which more or less work out to X Y Z on each disk and if any disk fails and thus X Y or Z disappears on the other two drives you can solve for the missing variable and replaced the data when a new drive is in stalled to replace the failed hard disk.

In Illuminati Power

1. The Power exists

2. The Power makes a tough call deemable a mistake

3. The Power is asserted a second time to coverup what might be deemed a mistake

Now by getting control of variable 2 and 3 they can eliminate being in error because the y pass the checksuming of 2 and 3 which then solve for NO MISTAKE Between 1946 and 1961 Earth History saw its most frightening 16 years. Missile gap, term popularized during the late 1950s and early 1960s referring to the perception by U.S. government officials that the United States trailed the Soviet Union in ballistic missile technology.

During the 1960 presidential campaign, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy promised to rebuild U.S. defense forces, running on the notion that the missile gap was a grave concern.

The encyclopedia entry reports that historians now claim the USA was not at riak but I do not trust historians very much, and certainly China was coming onto the scene as a power.

Irrgardless, the times were frightening whether the fears of the world's population, the agnst of the world and the angs of the USA was founded or not.

On 29 October 1965, Mehdi Ben Barka was abducted (“disappeared”) in Paris by French policemen and never seen again. On 29 December 1975, Time magazine published an article titled “The Murder of Mehdi Ben Barka”,[9] stating that three Moroccan agents were responsible for the death of Ben Barka, one of them former Interior Minister Mohamed Oufkir. Speculation[10] persists as to CIA involvement. French intelligence agents and the Israeli Mossad were also involved, according to the article. According to Tad Szulc, Israeli involvement was in the wake of the successful Moroccan-Israeli collaboration in the 1961-64 Operation Yachin; he claims that Meir Amit located Ben Barka, whereupon Mossad agents persuaded him to come to Paris where he was to be arrested by the French police.[11]

Ronald Reagan once joked at the Corespondents Dinner “I am not going to worry about the deficit. It is big enough to take of itself.

The Cartel, variously Venn representable as the CIA, English Royal Family, US oil interests in the Middle East, and CIA regime changes organized by the Illuminati long term thinkers are that internationally acting cartel which does use muscle in countries it operates in to cover its errors, history, and goals.

This larger world Masonry interest is subverting the sovereignty of the USA and my own family and other law abiding people for the larger wold mission, and to describe that system of subverting me I nee=d to introduce some recovery concepts.

The Lie is Dead. We Do Recover (from alcholism, chemical dependency)

In the First Step of 12 Step systems a person is told they should admit to themselves that because of the disease of addiction their lives had become unmanageable. In some recovery groups the later lingo is “The lie is dead. We do recover” is in use and its meaning is that with bolstered by spiritual and community resolve and strength to avoid use of drugs or alcohol normal life supplanted returns, such as holding jobs and other normal life activities and make it through even the toughest bumps in the road.

7th Tradition of Narcotics Anonymous

> "Every NA Group ought to be fully self-supporting, declining outside contributions."
> Often considered on a personal level aslo for independent lives which do not entangle in unnatural or complicating or adaptive ways, a person returning to normal living my well include where possible being self supporting through employment or use of skill and abilities to contribute in a productive way.

Upon the death of my mother and father in the span of a few years, staring in 2011, I moved on with my life, mostly studying law, philosophy, and web design while assisting my mother with Congestive Heart Failure and while takign her to her doctors appointments, dailysis, etc.,

My father's death a few years later, while I loved him very much, did not represent the daily activities change in the same way the death of my mother did because my father had lived in Lincol Calfirnia and I had been living near my mother in Arlington Virginia.

New Usage of My Time and New Activities

I began to return to normal counseling, to get Wellbutrin, something that helps my ADHD, being in counseling at the same time, especially initially, is medical standard practice health care.

During the social service intake or at random I was tested for diabetes in a screen and a rolling blood sugar evel of A1c 13.3 was found on followup blood work following the initial screen blood droplet test at the field screen.

The rolling blood sugar blood panel number measures hemoglobin drowning in too much sugar. Since cells come and and go every three months, the percentage of that three month affected cell rate is a pretty good average of the three month period of how unusually high the blood sugar is an a last quarter year basis.

What I could have done and was denied the resources to do or the credit for Type II Diabetes can be managed and I did but then the resources were denied to me by harassing and threatening stalking in the gym, denial of economic resources for doing clothing laundry, lean meats, etc.,

During this time I also put up some videos chronically the Honor Flight DCA program.

Like with a web site PoliticalRights.us I had no interest in profits. Once some jail snitch suggested I could make monety with YouTube hits and I wanted nothing to do with that. In fact I didn't even want the account mine and made a generic one and handed the keys to over to Jana Erickson. If there were any profit, let it go into there and the program. I gave pages of Political Rights away removing me name from it including to Georegtown law and other locations. It was meant to be read, mean tot have been written by those other than me, and me the pass through.

Still, the odd attempts to undermine my doing the web work seems to have been designed to deny about me I could be involved in those productive acts of creating the work, and in fact without any income a slander campaign relegated me to skid row and in that, the appearance my life is and has been unmanageable.

In short, with my parents gone, and I was going into the world to sort of leave high school a second time, I was road blocked in doing so, and living normal high city life and jobs and community I was kept out of by roadblocking.

Under the skid row conditions I lived under, Skid Row case workers gained control of my assets since I was not earwig a living.

I believe I never made it out from the Painting storage box because social workers did not anyone to see what was in the container, and they could take to places where it could help civilize countries no bereft of productive enterprise, and this is the OECD plan for my genome.

I am held in SKid Row following my parents death by Tom Donegan and my brother working with Trust Funds or Conservatorship which breaks the good contracts I make, housing in normal cities, and gets me evicted by means such as using a double of me who has access to my birth certificate or use of name, and then has that person evicted under the law as me, called Abuse of Process, a rightful eviction processes but on faked eviction factual pretexts.

Within Skid Row organizations like Metro Churches (inner city skid row, churches, also called Rainbow Churches or allied with them, are based in Little Rock Arkansas and Linda Newkirk who later called her self the White Buffalo woman (of Kansas) was approached by a black female about 12 step recovery, and the prophecy “spiritual code” DNA of Feb 20 November 18 Dec 13 Aug 4 could be used in world salvation work, likely done not just by them but largel cartel connected entities including the US Military when my DNA is under their control and seized for military usage.

Metro Churches of Arkansas fits Tom Donegan (my brother) and Mark Weirness (his gay partner form Cape Cod) pro gay pro social justice leanings and as my trust fund conservatory he may well use those organizations to receive payouts from “white supremacism.”

Scott Foval and Robert Creamer seem to be chaplains of the motorcycle riding part of that Christian Motorcycle Association and part of what is being thrown at me as a Trump supporter being conflict engaged to pick race relate fights with me and race bait me, perhaps blaming me and getting settlements from the trust fund of my family if I am bankrupt and have no money to pay with otherwise.

Extrajudicial Execution

In his own words, a Targeted Individual (TI) exposes his tormented life and the heartless, sadistic and invasive methods used covertly to undermine his credibility, cause illness and excruciating pain, ruin him financially, tear apart his family, drive him mad and lead him to consider suicide. This dramatic and cautionary tale may seem extreme and far-fetched, but thousands of other Targeted Individuals throughout the world are suffering in silence right now. In this candid account, the author describes the psychological, emotional, mental and physical torture that he has endured for over six years, hoping that he will survive long enough to see this book in print.

Guinea Pigs: Technologies of Control

For years the federal government has sought to remotely control human behavior. Starting with the CIA projects MKULTRA and MKSEARCH in the 1950s, the American public has been unwitting guinea pigs in a multitude of non-consensually performed experiments that have continued into the 21st century. Guinea Pigs takes readers on a journey into the darkest corners of U.S. non-consensual experimentation and the various technologies of control that have led to our current surveillance state. The recent revelations regarding the extent of NSA eavesdropping is only the tip of the iceberg ..

No Ordinary Stalking

Organized stalking is carried out by an enthusiastic and structured group that has cruel intentions:

stalk, harass, injure, financially ruin, and mentally crumple human prey until incapacitation occurs. What sets this crime apart is that innocents are picked off the street. There is no getting away from the stalkers and no getting away from the unusual technology that is used to take over someone's life.

"For the first couple of months," says June, "I thought it was a sick game. Now that I've been tormented for years, well, it's clear that organized stalking is a sophisticated crime that follows a step-by-step process to leave the victim as bare and isolated as the dead tree on the cover. He or she may still be standing, but that's about it.

"I'll sum it up this way. Veiled intimidation ensures that targeted individuals are viewed by the public as free people, which they are not. They are playthings to their controllers. Hostages in plain sight. Victims are quite literally owned yet have limited chance of rescue because their desperate circumstances are misunderstood.

Some die from the violence. Some die from suicide. And the rest merely exist."

Organized stalking is worldwide and is called gang stalking in some areas. The electronic harassment that accompanies organized stalking is also known as covert harassment.

The congressional committee investigating the CIA research, chaired by Senator Frank Church, concluded that "[p]rior consent was obviously not obtained from any of the subjects". The committee noted that the "experiments sponsored by these researchers … call into question the decision by the agencies not to fix guidelines for experiments."

Following the recommendations of the Church Committee, President Gerald Ford in 1976 issued the first Executive Order on Intelligence Activities which, among other things, prohibited "experimentation with drugs on human subjects, except with the informed consent, in writing and witnessed by a disinterested party, of each such human subject" and in accordance with the guidelines issued by the National Commission. Subsequent orders by Presidents Carter and Reagan expanded the directive to apply to any human experimentation.

In 1977, during a hearing held by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, to look further into MKUltra, Admiral Stansfield Turner, then Director of Central Intelligence, revealed that the CIA had found a set of records, consisting of about 20,000 pages,[citation needed] that had survived the 1973 destruction orders because they had been stored at a records center not usually used for such documents.[49] These files dealt with the financing of MKUltra projects and contained few project details, however much more was learned from them than from the Inspector General's 1963 report.

On the Senate floor in 1977, Senator Ted Kennedy said:

> The Deputy Director of the CIA revealed that over thirty universities and institutions were involved in an “extensive testing and experimentation” program which included covert drug tests on unwitting citizens “at all social levels, high and low, native Americans and foreign.” Several of these tests involved the administration of LSD to “unwitting subjects in social situations.” At least one death, that of Dr. Olson, resulted from these activities. The Agency itself acknowledged that these tests made little scientific sense. The agents doing the monitoring were not qualified scientific observers.[50]

In Canada, the issue took much longer to surface, becoming widely known in 1984 on a CBC news show, The Fifth Estate. It was learned that not only had the CIA funded Dr. Cameron’s efforts, but perhaps even more shockingly, the Canadian government was fully aware of this, and had later provided another $500,000 in funding to continue the experiments. This revelation largely derailed efforts by the victims to sue the CIA as their U.S. counterparts had, and the Canadian government eventually settled out of court for $100,000 to each of the 127 victims. None of Dr. Cameron’s personal records of his involvement with MKUltra survive, since his family destroyed them after his death from a heart attack while mountain climbing in 1967.[51]

Black Market Baby Scandal
MKUltra experimentation.

We have received this pertinent article from Rod, a Canadian member. It has been published, in AMI, an Israeli magazine by investigative reporter, Miriam Samsonowitz. This an expose that began in the original MKUltra time frame. It illuminates MKUltra abuses and experimentation abuses at the Du Plessis Orphanages in Canada. It is very pertinent to our issues and goals.

From the article:

"Catholic psychiatric hospitals carried out tests including electric shocks, injections of such drugs as chlorpromazine and LSD, chemical sterilization, and lobotomies. The top secret mind-control Project MKULTRA, pioneered by CIA head Allen Welsh Dulles, was carried out at Montreal's Allan Memorial Hospital on the orphans.

(Infants waiting to be adopted, kept in DuPlessis Orphanages all across Canada.)

From the article:

Black Market Baby Ring, From Canadian Orphanages, Catholic Nuns, to Jewish Families

"The Jewish community of three-million in New York after World War II included thousands of childless couples desperate to adopt babies. However, virtually the only Jewish children available were older children whose parents had died or whose families had disintegrated.

Jewish couples willing to adopt non-Jewish babies were stymied by adoption and child placement legal provisions requiring children to be placed in adoptive families professing the same faith as their own. The result was that Catholics and Protestants had a supply of babies to choose from, while Jewish families had none.

This situation helped feed the international baby ring that operated in Montreal from the 1930s to the 1950s. Thousands of French Canadian babies were supplied to Jewish couples-primarily in New York, but also in Florida, Los Angeles, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, and throughout Canada. A U.S. Children's Bureau report in 1955 stated, "Of all the black market cases that have come to light, the great majority are known to have involved Jewish couples."

One Jewish father who purchased an infant daughter in Montreal argued anonymously ("We Bought a Canadian Baby", Weekend Picture Magazine, June 12, 1954) that the greatest barrier that he and his wife had to face was "the fact that we are Jewish … because there are so few Jewish babies available." Louise Wise services, New York's only Jewish adoption agency, told him and his wife that applications outnumbered babies twenty to one. Many Jewish couples didn't even bother applying because they knew it was hopeless.

The Canadian Press and the Baby Black Market

The scandal first came to light when one publication denounced the black marketeering of babies in Montreal in 1950. It created a stir in Quebec but quickly died down. Then, reporter Gerard Pelletier from the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir picked up the story and pushed further. He received special permission to visit orphanages and psychiatric hospitals in Quebec. Between 1950 and 1953 he wrote about the atrocities happening to the Duplessis orphans and the booming black market in babies.

In the first half of 1952, the Montreal Gazette reported on a private baby ring that conspired to deprive mothers of their babies. Jewish lawyer Herman Buller was named and arrested, but had charges withdrawn on April 25 of that year. Throughout the next two years, more cases of

Secret Names

"Who do you think could sell more babies to the Jewish families, some little clinic on Esplanade that had great difficulty in crossing the U.S. border with even one baby, or the Catholic Orders who had big hospitals and orphanages on both sides and could sell thousands of Quebec babies after having falsified their identities?

The Jewish families didn't even have to cross the border-the babies were brought to their doorstep."

Vienneau relates that while doing family research in the Genealogy Society of Greater Joliette, he came across Vienneau relates that while doing family research in the Genealogy Society of Greater Joliette, he came across old 8mm films containing thousands of birth names.

He started looking for babies born in the 1930s at Mercy Hospital. He found films dating from 1936-1941, but none from 1942 onward. He inquired why these were not available and was told there was "no money to continue the project." It seemed clear to him that names were expunged from the official records from 1942 until the early '70s because those were the years that hundreds of thousands of baby names had been falsified in preparation for the babies being sold and incarcerated in psychiatric hospitals.

Oliver Twist (alternative title The Parish Boy's Progress) contains an unromantic portrayal of criminals and their sordid lives, as well as for exposing the cruel treatment of the many orphans in London in the mid-19th century.

In this early example of the social novel, Dickens satirises the hypocrisies of his time, including child labour, domestic violence, the recruitment of children as criminals, and the presence of street children.

Oliver Twist; or, the Parish Boy's Progress is Charles Dickens's second novel, and was published as a serial from 1837 to 1839 and released as a three-volume book in 1838, before the serialisation ended.[1] The story centres on orphan Oliver Twist, born in a workhouse and sold into apprenticeship with an undertaker. After escaping, Oliver travels to London, where he meets the "Artful Dodger", a member of a gang of juvenile pickpockets led by the elderly criminal Fagin who will set Oliver Twist to work picking pockets with another street theif pick pocket youth Arful Dodger.

Around the time of Oliver's ninth birthday, Mr Bumble, the parish beadle, removes Oliver from the baby farm and puts him to work picking and weaving oakum at the main workhouse. Oliver, who toils with very little food, remains in the workhouse for six months. One day, the desperately hungry boys decide to draw lots; the loser must ask for another portion of gruel. This task falls to Oliver himself, who at the next meal comes forward trembling, bowl in hand, and begs the master for gruel with his famous request: "Please, sir, I want some more".[13]

The next day Oliver escapes from the Sowerberrys' house and later decides to run away to London to seek a better life.

London, the Artful Dodger and Fagin

Nearing London, Oliver encounters Jack Dawkins, a pickpocket more commonly known by the nickname the "Artful Dodger", and his sidekick, a boy of a humorous nature named Charley Bates, but Oliver's innocent and trusting nature fails to see any dishonesty in their actions. The Dodger provides Oliver with a free meal and tells him of a gentleman in London who will "give him lodgings for nothing, and never ask for change". Grateful for the unexpected assistance, Oliver follows the Dodger to the "old gentleman's" residence. In this way Oliver unwittingly falls in with an infamous Jewish criminal known as Fagin, the gentleman of whom the Artful Dodger spoke. Ensnared, Oliver lives with Fagin and his gang of juvenile pickpockets in their lair at Saffron Hill for some time, unaware of their criminal occupations.

Saffron Hill

Saffron Hill is a street in the south eastern corner of the London Borough of Camden, between Farringdon Road and Hatton Garden. The name of the street derives from the fact that it was at one time part of an estate on which saffron grew.

In 1850, it was described as a squalid neighbourhood, the home of paupers and thieves. In Charles Dickens's novel Oliver Twist (1837), the Artful Dodger leads Oliver to Fagin's den in Field Lane, the southern extension of Saffron Hill: "a dirty and more wretched place he [Oliver] had never seen. The street was very narrow and muddy, and the air was impregnated with filthy odours".

Saffron Hill is mentioned in the Arthur Conan Doyle Sherlock Holmes story “The Adventure of the Six Napoleons”, as the Italian Quarter where the Venucci family can be found.

Oliver Twist believes they (Phagans team) make wallets and handkerchiefs. He is also clueless about Fagin’s lessons with the boys, whereupon he impersonates an English gentleman browsing shops, and the boys must pick everything from his pockets while staying out of sight. [a practive routine for Artful Dodger and others]

Oliver alter follows the pair to “make handkerchiefs”, only to learn that their real mission is to pick pockets.

In a renewed attempt to draw Oliver into a life of crime, Fagin forces him to participate in a burglary.

The mysterious man Monks (long lost half brother of Oliver Twist) plots with Fagin to destroy Oliver’s reputation. Monks denounces Fagin’s failure to turn Oliver into a criminal, and the two of them agree on a plan to make sure he does not find out about his past. Monks is apparently related to Oliver in some way.

"Conspiracy" is the twenty-fifth and penultimate episode of the first season of the syndicated American science fiction television series Star Trek: The Next Generation.

While the USS Enterprise is en route to Pacifica on a scientific mission, Captain Picard (Patrick Stewart) receives a highly confidential message from an old friend, Captain Walker Keel (Jonathan Farwell) of the USS Horatio. Keel refuses to discuss his concerns, even though the frequency he is using is supposed to be a secure channel, and insists on a face-to-face meeting.

Once they arrive at Dytallix B for this secret meeting, the crew discover the Horatio and two other Federation ships already present. Picard beams alone to the surface and is met by Captain Keel and the other captains. Keel reports strange orders from Starfleet headquarters and what he implies are suspicious deaths of Starfleet officers, and expresses concern of a conspiracy. Picard refuses to accept this without proof, but Keel warns him to remain wary.

Drung the meeting Capt. Walker Keel suspected his First Officer of allegiance with the conspiracy held among the Admirals.

When the captain returns to the Enterprise, he is challenged by Counselor Troi about keeping his contact with Keel secret. Picard is skeptical about the conspiracy, but says that he trusts his old friend completely. The Enterprise resumes its previous journey. Picard has Lt. Commander Data review all orders issued by Starfleet Command in the past six months.

While the USS Enterprise with Captain Picard is still on its way to Pacifica, a disturbance is detected in nearby space. Upon investigating this, the Enterprise discovers a mass of debris that surely must be the shattered remains of the Horatio.

Admiral Quin under Alien Influence

As it approaches Earth, the Enterprise receives no response from Starfleet Command. Eventually, a transmission is received from a trio of Starfleet admirals: Savar , Arron and Quinn, an old friend of Picard's who recently made an inspection of the Enterprise (in "Coming of Age"). They are surprised by the Enterprise's presence, but invite Captain Picard and Commander Riker (Jonathan Frakes) to dinner. Quinn requests to beam aboard the Enterprise for a tour. Captain Picard recalls being warned by Quinn about some kind of threat to Starfleet when the admiral was last aboard. Upon Quinn's arrival, Picard discusses matters with him and Quinn seems strangely evasive; Picard comes to believe that he is an impostor, or under some sort of alien influence.

Quinn starts with Riker and tells Riker that the Aliens are a superior form of life and since he joined with them (in a biological nexus with the symbiant) he fells better and also is now in a superior condition.

A bowl of living larvae is served at the meal, to Picard's disgust. He attempts to leave, only to find Riker blocking his way. The commander appears to be controlled by the parasite Quinn brought to the Enterprise. When the others see a prosthetic protrusion on the back of Riker's neck, he is accepted as one of them and allowed to dine. They reveal that the parasites are seeking to take over Starfleet, using humanoids as hosts. When he is about to put a handful of the larvae in his mouth, Riker suddenly produces a phaser and fires on one of the Admirals. Picard picks up a fallen weapon and the two Enterprise officers subdue the infected, causing parasites to leave the hosts and flee. One of the parasites scurries under a closed door and Picard and Riker follow it. They find Remmick ingesting the parasite to join several others inside him. Picard and Riker fire upon Remmick, destroying his body but freeing a giant parasite; the two continue to fire until it is destroyed.

Later, Dr. Crusher reports that the other parasites, including the one inside Quinn, have shriveled up and died, as they were unable to survive without the mother-creature that had been inhabiting Remmick. As they help to settle matters with Starfleet headquarters, they find that before Remmick was killed, he had sent a signal to a distant quadrant of the galaxy. The signal is thought to be a homing beacon.

Gene Roddenberry originated the idea for the episode in a single-sentence proposal entitled "The Assassins". Robert Sabaroff expanded this idea to thirty pages, but his version was seen as too expensive. Tracy Tormé was then given the job of rewriting it, but some producers thought the new version was too dark until Roddenberry saw it and endorsed the new version.[2]

In one of the original versions, it was a faction within Starfleet who were conspirators rather than alien parasites, but Roddenberry did not like showing Starfleet itself in such a dark manner.[2] Wired magazine has suggested that the premise was based on the Iran-Contra affair.[3]

> Consider the Caine Mutiny: "If the officer is a Captain, cowardice can not explain the behavior. Some other pschological defect must have been present."

"Conspiracy" was included as an honorable mention in a list of the best episodes of Star Trek: The Next Generation by Mike Antonucci of the San Jose Mercury News.[12] It was also included in a list of the best and worst episodes by Scott Thill at Wired magazine as one of the best, describing the reactions to the episode as "polarizing", and suggesting that "Conspiracy" might be worthy of becoming a plot in a future film by J. J. Abrams.[3] Total Film also suggested the episode as a potential plot for the film that would become Star Trek Into Darkness, and described it as "easily one of the greatest episodes of Star Trek: The Next Generation".[13] In 2012, David Brown of Radio Times called "Conspiracy" "a definite high point" in the first season and included it on a list of The Next Generation's greatest moments.[9]

WIRED magazine ranked "Conspiracy" as one of the best of Star Trek: The Next Generation in a 2012 review.[14] They note a creative plot involving a threat to the Federation.[14]

Something considered taboo is naughty, something society considers a no-no. For example, it is taboo to ask people how much money they earn.

Taboo is one of those rare words in the English language that doesn't have Greek or Latin or French roots, coming instead from the South Pacific Islands in the eighteenth century via the explorer Captain Cook. For many islanders some things were tabu, meaning not only could they not be done but they could not be talked about either for risk of offending the Gods. This latter meaning still applies today (minus the spiritual underpinning), when we say that certain subjects are "taboo," meaning off-limits for discussion

Repudiation is where one party to a contract decides to terminate it. … This usually occurs before a contract is actually breached. From here, the other party can choose whether to end the contract or continue (where the other party will likely breach the terms of the contract)

In Espionage Repudiation occurs when an Ageny denies the Actus Rea which is the action designed to bring about the results of the Act as if it were a contracted serve or tit for tat or quid pro quo, or resultant condition as effect of the affact.

Effective repudiation of acts may remove the Agency of the context and motive of Agency acts and the interests the Agenc was serving in Actus Reus

British psychiatry: from eugenics to assassination

By Anton Chaitkin, Executive Intelligence Review, V21 #40, [30 July 2002]

> As a concerned citizen, author Richard James DeSocio raised public awareness about the decline of our once mighty manufacturing sector and the ramifications on our lives and communities. In the last 50 years, thousands of factories have shuttered and countless jobs have been lost. He dug into research which led to his first book release, The Elements of Economic Destruction (1992).
>
> Greatness Achieved and Lost followed next. It explores the explosive growth of America's mighty industrial engine of the nineteenth century by discussing such notables as Vanderbilt, Carnegie, Ford and Rockefeller and their respective sectors: railroads, steel, autos and oil.
> In studying the Rockefeller's, DeSocio discovered a secret universe of political and economic supremacy. In 2013, he released Rockefellerocracy. Clash of Dynasty (2017) further indicts the Rockefeller's as the top culprits behind the crimes of the century

My (Richard James) overarching theory that Nelson Rockefeller gave the order for the assassination of the President Kennedy and brother Robert, as well as other heinous crimes, are underscored by the obvious reality that the man had a very apparent motive to kill the president which was completely overlooked by almost all investigators both official and private. In November of 1963, he lead the Republican race for the White House. He had just been re-elected (1962) for a second term as New York State governor. This meant that the long-standing Rockefeller derogatory moniker of > “Robber Baron” had been completely and successfully made over. On top of this he was re-elected on a liberal agenda that would rival the platform of most liberal Democrats, especially Kennedy’s. President Kennedy confided to close advisors that he believed Nelson Rockefeller was his most formidable obstacle to reelection.

> Amazingly, the background noise heard during the 2016 presidential election sounded eerily familiar to what reverberated during the ‘64 election. I’m referring to the scandal surrounding the Clinton Foundation - an institution conjoined for global initiatives with the Rockefeller Foundation. It so happened that in 1962, a scandal of equal reverberation erupted alleging that Nelson Rockefeller was using Rockefeller Foundation funds to employee a staff of 72 charged with putting him in the White House. The scandal sparked an investigation headed by Texas Congressman Wright Patman and he concluded that the infamous “business trusts” that had

British psychiatry: from eugenics to assassination

.. with the Scottish Rite Masons, the Central Intelligence Agency, and other British, U.S., Canadian, and United Nations agencies. The project became famous in the 1970s under a CIA code name, "MK-Ultra."

Its notoriety for brainwashing by drugs, hypnosis, electroshock, and other tortures caused many books to be written about the project, and the U.S. Senate conducted hearings which exposed many of its abusive features. President Gerald Ford appointed a commission headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, to correct the CIA's misconduct.

There was a widespread anti-establishment view at the time, that here was the fox appointed to guard the hen house. The intelligence agencies offered a public rationale for the project: the need to counteract and compete with the mind-control capabilities of the communists. This was largely based on the fact that U.S. personnel held prisoner by the enemy in the Korean War had signed false confessions of crimes, and some had defected to North Korea, the apparent result of brainwashing.

{The Manchurian Candidate,} a 1959 book which was made into a popular movie in 1962, reflected this rationale. It told the story of a communist plot to use a U.S. soldier brainwashed in Manchuria as a zombie-assassin, to kill the leading U.S. presidential candidate. A central theme of MK-Ultra was to attempt to control the human mind in a similar way. Threatened and accomplished assassination of political leaders has become increasingly frequent in public life since the 1960s. Just since the 1992 election campaign, for example, President Bill Clinton has been the target of at least 15 assassination threats. Many of these would-be killers, and many of the assassins of past years, had been in destructive psychiatric programs, or were members of psychiatrically manipulated cults.

The present threats are the more meaningful, in the context of the British-led Whitewater scandal directed against the presidency. It is long past time for a thorough public inquiry into the assassination epidemic, whereby its relationship to the official project to {create assassins} would be fully explored. A great obstacle to clear thinking in this area has been the assumption that the U.S. government would not sponsor programs for the murder of American leaders. This logical assumption misses the point, that the overall project, including "MK-Ultra," has been foreign-sponsored and anti-American in its purposes. We shall outline here the British background of this deeply criminal enterprise, with its roots in the political and psychiatric movement called eugenics.

909-13: the buildup to World War I -

John D. Rockefeller created the family-run {{Rockefeller Foundation,} in parallel with the birth of the British-inspired Federal Reserve, the Internal Revenue Service, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. In 1909-13 and subsequent years, Rockefeller transferred blocs of the family-owned Standard Oil Co. worth more than $300 million to the account of the foundation under its trustees who were family members, and their employees. Thus was established a global instrument for radical social change, using American money and British strategy. John D. Rockefeller had begun his oil business in the 1860s with British capital. The family's relationship to the British Empire a half-century later was centered in the person of John D. 's brother {{William Rockefeller,}} the president of Standard Oil of New York (later Mobil) and the founder of National City Bank (later Citibank).

In 1911, brother William employed, in a private capacity through his elite social club, a high-ranking British secret intelligence service officer named Claude Dansey. As the United States prepared to ally itself in World War I with its old enemy Britain, Dansey personally reorganized the U.S. Army intelligence service into an adjunct of the British secret service. Dansey's loyal U.S. follower, {{Gen. Marlborough Churchill}} (a distant relative of Britain's Winston Churchill) soon became director of U.S. military intelligence. After World War I, General Churchill headed up the "Black Chamber," a New York-based espionage group serving the State Department, the U.S. Army, and private New York financiers loyal to Great Britain. This same General Churchill would soon launch a medical research organization, the Macy Foundation, for the Rockefellers and British intelligence.

1920s: the pre-Hitler era in Germany -

The Rockefeller Foundation poured money into the occupied German republic for a medical specialty known as {psychiatric genetics.} This field applied to psychiatry the concepts of eugenics (otherwise known as race purification, race hygiene, or race betterment) developed in London's Galton Laboratory and its offshoot Eugenics Societies in England and America. The Rockefeller Foundation created, and foundation executives thenceforth continuously directed, the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Psychiatry in Munich (before Rockefeller sponsorship it was known as the Kraepelin Institute), and the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Anthropology, Eugenics, and Human Heredity. The Rockefellers' chief in both these institutions was the fascist Swiss psychiatrist {{Ernst Ru©audin,}} assisted by his prote©aage©aas, Rockefeller functionaries {{Otmar Freiherr von Verschuer}} and {{Franz J. Kallmann.}} A British medical historian friendly to the Rockefellers recently explained how the family was introduced into this field in Germany©s1: The foundation's "German centers combined the search for organic signs of mental illness with eugenic projects .... The [Kraepelin] institute had initially been endowed with 11 million marks, contributed by Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach [head of the Krupp steel and arms family] and James Loeb [Paul Warburg's brother-in-law], an expatriate American of the Kuhn-Loeb banking family.

Loeb mobilized his American-Jewish friends to support the institute," and they invited the foundation to reorganize and expand the Munich enterprise. Loeb also continued financing the institute. Loeb's relatives, the Warburgs, owners of Kuhn Loeb bank, were the intimate banking partners of William Rockefeller. Together with him they had set up the Harriman family in big business, using capital supplied by the British royal family's personal banker, Sir Ernst Cassell. The three families, Rockefeller, Warburg, and Harriman, together with British Crown agencies, jointly sponsored much of the social engineering enterprise w e shall describe here. The Rockefeller Foundation made an initial grant of $2.5 million in 1925 to the Psychiatric Institute in Munich, gave it $325,000 for a new building in 1928, and continuously sponsored the institute and its Nazi chief Ru©audin through the Hitler era. The foundation paid for a 1930-35 anthropological survey of the "eugenically worthwhile population" by Nazi eugenicists Ru©audin, Verschuer, Eugen Fischer, and others.

In 1920 the British Government decided to site the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley Park, on the site of the pleasure gardens created by Sir Edward Watkin in the 1890s. A British Empire Exhibition had first been proposed in 1902,[3] by the British Empire League, and again in 1913.[4] The Russo-Japanese War had prevented the first plan from being developed and World War I put an end to the second, though there had been a Festival of Empire in 1911, held in part at Crystal Palace.[5][6]

One of the most spectacular and successful campaigns in Gandhi's nonviolent war against the British raj, it resulted in the imprisonment of more than 60,000 people.

In 1906 the Transvaal government published a particularly humiliating ordinance for the registration of its Indian population. The Indians held a mass protest meeting at Johannesburg in September 1906 and, under Gandhi's leadership, took a pledge to defy the ordinance if it became law in the teeth of their opposition and to suffer all the penalties resulting from their defiance. Thus was born satyagraha ("devotion to truth"), a new technique for redressing wrongs through inviting, rather than inflicting, suffering, for resisting adversaries without rancour and fighting them without violence.

psychologists and race purification experts created a medical research financing conduit, the {{ Josiah Macy, Jr. Foundation,}} directed by former Black Chamber and military intelligence chief Gen. Marlborough Churchill. The Macy group would manage London's most advanced experiments in mind-control and social engineering.,

- 1932: Ru©audin heads Eugenics Federation -

The British-led eugenics movement met at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, and designated the Rockefellers' Dr. Ernst Ru©audin as the president of the worldwide Eugenics Federation. The eugenics movement at the time called for the killing or sterilization of people whose heredity made them a public burden or a national scapegoat.

Mid-1930s: Nazi eugenics in practice -

Adolf Hitler was given Germany's chancellorship in 1933, and was soon absolute dictator. {{Montagu Norman,}} the occultist governor of the Bank of England, propped up Hitler's credit, arranged the armament of Nazi Germany, and guided the strategies of Hitler's powerful supporters-the Rockefellers, Warburgs, and Harrimans. Only a few months after the meeting at the American Museum of Natural History, the Rockefeller-Ru©audin apparatus became a section of the Nazi state. The regime appointed Ru©audin head of the Racial Hygiene Society. Ru©audin and his staff, as part of the Task Force of Heredity Experts chaired by SS chief Heinrich Himmler, drew up the sterilization law. Described as an American model law, it was adopted in July 1933 and proudly printed in the September 1933 {Eugenical News} (U.S.A.), with Hitler's signature.

The Rockefeller group drew up other race laws, based, as was the sterilization law, on existing statutes from the Commonwealth of Virginia. Otmar Verschuer and his assistant Dr. Josef Mengele together wrote reports for special courts which enforced Ru©audin's racial purity law against the illegal cohabitation of Aryans and non-Aryans. The "T4" unit of the Hitler Chancery, based on psychiatrists led by Ru©audin and his staff, cooperated in creating propaganda films to sell mercy-killing (euthanasia) to German citizens. The public reacted antagonistically: Hitler had to withdraw a tear-jerker right-to-die film from the movie theaters. The proper groundwork had not yet been laid.

- 1934: The Freemasons study madness -

The {{Scottish Rite of Freemasonry}} joined the Rockefellers in sponsoring psychiatric genetics beginning in 1934, under the rubric of research into dementia praecox (schizophrenia). The highest level of U.S. masonry, the Scottish Rite was the instrument through which the British Crown had reestablished the loyalty of American masons after the American Revolution. The northern section of the Rite had rallied the Copperheads against Abraham Lincoln's Civil War efforts, aiding the Rite's southern chief Albert Pike in secession and in other British white supremacy projects, such as the Ku Klux Klan. For eugenics, the British royal family itself was the Rite's point of reference. The {{Duke of Connaught,}} son of Queen Victoria and brother of King Edward VII, had been grand master of the United Grand Lodge of England since 1901. American masonic leaders referred to the duke as "grand master of the Mother Grand Lodge of Masons of the World."

The son of a German father (Victoria's husband, the Coburg Prince Albert), the Duke of Connaught was deeply involved in German affairs and was a patron of Britain's "New Dark Ages" ultra-racialist elite group based in South Africa.

Late in 1932, negotiations for Hitler's takeover of Germany took place at the home of Joachim von Ribbentrop, who, as a traveling teenager, had been adopted into the household of the Duke of Connaught. Ribbentrop then became the head of Hitler's foreign intelligence service.

As Hitler's ambassador to England, Ribbentrop worked in tandem with the leadership of the clique which employed Hitler as a British surrogate to smash up Europe: the masonic grand master duke and his nephew, the openly Nazi Edward VIII; Bank of England Governor Montagu Norman; and Lord Halifax, Neville Chamberlain's foreign minister.

Sottish Rites and Rockefellrs in one office, The Manhattan Project and Rockefeller Eugenics are Formally Unified at Columbia University New York City overlooking Manhattan Island

- 1936-38: Columbia University's chamber of horrors -

In 1936, the Scottish Rite's Field Representative of Research on Dementia Praecox, Dr. Nolan D.C. Lewis, director of the {{New York State Psychiatric Institute,}} reported to the Scottish Rite Northern Supreme Council "on the progress of the fourteen research projects being financed by the Supreme Council." Scottish Rite strategist {{Winfred Overholser,}} the superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, a federal mental hospital in Washington D.C., provided overall leadership for the Rite's psychiatric research. Though these projects are shrouded in mystery, one of them with particularly gruesome results has come to light. The study of hereditary degeneracy was proceeding in the Rockefeller Foundation's German enclaves when it hit a snag. Psychiatrist Franz J. Kallmann, prote©aage©aa of Nazi race science chief Ernst Ru©audin, was forced to leave his job- Kallmann was "half-Jewish." This was a big blow for Kallmann, who had proved his Nazi credentials at the International Congress for Population Science in Berlin in 1935. At that British-led meeting hosted by Hitler's Interior Ministry, Kallmann had argued for the sterilization of {even the apparently healthy relatives} of schizophrenics, along with the schizophrenics themselves, to securely eliminate all the defective germ plasm. Without missing a step, Kallmann emigrated to America and became director of research in the New York State Psychiatric Institute, attached to Columbia University in Manhattan. The Scottish Rite's Dr. Lewis was the director of the institute. Kallmann simply continued in New York the Nazi propaganda work he had been doing for Rockefeller in Germany. The Scottish Rite of Freemasonry paid

Kallmann to conduct a study of over 1, 000 cases of schizophrenia, in order to assert the claim that the mental disorder was inherited. Kallmann's study was published simultaneously in the United States and Nazi Germany in 1938. In the preface, Kallmann thanked the Scottish Rite and his mentor Ru©audin. He called schizophrenics a "source of maladjust ed crooks … and the lowest types of criminal offenders. Even the faithful believer in liberty … would be happier without those." He declared sarcastically, "I am reluctant to admit the necessity of different eugenic programs for democratic and fascistic communities …. There are neither biological nor sociological differences between a democratic and a totalitarian schizophrenic." Kallmann's scholarly American study was used by the Nazi government's T4 unit as a part of its pretext to begin in 1939 the murder of mental patients and various other "defective" people, many or most of them children. Lethal gas and lethal injections were used to kill 200-250,000 under this program, in which the staffs for a broader program of mass murder were desensitized and trained.

- 1939-40: the deal for Auschwitz -

The German chemical company IG Farben and Rockefeller's Standard Oil of New Jersey were effectively a single firm, merged in hundreds of cartel arrangements. IG Farben was led, up until 1937 by the Warburg family, Rockefeller's partners in banking and in the design of Nazi German eugenics. Following the Nazi invasion of Poland in September 1939, Britain and Germany declared war on each other and World War II began. But later that month, Standard Oil executives flew to the Netherlands on a British Royal Air Force bomber and met with IG Farben executives. Standard Oil pledged to keep the merger with IG Farben going even if the United States entered the war. This was exposed in 1942 by Sen. Harry Truman's investigating committee, and President Franklin Roosevelt took hundreds of legal measures during the war to counter the Standard Oil-IG Farben cartel's supply operation for the enemy war machine. In 1940-41, IG Farben built a gigantic factory at Auschwitz in Poland, to utilize the Standard Oil-IG Farben patents with concentration camp slave labor to make gasoline from coal. The SS guarded the Jewish and other inmates and selected for killing those who were unfit for IG Farben slave labor. Standard-Germany President Emil Helfferich testified after the war that Standard Oil funds helped pay for the SS guards at Auschwitz. On March 26, 1940, six months after the Standard Oil-IG Farben meeting, European Rockefeller Foundation official Daniel O'Brian wrote to the foundation's chief medical officer Alan Gregg that "it would be unfortunate if it was chosen to stop research which has no relation to war issues." The "non-war- related" research continued. {The Rockefeller Foundation defends its record by claiming that its funding of Nazi German programs during World War II was limited to psychiatric research.}

- 1943: research in Nazi-occupied Poland -

In 1943, Otmar Verschuer's assistant Josef Mengele was made medical commandant of Auschwitz. As wartime director of Rockefeller's Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Anthropology, Eugenics, and Human Heredity in Berlin, Verschuer secured funds for Mengele's experiments at Auschwitz from the German Research council. Verschuer wrote a progress report to the Council: "My co-researcher in this research is my assistant, the anthropologist and physician Mengele. He is serving as Hauptstu©aurmfu©auhrer and camp doctor in the concentration camp Auschwitz …. With the permission of the Reichsfu©auhrer SS Himmler, anthropological research is being undertaken on the various racial groups in the concentration camps and blood samples will be sent to my laboratory for investigation." Mengele prowled the railroad cars coming into Auschwitz, looking for twin children-a favorite research subject of Frankenstein-type psychiatric geneticists. On arrival at Mengele's experimental station, twins filled out "a detailed questionnaire from the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute." There were daily drawings of blood for Verschuer's "specific protein" research. Needles were injected into eyes for work on eye color.

There were experimental blood transfusions and experimental infections. Organs and limbs were removed, sometimes without anesthetics. Sex changes were attempted. Females were sterilized, males were castrated. Thousands were murdered, and their organs, eyeballs, heads, and limbs were sent to Verschuer and the Rockefeller group at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute. After the war, Mengele was a famous target of Nazi-hunters pursuing him to South America. But his boss, Verschuer, was regarded in a different light: He was a high-level Rockefeller operative. In 1946, Verschuer wrote to the Bureau of Human Heredity in London, asking for help in continuing his "scientific research. " In 1947, the Bureau of Human Heredity moved from London to Copenhagen, and Verschuer moved to Denmark to join the British group there. The new Danish building for this group was erected with Rockefeller money. The first International Congress in Human Genetics following World War II was held at this Danish institute in 1956. Dr. Kallmann helped save Verschuer by testifying at his denazification proceedings. Kallmann, a director of the American Eugenics Society, became an icon at the New York State Psychiatric Institute, which remains to this day a nest of the Eugenics Society. With Verschuer and other Nazi notables, Dr. Kallmann also created the American Society of Human Genetics, which organized the "Human Genome Project"-a current $3 billion physical multiculturalism effort.

- 1943: research in North America -

With the war on, the Rockefeller Foundation and the Canadian military joined their psychiatric forces. Canadian Army medical director Dr. George Brock Chisholm had been trained as a psychiatrist at the {{Tavistock Psychiatric Clinic}} in London, and Tavistock-the British Crown's central mind-bending agency-was a major Rockefeller Foundation beneficiary. In 1943, the Rockefeller Foundation created the Allen Memorial Institute at McGill University in Montreal. Eugenics- oriented psychiatrist {{Donald Ewen Cameron,}} a Scottish immigrant to the United States, was placed in charge of the institute's psychiatry. Experiments in coercive interrogation and brainwashing would be conducted at Allen Institute under the auspices of the Canadian military, the Rockefeller Foundation, and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Dr. Cameron's "terminal" use of electric shock as a brain-burning torture, psychosurgery, and brainwashing with drugs and hypnosis would make the Canadian program the most famous apsect of the CIA's MK- Ultra. Meanwhile, in Washington, D.C., a new odor, that of marijuana, could be detected inside St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D.C. (St. Elizabeth's is the mental hospital where presidential assailants or other federal cases are kept.) The superintendent, Scottish Rite chief psychiatrist Winfred Overholser, was in 1943 the chairman of the misnamed "truth drug" committee for the Office of Strategic Services (OSS). The criminal underworld was systematically being brought into official but secret joint activities with the government, under the pretext of fighting fascism. Overholser's crew administered the hallucinogen mescaline to various test subjects. Then in the spring of 1943, they perfected the right mix of marijuana and tobacco to produce a "state of irresponsibility" in the subject. The official OSS story is that New York mafia hitman August Del Gracio began smoking Overholser's "joints" on May 27, 1943, in order to loosen his tongue. Federal agents were thus supposedly to learn the inside secrets of drug trafficking-but not to stop it. This was part of an ongoing federal program, which organized crime czar Meyer Lansky boasts (in his authorized biography) that he personally arranged. Mafia thugs were brought in to work in Naval Intelligence offices, and jointly with U.S. agents in U.S. ports and shipping, to more effectively intimidate our national enemies. Former CIA staff member John Marks writes in {The Search for the Manchurian Candidate} that Overholser's working group included counterintelligence agents inside the Manhattan Project atomic bomb project, and the FBI, which was under the direction of Dr. Overholser's Scottish Rite comrade, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover. The Overholser group gave marijuana to U.S. soldiers at Army bases throughout the country, supposedly to aid in the search for subversives. Later, during the 1950s and 1960s, the strategists of the MK- Ultra project would utilize the same channels of influence with U.S.

1944-48: after Nazism, the International Congress on Mental Health

In 1944, with the concentration camps in full swing and Europe burning, Montagu Norman resigned from the Bank of England. He immediately began a new project, ironically related to his own repeated mental breakdowns and hospitalizations. Norman organized the British {{National Association for Mental Health.}} In its formative stages the group was based at Thorpe Lodge, Norman's London home, where he had met with Nazi Economics Minister Hjalmar Schacht to plan the Hitler regime's 1930s budgets. Montagu Norman's Bank of England assistant Otto Niemeyer was made treasurer of the National Association of Mental Health. Niemeyer's niece, Mary Appleby, became general secretary of the association. She previously worked in the German Section of the British Foreign Office. The president of Norman's association was to be Richard Austen ("RAB") Butler. He had been deputy foreign minister to Lord Halifax and the spokesman in the British Parliament for the pro-Nazi policy. The chairman of the association was to be be Lord Halifax's son-in-law, the Earl of Feversham. The vice chairman was Lord Montagu Norman's wife, eugenics activist Priscilla Reyntiens Worsthorne Norman. Norman's British group would soon expand and to take over management of the world psychiatric profession. When the war ended, the exposure and punishment of those responsible for the Nazi barbarities was a rather delicate matter. Dr. Donald Ewen Cameron interrupted his Canadian brain butchery to go help the British Crown's Tavistock psychological warfare unit evaluate the sanity of Nazi official Rudolph Hess. Cameron's unique insights into the Nazi mentality had made him a valued part of a secret wartime psychiatric committee in Washington to assess the trends in the Nazi leadership's thinking. Cameron now testified as an expert at the Nuremberg war crimes trials. His old OSS colleague

{{Allen Dulles,}} later the CIA director, was reportedly pleased by Cameron's suggestion that each surviving German over the age of 12 should be given electroshock treatment to burn out remaining vestiges of Nazism. That part of the Nuremberg Code dealing with scientific research was drafted by Boston psychiatrist Leo Alexander; he soon afterward joined with Auschwitz experimental mastermind Otmar Verschuer in Franz Kallmann's American Society of Human Genetics. In 1948, Montagu Norman's National Association for Mental Health gathered the world psychiatric and psychological leaders together at an {{International Congress on Mental Health}} at the United Kingdom's Ministry of Health in London. At this congress, a {{World Federation for Mental Health}} was formed, to run the planet's psychological services. Lady Norman, the hostess of the congress, was named to the executive board. Norman picked as president of the World Federation the chief of the British military's psychological warfare department, Tavistock Institute chief {{Brig. Gen. Dr. John Rawlings Rees.}} In connection with the founding of the World Federation for Mental Health, a New York agent of Montagu Norman named Clarence G. Michalis was made chairman of the board of the Josiah Macy, Jr. Foundation. That foundation, in turn, would pay for much of what the World Federation and Tavistock were to do to the United States-supplying dope and otherwise subverting western ideals. The Macy Foundation's chief medical officer, Dr. Frank Fremont-Smith, would be the permanent co-director of the World Federation with J.R. Rees. The technical coordinator of the U.S. delegation to the 1948 congress, Nina Ridenour, later wrote in {Mental Health in the United States: A Fifty Year History,} that "the World Federation for Mental Health … had been created upon the recommendation of the United Nations' {{World Health Organization}} and {{Unesco}}, because they needed a non-governmental [i.e., not accountable to any check of law or constitution-ed.] mental health organization with which they could cooperate." Ridenour alluded to the fact that the British psychological warfare executive had itself created the heart of the U.N. apparatus:

"Having official consultive status with the United Nations and several of its specialized agencies, the World Federation for Mental Health is in a position to influence some of the U.N.'s decisions and some aspects of its program. The two U.N. agencies with which the World Federation works most closely are the World Health Organization (WHO) and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organzation (Unesco). "The first director of WHO, and indeed quite literally its 'creator,' was a prominent Canadian psychiatrist, Brock Chisholm, M.D., formerly director general of the Canadian Army Medical Services. Since its inception, WHO has made significant contributions to world mental health through the reports of its various Expert Committees; through some of its other special reports, such as the notable monograph {Mental Health and Maternal Care} by [Tavistock's] John Bowlby, M.D.; and through the widespread activities of its Mental Health Division, of which the British psychiatrist Ronald C. Hargreaves was the first director." Unesco's partnership with Rees was guided by Unesco's founding secretary general, eugenics strategist {{Sir Julian Huxley,}} and by Unesco social sciences chief Dr. Otto Klineberg, a Tavistock-affiliated psychologist specializing in the supposedly racial characteristics of the American Negro.

Its vice presidents included: {{Prof. Cyril Burt:}} Tavistock psychiatrist, eugenics activist, a leader of the "psychical research" movement (seances, ESP, ghosts), who was notorious for fraudulent "twins" research; {{Dr. Hugh Chrichton-Miller:}} founder of the Tavistock Clinic; vice president of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich; vice president, National Association for Mental Health; {{Dame Evelyn Fox:}} a longtime leader of the British eugenics movement (Lady Norman was a disciple of Dame Evelyn); {{Sir David Hen derson:}} psychiatrist in London, Munich, and New York; author of {Psychiatry and Race Betterment}; {{Lord Thomas Jeeves Horder:}} president of the Eugenics Society of Great Britain; president of the Family Planning Association; president of the Anglo-Soviet Public Relations Association; former physician to King Edward VIII; {{Carl G. Jung:}} occultist; psychiatrist to Montagu Norman, Paul Mellon, and the Dulles family; representative of German psychiatry under the Nazis, co-editor of the Nazis' {Journal for Psychotherapy}; {{Dr. Winfred Overholser:}} representative of the Scottish Rite Masons; chairman of the American delegation to the International Congress on Mental Health; {{Alan Ker Stout:}} University of Sydney, Australia, philosophy professor, president of the New South Wales Film Society, officer of Unesco for films; {{Dr. Alfred Frank Tredgold:}} member of Britain's Ministry of Health Committee on Sterilization and a leading expert on mental defectives. The congress was run by the host British "National Association," whose patron was the Duchess of Kent, widow of the Grand Master of Masons (1939-42) and mother of the Grand Master of Masons (1967 to the present), and whose vice presidents were eugenics and masonic officials. The general conference at the congress was on the subject of {guilt,} including the crucial plenary session on alleged German collective guilt for the crimes of Nazism. The first speaker was {{Margaret Mead,}} anthropologist, occultist, who would be president of the World Federation for Mental Health in 1956 and 1957, during the MK-Ultra crimes. The "Chairman for Discussion" of this plenary was Scottish Rite strategist Winfred Overholser. In his opening remarks, Overholser said: "I understand that a vocal minority in the press does not agree with the wisdom of having such a meeting, but we feel there is great hope for the future if the principles of mental hygiene can be translated into terms of international action."

1950s: MK-Ultra

The outrages perpetrated by Ewen Cameron became the most notorious aspect of the postwar Anglo-American mind-control program. Cameron had trained at the Royal Mental Hospital in Glasgow, under eugenicist Sir David Henderson, and founded the Canadian branch of his friend John R. Rees's World Federation for Mental Health. In the various member countries and subdivisions, these channels of British intelligence operations are known as the national, provincial, or state {{Mental Health Associations.} } Cameron was also elected president of the Canadian, American, and world psychiatric associations. He became famous after the CIA was sued by some survivors of his work-because the CIA had financed the tortures. Cameron would drug his victims to sleep for weeks on end, waking them daily only to administer violent electric shocks to the brain. He used the British Page-Russell electroconvulsive method, an initial one-second shock, then five to nine additional shocks, administered while the patient was in seizure. But he increased the normal voltage and the number of sequences from one to two or three times per day. Patients lost all or part of their memories, and some lost the ability to control their bodily functions and to speak. At least one patient was reduced almost to a vegetable; then Cameron had the coginitve centers of her brain surgically cut apart, while keeping her alive. Some subjects were deposited permanently in institutions for the hopelessly insane. For the CIA, Cameron tested the South American poison called curare, which kills a victim while simulating natural heart failure. But Cameron claims to have used it only in non-lethal doses to further immobilize his subjects while they were kept in sensory deprivation tortures for as long as 65 days.

Then they would be given lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD) for "programmable" hallucinations. When the subject was sufficiently devastated, Cameron and his assistant, a veteran of the British Royal Signals Corps, would begin "Psychic Driving": Through a loudsp eaker hidden under the pillow, or through unremovable earphones, they would play a tape over and over again to burn certain phrases into what was left of the victim's memory. The CIA was found to have financed these horrors, as well as ghastly experiments in other locations, using a front called the Society for the Study of Human Ecology. (The society gave a grant for a study of the effects of circumcision on young Turkish boys, the grantees to be in Istanbul, studying five to seven year olds and their problems with their genitals. It is claimed that this was intended to give a cover to the CIA front as a real academic organization.)

- The question of sponsorship - But the authorship of this enterprise cannot reasonably be assigned to the CIA, per se. Even before we review other agencies' direct involvement, we must understand that the CIA chief during MK-Ultra, Allen Dulles, was thoroughly attached to British Empire geopolitical aims. Introduced to British spies by his uncle Robert Lansing, Woodrow Wilson's secretary of state, Dulles had had a strong personal identification since childhood with the British Secret Intelligence Service. The Dulles family's upper class-status in America began when ancestor William Dulles arrived in South Carolina from India. With a fortune made in India by providing financial and security services for the British East India Company army, he bought a slave plantation which the family held through the American Civil War.

The family's mental life was always that of the British Empire and its American colonial subordinates. Allen Dulles's main corporate activity was as a director of the J. Henry Schroder banking company in London, a prime instrument in Montagu Norman's nazification of Germany. As partners in the Sullivan and Cromwell firm, Allen Dulles and his brother John Foster Dulles represented the Rockefeller-Harriman- Warburg combination, I.G. Farben, and virtully every other Nazi corporate organization that danced on London's marionette strings. It was disclosed that for MK-Ultra, particularly for the experimental use and distribution of LSD, the CIA operated through another front, the Josiah Macy, Jr. Foundation. But the geometry of the "front" really worked the other way around. The Macy Foundation represented the British psychological warfare executive, as extended into U.S. and related institutions. In the midst of launching MK-Ultra, during 1954-55, the Macy Foundation's medical director Frank Fremont-Smith was president of British General Rees's World Federation of Mental Health. Under Rees as the director, the two together "made a journey to a number of countries in Asia and Africa to establish contacts and seek ways in which th e organziation may extend its activities in those regions." Through official military and intelligence conferences over which it presided, and through various informal and secret operations, the Macy Foundation directed the spread of LSD by U. S. agencies during the 1950s. The Macy Foundation's chief LSD executive, {{Harold Abramson, }} was a psychiatric researcher at Columbia University and at the eugenics center in Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, New York. It was Abramson who first "turned on" Frank Fremont-Smith. Abramson also gave LSD for the first time to British anthropologist Gregory Bateson, sometime husband of Margaret Mead. Then in 1959, Bateson gave LSD to Beat poet Alan Ginsburg at Stanford University, under controlled experimental conditions. Following this, Dr. Leo Hollister at Stanford gave LSD to mental patient turned author Ken Kesey and others, and thus it was said to have spread "out of the CIA's realm."

- Masonic 'charity'

Other parts of the U.S. government participated in the project exposed as MK-Ultra. The Army Chemical Center paid for LSD and related drug brainwashing experiments by {{Dr. Paul Hoch.}} Along with Nazi eugenics leader Franz Kallmann, Hoch co-directed the research at Columbia University's New York State Psychiatric Institute. Dr. Hoch was a member of the American Eugenics Society, in Kallmann's eugenics cell at the institute. Hoch was simultaneously appointed State Mental Hygiene Commissioner by New York Gov. Averell Harriman, and was reappointed by the next governor, Nelson Rockefeller. Dr. Hoch's forced injections of a mescaline derivative brought about the 1953 death of New York tennis player Harold Blauer. Hoch's colleague Dr. James Cattell later told investigators, "We didn't know whether it was dog piss or what it was we were giving him." When Hoch died, British brain butcher Ewen Cameron directed his funeral. Dr. Hoch, a Scottish Rite masonic strategist, worked with Dr. Kallman under the direction of Scottish Rite Freemasonry's Field Representative of Research on Dementia Praecox, Dr. Nolan D.C. Lewis, the superintendent of the New York State Psychiatric Institute. As the Ku Klux Klan has been the defining project for the Scottish Rite's Southern Jurisdiction, the Rite's Northern Jurisdiction left its official mark on the world through MK- Ultra-its most important "charity." Much of the psychiatric dirty work, though, has been done inside the Rite's KKK-spawning Southern Jurisdiction, which includes all southern states and everything west of the Mississippi River. {{Robert Hanna Felix,}} 33rd degree mason, was a director of the Scottish Rite's psychiatric research.

He ran a spectacularly lawless brainwashing establishment. The exposure of the MK-Ultra scandal revealed that the CIA had funded one Dr. Harris Isbell to carry out barbarous experiments using slave subjects, nearly all of them black drug addicts, at the {{Addiction Research Center}} in Lexington, Kentucky. Isbell was the director of the cen ter from the 1940s until 1963. His boss was masonic master psychiatrist Felix, who founded the {{National Institute of Mental Health}} and was NIMH director from 1949 to 1964. The Lexington facility had been Dr. Felix's personal project since he had been its clinical director in the 1930s, and he put it under the jurisdiction of the NIMH.

The Felix-Isbell slave experiments involved LSD and a wide variety of other hallucinogens and exotic poisons. In one case, seven prisoners were kept hallucinating on LSD for 77 consecutive days. The torture at Lexington followed the pattern developed by Cameron in Montreal: Drug-induced sleep was interrupted by electroconvulsive shock. Cooperative subjects were rewarded with shots of heroin or any other drug of their choice. And for mental health, the masonic administration encouraged the prisoners to participate in synthetic religious and political cults. Felix's program was not simply to make humans into controllable beasts, but to decentralize the zombie-manufacturing. A 1993 report to the Scottish Rite Supreme Council by its current psychiatric research director, Steven Matthysse, explains: “Thirty years ago, a massive program began, which has continued unabated to this day: the deinstitutionalization of the mentally ill ….

My predecessor as research director of the Schizophrenia Research Program, Dr. Robert H. Felix, 33 Degree, Gourgas medalist and the founding director of the National Institute of Mental Health, was one of the chief architects of this program. ‘We are entering a new era,’ he wrote, ‘of community-centered, comprehensive psychiatric care.’ … Dr. Felix predicted that, in 25 years, ‘State mental hospitals as we know them would no longer exist.’ He was right …. During the years from 1955 to 1992, the state mental hospital census went down by 82%.” The strategists of MK-Ultra succeeded in moving the mentally ill out of costly mental hospitals, onto the streets, where they now consitute a large proportion of America’s homeless. We shall now see what kind o f “community-centered psychiatric care” these strategists did in fact implement, as Britain’s MK-Ultra poured drugs into the country and worked to fabricate the drug- sex youth culture.

- Manchuria in California? -

As Carol Greene has demonstrated in her 1992 book {Mo©aurder aus der Retorte: Der Fall Charles Manson,} ({Test-Tube Murder: The Case of Charles Manson}) {{Charles

Manson,}} before he committed mass murder, was himself an NIMH "research subject." Manson was released from a California prison in March 1967. He was required by law to report regularly to a parole officer named Roger Smith, who was based at the Haight-Ashbury Medical Clinic in San Francisco. This was an NIMH project designed to observe and in effect supervise the first large-scale drug addiction of white teenagers, thousands of whom were the clinic's clients. Clinic director David E. Smith was also the publisher of the {Journal of Psychedelic Drugs,} and a leading national advocate for the legalized use of narcotics.

Within the clinic arrangement, Charles Manson's parole officer was officially commissioned to scientifically investigate the effects that various kinds drugs had on addicts served by the NIMH clinic. David Smith also collaborated with another NIMH project: a behavioral study of children in communes. He was an expert on the breeding of violent anti-social characters in the mind-crushing environment of the hippie or cult commune. Parole officer Roger Smith remained on Manson's case after he was no longer his parole officer, as an adviser and observer of the increasingly insane man. Charles Manson took up with a British-origin satanic killer cult called {{The Process-Church of the Final Judgment,}} a spin-off from Scientology. When he started with The Process is not clear, but there are some reports that it was in that summer of 1967.

Its British founders had put the U.S. headquarters of the cult into the Haight-Ashbury section, two blocks from where Manson was living, and they recruited from among the "flower children" for the jobs of drug-running, assassination, and race riots. {{David Berkowitz,}} convicted in the New York "Son of Sam" serial murders, was an initiate of The Process. Manson is most widely known for his communal Family, which carried out the satanic Tate-LaBianca murders. But here we note that Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, who became the head of the Family after Manson was arrested in October 1969, was herself imprisoned for the 1975 attempted assassination of U.S. President Gerald Ford. Another associate of the Manson Family, Sarah Jane Moore, was also imprisoned for a failed assassination attempt on President Ford. Had either been successful, Nelson Rockefeller would have become President. There is a certain psychiatric agency, the {{American Family Foundation,}} which exists officially to guard the public from injurious cults. AFF is the mother organization for the so-called {{Cult Awareness Network}} (CAN).

{{Dr. Louis Jolyon West}} is a director of AFF. An expert in brainwashing for the Air Force and the CIA, West first achieved fame from his MK-Ultra feat-he injected LSD-25 into an elephant and killed it. West researched “the psychology of dissociated states” for the CIA, using LSD and hypnosis. His friend {{Aldous Huxley}} suggested to Dr. West during an MK-Ultra experiment that West hypnotize his subjects prior to administering LSD, in order to give them “post-hypnotic suggestions aimed at orienting the drug-induced experience in some desired direction.”

Jolyon West Why Was Everybody Connected to JFK Suddenly Mysteriously Killed https://youtu.be/0AmP_ELZ7eU

Dr. West was called upon by the government to examine Jack Ruby, who had killed Lee Harvey Oswald before Oswald could stand trial for his alleged role in the assassination of President John Kennedy. West declared Ruby to be in a “paranoid state manifested by delusions, visual and auditory hallucinations, and suicidal impulses.” Ruby was convicted in 1964, but conveniently died in 1967 while awaiting what could have been a revealing re- trial. Dr. West lived in Haight-Ashbury during the summer of 1967, to study the hippies.

In the 1970s, West became famous again for his plans to create a Center for the Study and Reduction of Violence. Its staff was to investigate the genetics and biochemistry of their prisoners, including “hyperkinetic children,” whose every m otion would be electronically monitored by Orwellian guards. Though backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, the plan was defeated. {{Rabbi Maurice Davis}} is another “expert” guarding America from cults as a director of the American Family Foundation.

Davis worked at the NIMH Lexington Addiction Research Center as a chaplain, serving the slave victims of the MK-Ultra drug experiments as they were brought into cult participation. Rabbi Davis then moved to Indianapolis and sponsored the career of {{Rev. Jim Jones,}} whose followers were murdered with poisoned Kool-Aid in Guyana.

The bulk of the start-up financing for the American Family Foundation was channeled through a New York law firm running two funding satellites of the Josiah Macy, Jr. Foundation. The same law firm was the legal representative of The Process-Church of the Final Judgment. The Process Church employs neo-Nazi themes, as do other British-origin movements such as the Satanists associated with California's Anton Lavey and Col. Michael Aquino. (which Micheal A. Aquino? Michael Anthony Aquino 1949-2006 BIRTH FEB 20, 1949 • Spokane, WA?) Charles Manson's swastika tattoo attests to this. Many of the psychotic potential presidential assassins have been "neo-Nazis." These include Ronald Reagan's deeply brainwashed assailant John Hinckley, and some of those who have threatened President Clinton. To help turn up the possible source for this curious zombie pattern, we review the case of NIMH leader Seymour Kety-as of recent report the chairman of the Professional Advisory Section of the Scottish Rite Masons' Schizophrenia Research program.

This is the Dr. Kety who, with his NIMH predecessor Dr. Felix, helped shape the programs that made Charles Manson a satanic beast. A Scottish Rite brochure reports on the meetings of the Rite's Grand Commander and Supreme Council with their psychiatrists to plan for the future. The brochure explains that Dr. Kety "can trace his interest in the genetics of schizophrenia to a report by Dr. Franz Kallmann at one of these meetings years ago. Dr. Kety's own genetic studies have become landmarks in the field, as the firs t convincing demonstration of an inherited factor." Not the first, perhaps, because Kallmann provided Adolf Hitler with "convincing" pretexts to exterminate mental patients.

- The official assassination program -

The ambiguous rationale for the MK-Ultra program was the search for the Manchurian Candidate: to study, emulate, and counterbalance communist programs which brainwash people who could be dangerous to our national security. These programs were secret, and masses of MK-Ultra records were destroyed. But some aspects of the program's direct testing have been divulged. CIA executive Morse Allen worked at creating killers under hypnosis on and around Feb. 19, 1954. The CIA planned early in 1954 to hypnotize a man they considered disposable, to get him to make an assassination attempt, be arrested for attempted murder, and be "thereby disposed of." A CIA hypnosis study was done by Alden Sears at the University of Minnesota and was moved by Sears to the University of Denver, Colorado. Sears worked to answer the question, "Could a hypnotist induce a totally separate personality? CIA counterintelligence chief {{James Jesus Angleton,}} a leader of the British intelligence faction in the American intelligence community, established three goals for the hypnosis program:

1) to induce hypnosis very rapidly in unwitting subjects; 2) to create durable amnesia; and 3) to implant durable and operationally useful post-hypnotic suggestion. A test of rapid hypnosis took place in July 1963. The counterintelligence staff in Washington, D.C. asked the CIA station in Mexico City to find a suitable candidate for a rapid induction experiment.

The station proposed a low-level agent, whom the Soviets had apparently doubled. A counterintelligence man flew in from Washington and a hypnotic consultant arrived from California. The experiment was said to have misfired. According to CIA hypnosis expert Milton Klein, creating a hypnotized "patsy" is easier than making a totally controlled Manchurian Candidate. The patsy can be induced by hypnosis to do things which later show up as circumstantial evidence that will get him falsely blamed for a crime. Klein has claimed he can create a patsy in three months; a full-scale Manchurian Candidate tak es six months.

- Strange deaths: Frank Olson and Philip Graham - An important part of the MK-Ultra story was the violent death of Dr. Frank Olson. In November 1953, the project's CIA personnel gave LSD to Olson, an executive of the Army Chemical Corps' Special Operations Division, without warning him. Olson became psychotic and paranoid, so the agency took Olson to New York to see Harold Abramson, the British Crown's LSD pusher, who had "top secret" CIA clearance. When Abramson was no help, Olson agreed to enter { {Chestnut Lodge,}} a Rockville, Maryland sanitarium whose psychiatrists were in Abramson's category for the security of the MK-Ultra project - "top secret" cleared. But the night before he was to enter Chestnut Lodge, Olson allegedly jumped to his death from a hotel window. Olson's death eventually became a scandal which helped break open of the entire MK-Ultra scandal.

A decade later, President John F. Kennedy was pressing ahead with the Apollo space program, which he promised would put a man on the Moon within a decade. Philip Graham, the owner/ publisher of the {Washington Post} and {Newsweek,} met as an adviser and friend every week with the President and his brother, Attorney General Bobby Kennedy. Graham was an ardent champion and strategist of the space program, and of the President's policy of achieving peace by developing overwhelming technological superiority.

Graham wrote a {Newsweek} column defending French President Charles de Gaulle and attacking Britain and elements in the U.S. government who took the British line. Graham's wife Katharine and her Anglophile family despised and mocked Kennedy's emphasis on progress, and demanded U.S. disarmament. Graham separated from his wife and sued for divorce. In January 1963, Graham delivered a speech to a national publishers' meeting in Arizona, attacking the news media as toadies and sycophants. Leslie Farber, a New Age psychiatrist from MK-Ultra's Chestnut Lodge, flew out on a military jet. Graham was wrestled to the ground, drugged into a stupor, and flown back to Maryland, where his wife had obtained a cou rt order for his commitment to Chestnut Lodge.

He was apparently released after 10 days or so. In June 1963, Graham was somehow put back into Chestnut Lodge. On Aug. 3, he was released into the custody of his estranged wife.

That afternoon, he was found shot to death. His will was declared void on the grounds of insanity, and his widow, Katharine Graham, gained control of the {Washington Post} and {Newsweek.} Three months later, President Kennedy was assassinated. The { Washington Post,} the main newspaper in the national capital, did not pursue the question of who had murdered the U.S. President, but left it to the Warren Commission to decide.

- The assassins' goals -

Back in 1961, at the height of MK-Ultra, the NIMH, led by masonic high priest Robert Felix, had created an elite group of biologists, behavioral psychologists, chemists, pharmacologists, neuropsychologists, and psychiatrists. This 150-member {{American College of Neuropsychopharmacology}} comprised many of most important MK-Ultra participants. An inner group of the college, the Study Group for the Effects of Psychotropic Drugs on Normal Humans, held a conference in 1967 to outline the desired course for the United States to the year 2000. This conference was reported on by two MK-Ultra leaders: {{ Dr. Wayne O. Evans,}} director of the U.S. Army Military Stress Laboratory in Natick, Massachusetts; and {{Nathan Kline,}} a eugenics fanatic and research psychiatrist for Columbia University, who had set up voodoo-oriented psychological clinics in Haiti in conjunction with "Papa Doc" Duvalier. The preface to the Evans-Kline report said the group "concluded that the present breadth of drug use may be almost trivial when we compare it to the possible numbers of chemical substances that will be available for the control of selective aspects of man's life in the year 2000 …. "The American culture … [is] moving toward a 'sensate society.' … A greater emphasis is being placed on sensory experience and less upon rational or work-oriented philosophies. Such a philosophical view, coupled with the means to separate sexual behavior from reproduction or disease, will undoubtedly enhance sexual freedom …. “It seems … obvious that the youth of today are no longer afraid of either drugs or sex. Again, the philosophers and spokesmen for the avant-garde advocate the personal sensory experience as the {raison d’e©aftre} of the coming generation. Finally, we are moving into an age in which meaningful work will be possible only for a minority: In such an age, chemical aphrodisiacs may be accepted as a commonplace means to occupy one’s time. It will be interesting to see if the public morality of the next 30 years will change as much as it has in the last 30. “If we accept the position that human mood, motivation, and emotion are reflections of a neurochemical state of the brain, then drugs can provide a simple, rapid, expedient means to produce any desired neurochemical state that we wish. “The sooner that we cease to confuse scientific and moral statements about drug use, the sooner we can rationally consider the types of neurochemical states that we wish to be able to provide for people.” This is the historical thinking of the British strategists who want to destroy the U.S. presidency and the American republic. And this is the criminal apparatus with which they have equipped themselves to do it.

Task Force Video 3.2 Conspiracy Theorist = Truth Teller

I I would say what advise is just you know everyone open your eyes keep your eyes open the these things happen really right under the noses of just about everybody it's it's almost hard to believe but these people have become so skilled they're so devious that they they think they number one they think and it's pretty much true that they will ever be caught and if they are caught in some way they're going to be protected and then numbered number do they're just they're so skilled because they've been doing it for so long and trained at being so devious and so what you see what you think you would see to your face is some sort of monstrous presentation or you know to be blunt jackass presentation evil presentation and that is not really how it works most of these people involved in these horrific crimes are to the world and NOT behind the scenes they are the epitome of CHARMERS they are the epitome of we WE WANT TO HELP CHILDREN that's why THEY RUN

CHILDRENS CHARITIES say the children and you know

I'm not just singling them out and I don't know their structure anything but I'm just using that as an example all of these places that run these children's facilities to save these poor children and these guys are such charmers and speak about all the evil and how they want to save all these children from from these evil perpetrators most often ARE the evil perpetrators

the who Central Intelligence Agency CIA that term was made up by them in order to kind of throw the scent off of anything that has to do with these kinds of evil acts so they threw the conspiracy theorist tag on it to make it stick and now that's what you hear all the time anyone that comes out with truth that is this evil is named a conspiracy theorist and these are not theories this is a because our conspiracy truths a conspiracy is a crime in and of itself it's the gathering of you know at least two people and making a plan to commit a crime that is crying mystic conspiracy this is not a and the theory is actually an idea that needs facts to support it and we have those facts so the word conspiracy theorists has always been used as some derogatory term to make everyone think that you're crazy well that was their goal it was their goal from the beginning so all of you people screaming conspiracy theorists they've accomplished their goal with you congratulations you have officially been brainwashed and you know pat yourself on the back for that and once you get done with that take your hand off patting yourself and each other on the back it actually started doing some work and researching this and looking into this and start helping uncover some of this stuff so that we can have our country back and children can be set free and child again and we are not gonna stop until that is done so that's the end of part three point two I believe and there will be some more coming up but thank you for listening and paying attention and I'm giving as many details as I can

I know people will want me just to come forward with with names and come forward with interviews I get it I so wish I could but I have to take in the witnesses and victims safety in their lives first and until I know that some of this is safe and there are for sure good people protecting them and going to help them and

I have confirmation of that I cannot release this information publicly for their lives and their lives are way more important than me releasing anything on videotape just to get people to watch the videos or to get hits or anything like that I don't really care about that all I care about is people actually listening expanding your thinking doing the research and realizing that it is not only possible it has been happening for you know really since the beginning of time but it has really a just blown up in the past you know seven or eight years and is rampant in our society and it's it's the underbelly of the darkest of dark and these kids and these young adults who have survived this need all the support and all the encouragement and all the protection and all the safety that we as the American people who believe in justice can possibly offer them so please continue to research and share what you can what you know about child trafficking and all the just horrific crimes that that come with it including sacrifice and really really just disturbing things that that you people think to themselves human beings don't really have the propensity to do that and I'm telling you yes they do and they have the propensity to not only do it but also to get up the next morning and put a suit and tie on or even the uniform and go into work as if nothing ever happened and this is going to come out and shot people so open your eyes drop the scales look deeply and realized that those of us that are pushing this envelope on

YouTube or whatever Twitter things like that the reason they are blocking us a shadow banning us or doing all these things is not because we're crazy conspiracy theorists at that point you would just let us go because we would just sound like crazy conspiracy theorists no they're shutting us down and attacking us and blocking us

why why would they do that for people who are just nuts as as some people would like to believe they're not doing it because it's the truth and some of them are involved and they don't want it to come about we're going to force the issue so checking out for now thank you for listening thank you for your support

Group of Five From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia * The Group of Five (G5) encompasses five nations which have joined together for an active role in the rapidly evolving international order. Individually and as a group, the G5 nations work to promote dialogue and understanding between developing and developed countries. The G5 seek to find common solutions to global challenges.[1] In the 21st century, the G5 were understood to be the five largest emerging economies, and these are:[2]

Group of Five From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia *

The concept of a forum for the world’s major industrialized democracies emerged following the 1973 oil crisis and subsequent global recession. In 1974 the United States created the informal Library Group, an unofficial gathering of senior financial officials from France, Japan, the United Kingdom, the United States, and West Germany. These men were called the “Library Group” because they met informally in the library of the White House in Washington, D.C.[4]

During the 1970s, the term “Group of Five” came to be identified the top five of the world’s the leading economies as ranked by per capita GDP. Without the informal meetings of the G5 finance ministers, there would have been no subsequent meetings of G-5 leaders.[5] In 1975, French President Valéry Giscard d’Estaing > invited five other heads of government from Italy, Japan, the United Kingdom, the United States, and West Germany to a six-party economic summit in Château de Rambouillet. At the time, it was impossible to predict whether this informal gathering would be meaningful or only a public relations event

> PROMIS (Prosecutors Management Information > System) was a case management software developed by Inslaw (formerly the Institute for Law and Social Research), a non-profit organization established in 1973 by Bill and Nancy Hamilton.[1] The software program was developed with aid from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to aid prosecutors' offices in tracking; in 1982 (by which time Inslaw became a for-profit entity) Inslaw received a $10 million contract by the Justice Department to develop an improved PROMIS application for U.S. attorneys' offices.[1] Having previously developed a 16-bit version of PROMIS, Inslaw developed a 32-bit version, for various operating systems, specifically VAX, UNIX, IBM's AS400, and (in the 1990s) Windows NT.[1]

OCTOPUS revisted y Kenn Thomas

Promise Software created the Law Enforcemenet Intelligence Units for tracking terrorism and seizing assets from terrorists

The following article appeared in issue 6.4 (Oct. 97) of Lumpen, Chicago's magazine for the disenchanted proletariat. The current issue of Lumpen contains the second article in this series, "PROMIS and Computer Paranoia."

Because circumstances have shrouded Danny

Casolaro's death in mystery, the single aspect of his research that led to it may never be known for certain. Hotel workers in Martinsburg, West Virginia found the writer dead in August 1991 in what looked like a faked suicide. The "head's up" warning flashed among students of the conspiracy culture when the learned files he had on him were missing and the details of his investigative work slowly emerged from freinds, family and fellow investigators. Casolaro previously had previously warned these same people not to believe any reports that he might have fallen victim to an "accident." The fishy circumstances of his death and the probable motivations of his possible killers remain obvious.

In its "Pig System Analysis" issue, Lumpen treated its readers with a chart outlining some of the many aspects of Casolaro's investigation of the Inslaw/PROMIS case, a topic that could fill several pages with similar charts. It has done that, in fact, in places like Time and Village Voice, with many mainstream magazines attempting to make it look like a crazy patchwork of nonsense while also back-pedaling on the investigative tributaries that Casolaro opened up. To its credit, Lumpen followed and publicized the case very early on. In that spirit, the following report summarizes its main outline and brings readers up to speed on some current developments.

THE OCTOPUS

Danny Casolaro sought to document and expose sea of covert operatives, super- surveillance software and transnational spies. He called the monster he saw swimming in that sea "the Octopus." It consisted of a group of US intelligence veterans that had banded together to manipulate world events for the sake of consolidating and extending its power. Of course it involved the Kennedy assassination, but that was just one of many coups and assassinations pulled off by the Octopus since the end of World War II. The group had come together over a covert operation to invade Albania that was betrayed by famed British turncoat Kim Philby. The Octopus had overthrown Jacob Arbenz in Quatemala in 1954. It had targeted operations against Fidel Castro culminating in the Bay of Pigs. It also had tentacles in the political upheavals in Angola, Rhodesia, Zimbabwe, Mozambique, Nigeria, Chile, Iran and Iraq. Casolaro had as his main concern Octopus involvement with putting Ronald Reagan in power -the infamous October Surpise-and the role that played in introducing the PROMIS software into police systems around the world.

Casolaro's catalogue of membership in the Octopus included such notorious spooks as John Singlaub and the late CIA director William Colby. As heads of the Phoenix assassination program in Vietnam they had implemented an early version of the PROMIS tracking software to keep tabs on the Viet Cong. Other Octopus tentacles included characters like E. Howard Hunt and Bernard Baker, who later emerged as Watergate burglars. Casolaro focussed on one person in the periphery of the Octopus as it had developed in the early 1980s, a man named Earl Brian, crony to Reagan's attorney general Ed Meese. Brian had been given PROMIS to sell illegally as a reward for paying off Ayatollah Khomeini to hold on to American hostages until the Carter presidential re-election campaign clearly was doomed. According to Casolaro, Meese used the US Justice department to steal PROMIS from its developers, the Inslaw group, which had its connections to the Phoenix program and also had developed the software at least in part on public money. Two congressional committees eventually agreed, however, that Inslaw was the legal private owner of PROMIS when the US Justice department shanghaied it and Earl Brian profiteered by selling it to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Interpol, the Mossad and other international police agencies as well as to the military. One application of the modified PROMIS included the ability to track Soviet submarines in previously untraceable marine trenches near Iceland.

If coded correctly, PROMIS could interface with other databases without reprogramming, giving it great ability to ostensibly track criminals-but also, potentially, political dissidents-through the computer systems of various police agencies. Casolaro's main informant, Michael Riconosciuto added to this the claim that he had personally reprogrammed PROMIS with a backdoor, so it could spy on the methods of the police agencies that were using it for tracking. This gave it added appeal as a covert tool. The US could spy on the very agencies it was selling the software to illegally.

BRIAN GOES DOWN

Earl Brian's role in the PROMIS theft was spelled out explicitly by Inslaw lawyer Elliot Richardson, another Watergate figure in the New York Times in 1992.. Richardson was the attorney general who actually stood up to Richard Nixon's corruption during the Saturday Night massacre. Brian sued over the New York Times article and lost. Richardson had written the article to encourage investigation of the case, but Brian used the opportunity to start a nusiance libel suit. On November 29, 1995, the New York Court of Appeals dismissed Brian's claim and declared that Richardson's assertions came under free speech protections.

Although never prosecuted over the PROMIS allegations, Brian survived only one more year after the libel suit before other past shady deals began to catch up with him. In October 1996 a California jury convicted him of Federal bank fraud, conspiracy and lying to auditors. Prosecutors charged that Brian had drafted false documents to conceal the losses of the Financial New Network and United Press International, for whom he served as chief executive, in order to obtain $70 million in bank loans for his other concern, a biotechnology firm Infotechnology.

MARKET AND MIND CONTROL

Interestingly, the pattern of financial impropriety in the case was identical to one that happened on assassination day, November 22, 1963. Someone named Tony DeAngelis misrepresented his holdings of thosuands of tons of salad oil with faked American Express warehouse receipts in order to get bank loans. Exposure of the fraud was the top news story in the New Tork Times editions that came out before the assassination on that date. Many people profiteered from the short-selling spree on the markets consequent to that and news of JFK's murder, including American Express magnate Warren Buffet and a transnational entity called Bunge Corporation, known in the financial literature of the time as The Octopus. In a classic work on the JFK assassination, Were We Controlled, psuedonymous author Lincoln Lawrence argues that DeAngeles, Ruby and Oswald were all mind-controlled in their actions on that day. (Adventures Unlimited Press is reprinting this book with annotations, bibliography, photographs and index by Kenn Thomas. Write to POB 74, Kempton, IL 60946.) Add to that the fact that Earl Brian at one time was a brain surgeon, and the other Watergate-Inslaw connection, E. Howard Hunt, who had a phone relationship with Casolaro, has also been connected to mind control operations, and the story takes some extremely interesting speculative turns.

AREA 51 REVISITED

Michael Riconosciuto claimed that he had made his modifications to PROMIS on the tribal lands of the Cabazon Indians in Indio, California as part of a joint project the tribal administrators had with a private security firm known as Wackenhut. Wackenhut provides security services to the notorious secret airbase Area 51. After Danny Casolaro turned up dead and his current research file missing, other notes found at his apartment later clearly indicated his interest in this Nevada super-spook facility. The base, of course, had been around since before it was used to develop the U2 spy plane in the late 1950s and early 1960s, later the SR71 Blackbird and now the mysterious Aurora super-plane. As Casolaro made his notes about it, however, it had not yet become the subject of popular lore that it is today. Nevertheless, Casolaro devoted pages of notes to Area 51.

One theory had it that Casolaro's death had less to do with the Octopus than it did with manufacturing fraud at Hughes Aircraft. Hughes Aircraft has a long history of exclusive and secret deals with the US government for aerospace technologies, many almost certainly involving Area 51. Casolaro had brushed up against this corruption in his pursuit of his Octopus spook group. A contact he made the day before he died, Bill Turner, gave him documentation of the fraud at Hughes. Turner noted that Casolaro added these papers to the ever-present accordion file of current research. After they found Casolaro's body, Turner got himself arrested on a bank robbery charge in order to remove himself from any further involvement.

The joint venture between the Cabazon Indian tribe and Area 51's Wackenhut did exist, at least between 1981 and 1983, and Michael Riconosciuto certainly was involved with it at least in some capacity. A report from a task force of the sheriff's office of Riverside County, California placed Riconosciuto at a weapons demonstration with Earl Brian ("of the CIA") put on by the Cabazons and Wackenhut.

Riconosciuto also claimed that he had a tape documenting threats made against him by another Justice Department official, but he had thrown it in a marsh near Puget Sound the night he was arrested on trumped up methamphetamine charges. Casolaro spent many days searching the Puget Sound bog to no avail, looking for the tape that ostensibly could verify the claims of “Danger Man,” Casolaro’s nickname for Riconosciuto. The Puget Sound location was significant because of its proximity to a famous early UFO event, the 1947 Maury Island incident. That event-six flying saucers seen by harbor seamen that left behind slag debris-had been witnessed, or hoaxed, by the business partner of Riconosciuto’s father, a man named Fred Lee Crisman. In the 1960s, Crisman was subpoenaed by New Orleans district attorney Jim Garrison as part of his investigation of the Kennedy assassination. Some researchers claimed that Crisman was one of the “railyard tramps” arrested near Dealy Plaza on November 22, 1963; others note that he possibly gave refuge on his Oregon ranch to a member of the Minutemen, an early militia group investigated by the Warren Commission.

AUSSIE LINK

Little suggests that Casolaro knew of the Crisman connection, or of the significance it might hold for what he already knew about Area 51 and the other secret airbase that held his attention, Australia’s Pine Gap. Pine Gap is the top secret American underground base located near Alice Springs in the Northern Territory of the land down under, officially known as the Joint Defense Space Research Facility. It was built in 1968 officially to share program data with the Australians.

Renown intelligence defector Victor Marchetti, who served in the CIA director's office from 1966 to 1969, now acknowledges that he co-authored the secret agreement between the agency and the Australian Department of Defence on the establishment of the Pine Gap station. Officially, it monitors spy satellites and intercepts and decodes broadcast communications between foreign powers unfriendly to the US. One of Pine Gap's important functions is to monitor geostationary satellites for wide ranging information on enemy telemetry, radar emissions and telecommunications.

Opposition from the Australians to the base grew as its nature as an espionage facility outside of Australian control became clear. In his 1987 book Crimes of Patriots, author Jonathan Kwitny demonstrates that covert manipulation led to the early end in Australia of the administration of Labor Party prime minister Gough Whitlam because of his opposition to Pine Gap. Casolaro noted with aggravation Kwitny's inability to see the tentacles of the Octopus in the affair. "It didn't take many people to design the apparatus that would insure the renewal of the lease for the Pine Gap installation near Alice Springs, Australia," Casolaro wrote. "After all, how could a democracy spit up a Prime Minister that could sack the security of the Western Alliance?"

Indeed, Whitlam was rousted after his public complaints about intelligence agency deceptions over the tragic US policy in East Timor, and the CIA's funding of Australia's right- wing Country Party, as well as his opposition to Pine Gap. Whitlam was not driven from office by an election, but was removed on a technicality by a governor-general he had appointed, one who had strong ties to the CIA. No doubt the paranoia about this destabilization of the Australian government by the US fueled rumors about the underground Pine Gap base involving alien/government collaborations, rumors that Danny Casolaro knew about that were very similar to what he was hearing about Area 51. Certainly the base's potential for surveillance also triggered his interest as well. PROMIS had been used in tracking Soviet submarines; might it also be used to track Soviet satellites? One report told of a Moscow summit conference in 1972 during which an early Pine Gap satellite picked up limousine radio-telephone conversations between Soviet missile designers, Andrei Gromyko and Leonid Brezhnev that revealed a missile secretly being kept from SALT negotiations.

UFO DISINFO?

Back on the Area 51 front, Casolaro was hearing rumors that Michael Riconosciuto had worked for Lear Aircraft in Reno, Nevada. This connected him to both Bill Lear, creator of the Lear jet, and often claimed by UFO buffs as having done research on anti-gravity for the government, as well as John Lear, a former CIA pilot who also hit the UFO circuit with tales of saucers and aliens in cahoots with the US government. In 1989, a man named Bob Lazar went public with his claims that he had back-engineered alien spacecraft at Area 51. Lear and Lazar lectured widely on the UFO circuit in the late 1980s and early 1990s, along with other UFO lecture celebrities like Bill English and William Cooper. Cooper's 1991 classic, Behold A Pale Horse, shared the title of the first draft proposal of Casolaro's manuscript that eventually became titled The Octopus.

After Casolaro's death, Michael Riconosciuto made claims that Casolaro had learned nothing more than what one of two intelligence factions wanted him to know in order to embarrass the other faction. One faction was called Aquarius and had a leadership sub-group called MJ-12, the name, of course, of the supposed secret group founded by Harry Truman in the wake of the Roswell flying saucer crash. Riconosciuto even told one writer that he had witnessed the autopsy of an alien body-this long before the famous alien autopsy film began to circulate. Some have suggested that the tales of extraterrestrials that surround areas like Area 51 and Pine Gap serve as disinformation to deflect attention away from serious issues such as gun-running and black project weapons development. Casolaro's own view, and the extent of his knowledge and interest in this tributary from the Octopus research, and whatever he learned that might have brought the truth closer to the surface of the murky waters in which he swam, may have died with him.

- An unsolved triple homicide involving Fred Alvarez, Ralph Boger, and Patricia Castro June 29, 1981: Alvarez was an Deputy Tribal Chairman of the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians.[1] He had become outspoken regarding corruption and shadowy U.S. government ties to the Cabazon tribe. He expressed these views to the local press before meeting his death. He and his friend, Ralph Boger, were scheduled to meet with an unknown party to present proof of many of the alleged misuses of tribal land. Their bodies, along with the body of Alvarez's girlfriend Patricia Castro, were discovered on the eve of this meeting. Allegedly, they had information regarding illegal arms deals, weapons manufacturing and testing, and illegal modifications made to the PROMIS software, all taking place on tribal land. The daughter of Ralph Boger continues a quest for justice and has documents on her website[2] relating to the Cabazon Indian Tribe's involvement in arms manufacture and export. There, she explains the bizarre circumstances surrounding her father's murder: the police never notified her family of the murders; the family learned from watching the local news; moreover, authorities refused to show the family Boger's body, and allegedly had him cremated without consent; lastly, the house in which the murders occurred was bulldozed within two days, and mysterious "guys in black suits" were said to have appeared at the funeral.

- The shooting death of Anson Ng (a reporter and friend of Casolaro): According to a 1991 issue of the TC Technical Consultant, "In July, Anson Ng, a reporter for the Financial Times of London was shot dead in Guatemala. He had reportedly been trying to interview an American there named Jimmy Hughes, a one-time director of security for the Cabazon Indian Reservation secret projects."[3][dead link] Alvarez's son and Boger's daughter were able to confront Hughes in Feb. 2008 with a hidden camera. Videos of this confrontation can be seen at the daughter's website.[4]

- The shooting death of Dennis Eisman April 5, 1991 (an attorney for Michael Riconosciuto, who was a material witness in the House Investigation 102-857): DENNIS EISMAN - An attorney with information on INSLAW. Eisman was found shot to death on April 5, 1991 According to the same TC Technical Consultant article, "In April, a Philadelphia attorney named Dennis Eisman was found dead, killed by a single bullet in his chest. According to a former federal official who worked with Eisman, the attorney was found dead in the parking lot where he had been due to meet with a woman who had crucial evidence to share substantiating Riconosciuto's claims [regarding Inslaw]." He and his former law partner, Bernard L. Segal, had represented Green Beret Army surgeon Jeffrey McDonald, who was accused in 1970 of brutally murdering his pregnant wife and two young daughters at Fort Bragg, N.C. Mr. Eisman and Mr. Segal represented McDonald during Army hearings that resulted in the dismissal of military charges, Mr. Segal said. McDonald was convicted in U.S. District Court of the murders in 1980 and is serving three life prison terms.

- The poisoning death of Ian Spiro, who was supposedly a Casolaro informant and was allegedly involved in the Inslaw affair: Spiro's wife and children had been killed a few days before Spiro's body was found. In 1995, Kevin Brass reported in San Diego magazine that Spiro's brother-in-law Greg Quarton suspected the Mossad was involved in Spiro's death, while "Ex-hostage Peter Jacobsen confirmed to the media that Spiro was indeed involved in the release of hostages in the Middle East," referring to the October Surprise scandal. Brass further notes that "According to court documents filed shortly after the murders, Spiro was holding computer equipment essential … to prove a Justice Department conspiracy to steal sophisticated computer software."[5]

- The mysterious death of Bill McCoy, a retired Chief Warrant Officer from the U.S. Army's Criminal Investigation Division: McCoy had been involved in the Casolaro investigation of the PROMIS software saga. He died at home in 1997, and his body was cremated within 48 hours, despite his saying several times over the previous years that he wanted to be buried next to his wife. In less than four days all of McCoy's furniture, records and personal belongings were removed from his home by his son, a full Colonel in the Army. The house was sanitized and repainted and, "aside from the Zen garden in the back yard, there was no trace that McCoy had ever lived there."

John Marlan Poindexter (born August 12, 1936) is a retired United States naval officer and Department of Defense official. He was Deputy National Security Advisor and National Security Advisor during the Reagan administration. He was convicted in April 1990 of multiple felonies as a result of his actions in the Iran-Contra affair, but his convictions were reversed on appeal in 1991. During the George W. Bush administration, he served a brief stint as the director of the DARPA Information Awareness Office. He is the father of NASA astronaut and U.S. Navy Captain Alan G. Poindexter.

Poindexter and North were fired by Ronald Reagan from positions in the administration over Iran Contra, the basis for Conspiracy, an episode of Star Trek. Project Pegasus may have continued with North and or Poindexter sill involved with Colin Powell and during the later George H.W. Bush presidency as Ronald Reagan left office in 1988.

North Says He Was Ready to Be Reagan's Scapegoat : Puts Blame on Casey for Cover-Up retrieved from The Los Angeles Times and copied or modified to here

WASHINGTON - Fired White House aide Oliver L. North today said he had been fully prepared to be a scapegoat for President Reagan over the Iran- contra scandal and described how he and other Administration officials worked to shield Reagan from political damage as the affair unraveled last fall. North, under intense cross-examination in his third day in the witness chair at congressional hearings, said he took direction from then-CIA Director William J. Casey, misled Atty. Gen. Edwin Meese III and conferred with then-National Security Adviser John M. Poindexter, as he struggled to contain the damage.

"It is entirely likely that I was shredding documents right up until the morning of the 25th" of last November, the day he was fired, North said.

Notebooks Removed

The Marine officer said that he removed his personal notebooks and hundreds of pages of other records from his National Security Council office and took them to his home in an effort to protect himself.

"After the press conference," he said, referring to the announcement of his firing, "my perspective changed, and it was one of protecting myself."

But the 43-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel, testifying in his military uniform with six rows of medals, said his intention was merely to shield his commander in chief from domestic political damage.

"I never imagined that we had done anything illegal," in his actions at the NSC staff, he said.

North said that Casey knew all along of the diversion of Iranian arms sales proceeds to the contras. But he said he concealed that fact when Meese questioned him last Nov. 23.

Deception 'Part of Plan'

Meese was conducting an inquiry at the time, but North said the deception was "part of the plan" to keep the affair hidden.

North also said he assured Poindexter-wrongly as it turned out-that he had destroyed all memos in his files relating to the diversion.

And he described how Casey told him last fall that the time had come to begin destroying documents relating to the covert activity, and then for someone to step forward and take the fall.

“He was concerned that the President not be damaged by it and I shared” that view, North said.

Casey worried aloud that someone senior in rank to North might have to become the scapegoat and suggested Poindexter for the role, North recalled.

Paul John Manafort Jr.

From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia/ *

Paul John Manafort Jr. was born on April 1, 1949,[40] in New Britain, Connecticut. Manafort’s parents are Antoinette Mary Manafort (née Cifalu; 1921-2003) and Paul John Manafort Sr. (1923-2013.) His grandfather immigrated to the United States from Italy in the early 20th century, settling in Connecticut.[He founded the construction company New Britain House Wrecking Company in 1919 (later renamed Manafort Brothers Inc.).[44] His father served in the U.S. Army combat engineers during World War II and was mayor of New Britain from 1965 to 1971. His father was indicted in a corruption scandal in 1981 but not convicted.

In 1967, Manafort graduated from St. Thomas Aquinas High School, a private Roman Catholic secondary school, in New Britain. He attended Georgetown University, where he received his B.S. in business administration in 1971 and his J.D. in 1974.

New Britain was settled in 1687 and then was incorporated as a new parish under the name New Britain Society in 1754. The name is a transfer from Great Britain. Chartered in 1850 as a township and in 1871 as a city, New Britain had separated from the nearby town of Farmington, Connecticut. A consolidation charter was adopted in 1905.

During the early part of the 20th century, New Britain was known as the “Hardware Capital of the World”, as well as “Hardware City”. Major manufacturers, such as The Stanley Works, the P&F Corbin Company (later Corbin Locks), Landers, Frary & Clark (LF&C) and North & Judd, were headquartered in the city.

In 1843 Frederick Trent Stanley established Stanley’s Bolt Manufactory in New Britain to make door bolts and other wrought-iron hardware. In 1857 his cousin Henry Stanley founded The Stanley Rule and Level Company in the city. Planes invented by Leonard Bailey and manufactured by the Stanley Rule and Level Company, known as “Stanley/Bailey” planes, were prized by woodworkers of the late 19th and early 20th centuries and remain popular among wood craftsmen today. The two companies merged in 1920, and the Stanley Rule and Level Company became the Hand Tools Division of Stanley Works.

The wire coat hanger was invented in 1869 by O. A. North of New Britain. In 1895, the basketball technique of dribbling was developed at the New Britain YMCA. In 1938, New Britain High School competed in the high school football national championship game in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. 1954 saw the development of racquetball, also at the YMCA.

Paul Manafort Sr., the father of Paul Manafort, was once the mayor of New Britain; the Manafort family had immigrated from Italy to New Britain prior to 1919.

> The heads of the fire and police departments and seven other municipal employees were arrested as part of a corruption scandal in the 1970s.
> New Britain's motto, Industria implet alveare et melle fruitur - translated from Latin - means "Industry fills the hive and enjoys the honey." This phrase was coined by Elihu Burritt, a 19th-century New Britain resident, diplomat, philanthropist and social activist.

Jesus Christ Superstar is a 1973 American musical drama film directed by Norman Jewison and jointly written for the screen by Jewison and Melvyn Bragg; they based their screenplay on the 1970 rock opera of the same name, the libretto of which

In the Broadway version it is not quite the same as the film version, at least as I recall. Anachronistic modern figures are in the ancient tale of Jesus and at the end of the 1973 film the Players in the show board a bus with their acting gear and costumes to leave the show production area.

Inside the chain of events Jesus laments he has been abondoned and his life may have no meaning and his horrible death if it has any meaning must only be known to God, his lament is for God to share the need for his death with him as he dies.

The wrapper upon the story, that this story is told now again and again 2,000 year later, is the Pschological Warfare disaster of all ages.

Jesus Christ Suerstar was martyred creating him as a Superstar AFTER he had already been defeated, and just as Judas had warned him, the crowds had abondoned him, and he died with little support at the time.

The Roaldblocks at Hnnor Flight DCA ARC was fully or partially responsible for. > "I've had to step back in and get things back to normal," says Xavier Cervera. His involvement is, in part, self-serving, Xavier Cervera says. He financed a good part of the sale to the Barracks Row group; the last thing he wants is for the company to default and hand him back a handful of poorly performing restaurants.

Although I had made a full recovery from Diabtests I could not get food, medicine, laundry money, had to do laundry in the tub but it mildewed air drying.

As I moved to Texas I had requests to ARC of NOVA to pay off overdrawn Wells Fargo avoid criminal charges to me and assist with renting at Baby Vista arpartment south Corpus Christi all of which was rejected by ARC OF NOVA thought after years of homelessness Texas SSZ restored my Social Security and regained housing, to the OBJECTION of ARC of NOVA who worked towards their own planting evidence seeking my eviction on that evidence.

Likely ARC of NOVA was working with flase flag pople exploiting chidlren at the gym and HF DCA allowing them the excuse to, with no notive to me, deny without explanation gym and video software expenses I was uding for Diabetes and +HF DCA but which they moved substitutes into.

In the Stages of the Con in this book I discuss the Foundation Work. I am doing honest good work at Honor FLight DCA valor vamps which THEY had the skills or profundity to do, or the father and mother I had I was celebrating.

The foundation work was teens were moved in and exploited photographically my phone was stolen and missing for a while and weeks later I was given it back from airport police after it had fallen from my sports shorts shallow pocket.

Michelle Obama’s Blue Star Families, Obamas other reps, and NSC members were all over as was the USAF. It looked like I had exploited the children, I was blackballed behind me back, and the effects of it left me homeless.

Part of the Foundation Work of the scam artists was the Payoff Convincer, that all I had done could be credited to them if I was aced and and given a bad reputation, that bad reputation taken to Mistress Rozz (or Justine Cross, Political Rights, or many others who people wished to go to in a way they rather than I could be credited with my work as better people to benefit from “the valor” of having done it instead.

I begin with what happened and my father’s role in it and again please use this model frequently in this book called Road Blocking

I did not mind “credit” for recording or composting imagery of the HF DCA program (and that was my imagery work, nothing else) but I did not wish to be blamed behind my back for acts of other people such that I would become blackballed from that activity itself and from other locations or people or events because I was defamed by the acts ohters while I was at those events.

An event in military history still mostly unexplained is the 2014 Nay Yard shooting. Jeffrey Tyrone Savage, 35, shot and killed several at the base he should have had no access to. Earlier in 2005 Jeffrey Tyrone Savage had shot who was described as his best friend in the skulk which matches the Modus Operandi of mafia contract killings. That was 2005 shooting death of Maurice Griffin by Jeffrey Savage. The shooing occured as I was talking to Elder Law Partners about my mother’s will and even was a brief part of that converstation in that the story was dominating the news in that area.

November 19, 2015 First Lady Michelle Obama will visit the campus of Old Dominion University, on Friday, Nov. 20 for FNV Live, hosted by FNV, a brand launched earlier this year by a collaboration of companies, celebrities, athletes and foundations to increase consumption of fruits and vegetables.

The event, which features live performances, celebrity appearances and physical stunts from some of the nation's most popular social media stars, is being held at 3 p.m. in Old Dominion's Ted Constant Convocation Center. The First Lady will participate in the program along with stars including Grammy-winning singer Estelle; DJ MICK; Grammy-winning singer Ashanti; singer and actress Jordin Sparks, lacrosse superstar Paul Rabil, actress and entrepreneur Jessica Alba and more.

Launched earlier this year, FNV is currently concentrating on two lead markets - Fresno, Calif., and Hampton Roads - where FNV marketing has been prevalent, from grocery stores to sports venues.

Earlier this year, the First Lady discussed FNV on The Tonight Show with Jimmy Fallon, and this summer participated in a skit for Jimmy Kimmel Live as part of the FNV marketing campaign.

A small number of tickets were made available to Old Dominion students, and were quickly snapped up.

Attendees are urged to bring one fresh or canned fruit or vegetable to help stock local food banks with fruits and vegetables for Thanksgiving.

Doors open at 1 p.m. and will close at 3 p.m., when the event begins.

During the event, Old Dominion football player Christian Byrum will participate in a challenge known as the “Supermarket Sweep” with the First Lady, Jessica Alba and other celebrities.

ODU cheerleaders will also participate in the event, handing out prizes to the audience.

As First Lady, Michelle Obama has encouraged America’s youth to fulfill their promise, though initiatives targeted at education and wellness, including promoting healthy eating.

In 2010, she launched Let’s Move!, a program bringing together community leaders, educators, medical professionals, parents and others in a nationwide effort to address the challenge of childhood obesity.

In 2011, Obama and Dr. Jill Biden, wife of Vice President Joe Biden, launched Joining Forces, a nationwide initiative calling all Americans to support service members, veterans and their families through wellness, education and employment opportunities.

In 2014, the First Lady launched the Reach Higher Initiative, an effort to inspire young people across America to complete their education past high school, whether at a professional training program, a community college or a four-year college or university.

This year, the First Lady and President Barack Obama launched Let Girls Learn, a U.S. government-wide initiative to help girls around the world go to school and stay in school.

Marymount University received the 2015 Jessica Burmester Volunteer Award last night from The Arc of Northern Virginia for the school's support of a series of workshops that help students with intellectual and developmental disabilities transition from high school. The award was presented at The Arc's annual membership meeting at the Columbus Club of Arlington.

Columbs Hall

Event hosting and civic center

We have been proudly and faithfully located in Arlington, Virginia since May 20, 1923. At that first organizational meeting at St. Charles School Hall on the 20th of May, the name of “Edward Douglass White” was chosen for the Council. In August, 2020, the Knights of Columbus changed our name, temporarily to “Arlington Council 2473” until we can decide on a faithful name to carry us into our second century. The number “2473” means that we are just that, we are the 2,473rd council to be formed in the world. Today there are nearly 15,000 councils of the Knights of Columbus in the world with close to 2 million Brothers strong, dating all the way back to the founding date of October 2, 1881.

St. Charles School Hall remained the Council Home until 1931 when the Columbus Club Association of Clarendon, Inc (later changed to the Columbus Club of Arlington Inc.) was established with a building and property at 3227 N. Washington Boulevard were purchased to become our new Council Home. In May of 1951, the property known as “5115 Little Falls Road” became our new home with occupancy in August of 1951. The “New Council Home” would be 10 acres owned by the Inc.

"With their incredible support, we have been able to provide almost 150 families with valuable programs for both parents and students," said Diane Monnig, The Arc's transition manager. "We would never be able to offer such a successful program without the staff and students at Marymount."

The award was accepted by Dr. Lois Stover, Marymount's School of Education and Human Services dean, and Dr. Clara Hauth, assistant professor of Special Education.

he organization concluded the second year of its Transition Series on Saturday at Marymount's main campus.

"It's an important time in the life of a person with an intellectual or developmental disability," said Rikki Epstein, executive director of The Arc of Northern Virginia. "For a lot of families it feels like falling off a cliff. The transition series is a chance to share a huge amount of information on housing, employment and other kinds of things."

September to November. Parental topics included special needs trusts, Medicaid Waivers, public benefits, employment, post-secondary options and transportation. The student track, for ages 14-26, offered a variety of skill-building activities, such as social and life skills, employment and travel training.

Hauth said Marymount education students practice skills such as lesson planning and teach practical things like how to ride the Metro.

“It’s a great way for our students to be involved in the community, and many of them have said it’s been a life-altering experience,” Hauth said. “Our students are learning just as much as the families and their students. It’s all part of Marymount’s commitment to community engagement and outreach.”

The Arc held the workshops in a variety of locations before its partnership with Marymount, which was begun by Dr. Doug Ball, a now retired associate professor of education.

“What’s even more meaningful than the space is the partnership with the Marymount professors and students,” Epstein said. “Our students gain so much and have the opportunity to be mentored.”

“Our students really enjoy being on a campus with young people close to their age,” Monnig added. “All the Marymount students are just so enthusiastic and energetic. The parents also love the environment, and it gives them peace of mind knowing that their kids are having fun.”

In addition to education majors, Marymount’s Counseling Department participated in the series, which will resume in September.

“They actually had more students sign up than were needed,” Epstein said. “They’ve just been an amazing partner, and we’re so thrilled to honor them. We hope for and look forward to a long relationship.”

In the summer of 2004, Underwood auditioned for American Idol in St. Louis, Missouri, singing Bonnie Raitt's "I Can't Make You Love Me". After she sang "Could've Been" by Tiffany on the top 12 girls night, judge Simon Cowell [British] commented that she would be one of the favorites to win the competition. [18][19]

Pope Benedict XVI (Ratzinger) Papacy began: 19 April 2005 Carrie Underwood wins 'American Idol' contest. May 26, 2005. LOS ANGELES

Carrie Underwood

Carrie Underwood had broadcast work that at several times were noteworthy. In the Mental Health ward where I had been in the correct to oppose Thea Smith, neighbor of mine, trying to tie me to "candy" who was arrring (somewhere else) who "like to beat up men" and who I was able to hear coming ang going, and to nearby spaces with floggers, but no statement to me anything was happening only innuendo. It as that conflict, or several of them which led to years in those psych wards and jail psych facilities where I with other "patients" watched the sing off with Simon Cowell with St Loius slected Underwood.

In that same psych-ward with all this happening was a guy trying to pick a strange fight with me. He kept saying “The way you smash an atom is that you take two iron plates and then someone turns a srew and it is tight enough the atom will smash” to which I said “your crazy get away from me” servarl times and later, likely what he was prompting, I explained tiredly that I had been to the Stanford Linear accelerator path and also regularly drove along it commuting in Silicon Valley, I spent hours and hours with my father at the Cyclotron at Lawrence Hall of Science, and I knew a few things about atoms colliding, and what he was talking about wasn’t it.

In FMC Butner I listened to a lot of music including Fiddler on the Roof which like The Third Of May by Francis Goya had always influenced my thinking to the Libertarian side, villages under repressive attacks.

The particular song from Fiddler on the Roof I Had references was Sunrise Sunset and later Carrie Underwood would sing a Christmas song influenced by that work.

Before he cheats was a funny song i thought my mother might enjoy during her divorce but she didn’t care for the whole fighting and bitterness theme so she just wished different music thus I bought Frank Sinatra for her which she loved.

Constant repetition of tongue-twisters was like lifting weights for me, but patience and persistence have paid off."[7][8][9] Brendon has done work for the Stuttering Foundation of America, which approached him around 2001,[8] and made him its honorary chairperson for its National Stuttering Awareness Week in May 2001.

A Journalist's Reflection on Goya's "The Third of May 1808" Ali Pitargue

[image]

The first time I saw Francisco de Goya's masterpiece "The Third of May 1808", I was impressed by how succinctly it portrayed the chaos of human dynamics in the context of war. Goya's composition of visual elements managed to highlight both the humane and inhumane characteristics of his subjects. While I have no personal connection to the event being depicted here (the Peninsular War), Goya succeeded in > conveying the gravitas behind this image that it still enthrals me to this day. This is the mark of a great communicator, and as a journalist, I believe there is plenty to learn from it.

>
> To give some context, the date entitled - May 3rd, 1808 - saw the aftermath of the Spanish uprising against the French occupation of Spain. Napoleon had invaded Spain, deposed their king, and replaced him with his brother, Joseph Bonaparte. The Spaniards took to staging a coup, only to be overpowered by the French military.
> “The Third of May 1808” depicts a long trail of Spanish rebels lining up to be executed by French troops. The viewer’s eye is immediately drawn to the rebel figure wearing white, his arms raised as his harrowed expression faces the French soldiers readying to gun him down.

The reason I remember these events occurring at the same time was that I was in a place, a mental institution in Virginia, the Northern Virginia Mental Health Institute, have been placed there after a fight with Thea Smith over “pizzagate” and whether “I wanted candy” and it was on the way.

As I sat on the couch in the patient lounge area an Christian who followed the church closely was telling me “Oh no, not RATZINGER! He is a total Nazi!” and this man talking to me thought he came from an ideology and history of the church he neither liked nor trusted, mostly likely Opus Dei was one of the objections of this fellow patient, or at least in retrospect it would have been mine if I knew more.

As the singing competition unfolded I pointed out to him that the camera and Simon Cowell's eyes seem to follow Carrie Underwoods as almost as self satire.

In the Northern Virginia Mental Health Institute was a Dopple of me people, staff, could not tell apart and his name was Darby who had an adjourning room for a while and was undergoing medical examination of hist testes.

A common room configuration for hospitals and mental health institutes is two beds and a bathroom shared between the next two bed bedroom, and all this was also true 20 years later though this time the dopple, under arrest for masturbating in puhlic, was named David and he was on the quad bed config with me.

the many times I have seen this seems to me to setup the CIA legend that I am polymorphous [in correct locations and elsewhere also] perverse and a compulsive peeper and this then sets up the black marketing of me DNA as that DNA is "owed" to victims of the [dopple of me's] compulsive acts.

Honor Flight DCA A Deeply Personal Time for Me, and My Life Plans

If things unfolded normally I would have had influential friends respecting me, my fellow Honor Flight DCA greeters which btw I had intended and considered a co purpose of my being a greeter, meeting good quality people.

Those people would have liked me and my participation but for the false flags in which people near me take pictures exploitative with their or my stolen photography equipment.

With my participation the program shunned and credit for the video work moved away people saw it as a good the financial abuse struck me and kept me at home eating bugs off the floor and not even able to do laundry, the goal of the dopple' acts which would behind my back attributed to me, and this is the Gangstalk costing a victim a workplace sympathetic office place wrongs done to him or her.

Eric Hoffer - Propaganda does not deceive people; it merely helps them to deceive themselves [as they salivate over Edward Donegan's property saying it would really be better if it belonged to themselves instead of Edward Donegan]

If the person on the outs has his property divided up by his accuser who are better to hold it, then it is merely Soldiers of Fortune on a raid for the property. I am showing the Looting is based on false premises tarnishing me, but the greed of the looters AND THEIR NEED TO SUBVERT is very high, very motivating for them. #Subversion

Soldiers of Fortune and raiding castles saying the raiders are better holders of the looted property, getting it away from the bad guy. Tomb robbing, Billy Jack go ahead hate your neighbor , your friend.

People have given themselves excuses they neither expose to scrutiny nor even believe but under that claim of right become property owners upon gaining possession of it under false premises.

the intractability of those who are clinging to excuses had led me to believe those making the excuses for themselves have a desperate need for the premises of their acts to remain intact and the need for the actions against me under false pretense is the real issue.

The Edifice, the correct moral and reliable and even security oriented Edward Donegan and Tom Dunham yet the Artificial manufactured appearances, the facades, and the deceit using the facade pseudo-realities

Vocabulary.com retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

> Edifice
>
> Edifice means a building, but it doesn't mean just any building. To merit being called an edifice, a building must be important. A mini temple can be an edifice, or a towering sky scraper
>
> The meaning of edifice has expanded to include a system of ideas - when it is complicated enough to be considered to have walls and a roof, then it is an edifice. You could say that basic facts of addition and subtraction are the foundation on which the edifice of higher math rests.
> Artifice

A deceptive maneuver (especially to avoid capture) If a politician pretends to be angry as a way of rousing the anger of the voters and getting more votes, he's guilty of artifice - a subtle and crafty trick.

Before taking on its current meaning, artifice meant a skilled piece of workmanship. A beautiful diamond bracelet might have been considered a piece of artifice, for example; now it would only be called artifice if the diamonds were fake.

Deceit

Deceit is purposeful falsehood. If you want to keep your true love true to you, avoid any acts of deceit.

Deceit comes from the Latin for "cheat." When you deceive someone, you give them a false impression, mislead them so as to get away with something bad. If a person speaks in a way that gives a false impression, we call the way he speaks "deceptive." If someone pretends to be someone else, that's an act of deceit, like when a thief pretends to be a valet parking attendant and takes off with your car.

The sequence of my life is that I had been harassed in society (I later found it was called a Gangstalk) which had in defensive acts kept landing me in Psych Wards ond therefore OUT OF the workplace.

During that time my Speech Spasmodia was routinely described as Bipolar Disorder and my repeats to psychiatrists of being stalk as paranoid delusions accompanying the Bipolar (pressured) speech, rapid speech.

Further my doctors and lawyers were maneuvered away from me to replacements stalkers wished, I believe placed there by the DARPA Brain Program/

Violent attacks on me including in my home and to my property by “irregulars” of contractors like Blackwater have made up every moment of my life.

The racketeering of property from me and the Gagnastalk of me hits a crescendo at the critical time of Honor Flight DCA< the death of my father, and the Gangstalk created of Fox News misrepresentations of the entire program and me.

I will add into this chapter for a long time to come but in short my resources were robbed, I was denied any food or income, and driven into a US DOD institution which with blatant racial malice diagnosed me as “unable to think for himself” and began during that physical assaults on me ” in the study of racism” which has long been USA policy including by active intruders into my home and other physical attacks.

Megyn Kelly an archetype of false heroes insinuating themselves on false premises, on Witch Hunts to exploit other, myself, and my WWII Veteran family.

Others, Kamala Harris, replacing Terrance Hallinan the 1990s in San Francisco County District Attorney up to MarK Gonzales coming into, being placed into power, of Nueces County Texas District attorney, with a common religious trick the victims and the heroes are religious and the hunted witches are Atheists.

2011 had been tough for me was being stalked, given death threats as my mother was, we were going from window to window of a small Arlington County Virginia apartment trying to figure out where the noises were coming from outside as we were in the apartment. She would panic and shake at any sound in the apartment begging me not to deflate Pepsi bottles prior to throwing them away so if they popped back she would not become scared.

As I was taking to hospital appointments I was working on Political RIghts.US which Megyn Kelly seemed to be reading aloud on Fox News as her legal knowledge: Brandeis and Sunlight is the Best Disinfectant, Opposing Speech is the best remedy, Areopagitica was a Free Speech “polemic” but all this was Christian evangelism.

August 6 2015 Megyn Kelly goes after Donald Trump in the debates. ON TrumpU she is correct, not no GOP softball questions from her. *

Who else was gathered and huddled for debate watching around the world?

She did the same thing with Honor Flight DCA when 2 years later my father died and I was celebrating, documenting his and other WWII veterans at the WWII Veterans Memorial including Ronald Reagan, to Liberate, not to conquer.

At this time I also faced A1c 13.3 diabetes and had no money for medicine or lean meats and was in a headlock trying to get needed recovery capabilities.

Brandeis had a special meaning to me. Both my father and I doubted modern Isreal’s rights to expansion, suspected Isreal’s role in the attack on the USS Liberty, but were always humbled by the intellect and morality of people like Brandeis, the greatest Zionist of all time.

I have been in my private and public life, public and private writings, the defensive target of foundation-less privacy violating stalk of those like her with the power to move followers away from my devalued and now commonplace works.

Plant stories (not using my name) but defamatory characterizations of me activities IF about me, have both frequently run on Fox News and I believe will later behind my back be asserted to accurately represent me, an assertion not made to me but made to others.

This fits the Ganstalk Rough Music system.

These Illuminati NWO families are the shot callers of Blackwater hits and illegal gangs and the Show Runners of the US Media world, both the gangs and the media running cover up for these operations, stenciling whistle bowers with the term "Conspiracy Theories" which promote "Dabd Tendencies" for those who believe the Conspiracy Theories about these Free Masons..

> "Gang Stalking" is, very likely, a disinformation term created by U.S. intelligence agencies. It refers to the intense, long-term, unconstitutional surveillance and harassment of a person who has been designated as a target by someone associated with America's security industry.
> Such operations have nothing to do with criminal gangs. Official domestic counterintelligence operations of this type are - apparently - perpetrated by federal agents and contractors, sometimes with the support of state and local law enforcement personnel. The goal of such operations - in the parlance of counterintelligence agents - is to "subvert" or "neutralize" an individual deemed to be an enemy (or potential enemy) of clients or members of the security state. Arguably, the most accurate term for this form of harassment would be "counterintelligence stalking."

Fnx New has been Vatican, GOP, and George Bush Donald Trump spokespeople operation and even Masons based as all of those people are and thus the attack on me, an Atheist and my Atheist fathers legacy, and my tribute to Atheism, staying out of church and working with Technology and on line learning.

The very skills and time usage I used for Political Rights web site, the videos, etc., which were then “skimmed” as the profit realized of other people’s lives and interests.

In short bullies wanted what they didn’t do, I did, and they have the power to do that.

The storylines of plant stories are similar enough to seem to be about Edward Paul Donegan but dissimilar enough to be lies and defamation if said to represent the events or character or charicterization of Edward Paul Donegan.

The liabilities in stories allege to someone similar enough to substitute me into the story, and my assets in use by others, Fox News broadcasters, fit a system of subversion I call “Assets Down Liabilities Up” in which the my assets are utilized without attribution as they aldo build themselves up and portray me as inferior to them.

Subversion at Honor Flight DCA

I saw some activity I found suspicious at HF DCA which was the presence of a black female who was tied to the US Marines and the Labor Dept (Tom Perez) and was sort of “two seconds after rule” bating me, everything I did was told to me as what to do, a long pattern including Fox News promoting the use of Capoff steak, etc., which I used to use from Costco.

what I now know as Subversion techniques were used. Teens including cheerleader tunnles were formed, who cares, everyone went through, then everyone moved away from me, as my phone did which I had been using to get film for my videos 1- 6 or so.

It turns out my phone went with an impersonator to Syracuse New York to be inspected by Hispanic Rozzaolinda dominatrix, who I had already contacted and had an S and M session under plans for. Upon her likely finding teen porn someone on my phone (which I wouild have nothing to do with by my phone went messing) she likely in some way claimed or was told then said I had been using the phone for teen porn.

In classic fashion of Gangstalk nothing was said to me but behind my back I was isolated,, denied Cyberlink money for the video software, the audiotrack bands made a point to claim the works I did as video (Metallica along with Joe Biden, Enya who after the fact added in a video line similar to my family) as I was left homeless to die in cold without food or medicine even for normal non diabetic life.

Of course it was all behind my back so it worked.

Subversion at Fox News

It seems a series of complaints, led my Megyn Kelly, led to a total shakeup of Foxews which moved Liberty University into the broadcast booth. At the same time Megyn Kellly backed religous part black Michelle Fields from Breitbart take down Corey Lewendowski and move Manafort into the Trump campaign, Manafort later indicted for “trying to help fledgling Europeans, including Turkish, democracies if you call them that and all this during Benghazi.

I have watched all this in custody including about two years in various pscyh wards always hoping when I got out the press could help me fight this, later though, I was to find the Press was a participant creating the false coverage, the fake news, the denials of truth and plants of lies, that create the false reality all of this operates under, making me seem the predator RATHER than the Illuminati, but it achieved behind my back or through impersonators of me, misrepresentations of me, or forgeries of my identity and agreements, or planted hacks in the news business or courts.

That has simply left no recourse left as “Pizzagate” the impersonator of me blackmailed because he photographed teen models, a CIA operation and black budget, is supported by the press.

#Ganstalk #MKUILTRA #NWO #Subversion utilizes mixed motive operations. In my case ALLEGATIONS I exploit females, minors, allow police backed OTHER harassment (financial, racial other abuse) of me to be tolerated, reducing sympathy of me as victim.

The victim of being stalked is not a sympathetic figure, the Office Mob has it out for him already, probably emotionally dislikes him (me) and is happy that person will no longer be a part of some fame such as WWII Veterans greetings.

My life has been my being subverted in everything I have done, positive, like recovering from Diabetes and posting everything I know good and bad so anyone has the information, to greeting vets, but I am not able to overcome the evils of others , those who abused those organizational activities, nor undermined my positive participation in those things.

At the very center most of this evil I consider the Mason, Abbot, the Busch family, Paxton, Megyn Kelly, Scot and Mike Foval, many others trying to bury my life and me with criminality.

The power these people have at the top of the paramid for crime is why they are their, because their crime is to destroy the evidence they are criminals, and I suspect that even with William Barr helping rehabilitate the Seattle PD Chief who surrendered the police precinct to riots.

I have known I should not fear any activity of my life, but the Dopple is always there, and I am blamed for him, a US Military operation to break my eggs and also make some Illuminati Christian or Baptist omelet.

I have provided extensive evidence all my life I am being "tanked" by frame jobs but the top of the pyramid orders the frame jobs and the bottom of the pyramid.

James Comey or Jeff Sessions, and others too most likely, had not willing to to comply with "playing ball " a little, some illegal programs here or there.

To abuse power it is necessary to get in control of it and these families tied to world events have that power, and that is why a law abiding citizen like myself a crime victim has no recourse against the Bosses who order deniable mob hits.

The public has been given A Piece of the Action of shaking me and my family line down, and how they do like the action.

"Roadbloacked," pushed out, and left to live under a bridge in urine and broken glass with no medical care

I had been learning computer skills on my free time since being on disability, actually I had many corporate telco systems computer skill like working on worldwide networks of Cisco and other routers the size of refrigerators linig high security data centers but now it was time to write simple HTML for right wing causes just like Web High Priest Matt Drudge.

My mother had encourage me to stay on disability I had been granted (for bipolar disorder which I refute) and simply considered Social Security retirement until it does become that.

Oddly that stopped as did my trust fund, without explanation to me, but I later figured out another event caused others to believe I was in unethical acts and this applied Honor Flight DCA and also my apartment in Clarendon Courts, and area of Arlington Virginia.

Scam Part I

A lot of people liek Michelle Obama's staff and Blue Star Families I was told had to do with miltary losses much like the Gold Stars, those who had lost their lives, and lots of children arrived.

During all this my phone was stole and I was as always legit good activity but with my stolen phone or some phone of others minors were exoloitively photographed and a person impersonating me and forging me email too confessed in NYC to exploiting minors at HF DCA.

I did not know the entirety of the scam which uses phone allegations behind a person's back to get that person blackballed, but I had some clues to the various parts of that that were occurring such as a cc to me on one of the emails with the forged headers which I was able to examine and archive.

Scam in Part II

People were taking me clothes out of laundry, adding child's underwear in, and saying things like "your adult entertainer is on the way" in ways that actually were ambiguous but still intoned and ambiguous.

In fact impersonators of me were seeing adult entertainers, and the impersonator of me was confessing to child abuse or child porn, and being blackmailed by the adult entertainer. The rumors emanating from the dopples acts sabotage me behind the scenes with people like the Trust Fund or Social Security Administration in a “quandary.”

They were likely shown the confession of the dopple who could not be stopped from exploiting children at events I was also going to, and thus others would decide to make it impossible for me to be at events thus my SSA and Trust Fund were shut off w/o cause stated to me, since it was likely calculated bt SSA and Trust FUnd they did not have a LEGAL way to prevent my access to HF DCA or other decent places of decent people.

The desperate situation of my fighting to get SSA and Trust Fund back led to my being arrested over the fights resultant from the damage the scams were doing to my life.

My confrontations of those, one neighbor in particular, led to me being arrested and held in US Dept of Defense Psych Ward, a very hostile diagnosis of me, my eviction from my apartment, and a long period of homelessness unable to rent.

But for the intervening event of a dopple creating hostility towards me I would not have been in the fights nor blamed for them nor the institutionalization nor later homelessness nor later the record of all that continuing against me.

The core element is that I have been showing the consequences of this are very lethal conditions imposing to me but result from fight picking by dopple based fight picking with me.

In short the RICO scheme money laundering my genome by blackmailing an impersonator is not only denying to me the value or true story of my genome but silencing me as witness to that criminality by subverting my success, diverting it and the resultant following of me, to others.

My attempts to “hip” the media to this, that no civil, moral, or criminal liability should be acrued to me is rejected by the media who in fact continue to brook and even add to the co option of me leading to me having no followers.

Learning to Drive Stick at QE II Ocean Liner, and requesting Expatriation assistance from Jana Erickson.

> Queen Elizabeth 2, often referred to simply as QE2, is a retired British ocean liner converted into a floating hotel. Originally built for the Cunard Line, Queen Elizabeth 2 was operated by Cunard as both a transatlantic liner and a cruise ship from 1969 to 2008. She was then laid up until converted and since 18 April 2018 has been operating as a floating hotel in Dubai.[2]
> Queen Elizabeth 2 was designed for the transatlantic service from her home port of Southampton, UK to New York, United States[3] and was named after the earlier Cunard liner RMS Queen Elizabeth. She served as the flagship of the line from 1969 until succeeded by the Queen Mary 2 in 2004. Queen Elizabeth 2 was designed in Cunard's offices in Liverpool and Southampton and built in Clydebank, Scotland. She was considered the last of the transatlantic ocean liners until Queen Mary 2 entered service.

In a trip to Los Angeles I was first given a stick shift driving opportunity at the QE2 parking lot my mother had selected as a good empty parking lot to start in since in Moraga we used automatic transmission vehicles (my father was correct, automatic shifters can outperform normal hand shifting.)

During that time there were many more hints of the Queen of England, how she and the British Royals were viewed during her childhood, and also hints it might me a place to turn to if any trouble started in my life, though that was very vauge about why somebody might me after me.

I have lost that email or it was not in Goole but I had wanted expatriation asssistance from the United States after earlier requests to her for help with a lawyer or any other kind of legal assistnace met with deaf ears and she sent a bogus picture out of me hiding my head scar, and I knew DOJ was at it again and she was behind it.

Plumee, a contract pilot for the Central Intelligence Agency, said he was part of a special team sent to Dallas to “abort” an assassination attempt on the president.

Rumors were rampant that Kennedy had become a target for assassination, but U.S. intelligence agencies did not know when and where exactly this would occur, and several groups were deployed to likely places.

Kennedy’s use of a convertible sedan, or his public appearances in other venues, made almost any city a likely place. Plumlee, who was 25 years old at the time, said the hot rumor network in intelligence circles mentioned Austin, Texas, as a strong possibility, along with Dallas and Miami.

Echoes of the PT-109

Commanding PT-109 retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

On the night of August 1-2, in support of the New Georgia campaign, PT-109 was on its 31st mission with fourteen other PTs ordered to block or repel four Japanese destroyers and floatplanes carrying food, supplies, and 900 Japanese soldiers to the Vila Plantation garrison on the southern tip of the Solomon’s Kolombangara Island. Intelligence had been sent to Kennedy’s Commander Thomas G. Warfield expecting the arrival of the large Japanese naval force that would pass on the evening of August 1.

Kennedy on his navy patrol boat, the PT-109, 1943 In April 1943, Kennedy was assigned to Motor Torpedo Squadron TWO,[40] and on April 24 he took command of PT-109,[48] which was based at the time on Tulagi Island in the Solomons.[41] On the night of August 1-2, in support of the New Georgia campaign, PT-109 was on its 31st mission with fourteen other PTs ordered to block or repel four Japanese destroyers and floatplanes carrying food, supplies, and 900 Japanese soldiers to the Vila Plantation garrison on the southern tip of the Solomon’s Kolombangara Island.

On August 4, 1943, he and his executive officer, Ensign Lenny Thom, assisted his injured and hungry crew on a demanding swim 3.75 miles (6.04 km) southeast to Olasana Island, which was visible to the crew from their desolate home on Plum Pudding Island. They swam against a strong current, and once again Kennedy towed the badly burned motor machinist “Pappy” MacMahon by his life vest. The somewhat larger Olasana Island had ripe coconut trees, but still no fresh water.[56] On the following day, August 5, Kennedy and Ensign George Ross made the one-hour swim to Naru Island, an additional distance of about .5 miles (0.80 km) southwest, in search of help and food. Kennedy and Ross found a small canoe, packages of crackers, candy and a fifty-gallon drum of drinkable water left by the Japanese, which Kennedy paddled another half mile back to Olasana in the acquired canoe to provide his hungry crew. Native coast watchers Biuku Gasa and Eroni Kumana first discovered the 109 crew on Olasana Island and paddled their messages to Ben Kevu, a Senior Scout who sent them on to coast watcher Lieutenant Reginald Evans. On the morning of August 7, Evans radioed the PT base on Rendova. Lieutenant “Bud” Liebenow, a friend and former tentmate of Kennedy’s, rescued Kennedy and his crew on Olasana Island on August 8, 1943, aboard his boat, PT-157.

The Texas Syndicate (Spanish: Sindicato Tejano) is a mostly Texas-based street and prison gang consisting of predominantly Mexican American membership. The Texas Syndicate, unlike the Mexican Mafia or Nuestra Familia, has been more associated or allied with Mexican immigrant prisoners.[4][5]

Overview

The Texas Syndicate was established at Folsom State Prison in California in 1978 in direct response to the other California prison gangs, notably the Aryan Brotherhood and Mexican Mafia, which were attempting to prey on native Texas inmates.[2]

The Syndicate is the oldest Texan prison gang.[1] The Texas Sydicate has approximately 1,300 members, the majority of whom are Mexican American males aged between 20 and 40.[3]

While the gangs maintains its headquarters in California, there are around 1,000 members in prisons and jails throughout Texas, with many others operating on the outside. The Texas Syndicate also operates in state and federal prisons across the United States, with significant activity being reported at FCI Oakdale in Louisiana and San Quentin State Prison in California, as well as some representation in the Florida Department of Corrections.[2]

As a street gang, heavy activity has been reported in Austin, Corpus Christi, the Rio Grande Valley and the Dallas Fort Worth area in Texas.[1]

Criminal activity

Development of the Texas Syndicate was initially motivated by self-protection against the historical “building tenders” in prison. After building tenders disappeared due to a court order, the Syndicate’s activities turned to drug trafficking, extortion, prostitution, protection, illegal gambling, and contract killing.

Released or parole members who generate money for the gang must surrender a 10% tax (“the dime”) of all proceeds toward the Texas Syndicate in prison.[1] Gang members smuggle multikilogram-quantities of powdered cocaine, heroin, and methamphetamine, and multiton-quantities of marijuana from Mexico into the U.S. for distribution inside and outside prison. Gang members have a direct working relationship with associates and/or members of the Gulf Cartel.[3]

Syndicate members have been known to carry out contract killings for Los Zetas, the paramilitary wing of the Gulf Cartel.[6]

Law enforcement believes that La eMe presently is not presided over by a single leader. Many Mexican Mafia members have the authority to order murders and oversee various other criminal activities. They have almost a thousand associates that help carry out those orders and have the theoretical control of all Sureño gang members.[7][25]

Members are expected to engage in tests of their loyalty to La Eme, which may include theft or murder. The penalty for refusing orders or failing to complete an assigned task is often death. According to the gang's constitution, members may also be punished or murdered if they commit any of four major infractions.

Gesture

The thing to remember about gesture, whether you're using it as a verb or a noun, is that not only is it a movement of the hands or body, but it's also a movement that has some meaning, intention, or emotion behind it.

→ When you use gesture, you are entering into a whole history of human communication, because there is no language that exists entirely without gesture (a fun fact to bring up at parties). People can't communicate without gesture. It's so connected to intention that there is a phrase "empty gesture," used to mean an action or movement that is without genuine feeling.

1. n. motion of hands or body to emphasize or help to express a thought or feeling

2. n. the use of movements (especially of the hands) to communicate familiar or prearranged signals

3. n. something done as an indication of intention

4. v. show, express, or direct through movement

Offensive Gestures, sexually and or racially abusive gestures, and creating fraudulent appearances of interactions or entanlgements, and hostile environments

How it is used

State actors with the backing of businesses use a systme to to make it appear to the public I am being blackmailed for my DNA for activities which are offensive and actually I am not involved in.

Mere Gestures or Appearances or Ambiguity	Specific Statements made near me though not directed at anyone or to a cell phone of the person making the statement	Clear direct statements to me
Towards me but too vague to contain any stated meaning	Statements but refutable such as the speaker saying to me “I wasn’t even talking to you. “I was taking on Blue-tooth, to my dog I am walking, not you Ed!” etc	Not vague or ambiguous and directed directly to me
✔	✔	Not done, and

		evasion instead upon my attempts to pin down ambigauity

The superimposed cloud of suspicion in public I am who I call “Tx”, and imposter of me transmtting confession to law enforcement “I am Ed Donegan and I have been bad. Make me sign away Ed Donegan assets” I call myself “Rx” that I recieve the scorn due him.

In public a cloud of ambiguity suggests I am being blackmailed for my DNA. I am not but a person is forging my identity to sign away my DNA and it is not me; still, the public as asked to treat me in a vauge way alluding to it was me yet it was not.

Mop Pushing and Extortion17, akak Piazagate

A shakedown of my trust fund which uses sexually abusive Legend (CIA FBI NSA techniques of manufactured appearances) is that I wish to remain singla and away from the normal age reproductive partners I wish, and that while single I am using 17 or under “not legal” models of publicly present females as porn, I wish that “porn” and when caught with it a DNA debt to them or the “provider” is due as DNA, and thus seized into a misconduct victims fund as seized DNA rights.

The scheme is fraudulent, desperate, and part of a DNA cartel operating with high level “shot callers” cartel bosses and the press itself is not outing it and I think it ties to Jeffery Esptein, likey Donald Barr, William Barr, Rikki Epstein of retardation and Autism activism, and deniably but truthfully uses my DNA as “medicine” for “drug deal” in neural cells from bone marrow as well as other bone marrow biology such as CCR5 or other immunology genes.

Further I think this cartel has existed since February 20 1961 or earlier, and I am out of control of others gestures towards me which support the legend my DNA is “allegedly on the floor” because people are pushing mops, and in fact, with PCR or RFLP they may have put DNA from me somewhere around, but it was not a result of any conduct or misconduct by me at that or any other locations, that part of the Legend is an fraud abusive to me by super imosed upon me, and imposition out of my control, and arguing with others gestures towards me creates physical violence towards me since I seem the aggressor, the gestures have no explicit statement, thus I have no concrete reason to attack the gesture whose meaning must be guessed at.

The minor being exploited was the pizza. Oddly, I used to go to Crystal City Pentagon area stop to buy pizza on the cheap from Costco in Virignia, and perpaps someone got the idea to claim on that trip Pizza had a code meaning, or someone could claim that was so as I traveled about in the Pentago WMATA area.

According to Jen Moore Pizzagte is tied to US DOD manufacture of Child Porn, perhaps they were the alleged suppliers to me of child porn.

Virginia Square WMATA to Pentagon City Costco WMATA trip

By denying to me and others my Genome is con-incident with high economic outout or political output then MKULTRA Truther Birther is covered up and at the same time DNA wanted by those in the know about it can black market it once a fraudulent basis is made to owning it rather than my owning it and its rights for usage including in foreign economies.

2011 Afghanistan Boeing Chinook shootdown retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here, stock photo of similar helicopter also on wikipedia site

A Boeing CH-47D Chinook helicopter in Bagram, Afghanistan, similar to the one that was shot down

Call Sign Extortion 17 Shootdown Date 6 August 2011 Summary Shot down by rocket-propelled grenade

The resulting crash killed all 38 people on board - 25 US Navy SEALs, one pilot and two crewmen of the United States Army Reserve, one pilot and one crewman of the United States Army National Guard, seven members of the Afghan National Security Forces, and one Afghan interpreter, as well as a U.S. military working dog.[1][5][6][7][8]

Event timeline (What of Aug 4 which is Obama's said birthday and Glorian Donegan 323K trust fund?)

At 31 U.S. military personnel killed, the shoot down of Extortion 17 represents the greatest single-incident loss of U.S. lives in Operation Enduring Freedom - Afghanistan, surpassing the sixteen lost in the downing of Turbine 33, a 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment (Airborne) MH-47, during Operation Red Wings on 28 June 2005.[2]

On 6 August 2011, a U.S. CH-47D Chinook military helicopter operating with the call sign Extortion 17 (pronounced "one-seven") was shot down while transporting an Immediate Reaction Force attempting to reinforce a Joint Special Operations Command unit of the 75th Ranger Regiment in the Tangi Valley in Maidan Wardak province

After US intelligence services discovered in 2011 that senior Taliban leader Qari Tahir was possibly in Tangi

Valley, Wardak province, Afghanistan, local US forces launched a mission to apprehend or kill him.[11] At 10:37 (local time) on the night of 5 August, a platoon of 47 U.S. Army Rangers left at forward operating base in Logar Province via two CH-47D transport helicopters, one of which would later be involved in the accident.[9][10][11] After a twenty-minute flight (around 11pm), the two Chinook helicopters landed near the compound ostensibly containing Tahir, offloaded the Ranger platoon, and returned to base.[11]

Around 2:38, the helicopter was fired upon and shot down by a previously-undetected group of Taliban fighters approximately 220 m (240 yd) south of the helicopter. The group fired 2-3 RPG rounds from a two-story building, the second of which struck one of the three aft rotor blades of the helicopter. The resulting explosion destroyed the aft rotor assembly. In less than five seconds, the helicopter crashed, killing all occupants; and approximately 30 seconds later one of the AH-64 Apache helicopters radioed in the crash.[9][11]

Six minutes later, the Rangers concluded securing the compound, detained several people, and then began to move (on foot) towards the crash site. They reached the crash site at 4:12, and found no survivors. Several minutes later a 20-man Pathfinder team (specializing in downed-aircraft rescue and recovery) arrived at the site as well.[11]

By 16:25 all of the remains were taken from the crash site via ground convoy and transported to Combat Outpost Sayyid Abad. Recovery of wreckage from the crash site lasted until 9 August 2011.[11]

In the afternoon of 6 August, a flash flood swept through the area washing away parts of the wreckage.

For years after the downing of Extortion 17, there were many theories about a possible government cover-up. The official statement from US Central Command states that a Taliban fighter scored a lucky shot with a rocket propelled grenade on the CH-47 Chinook helicopter. It was reported that the Taliban fighters had no information of the helicopter's flight path and that they had been in the right place at the right time. A Department of Defense official asserted that there were no leaks from the Afghans.[citation needed] Doubts about this story were raised by families and other concerned citizens despite the fact that the US Navy SEAL team aboard Extortion 17 had been a different platoon than had carried out the raid that killed Osama bin Laden

Question August the 4, February 20, November 18 and December 13, and DNA and foreign achievement

In the First Amendment the Founding Fathers gave the free press the protection it must have to fulfill its essential role in our democracy.

The press was to serve the governed, not the governors. The Government's power to censor the press was abolished so that the press would remain forever free to censure the Government. The press was protected so that it could bare the secrets of government and inform the people. Only a free and unrestrained press can effectively expose deception in government.

And paramount among the responsibilities of a free press is the duty to prevent any part of the government from deceiving the people and sending them off to distant lands to die of foreign fevers and foreign shot and shell.

In my view, far from deserving condemnation for their courageous reporting, the New York Times, the Washington Post, and other newspapers should be commended for serving the purpose that the Founding Fathers saw so clearly. In revealing the workings of government that led to the Vietnam war, the newspapers nobly did precisely that which the Founders hoped and trusted they would do.

FROM THE MOUNTAIN PROPHECIES BOOK TWELVE

Chapter Thirty-Two 01 Nov. 2006

My Dear Ones, I am now come to the end of the forty-second month beneath the feet of Satan, his fallen angels, the errant US Military, high-level Satanists and other robotic elements of Satan from around the world! For, forty-two months ago, they put their U.S. military antigravity machines overhead and they have not moved them, not for even one day! As I have written, they have kept me under constant surveillance, following me up and down the world, and they have persecuted me and tortured in one form, or the other, for a solid forty-two months! I cannot shout it loud enough that this is indeed a glorious day, this double devil day of Halloween, October 31, 2006, a glorious day, indeed; for surely our Saviour comes soon and very soon! And, beautiful blessings are coming to the Faithful! Oooooo-eeeee! HallaleuYahweh!

They're out to Blow up the World!

We can now read of a huge military build-up in the Persian Gulf, with many of the U.S. Navy fleet present; and they are to begin on this day, their double devil day of Halloween, the searching and seizing of "suspect" cargo from ships going into Iran! This is an act of war against Iran and we can expect to see the whole world quickly ignite into World War III!

The Ultimate "Sealing"

But, this will not be so until the 144,000 are sealed! Surely, these will soon stand before the throne of God for this awesome event! Will this sealing also involve the marriage to our Saviour and the acquisition of the supernatural bodies along with the new DNA? From what our Father in Heaven has revealed to me, this is the case!

Have some already been sealed, at least in part? Yes, and according to our Father's words to me about three years past! I was among those, who were sealed, at least in part, back then; and our Father in Heaven saw ahead of time that this was necessary in order for me to endure the great assaults, which Satan has continually directed against me!

When will the 144,000 be sealed?

Remember our Father's directives in Revelation 7:2-4. And, I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, saying Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. And, I heard the number of them which were sealed and there were sealed and hundred and forty and four thousand of all of the tribes of the children of Israel!

Who are the 144,000?

Let us look at Revelation 14:1-5! And, I looked, and lo a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred and forty and four thousand, having his Father's name written in their foreheads. And, I heard a voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps. And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth. These are they which were not defiled with women; for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and the Lamb. And, in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault before the throne of God.

My Dear Ones, these are the firstfruits! By nature of being the firstfruits, they must surely be harvested first, and soon! They must be redeemed! They must know salvation! And, this is what we are told in Revelation 12:10, wherein we are told, "And, I heard a loud voice saying in Heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of Christ:

for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night.

So, with Revelation Twelve comes salvation, the power of Christ and the Kingdom of God! And, with this salvation comes the redemption of the 144,000! They are saved and they stand before the throne of God, spotless and blameless! There, they will receive the new DNA and in our Father's message below you will read more about this new DNA and this very song that they will all sing!

These 144,000 have not been defiled with "women", that is, with the doctrines of the "whore churches!" They are clean! Their spiritual robes are white; and they follow our Saviour in all that they do! They have come out of the world, and from day to day seek the will of our Father, doing His will, loving Him first and loving and obeying our Saviour!

So, they will be called before the throne of God and will be greatly blessed, being also married to our Saviour! Thereafter, they will come back into the Earth to fight on behalf of all of humanity! This is the supernatural army of Joel, chapter Two! These will bear the rod of iron, Revelation 12:5, the new DNA, the "baby boy" and they will all hate evil! When these appear, it will be truly a new day in the Earth, the unfolding of our Father's Kingdom in the Earth, a day of much Godly power in the Earth, a day that no human has ever seen before!

So, my Dear Ones, we are now very close, not only this glorious occasion, but I believe as well to the time when all clean souls, will be removed, who are counted worthy to escape the terrible things, which are at hand! But, let us look a little closer at the rush for their World War III! For, this very event also heralds the time when these 144,000 will stand before the throne of God! Right now, this war is ready to ignite!

Bush Family Treason

by Barbara Boyd and Anton Chaitkin *

According to Bush family lore, when George and his brothers visited Prescott, they heard again and again Prescott's furious ramblings about Kennedy's mistake at the Bay of Pigs and the Communist threat emerging in Latin America. According to Prescott, Allen Dulles's invasion plan was well thought out, but Kennedy lacked the guts to carry it through. There is a well-founded belief that when Jack Kennedy fired Allen Dulles over the Bay of Pigs disaster, he signed the death warrant for his own assassination by Wall Street, London, and their secret government. The Cuban exiles trained to invade Cuba under infamous Miami CIA Station Chief Ted Shackley, became the center of all future Bush operations in Florida. They were essential to the development of Jeb Bush's Florida political and business career. The continued subjugation of the Americas on behalf of Wall Street became a continuing family obsession.

When Jeb Bush gives his stock campaign speech, he insists that he loves his father and his brother, unconditionally, and believes they were great Presidents. But, like everyone else who exists in a > family, he can't be held accountable for whatever sins his very different relatives committed. He says he won't "re-litigate" the Iraq War, referring only vaguely to "mistakes" which were made. He points to his Mexican wife, his Catholic faith, his Texas education, and his alleged moderate wonkish political views as distinguishing him from his father and his brother. Why not? Similar public relations gambits to camouflage and hide the true Bush nature have worked in the past.

What is likely the various stories of Bush, Cheney, the Rockefellers, and the US Military deciding to kill JFK, drive out his allies like Prouty, and continue CIA plans JFK rejected under military figures who refused to obey JFK, Donald Barr, William Pellham Barr, and George H.W. Bush along with E. Howard Hunt and Senator Rockefeller among them.

The Devil's Chessboard: Allen Dulles, the CIA, and the Rise of America's Secret Government

https://youtu.be/CS0X_Bqvcc?si=QfLyDVFNXInSVVKk 49m10s

An explosive, headline-making portrait of Allen Dulles, the man who transformed the CIA into the most powerful-and secretive-colossus in Washington, from the founder of Salon.com and author of the New York Times bestseller Brothers.

America's greatest untold story: the United States' rise to world dominance under the guile of Allen Welsh Dulles, the longest-serving director of the CIA. Drawing on revelatory new materials-including newly discovered U.S. government documents, U.S. and European intelligence sources, the personal correspondence and journals of Allen Dulles's wife and mistress, and exclusive interviews with the children of prominent CIA officials-Talbot reveals the underside of one of America's most powerful and influential figures.

Dulles's decade as the director of the CIA-which he used to further his public and private agendas-were dark times in American politics. Calling himself "the secretary of state of unfriendly countries," Dulles saw himself as above the elected law, manipulating and subverting American presidents in the pursuit of his personal interests and those of the wealthy elite he counted as his friends and clients-colluding with Nazi-controlled cartels, German war criminals, and Mafiosi in the process. Targeting foreign leaders for assassination and overthrowing nationalist governments not in line with his political aims, Dulles employed those same tactics to further his goals at home, Talbot charges, offering shocking new evidence in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

An exposé of American power that is as disturbing as it is timely, The Devil's Chessboard is a provocative and gripping story of the rise of the national security state-and the battle for America's soul.

JFK: The CIA, Vietnam, and the Plot to Assassinate John F. Kennedy Paperback - Illustrated, April 1, 2011 Amazon.com

With an Introduction by Oliver Stone, the director of the hit movie JFK and a Foreword by Jesse Ventura, author of the New York Times Bestseller, They Killed our President, here is an insider's view of JFK, the CIA, Vietnam and the plot that led to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Colonel L. Fletcher Prouty, the former CIA operative known as "X," offers a history-shaking perspective on the assassination of president John F. Kennedy. His theories were the basis for Oliver Stone's controversial movie JFK.

Prouty believed that Kennedy's death was a coup d'état, and he backs this belief up with his knowledge of the security arrangements at Dallas and other tidbits that only a CIA insider would know (for example, that every member of Kennedy's cabinet was abroad at the time of Kennedy's assassination). His discussion of the elite power base he believes controlled the U.S. government will scare and enlighten anyone who wants to know who was really behind the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

This is must reading for anyone who believes that Lee Harvey Oswald did not act along and that a complicated plot led to the murder of President Kennedy.

The Secret Team: The CIA and Its Allies in Control of the United States and the World Paperback Amazon.com

Offers uncommonly penetrating insight. …A rare glimpse into Covert and Black Operations.- New York Times Bestselling author, Governor Jesse Ventura, from his Foreword.

The Secret Team, L. Fletcher Prouty's expose´ of the CIA's brutal methods of maintaining national security during the Cold War, was first published in the 1970s. However, virtually all copies of the book disappeared upon distribution, having been purchased en masse by shady "private buyers." Prouty's topics include:

- President Kennedy tried to control the CIA.
- The nature of clandestine operations.

The Dulles-Jackson-Correa Report in action Defense, containment, and anti-communism

- Khrushchev's Challenge: the U-2 dilemma

- From the Bay of Pigs to Dallas.
- And much more!

Prouty's allegations-such as how the U-2 Crisis of 1960 was fixed to sabotage Eisenhower-Khrushchev talk-cannot have pleased the CIA. The Secret Team appears once more with a new introduction by bestselling author, Governor Jesse Ventura.

False Flag 911: How Bush, Cheney and the Saudis Created the Post-911 World Amazon.com

From the flight deck of a Boeing 767, airline captain Philip Marshall pulls back the veil of deception surrounding the 911 attacks. In gripping, authoritative detail he recreates the hijacked flights, including all their technical challenges, exploding the myths behind official accounts of pilot training and tactical planning. His finding: the mission could not have been carried out by any known terrorist group. Explaining for the first time the hijackers' mysterious trips to Las Vegas, where and how they could have been trained, and the document that actually states a political motive for the attacks, he finds abundant evidence implicating a nexus of Saudi officials, American contractors and, most unthinkably, members of the Bush administration. Analyzing 911 in terms of its original tactical plan, Marshall concludes that the attack partially failed, and that its failures could ultimately serve to bring the creators of the Post 911 World to light, if not to justice.

The Manchurian Candidate (1962 film)

The Manchurian Candidate is a 1962 American neo-noir, psychological political thriller about the Cold War and sleeper agents. The film was directed and produced by John Frankenheimer. The screenplay was written by George Axelrod and based on the 1959 Richard Condon novel The Manchurian Candidate.

In this later work, fiction, some call it Illuminati Preconditioning, the Queen of Diamonds, Family Jewels, sets this Free Masons imperialism up and gets rid of JFK (Irish) to make it happen.

This book asserts the very powerful families of Defense Contracting, CIA and DARPA elites, and others, like the Bush family, Trumps, Schwartzengers, Cruz family, and others are the business, political, and media moguls who call the shots from high level and drive the directions and tides of social thinking shape attitudes and beliefs, and they do so defensively vilifying and witch hunting conspiracy theorsts as witches.

Cartels that they are in, the robber barrons run, depend on being trusted by the people and media and the cartel leaders have that trust and set directions, their orders followed for the reasons they state they give the orders, but they guide the Public Mind away from the truth of Cartel acts like the murder of JFK and the murder of whistle blowers like Andrew Brietbart and Jen Moore.

With truth tellers silence by intimidation or poison, the lies do not meet opposition.

Some cartels smuggle ivory or exotic or endangered species or drugs, other are part of dirty wars and regime change and for profit racketering and money laundering in free wheeling big money black budget espionage run by pallets of unaccounted for cash and private security like Blackwater that sign deals with those who have the money to create solider of fortune armies that play dirty, as the Vatican itself does when it puts its thumb the scale between waring Latin American or other nation's warlords..

Cartel System of Wealth and Crusading Operatives in Allegiance including Mission Support Propaganda and news blackouts retrieved from Wikipedia

Consider increasing use of ex-military and ex-State Dept and ex-CIA and other industrialist families keeping themselves in power and working with long term Western industrialists plots, media fawning over the industrialists or in and out of those same administrations, and not compromising them mission by outing it or giving "the other team bragging rights" by reporting on US misconduct in the Industrialist families based warfare.

In short, the Media is briefed in, read in, perhaps owned or operated by, or tied to the powerful families, interests, and long term Cartel plans.

One of the problems I have faced is the CIA or others easily buy businesses or request co-operation from companies like Home Depot or any other major business who will happily say "Sure, we trust Government. How can we help? Would you like to operate under cover, or would you like some business receipts set up which will support an operation you have underway by creating the cover story for it?"

State agencies or State agencies employess will extend that same "trust" level to a Cartel, allowing the Cartel to operate in any manner it wishes including creating or altering records for the purpose of sabotage of law abiding citizens, records which can be shown around “to get the world out” about someone who is merely harrased by police, but the police can write the detriminatal records then use them behind the back of harrased, soically sabotaged, parties.

I assert a Cell structure wherein sufficient media power can intimidate the propagation of “conspiracy theories” such that allegations against the CIA Darpa Rockefeller Bush families have so little traction a potential cognitive model of understanding of press reporters and general public is so stunted as as starting point no branches can be reached to create new branches of understanding because the seedling is not even or barely about the soil level.

In fact Ethics suggesting “right wing conspiracy theories” or “white supremacist” or “pizzagate” speculation leads to deluded people committing violence has poisoned the soil to seedlings of truth starting even under the soil much less growing visible above the soil.

> Shogun
> Shogun was the title of the military dictators of Japan during most of the period spanning from 1185 to 1868. Nominally appointed by the Emperor, shoguns were usually the de facto rulers of the country,[2] though during part of the Kamakura period shoguns were themselves figureheads. The office of shogun was in practice hereditary, though over the course of the history of Japan several different clans held the position. Shogun is the short form of Sei-i Taishōgun (征夷大将軍, “Commander-in-Chief of the Expeditionary Force Against the Barbarians”),[3] a high military title from the early Heian period in the 8th and 9th centuries;
> Daimyo

Daimyo were powerful Japanese magnates, feudal lords, who, from the 10th century to the early Meiji period in the middle 19th century, ruled most of Japan from their vast, hereditary land holdings. They were subordinate to the shōgun and nominally to the emperor and the kuge. In the term, dai (大) means “large”, and myō stands for myōden (名田), meaning “private land”

Samurai

Samurai were the hereditary military nobility and officer caste of medieval and early-modern Japan from the 12th century to their abolition in the 1870s. They were the well-paid retainers of the daimyo (the great feudal landholders). They had high prestige and special privileges such as wearing two swords. They cultivated the bushido codes of martial virtues, indifference to pain, and unflinching loyalty, engaging in many local battles. During the peaceful Edo era (1603 to 1868) they became the stewards and chamberlains of the daimyo estates, gaining managerial experience and education. In the 1870s samurai families comprised 5% of the population. The Meiji Revolution ended their feudal roles, and they moved into professional and entrepreneurial roles.

While the emperor was still the ruler, powerful clans around Kyoto assumed positions as ministers, and their relatives bought positions as magistrates.

The disaster of the rapid growth in nuclear energy and aerospace (Satellite, super sonic flight) in the Cold War and amidst racial tensions inside the USA and throughout the world brought about desperate and illegal acts by espionage agencies, many officials as adults in 1961 like Colin and Alma Powell or Donald or William Barr or the Gotliebs stile powerful figures today.

Espionage techniques are needed, falsity, to conceal the disasters of 1963 and ever since, still hidden by espionage murders, and this book narrows the former one inch separating the Sheriff from the criminals.

Elements of the Kludge of MKULTRA

- Spark Suppression - If the truth got out lit torches in the hands of the public would set George H.W. Bush and others on fire as he is disputably quoted as alluding to.
    - Journalism - Murder of journalists of like Micheal Hastsings, Kashogi, Jen Moore, and others, even Frank Olsen
    - Murder of judges such as Roll and Scalia protecting the program's path by allowing genetic back-filling of genes into rescue populations of lower occurrence rates of beneficial genes which MKULTRA will then build up though without discussion of the program or its possible real motives. Murders of Presidents and DOJ official or police officials who know to much
- Retilling
    - Creating new evolution "truth" in which the Third World was late in modernizing was never any different and simply needed more time for Modernity to flourish
    - Promoting sociology and ethics describing this new belief, and in this new understanding conspiracy theories have no soil to grow in.

- Moles or dupes media and government tied to the original MKULTRA program returning to office to abuse State power by subverting the path towards the real truth and thus saving themselves from exposure

- Self Funding Mechanisms Tied into international medicine and asset seizures of those antagonistic to Third World groups a parity in finance and ethical worth is achieved though the refereeing of the ethnic or population groups is based on sentiments favring the under dogs in disputes

    - Possible Donald Washington using fights against white supremacism as a profit center, starting the tight with me alleging that is the real fight.

    - Possible Derrick Dirscoll using fights against minors exploitation as as profit center, starting tha that fight with me, again, that manufactured even more so than the first issue

    - It is conceivable Driscoll and Washington are under “mind control” and being presented the phony evidence manufactured in front of my face and in front of Tom Dunham

    - Master Magicians perhaps CIA or Defense Clandestine Service or FBI Counter-Intel may have subverses creating the subterfuge battles with me though they know the real battle stems from Sidney Gottlibem misuses of DNA and Mason misconduct.

- Muscle - Fake heroes from skid row made into heroes as they solve crimes they committed by pointing fingers at those who ghetto residents have a chip on their shoulder over (like Mark Gonsales FTP Fuck the Police fuck the establishment) As benefactresses of the RICO operation the fit the mercenary role

- Global Support for a program on its surface seemingly beneficial to the world though the criminal elements still need to steward the world wide plan so its truths are hidden from the world

In the 2006 federal election, Ignatieff was elected to the House of Commons as the Member of Parliament for Etobicoke-Lakeshore. The same year, he ran for the leadership of the Liberal Party, ultimately losing to Stéphane Dion. He served as the party's deputy leader under Dion. After Dion's resignation in the wake of the 2008 election, Ignatieff served as interim leader from December 2008 until he was elected leader at the party's May 2009 convention.[3] In the 2011 federal election, Ignatieff lost his own seat in the Liberal Party's worst showing in its history. Winning only 34 seats, the party placed a distant third behind the Conservatives and NDP, and thus lost its position as the Official Opposition.[4] On May 3, 2011, Ignatieff announced that he would resign as leader of the Liberal Party, pending the selection of an interim leader,[5][6] which became effective May 25, 2011.

Following his electoral defeat, Ignatieff taught at the University of Toronto. In 2013, he returned to the Harvard Kennedy School part-time, splitting his time between Harvard and Toronto. On July 1, 2014, he returned to Harvard full-time.[7] In 2016, he left Harvard to become president and rector of the Central European University in Budapest.[8][9] He continues to publish articles and essays on international affairs as well as Canadian politics.

In December 2016, Ignatieff was named a Member of the Order of Canada.[10]

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Disposition_Matrix

The Disposition Matrix, informally known as a kill list, is a database of information for tracking, capturing, “rendering”, or killing suspected enemies of the United States.[1] Developed by the Obama administration beginning in 2010, it goes beyond existing kill lists and is intended to become a permanent fixture of U.S. policy.

[1] The process determining criteria for killing is not public and was heavily shaped by National Counterterrorism Director and former Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) Director John O. Brennan.[2]

Though White House, National Counterterrorism Center (NCTC), and CIA spokespeople have declined to comment on the database, officials have stated privately that kill lists will expand “for at least another decade”, if not indefinitely. One official stated “it’s a necessary part of what we do”.[1] Paul R. Pillar, the former deputy director of the CIA’s counter-terrorism center, has stated, “We are looking at something that is potentially indefinite”.[1]

The database’s existence was revealed in a three-part series published by The Washington Post newspaper.

Social and political, even genetic control and perhaps racial control is now achieved through PsyOps including targeted assassinations under Disposition Matrix.

Call Sign Extortion 17: The Shoot-Down of SEAL Team Six is a 2015 non-fiction expose, written by best-selling author and former U.S. Navy JAG Officer Don Brown, about the 2011 Chinook shootdown in Afghanistan of a United States Boeing CH-47 Chinook helicopter.[1][2][3][4][5] It is published by Rowman & Littlefield Publishing Group, through its Imprint, Lyons Press. In the shoot-down, 30 Americans lost their lives, including 17 U.S. Navy SEALs, most of whom were from a troop from Gold Squadron at SEAL Team Six, officially the United States Naval Special Warfare Development Group.

More than two years after President Obama reassured the father of a member of SEAL Team 6 that the government would look into the death of his son, the father is still waiting for a response, and his suspicions are growing.

On Aug. 6, 2011, Taliban forces were waiting for a Chinook helicopter carrying members of the elite unit SEAL Team 6 to approach its landing site. The helicopter was attacked from three sides in a coordinated ambush.

Although it was known Taliban forces were in the area, the SEALs did not have the air cover that was a standard procedure for missions of that type. During the ambush, the Chinook was reportedly shot down by a shoulder-fired missile, killing all 38 people on board, including 25 American special operations personnel, five U.S. Army National Guard and Army Reserve crewmen, a U.S. military dog, seven Afghan commandos and an Afghan interpreter.

Following the ambush, the Army ordered the remains of everyone on the helicopter cremated, they were simply unrecognizable.

However, Michael Strange's body apparently showed no sign of being burned by the explosion from the missile. His father obtained a copy of Michael's autopsy report and photographs of his body and said there was no sign of fire damage.

"There's nothing wrong with the body except for his ankle, but they claimed everybody was burned beyond recognition, yet there he was lying there whole and intact," Strange said. "His hair and arms weren't burned, and there was no sign of smoke in his lungs. When I called the command up and asked them about this they seem shocked that I had the photo. They told me 'we'll get back to you,' but they never did."

Petty Officer's Strange's Nov. 16, 2011, autopsy report from the Armed Forces Medical Examiner System said he suffered burns to 40 percent of his body. But the body itself was intact with identifiable clothing.

In the 1961-1962 Polk Directory, a commercial index of people and businesses in Seattle, there is a listing for a student named [Stanley] “Anna Obama,” a woman who just might have been our next president’s mother * .

According to a Seattle Times article published last year, Barack Obama’s mother, Stanley Ann Dunham, twice lived in the Emerald City. First in her youth, as a student at Mercer Island High School. Then later as a single mother, when she enrolled for a spring semester at the University of Washington. We know she lived for a short time in an apartment on Capitol Hill by 1962 - but not much has been published about where.

Enter the Polk Directory. Assuming the woman listed there really was Obama’s mother, it would appear that she - and quite possibly her infant son - lived in a building then located at 516 13th Ave. E

Though a military success the dogma of racial equality as an imposed belief of the public and secret plans to address the realities of race on a closed basis by the most secretive societies and organizations led to a great schism between reality and indoctrination of the public on matters of great importance to everyday life.

The migration from a Natural Law science driven state is again and again rebuffed such as the battle between Thomas Watson and Steven Pinker in similar camps, varying by degree, and those like Francis Collins who have allowed too much secretive information to guide secretive agencies while the public is trapped in delusions of conflicting lies, failed factual understandings, mythical scientific results, and unreachable predicted results from public policies.

I quote the White Rose Society leaflets here on when the State becomes an evil entity in which its needs exceed the furtherance of the citizenry. > Goethe speaks of the Germans as a tragic nation, like the Jews and the Greeks. But these days, Germans appear more like a shallow, irresolute herd of opportunists who have had all the marrow sucked from their bones. Now that they have been robbed of their essence, they are willing to be pursued to their destruction. This is how it appears, but it is not so. Rather, every individual has been jailed in an intellectual prison after having been slowly, deceptively, and systematically raped. Only as he lies there in chains is he aware of his doom. A few recognized the pending perdition [for what it was]. The reward for their heroic exhortations was death. There is more to say about the fate of these people.
> If everyone waits till someone else makes a start, the messengers of the avenging Nemesis will draw incessantly closer. And then the last sacrifice will have been thrown senselessly into the jaws of the insatiable demon. Therefore in this last hour every individual must arm himself as best he can, aware of his responsibility as a member of the Christian and western civilization. He must work against the hostage1 of humanity, against fascism and all similar systems of an absolute State. Offer passive resistance - resistance, wherever you may be, prevent the continuation of this atheistic war machine before it is too late, before the last of our cities lie in ruins like Cologne, and before the last of the youth of our people have been bled to death by the hubris of a subhuman. Do not forget that every nation deserves the government that it endures.

This secret criminal Masons organization Jen Moore fought to her death has led to the drift from the form of government which the USA was founded upon, a separation between the people and secretive government, and a requirement of a taboo based society which can not search for nor find simple answers to immediate and pressing problems pushing all other matters in the world out of the headlines.

In this delusional ride in the Crystal Ship more has happened. The motive for the mistakes (and thus the detectability of the mistakes) made by the CIA and other military or paramilitary US and world organizations is un-discoverable in an evolutionary understanding in which racial twins studies and racial lines mixing testing would never have occurred in.

The world of taboo science and secret destroyed mysteries of espionage activities on the scientific matter of race can no longer be hidden.

Though MKULTRA files were destroyed like all Human knowledge most of it is likely re-constructable and the attempts of complicit parties to create a “dead end” to re-opening the Camelot assassinations, the Obama true story, assassinations in the USA and world, and espionage against my mother Glorian Donegan and me, Edward Paul Donegan’s law abiding life must end.

The USA needs a change of course, and end to delusions, and reforms of agencies and organizations with something to hide and hide via misconduct.

Many global organizations and goals exit in a large and complex world. They must receive oversight and transparency that the goals serve the world and not serve coverup attempts of failed espionage activities of past, however well intended during vary dangerous times.

Morrison's prop didn't seem to be turning over normally. I found it very difficult to stay with him and tried to remain near him by weaving above him. When we were at about 22,000 ft., a group of bombers, on their way out of the target area, passed directly in front of us at the same level. During this time, Morrison had been attempting to get his engine to kick over, and then asked for any suggestions as to what further could be done to get the engine to work. When the bombers passed, Morrison and I were directly behind the bombers in the prop wash. At that time, I was slightly ahead and above him. Due to the prop wash, I pulled away and further in front of him. At that time, while getting out of the prop wash, I lost sight of Morrison. Since I had been ahead of him, I turned into him but failed to see him. I continued to look for him, asking for his position, in relation to the bombers, giving mine. He was unable to determine where he was, only that he was at 9,000 ft. I was at about 18,000 ft. then. At that time Morrison asked for a heading of home, and someone gave him a heading of 330 degrees, which I also took in hopes of seeing him. At this time, we had cleared the hills northeast of Saarbrucken, and were in fairly open country. Morrison started to call again, saying that he would have to leave the plane. After that, I called a few times but didn't receive any answer. I remained in the area for some time but didn't see or hear from him again. At that time, he should have bee about twenty miles north of Saarbrucken.

Since I couldn't find him, I returned home alone.

Cactus Air Force? Cactus Air Force technically was under the command of Rear Admiral John S. McCain, who commanded all land based Allied aircraft in the South Pacific. Vandegrift and his operational commanders, however, exercised local command over the Allied aircraft operating out of Henderson Field.[20]

On 3 September 1942, the fortunes of the beleaguered aviators changed with the arrival of Brigadier General Roy Geiger on board the first Marine Aircraft Group 25 plane to land on the island, an R4D Skytrain.[21][22] As the “Commander, Aircraft, Guadalcanal” (ComAirCACTUS) and the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing, Geiger set up his headquarters in a wooden Japanese pagoda that was up on a hill about 200 yards (180 m) from the airfield.

This book is the culmination of my research into WHY my mother, me, and later my father, have been attacked under some kind of genome pretext, and our lives as atomic testing veterans.

After his military service by the stories he told me and by the bruises on his body at the time of his death it seems to me he was probably subject to the Roadblocking assaults of Gangstalk plus Office Mob that my mother and I spent our lives under attack from.

Office Mobs (crowds of normal seeming covert stealth operatives) move in as rivals of a person, especially cattily using used rumors about a person first manufactured earlier during a Gangstalk, a Gangstalk creating appearances of misconduct through “mousetrap” acts surrounding a person, placing them in paid for platform of balsa wood, spring, cheese, and wire arm.

In the Gold’s Gym section of this book I will use that chapter for “Imitation is the Highest Form of Battery” (co-option with hostility towards actual origins) concept, whereupon my successes were claimed by others as those same others alleged them not to exist in or from me and impeded my own use of the gym, my diet, and music choices.

This book alleges racial testing and engineering by the CIA going back into the Manhattan Project and Pacific Theater Triad and from Nagasaki, Hirsohsima, and beyond and Kennedy Administration and now are continuing into affected countries including Spain and Africa under MKULTRA have a Deep State of illegal programs and fifth columns in the USA tied to Espionage surrounding MKULTRA that I and others are a victim of.

Some would accuse me of being slow. I have to admit they may be correct. I spent years in fights started by others, and afterwords, in custody I could not for the life of me figure out what was happening.

In custody rolling up the Canteen form and using it as Sextant to locate lamp poles, arriving police cars at the curb of the jail, etc., so that if their were accurate surveillance my cell was calculable which was not what the jail ever claimed.

The symmetrical cell down the prison hall, one cell short of the end of the hall on the other end of the hall had its toilet flush when I pressed my toilet flush button and that person, that inmate, was being called Edward Donegan, and this have been most every moment of my life continuously around the clock.

It has taken me (by Jen Moore's date definition of this) 45 year to figure out why this covert operation has surrounded me and faked everything 24 hours a day and with full State power usage in that fraud.

In 2019 and 2020 I over hear fake Edward Paul Donegan in "46-46" and I finally found the answer. My immunology is my family history and an egg, at least one egg, was stolen from my mother by the CIA.

Leftist groups have long attacked my mother and I for no reason I could ever find but they are State backed. I think covering State errors in racial research designed to save blacks by cloning white brains into blacks.

Then, to cover it, war against those with the same brain as Barack Obama and his children, plus or minus a gene or two.

My Family History and Masons attempt to create a phony fix to history

Ed Donegan: It is my belief Mercenaries for a Deep State are engaging in #wetworks to cover the illegal “animal husbandry” practiced by the CIA now the genetic detectability of that, and also the murders protecting the animal husbandry.

Google knowledge panel quoted here

A sleeper agent is a spy who is placed in a target country or organization not to undertake an immediate mission but to act as a potential asset if activated.

My belief is Barack Obama was groomed as a sleeper agent from select illegally used DNA and this is now blowing up on DARPA and the Illuminati though this does not focus on the Obama Family or the Donegans.

Espionage Agencies have manipulated and been the shadowy “loan shark in the alley in the trench-coat” or acting other similar roles to bail these families out of the disasters they were born into.

> In practice, whether or not a person is a mercenary may be a matter of degree, as financial and political interests may overlap, as was often the case in all of history. - Wikipedia

These Mercenaries are drug, car, and Glam Dommes paid Gangstalkers working outside the rule of law and in criminal acts to achieve illegal harassment of me, a law abiding citizen, which can not , should not, and would not be acheivable by legitimate law enforcement ends.

Inexplicably the world has grown hostile, cold, towards me, I am fired or ostracized on hinted at rumors but rumors that make no sense yet they are dangles as if a smarter person is taunting a dumber person, though the exact fact is a bluffer does not want to get called on his or her cards and will not be.

CIA front companies, media, etc., are a danger to me, which is everyone and I feared ever being in USA lying custody, away from the visibility in public only to have a racketeering public join the racketeering gang stalk of me.

Repeatedly I have been challenged to find why I would be shaken down by an obviously state backed racket. I doubted my intelligence for though it is high not outlandishly so.

I will for the rest of my life be deeply embittered I ever lived in the USA and regret neve getting out of it and the chances due to me stemming from endless my hard work and my families preparation of me and even the USA for me in fighting against racist Nazi Germany and Korea’s dictatorship.

In front of me police, mostly black, will recruit street people to assault me, recruit them while I am watching, and the police will watch the assault on me, and this is far more a death risk to me out of public view, though public attempts to draw me into a fight never during any moment of my life including while I am in the supposed safety and privacy of my home, still in reach of the unblocked trespass of abusive sexual, property, and property assailants.

Mercenaries have been launched at me and no one other than Jen Moore and James Comey have attempted any defense of me.

This is due to my genome, and nothing to do with who I am, from poor parents, poor myself, mentally with learning disabilities destroying my youth and physical disabilities destroying my old age.

This attack is about Nature, my biology, not Nurture, the psycho social and legal life I live and was raised into I worked my way in to which is law abiding and admirable enough people tell me they want to have my baby.

Being subjected to fraud and stigma of my genomic heritage and rights

Political interests (racial) and Religious interests have architected this bunko to achieve both social claims of victimization (and accountability of and the Trust) as political social causes falsely, as Hoaxes, claim victim-hood and in both politics and property rights exploit the staged hoaxes events.

Why I did not suspect any of this during decades of harassment, 45 years

In my case hacks working for the DARPA Department of Defense Brain program have been able to use manufactured contra-indicated diagnosis of me to achieve access of me and have moved independent private psychiatry away from me including manufactured evidence and behind the scenes operations not disclosed to me even at times not disclosed to the public or others truthfully.

This book has also been named The Medical State for this claimed medical management of my life which is mere sham and mismanagement of my assets to benefit the Government and its coverup needs.

I always knew my family history (I thought tied to my father's side of the family and "the troubles" in Belfast) included me being the grandson of an "Edward" who had some royal connection but it was the family desire we keep that quiet though WE had no blame in the matter.

It is my belief that Targeted Individuals Program targets individuals for evidence plants, assaults, harassment, incarcerations, incacerations, and social sabotage but leaves them alive during study of provoking them and that has spanned 45 years of my life.

Favored families coming out of MKLULTRA and DARAP programs having geneology selected by Sidney Gottlieb and who hold power, surviving Kennedy's, Ted Cruz Sr. and Jr, Schwartenzegs, and those like the Prescott Bush Family or William Pellham Barr lines of culpability in MKULTRA wish to prune but study non CIA approved family lines of what I will call Feb 20 (fertilization) Nov 18 (live birth) Dec 13 (Glorian Donegan Borderline Personality Disorder ovum) and this is ongoing illegal Psychological Warfare Command espionage activity.

As Deep State covert actors continued to gangstalk assault me (and reproductive age white women near me) over decades I searched endlessly for some information about WHY but it made no sense.

My father was anti terror and my family loyal to the USA and if Ireland knew anything I saw no sense of it in the USA.

I did know it had something to do with someone needing to hide my mother's DNA and mitochondria and I thought that was so easily available DNA, saliva, hair, would NOT trace my father to her, and my father was hidden.

Nothing I found fit that. Through Jen Moore I found my mother fit the Kustchera story exactly which was why Jen Moore was knowledgeable about this and FOXP2 Borderlines but I only found this was on my mother's side in the last two years from 2020.

Another title I frequently consider is "Stand Down." Jen Moore frequently speaks of the Silenced and wanting to not be Silenced, the Silence of the Grave.

The Press will not cover the Deep State and the illegal programs wanted by the CIA including pedo networks and genocracketeering by Epstein, Maxwell, etc.,

Espionage hits on branches of families being suppressed and hits on DOJ, Judicial, and CIA employees have been part of covering faked genomics permissions as are espionage operations "Double Blind" schemes.

In my case, I am an unintentional and defrauded supplier of genes. The CIA is using a hostile "Double Blind," that is to say dupes or "little white liers" who will cover the tracks of the program.

The Espionage agencies have many means to achieve this including deeming their own illegal acts "Top Secret" and thus avoiding scrutiny.

This book uses information and records from officer Jen

Moore. The “Weekend at Bernie’s Ploy” I allege is that circumstantially it seems I am going to a long con set location, similar to my apartment, but is where an impersonator (Tx who will transmit a confession while in my identity,) a sex worker, a behavioral health care worker, and a Marshall or FBI agent or cop will work out a “pay up or be arrested” scheme requiring a DNA payment in exchange for sexual misconduct.

Rape

What this book is about is the rape of me and everything I have done and do in the U.S. and my inability to stop rape from occurring, including genetic rape through Genentech.

Pizza Gate seems to work like this. In a Teen or child exploitation ring an impersonator of me, often Mediterranean or Hispanic, will solicit exploitable females inappropriately (thus defaming the real me.)

The Impersonator (information doppelganger) will pay the teen or other female with rights to my DNA or other assets. The person paid will be a Harvey Dent (fake pimp, CIA DOD backed) from overseas, thus moving the genes from the U.S., me, and into Africa.

Normally I would block this, but a fake conservancy was setup to management my assets (unnecessarily) called ARC of Northern Virginia who are Advocacy and programs for Retarded Children thus ARC.

Jen Moore describes this as Top Secret manufacture of child porn, children in my vicinity, but by the government photo zooming in on children,, not me doing so, and a hostile “bc” conservator of me, probably a blind conservator, probably Rod Rosenstein or Rosenstein CIA Front agency pleading me guilty on behalf of their victims.

I believe these circumstantial cases which allow widespread use of my DNA on black markets is in fact the case Judge Roll was killed over and the DARPA history of my DNA goes far back into the history of the FOXP2 Borderline Personality Disorder research in Vienna affecting the Von Trapps and German origins Windsor family, and OSS CIA Vatican history in that which affects many highly connected families, agencies, and NGOs in the USA and world today.

In the near case I present as the foundation of my book series I suggest the mercenary attacks on me allege to fight white supremacism a white supremacist must be both framed and also misrepresented by social justice workers for genetic justice to be achieved and I prove that racketeering crime with ease.

In the far case this book considers is whether others were incited to snap, Jared Laughtner and Tsarnev, possible terrorist profiles in their file, and if they attacked Boston, Cheyenne, did that diversion enable other crimes, other shooters/bombers under the radar.

The Glorian tie to it all

"Glo" Donegan, Glorian, born Dec 13 (12/13) and likely a direct \U.S. relative of King George VIII (King's Speech), House of Windsor. Perhaps moved to The Kings Daughters hospital in Norfolk Virginia for Invitro Fertilization.

I believe Jen Moore interviewed my mother, had some contact with my father, and was present with me at several key times, may have been a Sheriff or Deputy but forced onto disability.

Glorian Donegan IVFd impregnating with me FEB 20 1961, me born NOV 18 1961 to James Paul Donegan and Glorian Donegan. I am told I was named after my grandfather Edward, I believe on my mother's side.

Calendar dates proximal to these Divinci Codes Dec 13, Feb 20, Nov 18 are used by those familiar with the Illuminati plan.

Both her and I likely have the FOXP2 gene. I have the language issue in some forms and she and I have had the salivation problems lifelong requiring hospital treatment.

The FOXP2 gene is found with the KE family which could be the King Edward Windsor line.

In fact from some online info (prophecies.org) the Windsors may have given some children up for acceptance of the fourth part of the family line. Like with Hemophilia genetic defects draw from the image of royal legacies.

My belief is an MKULTRA plan created by the USA for the world has the world wagging the USA

An example, huge example, of the tail wagging the dog. Once MKULTRA started on world plans, the NWO gained control of MKULTRA and the USA

My theory is when MKULTRA went bad, it killed JFK and continued, the movement around the world gained steam including blackmail power over the USA bunglers, families and agencies which permitted or participated in the assassination of JFK.

45 Years of louse attacks upon my mother and myself

An organized effort, I believe Espionage Agencies backed, perhaps even disguised as Civil Rights of Nazi hunting, has harassed participation in life by myself and my mother and most likely my father.

Using people close to myself and my mother like Tom Donegan (my brother) as dupes or allies Espionage has manufactured the pretexts for, the predication of, infringement upon the basic human and property rights of Glorian and myself.

My brother used as a Saboteur he has provided “family” information to forensic psychiatrists behind my back which has been wrong but the errors of it protected by things like deletion of evidence from Archive.org or witness tampering, planted evidence, etc.,

With the sabotage of my property and human rights in place by conservator-ships orchestrated by him or those asking him for help Provocateurs, those staging phoney litigable acts surrounding me have a path forward to pick fights with me or sue me and have a way in place for them, not me, to authentic the fake claims against me.

I will document this as racketeering of rights to my genome in chapters like “Gym Frames” (where I seemed to be taking pictures of females) but the scope of this is far larger and I assert Illuminati families and Espionage Agencies have large scale crimes underway around the world built around a new Elite racketeering in designer babies, and this continues to try and re arrange genomic history in a way the past of these actors, State and private, can be justified or covered up in reverse, using genes rights few even know about.

Homeless people, retarded, non-whites, criminal elements, or bizzare hacks in seeming neutral positions in the role agent provocateurs who stalked us without identifying themselves making outside the apartments unsafe./

February 20 1961 IVF fertilization of my mother's ovum, the Nov 18 Manhattan Beach California Manhattan Project of my atomic testing family unit, and the December 13th birthday makeup what are now the Divinci Code, CIA Diagraphs of this program.

Use of Phony But Destructive and Intrusive Investigations called Gangstalk

IEIA ADVANCES IN DESTRUCTIVE AND NON-DESTRUCTIVE ANALYSIS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL MONITORING AND NUCLEAR FORENSICS

"Destructive sampling includes any procedure that causes a permanent change to a specimen, such as sampling of subfossil tissues for molecular studies, sectioning of specimens, or drilling of tooth enamel for isotopic studies. It also includes some reversible procedures, such as disarticulation of mounted specimens, or separation of elements that have been glued together.

For the majority of requests, destructive sampling may only take place at the AMNH and not while a specimen is on loan.

Destructive sampling does not include specimen preparation, molding, and casting, which are governed by a separate set of procedures.

Application

Requests for destructive sampling should be made in writing to the curator-in-charge of the collection in question. In the case of graduate students, the request should be made by the student's academic advisor. As a minimum, the request should include the following information:

- The purpose of the research and its scientific merit
- The sampling methods to be employed
- Why the chosen protocol is the least intrusive method possible
- Evidence of the researcher's competence with the protocol
- The specimens to be sampled
- Why the specimens in question are essential to the study

OSS to CIA, black budgets, Operation Paperclip, & Hidden Identities

Bracketed [ ]text by Edward Paul Donegan, other text by Jen Moore OSS to CIA video transcript

okay it is Sunday night and I'm looking out at beautiful Washington DC and as you can tell I have a great view this evening it's a Sunday night tonight before the Monday morning testimony I believe before the Judiciary Committee on the OIG report so that's gonna be tomorrow morning and I will be there live it in person to see the fireworks if there are any I hope there are a little bit courage Mr. Jim Jordan and Mr. good luck and Mr. gates to it Mr. Gowdy to all go full wards get these documents so I'm posting this video just because I'm going to attach the interview number three and four that I had done now regarding um you know start the first two interviews were kind of starting in World War I

[with the discovery of the Anterior Temporal Lobe and Griffith Experiments and Spanish Influenze and the founding of Opus Dei lay activities empowered to reverent alignment with and service of God's will] and moving into World War two OSS to the CIA different players that were involved dealt the Dulles brothers Hitler obviously Aleister Crowley in my six in my five how the OSS became the CIA the Vatican's involvement the indoctrination that occurred the different experiments that were done how MKULTRA was brought together under several different kind of philosophies or mythology's

[What were genetic differences, were we part of a civilized world of protecting all Humans, and what was the sovereignty of nations, and how should these disputes not be crimes against Humanity, people singled out for murder]

I guess you could say some of it is really hard to listen to but it's the truth and it needs to be told because it's still happening so though as these interviews go long I move it into the United States and Canada in particular I mean it's a very lot of other places but United States in Canada really was infiltrated through black budgets by the CIA and went from OSS into CIA the Vatican was involved in that and Operation Paperclip in how these Nazi scientists including Hitler and Mengele and Himmler and all these kind of the worst characters of all were secretly moved in to Argentina and South America and then some of them were even brought up into the United States and they were given new identities they were brought into universities hospital programs various secret sites black-budget sites where the experimentation continued on all kinds of things and all kinds of Americans especially small children and I'm going to lead into things like the Kinsey studies

[And this project centered around the genetics of Glorian Donegan and Edward Paul Donegan, though in psychiciatry, fraudlently represented. HIgh sexual impulse, Borderline Personality Disorder, and a genetic gene of some type, under sequencing found to be FOXP2 oddly in a Nazi line of Kutscheras, and a Kutsheras daughter Maria brought into the safety of Catholic mission and the Windsors, the later Anglican name, departing the growing NAZI influenced Central Powers of Austria Germany.]

if anyone has looked into that Masters and Johnson how they're all tied together some of the places that are still in operation as of today that I am aware of but uh these two interviews specifically start to bring into the politics of the United States of America at least since World War two the different players involved a lot of these players that call them players or politicians or you know businessmen or senators or you know what whatever title they might have there's some of them that don't want their identities known

[Like the Bush family, the General Powell Alma Powell family, the (James) Woosely Brothers, Clintons, etc.,]

[And Sidney Gottlieb and others knew about Glorian Donegan and other daughters of Prince Edward of Wales and Maria Kutschera, and testing on these genetic issues and racial differences and racial plans for closing gaps in genes distributions around the world was an Illuminati and CIA plan.]

their real identities are the real history zone and I'm not gonna name names at this point except you could do some deduction use your deduction skills and you know kind of think about whose identities might have been hidden recently even even years and years and decades ago

[You could use the CIA and Illuminati Digraphs of February 20 Nov 18 Birth Nov 19th Birth and Dec 13 Glorian Donegan Birthday to track this through public JFK records and other families tied to Manhattan Beach Los Angles or Cape Cod

but recently really and so these interviews start talking about that and how that came about and why there's such a mystery and why there's so many sealed records and some of the information that I am in possession of to begin to peel back the layers of this onion so the American people can fully understand where we are today why we are here today and who these people really are

[One might also wonder about Kings Daughter's Hospital 88 Bed Psychiatric Hospital founded 1961 in Norfolk Virginia}

X2

With the beginning of World War II, the Office of the Coordinator of Information, headed by William Donovan, was split and the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) created on 13 June 1942. The State Department and military services blocked the OSS from receiving communications intercepted from the Axis Powers, through the Ultra program, until the OSS created its own X-2 Counter Espionage Branch.[6] The FBI and Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs further limited the OSS by restricting it from operating in the Western Hemisphere. X-2 became the OSS liaison with the British, opened the doors of Ultra to OSS exploitation and operated throughout Europe and the world. At its peak at the end of the War, the X-2 Branch had 650 personnel in its office.

The head of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS), William Donovan, created the X-2 Counter Espionage Branch in 1943 to provide liaison with and assist the British in its exploitation of the Ultra program's intelligence during World War II. A few months before, Donovan had established a Counterintelligence Division within the Secret Intelligence Branch of the OSS but rescinded this order upon development of the X-2. The X-2 was led by James Murphy, whose branch would have the power to veto operations of the Special Operations and Secret Intelligence Branches without explanation. Donovan modeled the Counter Espionage Branch on British Counter Espionage. With the creation of the X-2 Branch, the British insisted that it follow British security procedures to maintain the secrecy of Ultra. The X-2 established separate lines of communication for itself as a self-contained unit. By the end of World War II, the X-2 had discovered around 3,000 Axis agents.

This disturbing exposé describes a secret alliance forged at the close of World War II by the CIA, the Sicilian and US mafias, and the Vatican to thwart the possibility of a Communist invasion of Europe. Journalist Paul L. Williams presents evidence suggesting the existence of “stay-behind” units in many European countries consisting of five thousand to fifteen thousand military operatives. According to the author’s research, the initial funding for these guerilla armies came from the sale of large stocks of SS morphine that had been smuggled out of Germany and Italy and of bogus British bank notes that had been produced in concentration camps by skilled counterfeiters. As the Cold War intensified, the units were used not only to ward off possible invaders, but also to thwart the rise of left-wing movements in South America and NATO-based countries by terror attacks.

Williams argues that Operation Gladio soon gave rise to the toppling of governments, wholesale genocide, the formation of death squads, financial scandals on a grand scale, the creation of the mujahideen, an international narcotics network, and, most recently, the ascendancy of Jorge Mario Bergoglio, a Jesuit cleric with strong ties to Operation Condor (an outgrowth of Gladio in Argentina) as Pope Francis I.

Sure to be controversial, Operation Gladio connects the dots in ways the mainstream media often overlooks.

The Assassination of General Patton retrieved from the Daily Pakistan and copied or modified to here

Finally, we come to General Donovan, the head of the OSS, and to the OSS itself. Donovan studied at Columbia and his results have been described as “atrocious” by Eustace Mullins. He was picked up by two professors with deep connections to the banking elite for his advancement. He had an affair with the wife of August Belmont who was the official Rothschild representative in the U.S. During the war he was selected for the notorious Belgian Relief Commission, a scam of the bankers for providing food to the German army, under the name of relief to Belgians, to prolong the war. J.P. Morgan reportedly paid $200,000 to Donovan for intelligence work in Europe pertaining to $2 billion bonds floated by J.P. Morgan in postwar Europe. Thus Donovan was deeply tied to the international banking families.

William Stephenson, the British envoy to the U.S. during WWII, was an intelligence operative with a codename “Intrepid”. In May 1940 he handed over a proposal to Donovan for setting up an American intelligence agency. Roosevelt, who knew Donovan from Columbia, appointed him Coordinator of Information for the White House. Since he had no experience in propaganda work, the office was split in June 1942, into Office of War Information and the Office of Strategic Services (OSS). Donovan was made head of the OSS.

Eustace Mullins writes: “The ‘new’ agency was from the outset, merely an outpost of British intelligence. On September 18, 1941, Col. E. I. Jacob, Churchill’s military secretary, was informed by Maj. Desmond Church, Churchill’s liaison with the British Secret Service: ‘Another most secret fact of which the Prime Minister is aware is that to all intents and purposes U.S. security is being run for them at the President’s request by the British. A British officer sits in Washington with Mr. Edgar Hoover and General Bill Donovan for this purpose. It is of course essential that this fact should not be known.’”

William Stephenson reported to his head Stewart Menzies in the British intelligence (MI6): “You can imagine how relieved I am after three months of battle and jockeying for position that our man [Donovan] is in a position of such importance to our efforts.” Not only that, FDR told William Stephenson, “I am your biggest undercover agent.” One must note that Britain was the real den of the international banking families, the core of the High Cabal, ever since the Bank of England was set up in 1696. And FDR admitted to being an agent of the High Cabal by calling himself an undercover agent of the British. The same was true of Bill Donovan.

Now it was in the year 1972 that Douglas Bazata told the journalist Joy Billington, who was doing a story on his art, on the condition that she would not publish it, that he was involved in the assassination of General Patton. Then, on September 25, 1979, Bazata stood up at a gathering of ex-intelligence officers at the Hilton Hotel in Washington D.C., and in response to a managed question by Joy Billington, stated the following: “For diverse political reasons, many extremely high ranking persons hated Patton. I know who killed him for I was the one who was hired to do it. Ten thousand dollars. General William Donovan, Director of OSS, entrusted me with the mission. I set up the accident. Since he didn’t die in the accident, he was kept in isolation in the hospital where he was killed by an injection.”

The story was a bombshell but the mainstream media completely ignored it! …

Ahead of the foundation selling its Ford Motor Company holdings, in 1949, Henry Ford II created the Ford Motor Company Fund, a separate corporate foundation that to this day serves as the philanthropic arm of the Ford Motor Company and is not associated with the foundation.

He worked closely with his father, as sole heir to the business, but was keen to develop cars more exciting than the Model T (“Tin Lizzie”), in line with his personal tastes.

He was a financier of Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd Jr. (October 25, 1888 - March 11, 1957) was an American naval officer and explorer.[1] He was a recipient of the Medal of Honor, the highest honor for valor given by the United States, and was a pioneering American aviator, polar explorer, and organizer of polar logistics. Byrd claimed that his expeditions had been the first to reach both the North Pole and the South Pole by air. His claim to have reached the North Pole is disputed.[2] He is also known for discovering Mount Sidley, the largest dormant volcano in Antarctica.

The Ford Foundation’s early roots with Ford Motor Corp

Henry Ford (July 30, 1863 - April 7, 1947) was an American industrialist, business magnate, founder of the Ford Motor Company, and chief developer of the assembly line technique of mass production. By creating the first automobile that middle-class Americans could afford, he converted the automobile from an expensive curiosity into an accessible conveyance that profoundly impacted the landscape of the 20th century.

His introduction of the Ford Model T automobile revolutionized transportation and American industry. As the Ford Motor Company owner, he became one of the richest and best-known people in the world. He is credited with “Fordism”, the mass production of inexpensive goods coupled with high wages for workers. Ford had a global vision, with consumerism as the key to peace. His intense commitment to systematically lowering costs resulted in many technical and business innovations, including a franchise system that put dealerships throughout North America and major cities on six continents. Ford left most of his vast wealth to the Ford Foundation and arranged for his family to permanently control it.

Ford was also widely known for his pacifism during the first years of World War I, and for promoting antisemitic content, including The Protocols of the Elders of Zion, through his newspaper The Dearborn Independent, and the book The International Jew. [thus is likely to have followed or studied or particpated in works or acts of Eugenics during Eugenics high point in history.)

Early life

Henry Ford was born July 30, 1863, on a farm in Springwells Township, Michigan.[1] His father, William Ford (1826-1905), was born in County Cork, Ireland, to a family that had emigrated from Somerset, England in the 16th century.[2] His mother, Mary Ford (née Litogot; 1839-1876), was born in Michigan as the youngest child of Belgian immigrants; her parents died when she was a child and she was adopted by neighbors, the O'Herns. Henry Ford's siblings were Margaret Ford (1867-1938); Jane Ford (c. 1868-1945); William Ford (1871-1917) and Robert Ford (1873-1934).

His father gave him a pocket watch in his early teens. At 15, Ford dismantled and reassembled the timepieces of friends and neighbors dozens of times, gaining the reputation of a watch repairman.[3] At twenty, Ford walked four miles to their Episcopal church every Sunday.

Ford was devastated when his mother died in 1876. His father expected him to take over the family farm eventually, but he despised farm work. He later wrote, "I never had any particular love for the farm-it was the mother on the farm I loved."

In 1879, Ford left home to work as an apprentice machinist in Detroit, first with James F. Flower & Bros., and later with the Detroit Dry Dock Co. In 1882, he returned to Dearborn to work on the family farm, where he became adept at operating the Westinghouse portable steam engine. He was later hired by Westinghouse to service their steam engines. During this period, Ford also studied bookkeeping at Goldsmith, Bryant & Stratton Business College in Detroit.

Marriage and family

Ford married Clara Jane Bryant (1866-1950) on April 11, 1888, and supported himself by farming and running a sawmill.[8] They had one child, Edsel Ford (1893-1943).

Career

In 1891, Ford became an engineer with the Edison Illuminating Company of Detroit. After his promotion to Chief Engineer in 1893, he had enough time and money to devote attention to his experiments on gasoline engines. These experiments culminated in 1896 with the completion of a self-propelled vehicle, which he named the Ford Quadricycle. He test-drove it on June 4. After various test drives, Ford brainstormed ways to improve the Quadricycle.

Also in 1896, Ford attended a meeting of Edison executives, where he was introduced to Thomas Edison. Edison approved of Ford's automobile experimentation. Encouraged by Edison, Ford designed and built a second vehicle, completing it in 1898.[11] Backed by the capital of Detroit lumber baron William H. Murphy, Ford resigned from the Edison Company and founded the Detroit Automobile Company on August 5, 1899.[11] However, the automobiles produced were of a lower quality and higher price than Ford wanted. Ultimately, the company was not successful and was dissolved in January 1901.

With the help of C. Harold Wills, Ford designed, built, and successfully raced a 26-horsepower automobile in October 1901. With this success, Murphy and other stockholders in the Detroit Automobile Company formed the Henry Ford Company on November 30, 1901, with Ford as chief engineer.[11] In 1902, Murphy brought in Henry M. Leland as a consultant; Ford, in response, left the company bearing his name. With Ford gone, Leland renamed the company the Cadillac Automobile Company.

Teaming up with former racing cyclist Tom Cooper, Ford also produced the 80+ horsepower racer "999," which Barney Oldfield was to drive to victory in a race in October 1902. Ford received the backing of an old acquaintance, Alexander Y. Malcomson, a Detroit-area coal dealer.[11] They formed a partnership, “Ford & Malcomson, Ltd.” to manufacture automobiles. Ford went to work designing an inexpensive automobile, and the duo leased a factory and contracted with a machine shop owned by John and Horace E. Dodge to supply over $160,000 in parts.[11] Sales were slow, and a crisis arose when the Dodge brothers demanded payment for their first shipment.

Ford Motor Company

Henry Ford with Thomas Edison and Harvey Firestone. Fort Myers, Florida, February 11, 1929. In response, Malcomson brought in another group of investors and convinced the Dodge Brothers to accept a portion of the new company.[11] Ford & Malcomson was reincorporated as the Ford Motor Company on June 16, 1903,[11] with $28,000 capital. The original investors included Ford and Malcomson, the Dodge brothers, Malcomson’s uncle John S. Gray, Malcolmson’s secretary James Couzens, and two of Malcomson’s lawyers, John W. Anderson and Horace Rackham. Because of Ford’s volatility, Gray was elected president of the company. Ford then demonstrated a newly designed car on the ice of Lake St. Clair, driving 1 mile (1.6 km) in 39.4 seconds and setting a new land speed record at 91.3 miles per hour (146.9 kilometres per hour). Convinced by this success, race driver Barney Oldfield, who named this new Ford model “999” in honor of the fastest locomotive of the day, took the car around the country, making the Ford brand known throughout the United States. Ford also was one of the early backers of the Indianapolis 500.

Model T

The Model T debuted on October 1, 1908. It had the steering wheel on the left, which every other company soon copied. The entire engine and transmission were enclosed; the four cylinders were cast in a solid block; the suspension used two semi-elliptic springs. The car was very simple to drive, and easy and cheap to repair. It was so cheap at $825 in 1908 ($23,760 today), with the price falling every year, that by the 1920s, a majority of American drivers had learned to drive on the Model T, despite the fact that drivers who were only familiar with the Model T's unique foot-operated planetary transmission and steering-column operated throttle-cum-accelerator had to learn a completely different set of skills to drive any other gasoline-powered automobile of the time.

Ford created a huge publicity machine in Detroit to ensure every newspaper carried stories and ads about the new product. Ford's network of local dealers made the car ubiquitous in almost every city in North America. As independent dealers, the franchises grew rich and publicized not just the Ford but also the concept of automobiling; local motor clubs sprang up to help new drivers and encourage them to explore the countryside. Ford was always eager to sell to farmers, who looked at the vehicle as a commercial device to help their business. Sales skyrocketed-several years posted 100% gains on the previous year. In 1913, Ford introduced moving assembly belts into his plants, which enabled an enormous increase in production. Although Ford is often credited with the idea, contemporary sources indicate that the concept and development came from employees Clarence Avery, Peter E. Martin, Charles E. Sorensen, and C. Harold Wills.[14] (See Ford Piquette Avenue Plant)

Sales passed 250,000 in 1914. By 1916, as the price dropped to $360 for the basic touring car, sales reached 472,000.

By 1918, half of all cars in the United States were Model Ts. All new cars were black; as Ford wrote in his autobiography, “Any customer can have a car painted any color that he wants so long as it is black.”[16] Until the development of the assembly line, which mandated black because of its quicker drying time, Model Ts were available in other colors, including red. The design was fervently promoted and defended by Ford, and production continued as late as 1927; the final total production was 15,007,034. This record stood for the next 45 years, and was achieved in 19 years from the introduction of the first Model T (1908).

Ford Foundation retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The Ford Foundation is an American private foundation with the stated goal of advancing human welfare [improper synthesis?] Created in 1936 by Edsel Ford and his father Henry Ford, it was originally funded by a US$25,000 gift from Edsel Ford. By 1947, after the death of the two founders, the foundation owned 90% of the non-voting shares of the Ford Motor Company. (The Ford family retained the voting shares.[8]) Between 1955 and 1974, the foundation sold its Ford Motor Company holdings and now plays no role in the automobile company.

Ahead of the foundation selling its Ford Motor Company holdings, in 1949, Henry Ford II created the Ford Motor Company Fund, a separate corporate foundation that to this day serves as the philanthropic arm of the Ford Motor Company and is not associated with the foundation.

The Ford Foundation makes grants through its headquarters and ten international field offices.[9] For many years, the foundation's financial endowment was the largest private endowment in the world; it remains among the wealthiest. For fiscal year 2014, it reported assets of US$12.4 billion and approved US$507.9 million in grants.[2][10] According to the OECD, the Ford Foundation provided US$194 million for development in 2019, all of which related to its grant-making activities.

After its establishment in 1936, Ford Foundation shifted its focus from Michigan philanthropic support to five areas of action. In the 1950 Report of the Study of the Ford Foundation on Policy and Program, the trustees set forth five "areas of action," according to Richard Magat (2012): economic improvements, education, freedom and democracy, human behavior, and world peace.[12] These areas of action were identified in a 1949 report by Horace Rowan Gaither.[13][14]

Since the middle of the 20th century, many of the Ford Foundation's programs have focused on increased under-represented or "minority" group representation in education, science and policy-making. For over eight decades their mission decisively advocates and supports the reduction of poverty and injustice among other values including the maintenance of democratic values, promoting engagement with other nations, and sustaining human progress and achievement at home and abroad.

The Ford Foundation is one of the primary foundations offering grants that support and maintain diversity in higher education with fellowships for pre-doctoral, dissertation, and post-doctoral scholarship to increase diverse representation among Native Americans, African Americans, Latin Americans, and other under-represented Asian and Latino sub-groups throughout the U.S. academic labor market.[15][16] The outcomes of scholarship by its grantees from the late 20th century through the 21st century have contributed to substantial data and scholarship including national surveys such as the Nelson Diversity Surveys in STEM.

Sheldon Gary Adelson (August 4, 1933 - January 11,

He was the founder, chairman and chief executive officer of Las Vegas Sands Corporation, which owns the Marina Bay Sands in Singapore, and the parent company of Venetian Macao Limited, which operates The Venetian Las Vegas and the Sands Expo and Convention Center. He owned the Israeli daily newspaper Israel Hayom, the Israeli weekly newspaper Makor Rishon, and the American daily newspaper the Las Vegas Review-Journal.

Adelson created the Adelson Foundation in 2007, a private charity focusing on healthcare and support of Israel and the Jewish people. He was a major contributor to Republican Party candidates and was often dubbed a “kingmaker” due to the size and frequency of his donations. He and his wife Miriam Adelson were Donald Trump’s largest donors, providing the largest donation to Trump’s 2016 campaign, his presidential inauguration, his defense fund against the Mueller investigation into Russian interference, and the 2020 campaign. He was also a major backer of Israel’s prime minister Benjamin Netanyahu.

As of September 2020, Adelson was listed by Forbes as having a fortune of US$33.5 billion,[19] making him the 28th-richest person in the world and 19th in the Forbes 400.

Early Life

Adelson was born on August 4, 1933 and grew up in the Dorchester neighborhood of Boston, the son of Sarah (née Tonkin) and Arthur Adelson. He was Jewish. His father’s family was of Ukrainian Jewish and Lithuanian Jewish ancestry. His mother immigrated from England, and Adelson said that his grandfather was a Welsh coal miner.[24] His father was a taxi driver, and his mother ran a knitting shop.

He began his business career at the age of 12 when he borrowed $200 from his uncle (equivalent to $2,875 in 2020) and purchased a license to sell newspapers in Boston. In 1948, at the age of 15, he borrowed $10,000 (equivalent to $107,715 in 2020) from his uncle to start a candy vending-machine business. He attended the City College of New York, but did not graduate. He attended trade school in a failed attempt to become a court reporter, then joined the army.

After being discharged from the army, he established a business selling toiletry kits, then started another business, De-Ice-It, which marketed a chemical spray that cleared ice from windshields.[29] In the 1960s, he started a charter tour business.[30] He soon became a millionaire, although by his thirties he had built and lost his fortune twice. Over the course of his business career, Adelson created almost 50 businesses, making him a serial entrepreneur.

Politics

In February 2012, Adelson told Forbes magazine that he was “against very wealthy people attempting to or influencing elections. But as long as it’s doable I’m going to do it. Because I know that guys like Soros have been doing it for years, if not decades. And they stay below the radar by creating a network of corporations to funnel their money. I have my own philosophy and I’m not ashamed of it. I gave the money because there is no other legal way to do it. I don’t want to go through ten different corporations to hide my name. I’m proud of what I do and I’m not looking to escape recognition.”

In 2005, Adelson and his wife each contributed $250,000 to the second inauguration of George W. Bush.

[80][81][82] President George W. Bush appointed the Adelsons to serve on the Honorary Delegation to accompany him to Jerusalem for the celebration of the 60th anniversary of the State of Israel in May 2008.

Adelson was the principal financial backer of Freedom's Watch, a now-defunct political advocacy group founded to counter the influence of George Soros and Democratic-leaning lobby groups such as MoveOn.org. "Almost all" of the $30 million Freedom's Watch spent on the 2008 elections came from Adelson.

In 2010, Adelson donated $1 million to American Solutions for Winning the Future, a political action committee (PAC) supporting Republican former Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich.[85] In December 2011, during Gingrich's bid for the U.S. presidency, Adelson spoke favorably of controversial remarks Gingrich had made about Palestinians, saying "read the history of those who call themselves Palestinians, and you will hear why Gingrich said recently that the Palestinians are an invented people."[86] Adelson donated to U.S. Senate and House of Representatives candidates.

During the 2012 Republican Party presidential primaries, Adelson first supported Newt Gingrich and then the eventual nominee Mitt Romney.[88] Altogether he spent $92 million supporting losing candidates during the 2012 United States presidential election cycle.

On January 7, 2012, Adelson bolstered Gingrich's then-faltering campaign with a $5-million donation to the pro-Gingrich super PAC Winning Our Future. By the next day, the super PAC had reserved more than $3.4 million in advertising time in the South Carolina primary, which included production and distribution of a half-hour movie that portrayed Gingrich's political rival Mitt Romney as a "predatory corporate raider". On January 23, Adelson's wife, Miriam, contributed an additional $5 million to the same organization with instructions to use it to advance a “pro-Newt message”. Adelson told Forbes that he was willing to donate as much as $100 million to Gingrich. He also donated $5 million to the right-leaning[95] super PAC Congressional Leadership Fund and over $60,000 to the Republican National Committee.

In June 2012, Adelson donated $10 million to the pro-Romney PAC Restore Our Future.[98] In July, Adelson attended a Romney fundraiser held in Jerusalem.[99] Adelson joined Woody Johnson, John Rakolta, Paul Singer, and several dozen other contributors on the trip.[100] According to Bloomberg Businessweek, as of July Adelson had given Republicans more than $30 million for the 2012 election cycle.

Romney believed that the People’s Republic of China should have been pressured to drop its presumptively low fixed exchange rate policy; according to Bloomberg, Adelson would have benefitted financially in U.S. dollar terms through his interest in Chinese casinos if the Chinese yuan were to have appreciated.

Early in 2014, Adelson donated $2.5 million to the Drug Free Florida Committee, the political committee trying to defeat Florida’s Right to Medical Marijuana Initiative which would legalize medical cannabis in that state. Later in 2014, Adelson donated an additional $1.5 million to the No On 2 campaign. He believed that cannabis is a gateway drug.

According to a 2014 Washington Post report, Adelson’s strategy for the 2016 United States presidential election was to support a mainstream candidate capable of winning the presidency. In March 2014 Adelson was set to hold one-on-one chats with possible candidates Jeb Bush, Chris Christie, Scott Walker, and John Kasich during the spring meeting of the Republican Jewish Coalition held at Adelson's hotel and casino The Venetian Las Vegas.[89] During the December 2015 Republican debate held at that same venue, Adelson held one-on-one meetings with several of the candidates prior to the start of the debate, including front runner Donald Trump. The bidding to become Adelson's favorite, and ultimately receive tens of millions in financial support, was informally called "The Adelson Primary".[105][106] On May 13, 2016, he endorsed Trump for president, and pledged as much as $100 million to support his campaign.[108] Adelson was later described as a Trump partisan.

On September 23, 2016, Adelson announced a $25 million donation to Trump's presidential campaign, as part of a $65 million donation to the Republican electoral campaign for 2016. This rendered Adelson by far the biggest donor in either party (Republicans or Democrats) in the 2016 election cycle.[13] It also makes him by far the largest donor to Donald Trump's White House bid.[13] Adelson was the largest donor to Trump's inaugural celebrations, with a $5 million donation to the celebrations.

Not to be confused with Panama Papers or Pandora Papers.

The Paradise Papers are a set of over 13.4 million confidential electronic documents relating to offshore investments that were leaked to the German reporters Frederik Obermaier and Bastian Obermayer, from the newspaper Süddeutsche Zeitung. The newspaper shared them with the International Consortium of Investigative Journalists, and a network of more than 380 journalists. Some of the details were made public on 5 November 2017 and stories are still being released.

The documents originate from the legal firm Appleby, the corporate services providers Estera and Asiaciti Trust, and business registries in 19 tax jurisdictions. They contain the names of more than 120,000 people and companies. Among those whose financial affairs are mentioned are, separately, AIG, Prince Charles and Queen Elizabeth II, President of Colombia Juan Manuel Santos, and U.S. Secretary of Commerce Wilbur Ross.

The released information resulted in scandal, litigation, and loss of position for some of the named, as well as litigation against the media and journalists who published the papers.

Wilbur Louis Ross Jr. (born November 28, 1937) is an American businessman who served as the 39th United States secretary of commerce from 2017 to 2021. A member of the Republican Party, Ross was previously chairman and chief executive officer (CEO) of WL Ross & Co from 2000 to 2017.

Before founding WL Ross & Co, Ross ran the bankruptcy restructuring practice at N M Rothschild & Sons in New York beginning in the late 1970s. In April 2000, Ross left Rothschild to found WL Ross & Co. Ross was a banker known for acquiring and restructuring failed companies in industries such as steel, coal, telecommunications, and textiles, later selling them for a profit after operations improved, a record that had earned him the moniker “King of Bankruptcy”.[1] Ross has been chairman or lead director of more than 100 companies operating in more than 20 different countries.

Rothschild & Co is a multinational investment bank and financial services company, and the flagship of the Rothschild banking group controlled by the French and British branches of the Rothschild family.

The banking business of the firm covers the areas of investment banking, restructuring, corporate banking, private equity, asset management, and private banking. It is also known to serve as the advisor and lender to governments and major corporations. In addition, the firm has its own investment account in private equity.

Rothschild's financial advisory division is known to serve British nobility, including the British Royal Family. Past chairman Sir Evelyn de Rothschild is the personal financial advisor of Queen Elizabeth II, and she knighted him in 1989 for his services to banking and finance.

Named by Bloomberg Markets as one of the 50 most influential people in global finance, Ross was previously an adviser to New York City mayor Rudy Giuliani on privatization, and was appointed by President Bill Clinton to the board of The U.S. Russia Investment Fund.

On November 30, 2016, then-President-elect Donald Trump announced that he would nominate Ross to become the U.S. secretary of commerce. On February 27, 2017, the Senate confirmed him in a 72-27 vote. He was sworn into office on February 28, 2017; at age 79, he was the oldest first-time Cabinet appointee in U.S. history.

Propaganda Due retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here Propaganda Due (Italian pronunciation: [propaˈɡanda ˈduːe]; (P2) was a Masonic lodge under the Grand Orient of Italy, founded in 1877. Its Masonic charter was withdrawn in 1976, and it transformed into a clandestine, pseudo-Masonic, ultraright[1][2][3] organization operating in contravention of Article 18 of the Constitution of Italy that banned secret associations.

P2 was sometimes referred to as a “state within a state”[5] or a “shadow government”.[6] The lodge had among its members prominent journalists, members of parliament, industrialists, and military leaders-including Silvio Berlusconi, who later became Prime Minister of Italy; the Savoy pretender to the Italian throne Victor Emmanuel;[7] and the heads of all three Italian intelligence services (at the time SISDE, SISMI and CESIS).

Discovery

The activities of the P2 lodge were discovered by prosecutors while investigating banker Michele Sindona, the collapse of his bank and his ties to the Mafia.[14] In March 1981, police found a list of alleged members in Gelli’s house in Arezzo. It contained 962 names, among which were important state officials, important politicians and a number of military officers, including the heads of the three Italian secret services.[11] Future Italian prime minister Silvio Berlusconi was on the list, although he had not yet entered politics at the time. Another famous member was Victor Emmanuel, the son of the last Italian king.

Possibly a rotten Aroma

P2 became the target of considerable attention in the wake of the collapse of Banco Ambrosiano (one of Milan’s principal banks, owned in part by the Vatican Bank), and the suspicious 1982 death of its president Roberto Calvi in London, initially ruled a suicide but later prosecuted as a murder. It was suspected by investigative journalists that some of the plundered funds went to P2 or to its members.

Notable people on a list Gelli kept

Expulsion

The Grand Orient of Italy officially expelled Gelli and the P2 Lodge* in 1976. [13] In 1974 it was proposed that P2 be erased from the list of lodges by the Grand Orient of Italy, and the motion carried overwhelmingly. The following year a warrant was issued by the Grand Master for a new P2 lodge. It seems the Grand Orient in 1976 had only suspended, and not actually expelled, the lodge on Gelli's request. Gelli was found to be active in the Grand Orient's national affairs two years later, financing the election of a new Grand Master. In 1981 a Masonic tribunal decided that the 1974 vote did mean the lodge had factually ceased to exist and that Gelli's lodge had therefore been (Masonically and politically) illegal since that time.[10]

Propaganda By Consolidation of Media

When searching Licio Gelli's villa in 1982, police found a document entitled "Plan for Democratic Rebirth", which called for a consolidation of the media, suppression of trade unions, and the rewriting of the Italian Constitution.[8]

> Concentration of media ownership (also known as media consolidation or media convergence) is a process whereby progressively fewer individuals or organizations control increasing shares of the mass media.[1] Contemporary research demonstrates increasing levels of consolidation, with many media industries already highly concentrated and dominated by a very small number of firms.[2][3]

> Globally, large media conglomerates include Bertelsmann, National Amusements (ViacomCBS), Sony Corporation, News Corp, Comcast, The Walt Disney Company, AT&T Inc., Fox Corporation, Hearst Communications, MGM Holdings Inc., Grupo Globo (South America), and Lagardère Group.[4][5][6]

I have come to realize my answer in Citizens United was correct but the question I was answering was incorrect.

It is not necessary or even possible for any wave in storm surge to have a cognitive understanding of the entirety of the surge. Even as a non-sentient element it is only formed of its context which is only a repeated element containing nor more or less information than other elements like it formed before and after.

I doubt the whole story is available to all of the JFK assassination and mass murder since and outing the entirety of the existence of the storm surge, visible but not explained is what I hope to do (rather than be drowned by it) and based on my February 20 November 18 Dec 13 birth and all the stories from inside my family on both my mothers and fathers side and my having FOXP2 I think I am best able to bring all the waves and those around the storm surge too an understanding of it.

COINTELPRO - Wetworks - Subversioin, Legal and Psychiatric System Harassment via Gang Stalk Espionage Units

Here are some of the tactics used by CointelPro, most of which I have experienced. This occurs in broad daylight, inside the prison system, inside the ABA, inside psychiatric hospitals. These covert operations I and those I know have been subjected to will be described in my later false arrests and detentions.

“According to Brian Glick, in War at Home, COINTELPRO used a broad array of methods, including:”

1. Infiltration:

   Agents and informers did not merely spy on political activists. Their main purpose was to discredit and disrupt. Their very presence served to undermine trust and scare off potential supporters. The FBI and police exploited this fear to smear genuine activists as agents.

2. Psychological Warfare From the Outside:

   The FBI and police used myriad other “dirty tricks” to undermine progressive movements. They planted false media stories and published bogus leaflets and other publications in the name of targeted groups. They forged correspondence, sent anonymous letters, and made anonymous telephone calls. They spread misinformation about meetings and events, set up pseudo movement groups run by government agents, and manipulated or strong-armed parents, employers, landlords, school officials and others to cause trouble for activists.

3. Harassment Through the Legal System:

The FBI and police abused the legal system to harass dissidents and make them appear to be criminals. Officers of the law gave perjured testimony and presented fabricated evidence as a pretext for false arrests and wrongful imprisonment. They discriminatorily enforced tax laws and other government regulations and used conspicuous surveillance, 'investigative' interviews, and grand jury subpoenas in an effort to intimidate activists and silence their supporters.

4. Extralegal Force and Violence:

The FBI and police threatened, instigated, and themselves conducted break-ins, vandalism, assaults, and beatings. The object was to frighten dissidents and disrupt their movements. In the case of radical Black and Puerto Rican activists (and later Native Americans), these attacks-including political assassinations-were so extensive, vicious, and calculated that they can accurately be termed a form of official 'terrorism.'".The FBI also conducted "black bag jobs", warrant-less surreptitious entries, against the targeted groups and their members.

Source: COINTELPRO - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

> From its inception, the FBI has operated on the doctrine that the “preliminary stages of organization and preparation” must be frustrated, well before there is any clear and present danger of “revolutionary radicalism.”

> At its most extreme dimension, political dissidents have been eliminated outright or sent to prison for the rest of their lives. There are quite a number of individuals who have been handled in that fashion. Many more, however, were “neutralized” by intimidation, harassment, discrediting, snitch jacketing, a whole assortment of authoritarian and illegal tactics.

Missouri University of Science and Technology

Founded in 1870 as Missouri School of Mines, Missouri University of Science and Technology primarily educated mining engineers and surveyors. The campus really started to grow right after World War II. As the need for engineers and scientists grew, so did the university. The campus evolved into a world-class technological research university, one that was making an impact beyond the state and nation.

In 1964, the institution's name was changed to the University of Missouri-Rolla. UMR was the technology flagship of the four-campus University of Missouri System.

Then, in 2008, the name officially became Missouri University of Science and Technology. As a technological research university, Missouri S&T is a member of a small but elite group of American institutions that distinguish themselves by having a mission-based commitment to improving the world through the study and application of advanced sciences and technology.

There are 16 technological research universities in the nation, including MIT, Caltech, Missouri S&T, Rensselaer, Georgia Tech and the Colorado School of Mines. Many of these institutions complement their technological strengths by offering good programs in humanities, liberal arts and social sciences. Missouri S&T is admired around the world for preparing students and creating research that solves the problems of a technological society.

It is my belief the Masons have already tampered with history in rescues from the Nazis of Kutscheras, my mother being one of them, who were loving people and great leaders and the Masons used those genes for themselves, and in fact my father likely a Windsor out of wedlock son of King Edward VIII married a Von Trapp daughter.

My mother was Glorian Gainey in the US until Festus Gainey died when she was 9 then she was adopted in a Dupont employed family of the Dews.

My father married her and she became Glorian Donegan. Her December birthday and ovum used by the Illuminati and others are now shunned as Psycho, retarded, and worthless, and her

But I also stated the less obvious, that part of that history was Illuminati run underground railroads and Illuminati MKULTRA history including animal husbandry under Sidney Gottlieb with “stolen” DNA from Glorian Donegan, likely descended from the Windsors and Kutscheras, and others like her (Victoria Windsor, genealogy researcher) and myself, her son Edward Paul Donegan, are now subject to Espionage wrongdoing by those who like Donald Barr, William Barr (Attorney General) and others who were part of earlier MKULTRA wrongdoing and are now in recoup.

The power of these cronies include Press allies in the operation who will not call out the operation.

Colin Powell/ Alma Powell (speech therapy 1961 Boston,) Catholic Charities, Bankruptcy Court, and others in that building seem to continue claims to my DNA, and claim the right to “protect” me from women or women from me, and I believe this Espionage capability wishes my genomic family line not perpetuate at all or does under claims others DO have a right to my DNA when in fact those permissions are after the fact and on planted evidence basis, but it is socially supported Deep State fraud, including by the media and government officials tied to the long espionage history of this.

Flagrant wrongdoing which could only be sustained under Cronyism and the history of that Cronyism

Where does the phrase “crazy like a fox” originate?
Quote retrieved from English Stack Exchange and copied or modified to here

If you say that someone is “crazy like a fox”, it means that their behavior appears to be insane or nonsensical at first glance, but there’s actually something very clever and subtle to it that’s working toward their interests in unexpected ways.

> It will be remembered that one old negro was interviewed who came to town with his clothing torn, claiming that he had been attacked by a pack of foxes that attempted to swallow him. [The man] said that they all appeared to be “crazy een de head,” but that he had valiantly dispersed the company with the help of an axe.
>
> Another old African was found who said he was riding his mule along the road when suddenly he was set upon by several foxes, who made him dismount, and then they rode off on his mule, leaving him to “foot it.” …
>
> Quite a number of gentlemen of undoubted veracity were seen who said that there was no doubt of the existence of mania of some sort among the foxes. …

Christine Ammer, The American Heritage Dictionary of Idioms (1997) has this entry for “crazy like a fox”:

> crazy like a fox Seemingly foolish but actually very shrewd and cunning [Example omitted.] This usage gained currency when humorist S.J. Perelman used it as the title of a book (1944). {Early 1900s}

“Crazy like a fox.”

- Crazy: Though you rented in Austin, passed credit check, packed for months, you can not move in because the apartment has pests, you can not move in because though the lease started you are not allowed into the apartment, the Hurricane made you day late.

- Shrewd: Property stolen from my Corpus Christi apartment including a Bay Bridge painting once used OUTSIDE my apartment and bedding were moved int the apartment without me and an impersonator of with that property of mine was evicted, all behind my back and denies it happened to my face.

- Shrewd: On the phoney pretext they are blocking me from harming children they are harming me by roadblocking normal Austin life for me.

An impersonator of me “caught” by a Dominatrix (whle examining an electronic pron folder) will “punish” these people for the rights to me DNA

The Domina will or may be shown that I was in the area of the photo of a minor, and thus will punish me by blackballing me. Even if she knows the entirety is a scam, at least get back at a White Supremacist in this way as she has been invited to.

More on USA Institutions

Fights have been picked on me in the streets as these very Master Bators threaten me for what they are doing, creating their cover-story they are NOT doing it and also transferring both blame and the likelihood of arrest to me.

Adding the the appearance of my guilt of photographing buttock is that one of two overlapping (goat and scapegoat) phenomenon will occur.

- I will have normal smart-phone usage which is not in any misconduct such as listening to music in the gym, running on the Sea Wall working on my health, reading a book on Google Books or Kindle, checking an inbound text message, or just pressing the Play button when for some reason the music paused out of the blue (actually by remove hack of some type tied to the CDMA chip.)

- At the same time my legitimate use of the phone is underway someone near me is misjudging their phone in the same exact area I am or was in.

What the press is providing cover for rather than outing this other cell phone/camera usage is being used to shake down my trust fund and blame me.

The press actively and flagrantly rejects my assertions in this matter and explicitly (or by clumsy incompetence in cover up) recognize this as a fraud against me that is underway but they share the goals and outcome wishes achieved by the fraud, even explicitly acknowledging that it is illegal and fraudulent.

This book is written by me over a period of years of exactly this victimization, flagrantly false, and my decades of this trying to find the true cause of this, the shrewd plot under this, while I have absorbed the harm of this without available remedy.

The affect of this is I have deep rage for the Espionage attack on my, me life, my reproductivity in the substance of what has done, as a matter of process, that it thrives in the USA and thus my negative feelings for, about, the USA and its institutions.

The shrewdness under this is the Power in the USA has something to hide and Espionage against me achieves that.

I have exhausted logical and law abiding means against this without any success against a self serving intransigence of institutions of power committed to the illegality of this operation, crony support of the Bunker still operating from the 1920s into 1945 into 1961-1963, and since 700 AD, Christianity and Evangelism.

Salvation Army, Catholic Charities, Baptist Chruch, Methodists, and likely others tied into MKUTLRA history including Anglicans likely need the excuse for my DNA rights and blaming a Heathen as OWING my DNA to religions is part of their system.

Madelyn Lee Payne Dunham (/ˈdʌnəm/ DUN-əm; October 26, 1922[1] - November 2, 2008) was the American maternal grandmother of Barack Obama, the 44th President of the United States. She and her husband Stanley Armour Dunham raised Obama from age ten in their Honolulu, Hawaii, apartment, where on November 2, 2008, she died[2] two days before her grandson was elected President.

Their daugher, Stanly Ann Dunham (alleged white mother of Barack Obama)

Alleged white Seattle mother of Barack Obama (CIA, USAID, Peace Corps, East West foundation activities)

Said to be Obama white mother Stanley Ann Dunham (November 29, 1942 November 7, 1995) was an American anthropologist who specialized in the economic anthropology and rural development of Indonesia.[1] She was the mother of Barack Obama, the 44th President of the United States. Dunham was known as Stanley Ann Dunham through high school, then as Ann Dunham, Ann Obama, Ann Soetoro, Ann Sutoro and finally after her second divorce as Ann Dunham.[2]

Born in Wichita, Kansas, Dunham studied at the East-West Center and at the University of Hawaii at Mano in Honolulu, where she attained a bachelor of arts degree in anthropology (1967),[3] and later received master of arts (1974) and PhD

(1992) degrees, also in anthropology.[4] She also attended University of Washington at Seattle in 1961-1962. Interested in craftsmanship, weaving, and the role of women in cottage industries, Dunham's research focused on women's work on the island of Java and blacksmithing in Indonesia.

To address the problem of poverty in rural villages, she created microcredit programs while working as a consultant for the United States Agency for International Development. Dunham was also employed by the Ford Foundation in Jakarta and she consulted with the Asian Development Bank in Gujranwala, Pakistan. Towards the latter part of her life, she worked with Bank Rakyat Indonesia, where she helped apply her research to the largest microfinance program in the world. [4]

And Obama confessed to this Pakastanit trip two weeks after his passport was tampered with. There is a video here of Obama's response to the passport breach back on March 21, 2008. It's telling that he assures everyone that he has nothing to hide: "not because I have any particular concerns" (0:23). This is before the birth certificate controversy. Who would say that - unless he did have particular concerns?

Obama said at the time that attempts to "tap into people's personal records" were "a problem not just for me, but for how our government functions."

Key witness in passport fraud case fatally shot

A key witness in a federal probe into passport information stolen from the State Department was fatally shot in front of a District church, the Metropolitan Police Department said yesterday.

Lt. Quarles Harris Jr., 24, who had been cooperating with a federal investigators, was found late Thursday night slumped dead inside a car, in front of the Judah House Praise Baptist Church in Northeast, said Cmdr. Michael Anzallo, head of the department's Criminal Investigations Division.

A State Department spokeswoman yesterday declined to comment, saying the investigation into the passport fraud is ongoing.

The Washington Times reported April 5 that contractors for the State Department had improperly accessed passport information for presidential candidates Sens. Hillary Rodham Clinton, Barack Obama and John McCain, which resulted in a series of firings that reached into the agency's top ranks.

One agency employee, who was not identified in documents filed in U.S. District Court, was implicated in a credit-card fraud scheme after Lt. Harris told federal authorities he obtained "passport information from a co-conspirator who works for the U.S. Department of State."

Perhaps Brennan was cleaning up Obama's records. He must have also been the one responsible for accessing Hillary's and McCain's records to get law enforcement off their tracks.

From The American Thinker

Back in March 2008, the State Department launched an investigation of improper computer access to the passport records of Barack Hussein Obama, and days later those of Hillary Clinton and John McCain.

The investigation centered on one employee: a contract worker for a company that was headed by John O. Brennan, a key Obama campaign adviser who later became assistant to the president and deputy national security adviser for Homeland Security and Counter terrorism.

Then, a month later, on Apr. 19, 2008, the key witness, in this case, was murdered. Lieutenant (sic) Quarles Harris, Jr., 24, was shot in the head in his car, in front of Judah House Praise Baptist Church.

> State Department employee pleads guilty to identity theft

Washington Examiner by Scott McCabe 2012 12:00 AM

A former State Department employee has pleaded guilty in an identity theft scheme in which a key witness in the federal probe was gunned down outside a D.C. church, according to court documents and law enforcement officials.

According to prosecutors, from September 2007 to 2008, Quarles worked in the Passport Office, where his job consisted mainly of destroying old passports and passports that had been reported lost or stolen. He got the job as a member of the department's student work program.

No arrests have been made in the 2008 slaying of a co-conspirator in the scam, and D.C. police have said they have no information that the killing is connected to the identity theft scheme.

Twenty-six-year-old Rodney P. Quarles Jr., of Charlotte Hall, Md., a former low-level employee in the Department of State's Bureau of Consular Affairs, admitted in U.S. District Court of D.C. on Friday to a charge of conducting illegal transactions with credit cards. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

But the scheme unraveled in March 2008 during a routine traffic stop of one of the conspirators, a 24-year-old with the unusual name of Lieutenant Quarles Harris Jr.

D.C. police searched Harris' vehicle and found more than dozen ziplock bags containing marijuana.

He arrested possession with intent to distribute.

> During a search of Harris, police found 19 credit cards and eight passport application printouts.

It has been thought by many that John Brennan cleaned up Obama's passport records and then accessed McCain's and Hillary's also to cover the crime. The only witness died in a hail of bullets.

NOTE: Chicago's head of Criminal Investigation Division on the unsolved slaying and bullet to the head has been quiet. There has never been a formal investigation for Donald Young, Choir Master at Trinity United Church of Christ in Chicago. Young was a gay friend of Obama's.

That brings us to Journalist Michael Hastings. At the time of his death in a suspicious car accident, he was in the process of investigating John Brennan.

Do these two deaths tie together? No one knows for sure.

In 1944 Wild Bill Donavan of the OSS (later called the CIA) was in a meeting with the Pope in which he got a Good Works award Grand Cross of the Order of St. Sylvester.

World War II was raging and the alleged inferiority of blacks was the issue along with Jewish and other external influence on the genetically white Europe and these were the headlines of world newspapers and world leaders, not things whispered at water coolers.

Opus Dei had known about “lay miracles” of medicine and genes from The Spanish Influenza, so deadly, and the Grifith Experiments of bacteria transport of genes which could fight the disease.

What was Will Bill Donovan meeting with the Pope about? In 1944 it is discovered social and abstract conduct is tied to the Anterior Temporal Lobe. The brains of all human and in fact of all animals of earth is shared common structure, not very different at even where there is even any difference.

What if there was a genes fix for the ATL issue and the Illuminati could embark on such a plan and there could be a plan to subvert mass murder instincts of angry populations and the wars could end?

This was an experiment wanted by Futurists and the Illuminati on “the so called Negroes” and the 21st Century.

JFK, like myself, the Illuminati, and other futurists saw blacks struggling in Modernity and living on “relief” and the question was could Western Civilization improve their plight for participation in the 21st Century when mathematicians and other PhDs would be needed.

Few knew back then my mother had been a rescued Windsor living in the adoptive family of Herbert in South Carolina U.S. or that the IVFs were likely performed in the Kings Daughters Hospital in Norkfolk Virginia founded in 1961 and also tied to the Windsors, where the Dysgraphia of the Windsor speech impediment also is known.

A willing anthropologist would be needed to carry the IVF of Barack Obama to term in a year or two mere sham marriage and that was Stanly Ann Dunham who also went to University in Futurist Seatle and where John F. Kennedy attended a Futurist Conference.

All of this tied to Boeing in Seattle

This was carried out by Illuminati who had been involved with secret U.S. Government programs like Operation Chatter, Operation Paperclip, Operation Artichoke in MKULTRA begun during WWII using unethical scientists like Sydney Gottlieb.

They are the shared Stegonography between the CIA and the Catholic Church about the “future of so called Negroes.”

America's most driven political figure, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, was about to ride the Monorail back into downtown Seattle when he had a better idea: Play hooky and spend a few hours at the fair.

Trinity marks its beginning on December 3, 1961, when twelve middle-class black families, most of whom were descendants of migrants to Chicago during The Great Migration of African Americans, met for worship in a Chicago elementary school gymnasium. Prior to the recent migration of whites to the suburbs, blacks had found it extremely difficult to move into middle-class surroundings in Chicago due to segregated housing patterns and homeownership discrimination (also see Racial steering). At the time of the 3 December meeting, Chicago’s Halsted Street marked “the color line”.

The Mystery of Robert Knudsen by Jacob G. Hornberger July 6, 2018

His family said that Knudsen was gone for three days.

When he returned home, he told his family that he had photographed the autopsy of President Kennedy. He also told them that he could not provide any further information because he had been sworn to secrecy. Mrs. Knudsen told the ARRB that her husband treated classified information just like the military does - that he would take it to the grave with him without ever revealing it to anyone.

In 1977, a national photography magazine, Popular Photography, published an interview with Knudsen in which he stated that he had photographed the president's autopsy and that it was "the hardest assignment of my life."

No one has ever questioned the integrity, veracity, or competence of Robert Knudsen. He was highly respected, both personally and professionally. It would difficult to find a more credible witness than Robert Knudsen.

There is one big problem, however: Knudsen did not photograph the president's autopsy. The official autopsy photographer was John T. Stringer, a highly respected autopsy photographer for the U.S. Navy who taught photography at the Bethesda Naval Medical School. It is undisputed that Stringer photographed the president's autopsy and that Knudsen wasn't even at the autopsy.

PART II

Barack Obama is a Rothschild, and more Starting with when he was one year old there was some celebration a year after he was seemingly IVFd on Feb 20 1961 and “the story was on page 18.”

These dates will be used by Barack Obama himself during his life such as his first political speech which was at Occidental College Feb 18 1981, his Obama Foundation, and his apparent Windsor Nov 19 picture on the cover of Newsweek, or the official family portraits.

Occidental College was founded on April 20, 1887, by a group of Presbyterian clergy, missionaries, and laymen, including James George Bell, Lyman Stewart, and Thomas Bard.

During World War II, many students left Occidental to fight in the war. In July 1943, the U.S. Navy established a Navy V-12[15] officer training program on campus that produced hundreds of graduates before it was disbanded in 1945 at the end of the war. Occidental President Remsen Bird worked behind the scenes to help Oxy students of Japanese descent continue their education despite mandatory evacuation orders; his letters are included in the Japanese American Relocation Collection in Clapp Library.

After having its first Rhodes Scholar, Clarence Spaulding, named in 1908, Oxy seniors John Paden and Aaron Segal were awarded Rhodes Scholarships in 1958; the first and only time Occidental has produced two Rhodes Scholars in a single year.[17] Rhodes scholars Aaron Segal and John Paden were among the 10 Occidental students who participated in Crossroads Africa (forerunner to the Peace Corp) that year, a forerunner to the Peace Corps that later became a national program.

I had been working very hard in the Spirit, perhaps for eight or nine hours, almost straight, when I drifted off to sleep, but for perhaps only ten or fifteen minutes! When I awoke, I sensed a presence in the room and I "looked" in the Spirit to see two very tall men, one taller than the other! But, they were not only tall! They were huge! They were giants!

I recognized the man, who was on the left, the one, who was dressed in the cream colored suit. He had white hair and light-colored eyes! I immediately saw the huge, brilliant stone on his left "ring" finger and the mass of white hair on his head! I did not pay much attention to the second person, as the first one, the huge giant began to speak to me; for he knew that I could see them both!

The giant said to me, "What do you want from us?"

I replied, "I want nothing from you!"

Then, he said, "But, you have a new DNA and through this new DNA, which is similar to ours, you will be like us!"

Muhammad Speaks was one of the most widely read newspapers ever produced by an African-American organization. It was the official newspaper of the Nation of Islam from 1960 to 1975, founded by a group of Elijah Muhammad’s ministers, including Malcolm X.[2] After Elijah Muhammad’s death in 1975, it was renamed several times after Warith Deen Mohammed moved the Nation of Islam into mainstream Sunni Islam, culminating in The Muslim Journal.[2] A number of rival journals were also published, including The Final Call[3] under Louis Farrakhan, claiming to continue the message of the original.

In 1896, a group of community-spirited women formed the Norfolk City Union of The King’s Daughters to provide medical care for indigent mothers and their children. They established a free clinic and visiting nurse service and in 1961 built The King's Daughters' Children's Hospital, with 88 beds and a variety of services. In 1979, the name was changed to Children's Hospital of The King's Daughters.

1962 excerpted from Wikipedia links

The document was presented by the Joint Chiefs of Staff to Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara on 13 March 1962 as a preliminary submission for planning purposes.

The plan was drafted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, signed by Chairman Lyman Lemnitzer and sent to the Secretary of Defense. Although part of the U.S. government's anti-communist Cuban Project, Operation Northwoods was never officially accepted; it was authorized by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but then rejected by President John F. Kennedy.

The previously secret document was originally made public on 18 November 1997, by the John F. Kennedy Assassination Records Review Board,[7] a U.S. federal agency overseeing the release of government records related to John F. Kennedy's assassination.[8][9]

The Cuban Project, also known as Operation Mongoose, was a covert operation of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) that was commissioned in March 1960 during the final year of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration. On November 30, 1961, covert operations against Fidel Castro's government in Cuba were officially authorized by President Kennedy and after being given the name Operation Mongoose at a prior White House meeting on November 4, 1961. The operation was led by United States Air Force General Edward Lansdale and went into effect after the failed Bay of Pigs Invasion.

Operation Mongoose was a secret program against Cuba aimed at removing the Communists from power, which was a prime focus of the Kennedy administration.[1] A document from the United States Department of State confirms that the project aimed to "help Cuba overthrow the Communist regime," including its leader Fidel Castro, and it aimed “for a revolt which can take place in Cuba by October 1962.” US policymakers also wanted to see “a new government with which the United States can live in peace.” [2]

Wallis Simpson (born Bessie Wallis Warfield; 19 June 1896[1] - 24 April 1986), later known as the Duchess of Windsor, was an American socialite whose intended marriage to the British king Edward VIII [Windsor] caused a constitutional crisis that led to Edward’s abdication. Before, during, and after the Second World War, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor were suspected by many in government and society of being Nazi sympathisers. In 1937, they visited Germany and met Adolf Hitler.

Wallis grew up in Baltimore, Maryland. Her father died shortly after her birth and she and her widowed mother were partly supported by their wealthier relatives. Her first marriage, to U.S. naval officer Win Spencer, was punctuated by periods of separation and eventually ended in divorce.

According to a wedding announcement in the Baltimore Sun (20 November 1895), her parents were married by Reverend C. Ernest Smith at Baltimore’s Saint Michael and All Angels’ Protestant Episcopal Church on 19 November 1895,[8] which suggests she was conceived out of wedlock

In 1940, when he and his wife were in Spain and Portugal, Edward had been in secret contact with the Nazis about looking after their luxury villas in Paris and the South of France. The duchess was most concerned that their bed linens be protected from damage. Even the diplomat brother of Spanish dictator Francisco Franco was horrified by the duke's behavior. "A prince does not ask favours of his country's enemies. To request the handing over of things he could replace or dispense with is not correct."

Donald Ewen Cameron was born in Bridge of Allan, Scotland, the oldest son of a Presbyterian minister. He received an M.B., Ch.B. in psychological medicine at the University of Glasgow in 1924, a D.P.M. from the University of London in 1925, and an M.D. with distinction from the University in 1936.[9]

Cameron began his training in psychiatry at the Glasgow Royal Mental Hospital in 1925. In 1926, he served as assistant medical officer there[10] and was introduced to psychiatrist Sir David Henderson, a student of Swiss-born US psychiatrist Adolf Meyer. He continued his training in the United States under Meyer at the Phipps Clinic, Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland from 1926 to 1928 with a Henderson Research Scholarship. In 1943, the Rockefeller Foundation created the Allen Memorial Institute at McGill University in Montreal. Eugenics- oriented psychiatrist {{Donald Ewen Cameron,}} a Scottish immigrant to the United States, was placed in charge of the institute's psychiatry. Experiments in coercive interrogation and brainwashing would be conducted at Allen Institute under the auspices of the Canadian military, the Rockefeller Foundation, and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Dr. Cameron's "terminal" use of electric shock as a brain-burning torture, psychosurgery, and brainwashing with drugs and hypnosis would make the Canadian program the most famous apsect of the CIA's MK- Ultra *

Although the norms of experimentation and research were different during the time that Cameron was undertaking these treatments, there is evidence that he was aware of the immoral nature of his actions.

Cameron attended the Nuremberg Trials following WWII, which tried German doctors for war crimes committed in concentration camps. Many of the accusations put forward at the trials involved allegations of unethical research on unconsenting subjects within the camps. Cameron was therefore well acquainted the necessity of informed consent in experimentation and research on human subjects. He actively denounced the atrocities committed by the German doctors during the war, and supported the Nuremberg Code, which laid out specific rules about what was legal when conducting human experiments.

Quote retrieved from Haunted Montreal Blog #38 - Ravenscrag and copied or modified to here

Our October edition examines Ravenscrag, one of the world's most frightening house of horrors. Perched on the slopes of Mount Royal, it is the location of deranged brainwashing experiments during the Cold War and may host a secret children's cemetery.

When Sir Hugh Allan's died in 1882 while visiting his son-in-law in Edinburgh, he was one of the richest men in the world with a fortune estimated to be between eight and twelve million pounds.

His is son, Montagu, inherited the regal Ravenscrag mansion. Following Montagu's death in 1940, his wife donated it to McGill University. Ravenscrag was gutted of its lavish interior and transformed into a psychiatric hospital called the Allan Memorial Institute. With funds from the Rockefeller Foundation, Dr. Ewen

According to a report in the McGill Tribune:

> "The upper buildings of the McGill campus, above Dr. Penfield, appear to be the most ghost-ridden of them all …[especially] the Allan Memorial Institute. In the 1950s and '60s, the MKULTRA experiments, partially funded by the CIA, subjected patients to electroshock therapy, sensory deprivation, and lobotomies. Experiments also forced patients to listen to broadcasted messages (either from loud speakers or from under > their pillows), as well as giving them experimental hallucinogenic drugs. Any ghosts trapped in this building will be forever reminded of their tortured pasts." Cameron, the founder of McGill's Psychiatric Department, was appointed its director.

There are also rumours that a secret, haunted children's cemetery exists behind the property, just behind the stone wall. It is at the bottom of a slope that leads up to the Olmsted Road on Mount Royal. This rocky, forested area is popular with psychics and paranormal investigators, and often mysterious people can be seen there at night conducting strange rituals, often involving votive candles. Rumour has it the investigators sometimes hear disembodied children crying. Survivors of horrific brainwashing experiments claim that child victims were secretly buried at this location, out of sight from the public.

The CIA was so impressed with Dr. Cameron's work that these techniques became the core of its torture methodology and were used in Vietnam, and most recently, in Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq and at Guantanamo Bay.

The reason Dr. Cameron was able to carry out such cruel experiments for almost a decade could be explained by the prestige that he enjoyed as a doctor. He was one of North America's most eminent psychiatrists; he had served in the medical tribunal at the Nuremberg trials, and had been the president of the Quebec, Canadian, American and World Psychiatric Associations. Following his cruel and deranged career, Cameron died of a heart attack while mountain climbing with his son on September 8, 1967

“A Dilemma for the Whole World” Linda Newkirk

There, in that room, I see Bill Clinton and the two Bushes, Bush Sr. and Bush Jr. They each have in their hands a wine glass, which is clearly full of blood; and I watch in amazement to see that each one takes his glass and drinks all that is in the glass before him. I see in the eyes of Bill Clinton that he is full of evil spirits; and looking at the faces of the other two, I see that they, too, are full of great and dark evil spirits. Each of them now makes a chant and takes a sword, each one with his own sword; and each one lays his sword across the sword of the other. As they cross their swords, they each say, “Unto death!”

Later that year, Seymour Hersh of the New York Times, published a series of articles claiming that the Central Intelligence Agency had been guilty of illegal activities.

In his memoirs, Ford said that he feared a congressional investigation would result in “unnecessary disclosures” that could “cripple” the CIA. He and his aides quickly decided that he needed to prevent an independent congressional investigation. He therefore appointed Rockefeller to head his own investigation into these allegations.

“The CIA began to make plans for overthrowing Goulart. A psychological warfare program approved by Henry Kissinger, at the request of telecom giant ITT during his chair of the 40 Committee, sent U.S. PSYOPS disinformation teams to spread fabricated rumors concerning Goulart.”

Going back a little to The Bushes!

My Dear Ones, it was on the night of > January 03 of this year, 2007, when I was in a very relaxed state, neither fully awake, nor asleep, that I saw George Bush Senior standing at the foot of my bed. He just looked at me with a cold expression, never saying a word, and then he left. But, quick on his heels came George W. Bush; and he also stood at the foot of my bed, but nearer to the end opposite my head ;and he looked at me for some time, almost fondly so; and I found this absolutely strange.

That night, there was a lot of “roaring” from military craft outside my house as the evil doctors in the U.S. military had come up with another one of their bizarre schemes to wire me up a new way! It is significant to note that January 03 is also a 13, the first month and the third day, a 1 + 3, a significant number for the Satanists! And, on their 13 day, these two evil, Satanists came out to witness the latest scheme to wire me up and to torture me in a new way! But, even so, this scheme failed; and all the praise, the glory and the honor goes to our Father Yahweh; for He is the One, who fights my battles; and He defeats them at every turn!

> I expect that the Bushes have been here many times, but I see only what our Father in Heaven allows me to see and I hear only what He allows me to hear as regards them all!

And, for this, my Dear Ones, I am ever grateful; for I do not wish to hear their foul conversations and listen to their bizarre schemes unless our Father in Heaven chooses to allow it; for they are wicked beyond measure and full of every evil device!

The German Nazi Dream!

It was also about this same time that a dear brother, who has had many prophetic dreams about these works, [Linda Newkirk here describing she] > dreamed that an Austrian (German) Nazi came flying by my house and put one foot out and landed, as a bird might land, but on one foot. Then, immediately after he landed the first time, he flew past again and repeated > what he had just done! I believe that he was seeing the "German" Busches," who are also Nazis; for history shows us that George H.W. Bush's father, Prescott, helped to finance Hitler!

I believe that this dream was given as a confirmation of what I had seen in my own bedroom! For, first came Bush Senior and then Bush Junior; and they put a "foot" down in my house, one after the other!

Linda Newkirk will relate during her dreams, prophecies about some secret thing away in the clouds, that the youngest of the George H.W. and W. family had at one point been threatened to continue the program and did so as most US Presidents do.

Mark and Scott Kelly of the NASA Twins Study

Twins are a valuable source for observation because they allow the study of environmental influence and varying genetic makeup: “identical” or monozygotic (MZ) twins share essentially 100% of their genes, which means that most differences between the twins (such as height, susceptibility to boredom, intelligence, depression, etc.) are due to experiences that one twin has but not the other twin.[1] “Fraternal” or dizygotic (DZ) twins share only about 50% of their genes, the same as any other sibling. Twins also share many aspects of their environment (e.g., uterine environment, parenting style, education, wealth, culture, community) because they are born into the same family. The presence of a given genetic or phenotypic trait in only one member of a pair of twins (called discordance) provides a powerful window into environmental effects on such a trait.

The classical twin design compares the similarity of monozygotic (identical) and dizygotic (fraternal) twins. If identical twins are considerably more similar than fraternal twins (which is found for most traits), this implicates that genes play an important role in these traits. By comparing many hundreds of families with twins, researchers can then understand more about the roles of genetic effects, shared environment, and unique environment in shaping behavior.

Pioneer Fund was incorporated on March 11, 1937 retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Two of the most notable studies funded by Pioneer Fund are the Minnesota Study of Twins Reared Apart[8] and the Texas Adoption Project, which studied the similarities and differences of identical twins and other children adopted into non-biological families.

Research backed by the fund on race and intelligence has generated controversy and criticism, such as the 1994 book The Bell Curve, which drew heavily from Pioneer-funded research. The fund also has ties to eugenics,[9] and has both current and former links to white supremacist groups such as American Renaissance and Mankind Quarterly.

The organization has been described as racist and white supremacist in nature,[1][2][3] and as a hate group by the Southern Poverty Law Center.[4] One of its first projects was to fund the distribution in US churches and schools of a Nazi propaganda film about eugenics.[5]

The first five directors were:

- Wickliffe Preston Draper, the fund's de facto final authority, served on the board of directors from 1937 until 1972. He founded Pioneer Fund after having acquired an interest in the Eugenics movement, which was strengthened by his 1935 visit to Nazi Germany, where he met with the leading eugenicists of the Third Reich who used the inspiration from the American movement as a basis for the Nuremberg Laws. He served in the British army at the beginning of World War I, transferring to the US Army as the Americans entered the war. During World War II he was stationed as an intelligence officer in India.[10] Psychology professor William H. Tucker describes Draper as someone who "aside from his brief periods of military service … never pursued a profession or held a job of any kind."[2] According to a 1960 article in The Nation, an unnamed geneticist said Draper told him he "wished to prove simply that Negroes were inferior."[11] Draper funded advocacy of repatriation of blacks to Africa.[12][13] Draper also made large financial contributions to efforts to oppose the American Civil Rights Movement and the racial desegregation mandated by Brown v. Board of Education, such as $215,000 to the Mississippi State Sovereignty Commission in 1963.[2]

- Harry Laughlin was the director of the Eugenics Record Office at the Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory on Long Island, New York. He served as the president of Pioneer Fund from its inception until 1941. He opposed miscegenation and had proposed a research agenda to assist in the enforcement of Southern "race integrity laws" by developing techniques for identifying the "pass-for-white" person who might "successfully hide all of his black blood".[2] He singled out Jews and fought efforts to allow entry into the United States to Jewish refugees fleeing Nazi Germany.[10] Eleven months after the enactment of the Nuremberg Laws, Laughlin wrote an official at the University of Heidelberg (which had awarded him an honorary doctorate) that the United States and the Third Reich shared "a common understanding of … the practical application" of eugenic principles to "racial endowments and … racial health."[2]

- Frederick Osborn wrote in 1937 that the Nazi Law for the Prevention of Hereditarily Diseased Offspring was "the most exciting experiment that had ever been tried".[14][15] Osborn was the secretary of the American Eugenics Society, which was part of an accepted and active field at the time; the chairman of the Advisory Committee on Selective Service during World War II; and later the deputy US representative to the UN Atomic Energy Commission.

- Malcolm Donald was the Draper family lawyer and trustee of the Draper estate. He was a former editor of the Harvard Law Review and a brigadier general during World War II.

- John Marshall Harlan II, whose firm had done legal work for the Pioneer Fund. He was the only director whose name did not appear on the incorporation papers. He was director of operational analysis for the Eighth Air Force in World War II, and was appointed to the Supreme Court of the United States by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He voted for the decision in Brown v. Board of Education as a member of the Supreme Court and his grandfather was the only dissent in Plessy v. Ferguson, reversed by the decision. He dissented in Swain v. Alabama and Miranda v. Arizona.

The 1937 incorporation documents of the Pioneer Fund list two purposes. The first, modeled on the Nazi Lebensborn breeding program,[16] was aimed at encouraging the propagation of those "descended predominantly from white persons who settled in the original thirteen states prior to the adoption of the Constitution of the United States and/or from related stocks, or to classes of children, the majority of whom are deemed to be so descended". Its second purpose was to support academic research and the "dissemination of information, into the 'problem of heredity and eugenics'" and "the problems of race betterment".[15] The Pioneer Fund argues the "race betterment" has always referred to the "human race" referred to earlier in the sentence, and critics argue it referred to racial groups. The document was amended in 1985 and the phrase changed to “human race betterment.”[17]

The Pioneer Fund supported the distribution of a eugenics film titled Erbkrank (“Hereditary Defective” or “Hereditary Illness”) which was published by the pre-war 1930s Nazi Party. William Draper obtained the film from the predecessor to the Nazi Office of Racial Policy (Rassenpolitisches Amt) prior to the founding of the Pioneer Fund.[2] According to the Pioneer Fund site, all founders capable of doing so participated in the war against the Nazis.[18]

Following Jesse Helms’s 1984 Senate re-election bid, The Washington Post journalists Thomas B. Edsall and David A. Vise reported that both Helms and Thomas F. Ellis were linked to the Pioneer Fund, which was described as having “financed research into ‘racial betterment’ by scientists seeking to prove that blacks are genetically inferior to whites.”[22]:A16 1

Minnesota / Texas Adoption Research Project (MTARP)

Why is MTARP Important?

Since the mid-1970s, adoption practices in the U.S. have changed dramatically, and the confidentiality maintained in the past is no longer the norm. The trend is toward “openness” in adoption, in which contact occurs between the adoptive family and birthparent(s), either directly or mediated (e.g., through an adoption agency). Some adoption professionals argue that fully open adoption should be standard practice, that the secrecy of confidential adoptions has been harmful to all parties involved. Others argue that openness is harmful and experimental. Their view is that confidential adoption worked well, so why change it? Although such professionals hold strong feelings about adoption, almost no research on this topic has been available to guide adoption policy and to answer basic questions about the dynamics of adoptive kinship networks.

The study is significant for a number of reasons:

- National in scope
- Has followed participants for over 25 years
- Involves a sample (720 individuals) much larger than other adoption studies that employ interview methods and home visits
- Includes the full range of adoptive openness, including cases in which contact has stopped, some in which contact continues, and others in which it has increased or decreased over time, allowing for tracking of trajectories of openness over time

- Includes data from adopted persons, adoptive parents, adopted siblings, birth mothers,and relationship partners of young adult persons

- Includes data about adoption agency practices and policies to contextualize the work

- Has significant implications for legal and policy issues concerning adoption in the United States today.

Progress toward such understanding will contribute to better theories about human development within the family, better methodology for studying complex living arrangements, a better knowledge base for prevention and intervention programs, and guidance for the establishment of policies that address the “best interests of the child” in cases of adoption.

Rockefeller was born in New York City, New York, the only child of Arkansas Governor Winthrop Rockefeller (1912-1973) and actress Jievute “Bobo” Paulekiute (1916-2008). His parents separated in 1950 and divorced four years later. His maternal grandparents were Lithuanian.

Rockefeller grew up in both the United States and in Europe and was educated at schools in New York, England, and in Switzerland. He graduated from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Texas with a degree in Ranch Management.

Rockefeller served from 1981 to 1995 on the Arkansas State Police Commission. In 1991, he was appointed by President George H. W. Bush to serve on the President’s Council on Rural America and became chairman of the council. He was a president of the Quapaw Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America and served on the board of directors of the national Scouting organization.

He was elected his state’s lieutenant governor in a November 1996 special election triggered by the resignation of Governor Jim Guy Tucker and the succession to the governorship of then-Lieutenant Governor Mike Huckabee. [I have my limits on

He proposed to her in 1961. In early 1962, they were married in Florida, and she resigned from the airline, which did not allow its stewardesses to be married. Frederick Crist Trump Jr. was born on October 14, 1938, as the first son of wealthy real estate developer Fred Trump and Mary Anne MacLeod Trump in Queens, New York.[1] In 1956 Fred Jr. graduated from St. Paul's School. In that same year his father Fred Sr. donated money to have the playing fields redone and in his honor were renamed Trump Field.[2] Fred Jr. attended Lehigh University and joined a historically Jewish fraternity, Sigma Alpha Mu, even though he was not Jewish.[3] He became president of the fraternity and graduated with a B.A. in business, also completing ROTC and entering the Air National Guard as a second lieutenant.

The Trump children grew up in Queens, eventually moving to a two-story, columned house in Jamaica Estates that looked as if it belonged on a Southern plantation. Freddy took the subway to St. Paul's, an Episcopal high school in Garden City, New York, and his father hoped he would be accepted into the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton Business School. But Fred Jr. didn't get in, and he went instead to Lehigh University in 1956, leaving behind his then-10-year-old brother Donald.

President Donald Trump remembers coming home in the mid-1960s to read reports on the cost of mops and paint as he prepared to work in the family real estate business. He was astonished to find his older brother, Fred Jr., reading aviation books in hopes of fulfilling his dream of being a TWA pilot.

"Come on, Freddy, what are you doing?" Trump has recalled saying to his brother. "You're wasting your time." Their father berated Fred Jr., saying he wanted to be nothing more than "a chauffeur in the sky," a friend said, instead of running the Trump company.

Fred Jr. was wounded. "It was a lot of pressure," said David Miller, a Lehigh University fraternity brother of Fred Jr.'s who became his lawyer. "He did what he could to run away from it."

Fred Trump Jr.'s dream of flying for TWA ended. He descended into alcoholism and died at 42 years old in 1981.

Fred Jr. quickly became one of the most sought-after students at Lehigh, and many fraternities courted him. Despite being raised Presbyterian, he joined a fraternity that historically had been Jewish but was open to people of other faiths. One of the brothers said Fred Jr.'s joining that fraternity, Sigma Alpha Mu, was a declaration of his independence from his father.

The fraternity brothers said they never saw Fred Jr. drink excessively, and they recalled giving him the responsibility of house steward, which involved overseeing the kitchen and some finances. Tall, blond and movie-star handsome, he was considered the campus jokester, arranging stunts and carrying himself as happy-go-lucky and wealthy. They recalled him offering them rides in a sports car, boat and an airplane, which he rented at a local airport.

“Every year he would come to college with a brand-new Corvette,” said fraternity brother Ira Jay Kirschner. “He was a fun-loving person who enjoyed life.”

“He was as far from Donald’s personality as you can get,” said fraternity brother Mel Bergstein.

After graduating from Lehigh in 1960, Trump met a flight attendant named Linda Lee Clapp, and they married in 1962.

The couple lived in New York, where Fred Jr. relented to pressure to go into the family real estate business. It was Fred Jr., one friend said, who came up with the idea of naming a set of highrise apartments near Coney Island as Trump Village, the first time the family name appeared on a development. But he soon got into fights with his father over seemingly mundane decisions, such as how much to spend on windows.

Donald, who had been sent to military school to have discipline instilled in him, was about to attend Fordham University. It was in this period that Fred Trump Sr. and Donald Trump chastised Fred Trump Jr. for not wanting to be involved in the family business.

Fred Jr. saw flying as an honourable profession, his friends said. He applied to be trained as a pilot for TWA and passed a rigorous set of requirements to enrol in a 1964 class of about a dozen students. He flew for a number of months as a secondary pilot.

"What he loved doing was flying airplanes," Donald Trump said. "I remember being at the house and other pilots from TWA would come to the house and they'd come to work with Fred because he was a very natural talent."

Three pilots who trained with Fred Jr. said in interviews that they saw signs of his alcoholism emerging. The pilots said they didn't know anything about the pressure Trump was under from his family to join the business, but they said he clearly was under stress that he could not handle.

Bob Dedman, who said he sat next to Fred Jr. at the TWA flight school, said he was "always nattily dressed, polite, educated and well-mannered. A nicer gentleman you will never meet. His problem was he had a major drinking problem … He would go to a restaurant and have a couple of martinis. He would fall asleep and I said, 'Hey, Fred, wake up!' "

By some accounts, Fred Jr. was fired from TWA after a yearlong probation for new hires. He was "terminated because he had a drinking problem," said Bob Kavula, vice president of the TWA Retired Pilots Association. "His drinking got in the way of his flying, and they couldn't afford that."

But one of Fred Jr.'s friends, Annamaria Forcier, who as a teenager in 1958 moved to the Queens neighbourhood where the Trump family lived, thought Fred Jr. left TWA because of the pressure from the family.

> “My impression of it was that he was basically forced to go work for the family firm,” she said. “There was a lot of tension between not only the old man but also between him and Donald. There was a lot of tension because they didn’t want him to be an airline pilot.”

Six WW2 Innovations That Changed the World Forever

Cavity Magnetron

[image]The cavity magnetron was a turning point for the use of radar during the war as it allowed for radars to be placed on night-fighter aircraft, anti-submarine aircraft and escort ships. The first magnetron was developed by H. Gerdien in 1910, the split-anode magnetron was developed by Albert Hull in 1920. Experiments with different magnetron devices continued and in 1935 Hans Erich Hollman applied for a patent for a multiple-cavity magnetron. All of this led up to the development of an improved cavity magnetron tube by John Randall and Harry Boot in 1940.

Their device was able to produce high powered pulses which made centimeter-band radar practical. The shorter wavelength radar allowed for the detection of smaller objects while using smaller antennas. The cavity magnetron was compact enough that the size of radar sets was reduced and therefore easier to put into use. This allowed pilots to get maps of the ground in order to see their targets even in the middle of the night. It was even able to catch the periscope of German U-Boats so that bombers could target subs just below the surface of the water.

It was far from perfect due to the magnetron's instability in its transmitter frequency and the wide frequency spectrum of the transmitter pulse which requires the receiver to have a wide bandwidth as well. Today the cavity magnetron has largely been replaced with semiconductor microwave oscillators. Even if the cavity magnetron is not used in radar anymore it is still very effective for another purpose for which is it more widely used. It is the heat source used to cook food in a microwave oven thereby making daily life easier for many people around the world.

Synthetic Oil and Rubber

[image]TDuring the war, there were many things that ran short and rations were put in place in order to keep the war machine running on both sides. Women were asked to give up their nylons, some countries required their citizens to ration food and oil was always restricted so that most of it could go toward the war effort. Oil was in such demand that the Germans needed to find an alternative in order to keep their planes in the air. To that end they created a blend of adipic acid ester and polyethylene oil which worked well enough to keep the Luftwaffe flying.

The Americans caught on and developed their own synthetic oil because it came with benefits such as reducing the soot deposits in oil radiators and making planes easier to start in the wintertime. While the Americans may not have had a significant shortage of oil, they and the other Allied powers did have a shortage of rubber. When Japan captured Singapore in December of 1941, they essentially took control of the world's rubber production. They refused to allow any rubber to be exported to the Allies believing that it would cripple the war effort.

The Japanese were not wrong, it took hundreds of thousands of pounds of rubber to build planes, tanks, and battleships. In addition, every soldier used 32 pounds of rubber and with millions of soldiers on the battlefield, the Allies were desperate for rubber. The American government called for cooperation between rubber manufacturers, oil companies and university researchers to come up with a solution. In 1941 the U.S. rubber production was 500,000 pounds, by 1945 it was 140 million pounds, which met the needs of the Allied war effort. That rubber has now been used for the space program, commercial planes and even to create artificial hearts.

Pressurized Cabins

[image]TWhile the concept seems a bit strange today, given the dangers of hypoxia, altitude sickness, decompression sickness and barotrauma while flying at higher altitudes, planes during the early part of WW2 did not have pressurized cabins. This meant that pilots were forced to rely on oxygen masks in order to get the oxygen they needed to stay conscious and fly the plane safely. These were impractical on many levels; they were bulky and restricted movement. The pilot and passengers had to stay in place in order to stay connected with the bulky oxygen mask. Even worse was that the masks were prone to failure which was exceedingly dangerous.

But the biggest catalyst for moving away from the mask was the development of larger bombers. For these bombers to function, the crew needed to be able to move about the cabin, which they could not do with oxygen masks. Prior to this pressurized cabins had existed but they had only been on experimental planes. In 1938 the Boeing 307 was a commercial plane that was developed with a pressurized cabin but only 10 of those planes were built. Then came the Boeing B-29 Superfortress. The aptly named plane was the largest aircraft in operation during World War 2 and was first put into service in 1944. The plane featured a pressurized cabin for the crew areas which allowed them to crawl back to the bomb bays without needing an oxygen mask and without having to keep the bomb bays pressurized (and therefore not have to depressurize after dropping their load).

The Boeing B-29 Superfortress was so advanced that it remained in service after World War 2 and was even used during the Korean War. After the success of the B-29 Superfortress the race to create commercial jet airliner was on. By the late 1950s, both Britain and the U.S. had successfully created commercial passenger airplanes.

Nuclear Power

[image]TNo discussion about innovation and technology during World War 2 would be complete without the most devastating advancement of the war, the atomic bomb. The Manhattan Project was created as part of a race to create a weapon that would be so devastating that it would end the war and get that weapon before the Axis powers did. The success of the Manhattan Project led to two atomic bombs being dropped on Japan and the surrender of the Japanese and the end of the war. While the debate over whether or not the use of atomic weapons was justified during the war there was something good that came out of the development of the atomic bomb - nuclear energy.

In December of 1951, an experimental station called EBR-1 located near Arco, Idaho was able to generate electricity through a nuclear reaction for the first time. Nuclear power was also seen as a way to power subs and a test marine reactor was being developed in 1953 and it was installed on the USS Nautilus in 1955. In 1953, President Eisenhower expressed a desire to find peaceful uses for atomic energy and in 1954 declassified information on U.S. reactor technology. On June 27th, 1954, the USSR created the Obninsk Nuclear Power Plant which became the world's first nuclear power plant to generate electricity for a power grid. The first commercial nuclear power station was at Windscale, England in 1956. The first commercial nuclear generator to become operational was in the U.S. in 1957.

Today nuclear energy is considered to be a clean way to generate electricity. However, there are debates as to its safety for people and the environment, especially after disasters like Chernobyl and Three Mile Island.

V-2 Rocket

[image]T The V-2 rocket was the world's first long-range guided missile. It was developed as a retaliatory weapon which was used by the Germans near the end of the war as a last-ditch effort to turn the tide in their favor. The rockets were built by prisoners at Buchenwald concentration camp, many of them having been taken from other camps because they possessed certain skills like welding. These prisoners were forced to work around the clock on the rocket and many ended up killed for attempting to sabotage it.

The rocket had one of the most powerful motors of the time as it was able to take the rocket 50 miles high and on a trajectory of 120 miles. It was fueled by liquid ethanol and oxygen and it was unlike anything that had ever been seen before. It was able > to target cities and arrive in a matter of minutes, silently causing massive destruction. It was not only the size and power that made the V-2 a marvel of engineering but also the automatic guidance system. It was able to self-adjust while in the air to ensure that it hit its target. It was used as a devastating weapon but the technology had far greater implications. When the war ended, there was a rush by the Allied powers to do whatever it took to get their hands on the technology of the V-2 rocket. This led the rocket's developer Wernher von Braun (who had no desire to work for Stalin) to surrender to the Americans. The Russians may not have gotten von Braun but they did get a V-2 factory and test range.

> Wernher von Braun got right to work developing an intercontinental ballistic missile for the U.S. But the U.S. also provided another opportunity and that was to use his technology to reach space. When Alan Shepard became the first astronaut in space he did so in a spaceship that was based off the missile that Wernher had developed for the U.S. military.

Mutagenic affects of RADAR or Atomic Energy? Sidney Gottlieb?

> Physics Today: A profile of John Trump, Donald's oft-mentioned scientist uncle *
> The president's uncle was an MIT physicist and engineer who made his mark in the development of high-voltage generators, World War II radar, and cancer therapies

John George Trump was born in New York City in 1907. He was the younger brother of Donald's father, Fred, who went into real estate before he finished high school. With financial assistance from his older brother, John enrolled in the Polytechnic Institution of Brooklyn, intending to become an architect and go into business with Fred. However, he switched to electrical engineering and earned his bachelor's degree in 1929. He went on to radarColumbia University and received a master's degree in physics in 1931.

John Trump then left New York for MIT and earned his doctorate in electrical engineering in 1933, working under physicist Robert J. Van de Graaff

Trump concentrated his own wartime work on the new technology of radar. In 1940 a technical mission from the UK introduced US researchers to the cavity magnetron, which enabled radar to operate using centimeter wavelengths, greatly expanding its efficacy and range of applications (see Physics Today, July 1985, page 60). The new National Defense Research Committee (NDRC) established a microwave committee, which initiated a radar research and development program at MIT. Trump was among the first to join. The effort soon grew into the MIT Radiation Laboratory, or "Rad Lab," which by 1945 was employing some 4000 people.

Cavity magnetron

Centimetric radar, made possible by the cavity magnetron, allowed for the detection of much smaller objects and the use of much smaller antennas. The combination of small-cavity magnetrons, small antennas, and high resolution allowed small, high quality radars to be installed in aircraft. Google Knowledge Panel from

Cavity magnetron - Wikipedia

The cavity magnetron, or not entirely accurately reduced simply to magnetron, is a high-powered vacuum tube that generates microwaves using the interaction of a stream of electrons with a magnetic field while moving past a series of open metal cavities. From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

If you remember, Maria (played by Julie Andrews in the film) is the plucky novice nun who goes to work as the nanny for Captain Von Trapp a few years before the start of World War II. Mid-way through the film, the captain hosts a grand party at his beautiful villa to introduce Austrian high society to his fiancée, the glamorous Baroness Elsa Schraeder.

But that party is filled with VIPs, tense with their competing agendas. The Baroness can't help but worry that the captain has more than an employer's regard for his children's governess. Her concerns grow after she catches her fiancé and Maria making eyes at each other while dancing together to the "Laendler," an Austrian folk dance.

Secretive Bilderberg Meeting Draws Pompeo and Kushner *

In 1998, Pompeo moved to Wichita, Kansas, where he and three other West Point friends, Brian Bulatao, Ulrich Brechbuhl, and Michael Stradinger, acquired three aircraft-part manufacturers there (Aero Machine, Precision Profiling, B&B Machine) and in St. Louis (Advance Tool & Die), renaming the entity Thayer Aerospace after West Point superintendent Sylvanus Thayer.[28][29][30] Venture funding for the private organization included a nearly 20% investment from Koch Industries[4] as well as Dallas-based Cardinal Investment, and Bain & Company (Brechbuhl worked for Bain at the time).[31][28] Brechbuhl and Stradinger left the company shortly after it was founded, but Pompeo and Bulatao continued.

> Thayer Aerospace acquired by private-equity firm By Ken Vandruff - Apr 2, 2007 Updated Apr 2, 2007, 11:26am CDT

In 2006, he sold his interest in the company, which by then had been renamed Nex-Tech Aerospace, to Highland Capital Management, which had clients including Lockheed Martin, Gulfstream Aerospace, Cessna Aircraft, Boeing, Spirit AeroSystems and Raytheon Aircraft.[32] Pompeo then became president of Sentry International, an oilfield equipment manufacturer that was also a partner of Koch Industries.[33]

In 2017, when Pompeo became head of the CIA, he named his former business partner, Brian Bulatao, the agency's chief operating officer.[29]

What Mr. Pompeo, Mr. Kushner and the other Bilderberg attendees actually say to each other will be a mystery to most of the public, thanks to the meeting's use of the Chatham House Rule, which states that although attendees can tell the public what was discussed, generally, participants must not reveal who said what.

The rule was devised in 1927 by the eponymous policy institute in London, when many people feared that the practice of "secret diplomacy led to the horrors of the First World War," said Robin Niblett, the director of Chatham House. The idea, he said, was to encourage officials and experts to speak frankly together, in private, and then to share what they discussed with the public.

"It's actually not a rule of secrecy, it's a rule of openness from an era when everything was secret," he said.

The FBI, a US intelligence agency with jurisdiction abroad - probably the CIA, and British Intelligence officers, all believed that Robert Maxwell, the father of Jeff Epstein's partner in crime, Ghislaine Maxwell, was a Soviet-Russian spy. If you read some of the FBI files, Maxwell appears to have sometimes pretended to Americans that he was British-born and implied that he was a British spy, rather than a Soviet one. *

A few of the FBI pages on Robert Maxwell, found below, point to an East and West German nexus, which could easily tie together old Nazis, East German Stasi agents, Soviet KGB agents, former US OSS agents-CIA agents, and black-market criminals-mafia.

US investigating possible mysterious directed energy attack near White House last year retrieved from KSL.com and copied or modified to here originally by By Katie Bo Williams and Jeremy Herb, CNN | Updated - Apr. 29, 2021

WASHINGTON (CNN) - Federal agencies are investigating at least two possible incidents on U.S. soil, including one near the White House in November of last year, that appear similar to mysterious, invisible attacks that have led to debilitating symptoms for dozens of U.S. personnel abroad.

Multiple sources familiar with the matter tell CNN that while the Pentagon and other agencies probing the matter have reached no clear conclusions on what happened, the fact that such an attack might have taken place so close to the White House is particularly alarming.

Defense officials briefed lawmakers on the Senate and House Armed Services Committees on the matter earlier this month, including on the incident near the White House. That incident, which occurred near the Ellipse, the large oval lawn on the south side of the White House, sickened one National Security Council official, according to multiple current and former U.S. officials and sources familiar with the matter.

In a separate 2019 episode, a White House official reported a similar attack while walking her dog in a Virginia suburb just outside Washington, GQ reported last year.

Those sickened reported similar symptoms to CIA and State Department personnel impacted overseas, and officials quickly began to investigate the incident as a possible “Havana syndrome” attack. That name refers to unexplained symptoms that U.S. personnel in Cuba began experiencing in late 2016 - a varying set of complaints that includes ear-popping, vertigo, pounding headaches and nausea, sometimes accompanied by an unidentified “piercing directional noise.”

Rumors have long swirled around Washington about similar incidents within the United States. While the recent episodes around Washington appear similar to the previous apparent attacks affecting diplomats, CIA officers and other U.S. personnel serving in Cuba, Russia and China, investigators have not determined whether the puzzling incidents at home are connected to those that have occurred abroad or who may be behind them, sources tell CNN.

Miller said he began to see reports of these mysterious symptoms as a higher priority in December, after interviewing an alleged victim with extensive combat experience.

“When this officer came in and I knew his background and he explained in an extraordinarily detailed but more military-style that I could understand, I was like this is actually for real,” Miller said. “This kid had been in combat a bunch and he knew.”

The CIA began its task force in December 2020, and expanded its efforts under new Director William Burns, who vowed during his confirmation hearings to review the evidence on the alleged attacks on CIA personnel overseas, which have long been publicly reported. The State Department named a senior official to lead the department’s response to the “Havana syndrome” attacks in March.

The Defense Department’s effort is thought to be among the most robust, potentially explaining why a defense official, rather than the intelligence community or the FBI, briefed lawmakers on the incident at the Ellipse, even though it took place on U.S. soil.

[a] Syria episode highlights the difficulties that U.S. officials face in trying to pin down what is and isn’t an attack. The symptoms often vary, and officials still have no clear sense of how the unknown adversary is doing what it’s doing. At least one former U.S. official with knowledge of the matter said that investigators still haven’t completely ruled out the possibility that the symptoms are caused by some kind of naturally occurring phenomenon rather than a weapon.

Marc Polymeropoulos awoke with a start. The feeling of nausea was overwhelming. Food poisoning, he thought, and decided to head for the bathroom. But when he tried to get out of bed, he fell over. He tried to stand up and fell again. It was the early morning hours of December 5, 2017, and his Moscow hotel room was spinning around him. His ears were ringing. He felt, he recalled, “like I was going to both throw up and pass out at the same time.”

Polymeropoulos was a covert CIA operative, a jovial, burly man who likes to refer to himself as “grizzled.” Moscow was not the first time he had been on enemy territory. He had spent most of his career in the Middle East, fighting America’s long war on terrorism. He had hunted terrorists in Pakistan and Yemen. He did the same in Iraq and Afghanistan. He had been shot at, ducked under rocket fire, and had shrapnel whiz by uncomfortably close to his head. But that night, paralyzed with seasickness in the landlocked Russian capital, Polymeropoulos felt terrified and utterly helpless for the first time.

> “There has to be an institutional way in which we treat our people better,” he said. “I talked about the pact that you make when you join an organization like the CIA, or frankly, for the State Department as well, that you’re asked to do hard things, and your leadership has to return that with the idea of getting care if you’re injured.”
> He added, “I’d like to see that our medical staffs across the civilian agencies treat this more seriously. That if someone gets (hit) they can get treatment. And then ultimately, we have to find out who did this.”
> Polymeropoulos was the CIA’s deputy chief of operations for the Europe/Eurasia Mission Center when he went to Moscow, a job that includes overseeing operations against Russia.

Struggling to regain control over his body, Polymeropoulos couldn’t have imagined that this incident would upend his life. It would end a promising career that had just catapulted him into the ranks of senior CIA leadership, and threw him into the middle of a growing international mystery that has puzzled diplomats and scientists, and raised concerns on Capitol Hill. In the months ahead, he would come to realize that it wasn’t a spoiled sandwich that had mowed him down. Rather, it was his macabre initiation into a growing club of dozens of American diplomats, spies, and government employees posted abroad who were suffering in much the same way he was-targets of what some experts and doctors now believe were attacks perpetrated by unknown assailants wielding novel directed energy weapons.

Judgment Day

This who hid the truth about genetics had the most severe judgments about genetics of anyone, and forbade the topic.

Those who judge the situation simply and medically and democratically could have won the day in Science but rather were shunned.

As more and more lies were needed to cover lies and only the most secretive and clandestine entities had access to the truth or dared speak it in their most secure deliberations the truth fell out of the hands of democracy.

I suspect increasing counter terror programs like the Patriot Act, executive orders, and the NDAA along with integration financial and PsyOps warfare and Cyberwarfare combined to create government mistake coverup capabilities as well silencing leakers like Jen Moore, Micheal Hastings, Adinan Kashogi, George Webb, or create CIA backed attacks on people like myself, MKULTRA legacy families.

Now those intelligence agencies like the CIA have been caught by increasing forensic technology and their race is on to cover their own errors and disasters of history by creating ever more expanding disasters.

These Scientific Philosophers had it correct.

Thomas Jefferson as quoted from https://plato.stanford.edu/entries/jefferson/

In retirement, Jefferson resumed his domestic life at Monticello, continued as president of the American Philosophical Society (a position he held for nearly 20 years), and began activities that would lead to the birth of the University of Virginia, which opened one year before his death. Irretrievably saddled with debt throughout his retirement, he sold his library, approximately 6,700 books, to Congress in 1815 to pay off some of that debt.

The need for Reason.

Notes on the State of Virginia

To justify a general conclusion, requires many observations, even where the subject may be submitted to the Anatomical knife, to Optical glasses, to analysis by fire, or by solvents.

How much more then where it is a faculty, not a substance, we are examining; where it eludes the research of all the senses; where the conditions of its existence are various and variously combined; where the effects of those which are present or absent bid defiance to calculation; let me add too, as a circumstance of great tenderness, where our conclusion would degrade a whole race of men from the rank in the scale of beings which their Creator may perhaps have given them.

To our reproach it must be said, that though for a century and a half we have had under our eyes the races of black and of red men, they have never yet been viewed by us as subjects of natural history.

I advance it therefore as a suspicion only, that the blacks, whether originally a distinct race, or made distinct by time and circumstances, are inferior to the whites in the endowments both of body and mind.

It is not against experience to suppose, that different species of the same genus, or varieties of the same species, may possess different qualifications.

Will not a lover of natural history then, one who views the gradations in all the races of animals with the eye of philosophy, excuse an effort to keep those in the department of man as distinct as nature has formed them?

This unfortunate difference of colour, and perhaps of faculty, is a powerful obstacle to the emancipation of these people. Many of their advocates, while they wish to vindicate the liberty of human nature, are anxious also to preserve its dignity and beauty.

Some of these, embarrassed by the question 'What further is to be done with them?' join themselves in opposition with those who are actuated by sordid avarice only. Among the Romans emancipation required but one effort. The slave, when made free, might mix with, without staining the blood of his master. But with us a second is necessary, unknown to history. When freed, he is to be removed beyond the reach of mixture.

Amy Harmon (born September 17, 1968) is an American journalist.[1] She won a Pulitzer Prize as a correspondent for The New York Times covering the impact of science and technology on everyday life.[2] Harmon uses narrative storytelling to illuminate the human dilemmas posed by advances in science. In 2013, she was named a Guggenheim Fellow.[3] *

The Nobel-winning biologist [Watson, DNA Double Helix w/Crick] has drawn global criticism with unfounded pronouncements on genetics, race and intelligence. He still thinks he's right, a new documentary finds.

In a new documentary, "American Masters: Decoding Watson," to be broadcast on PBS on Wednesday night, he is asked whether his views about the relationship between race and intelligence have changed.

"No," Dr. Watson said. "Not at all. I would like for them to have changed, that there be new knowledge that says that your nurture is much more important than nature. But I haven't seen any knowledge. And there's a difference on the average between blacks and whites on I.Q. tests. I would say the difference is, it's genetic."

Dr. Watson adds that he takes no pleasure in "the difference between blacks and whites" and wishes it didn't exist. "It's awful, just like it's awful for schizophrenics," he says. (His son Rufus was diagnosed in his teens with schizophrenia.) Dr. Watson continues: “If the difference exists, we have to ask ourselves, how can we try and make it better?”

Dr. Watson’s remarks may well ignite another firestorm of criticism. At the very least, they will pose a challenge for historians when they take the measure of the man: How should such fundamentally unsound views be weighed against his extraordinary scientific contributions?

In response to questions from The Times, Dr. Francis Collins, the director of the National Institutes of Health, said that most experts on intelligence “consider any black-white differences in I.Q. testing to arise primarily from environmental, not genetic, differences.”

Dr. [Francis] Collins said he was unaware of any credible research on which Dr. Watson’s “profoundly unfortunate” statement would be based.

“It is disappointing that someone who made such groundbreaking contributions to science,” Dr. Collins added, “is perpetuating such scientifically unsupported and hurtful beliefs.”

God has spoken some very profound warnings to the Mormon Church through prophet Linda Newkirk. I present here a few excerpts from those warnings. To read the dated prophecies in their entirety, exactly as they were given use the direct link at the end of the excerpts.

In 1990, Watson was appointed as the Head of the Human Genome Project at the National Institutes of Health, a position he held until April 10, 1992.[64] Watson left the Genome Project after conflicts with the new NIH Director, Bernadine Healy. Watson was opposed to Healy's attempts to acquire patents on gene sequences, and any ownership of the "laws of nature." Two years before stepping down from the Genome Project, he had stated his own opinion on this long and ongoing controversy which he saw as an illogical barrier to research; he said, "The nations of the world must see that the human genome belongs to the world's people, as opposed to its nations." He left within weeks of the 1992 announcement that the NIH would be applying for patents on brain-specific cDNAs.[65] (The issue of the patentability of genes has since been resolved in the US by the US Supreme Court; see Association for Molecular Pathology v. James Dewey Watson was born in Chicago, Ill., on April 6th, 1928, as the only son of James D. Watson, a businessman, and Jean Mitchell. His father's ancestors were originally of English descent and had lived in the midwest for several generations. His mother's father was a Scottish-born tailor married to a daughter of Irish immigrants who arrived in the United States about 1840. Young Watson's entire boyhood was spent in Chicago where he attended for eight years Horace Mann Grammar School and for two years South Shore High School. He then received a tuition scholarship to the University of Chicago, and in the summer of 1943 entered their experimental four-year college.

In 1947, he received a B.Sc. degree in Zoology. During these years his boyhood interest in bird-watching had matured into a serious desire to learn genetics. This became possible when he received a Fellowship for graduate study in Zoology at Indiana University in Bloomington, where he received his Ph.D. degree in Zoology in 1950. At Indiana, he was deeply influenced both by the geneticists H. J. Muller and T. M. Sonneborn, and by S. E. Luria, the Italian-born microbiologist then on the staff of Indiana's Bacteriology Department. Watson's Ph.D. thesis, done under Luria's able guidance, was a study of the effect of hard X-rays on bacteriophage multiplication.

From September 1950 to September 1951 he spent his first postdoctoral year in Copenhagen as a Merck Fellow of the National Research Council. Part of the year was spent with the biochemist Herman Kalckar, the remainder with the microbiologist Ole Maaløe. Again he worked with bacterial viruses, attempting to study the fate of DNA of infecting virus particles. During the spring of 1951, he went with Kalckar to the Zoological Station at Naples. There at a Symposium, late in May, he met Maurice Wilkins and saw for the first time the X-ray diffraction pattern of crystalline DNA. This greatly stimulated him to change the direction of his research toward the structural chemistry of nucleic acids and proteins. Fortunately this proved possible when Luria, in early August 1951, arranged with John Kendrew for him to work at the Cavendish Laboratory, where he started work in early October 1951.

He soon met Crick and discovered their common interest in solving the DNA structure. They thought it should be possible to correctly guess its structure, given both the experimental evidence at King's College plus careful examination of the possible stereochemical configurations of polynucleotide chains. Their first serious effort, in the late fall of 1951, was unsatisfactory. Their second effort based upon more experimental evidence and better appreciation of the nucleic acid literature, resulted, early in March 1953, in the proposal of the complementary double-helical configuration.

At the same time, he was experimentally investigating the structure of TMV, using X-ray diffraction techniques. His object was to see if its chemical sub-units, earlier revealed by the elegant experiments of Schramm, were helically arranged. This objective was achieved in late June 1952, when use of the Cavendish's newly constructed rotating anode X-ray tubes allowed an unambiguous demonstration of the helical construction of the virus.

From 1953 to 1955, Watson was at the California Institute of Technology as Senior Research Fellow in Biology. There he collaborated with Alexander Rich in X-ray diffraction studies of RNA. In 1955-1956 he was back in the Cavendish, again working with Crick. During this visit they published several papers on the general principles of virus construction.

Since the fall of 1956, he has been a member of the Harvard Biology Department, first as Assistant Professor, then in 1958 as an Associate Professor, and as Professor since 1961. During this interval, his major research interest has been the role of RNA in protein synthesis. Among his collaborators during this period were the Swiss biochemist Alfred Tissières and the French biochemist François Gros. Much experimental evidence supporting the messenger RNA concept was accumulated. His present principal collaborator is the theoretical physicist Walter Gilbert who, as Watson expressed it, «has recently learned the excitement of experimental molecular biology».

The honours that have to come to Watson include: the John Collins Warren Prize of the Massachusetts General Hospital, with Crick in 1959; the Eli Lilly Award in Biochemistry in the same year; the Lasker Award, with Crick and Wilkins in 1960; the Research Corporation Prize, with Crick in 1962; membership of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the National Academy of Sciences, and Foreign membership of the Danish Academy of Arts and Sciences. He is also a consultant to the President's Scientific Advisory Committee.

Watson is unmarried. His recreations are bird-watching and walking.

Jen Moore, Hottest Woman In America

okay it is Sunday night and I'm looking out at beautiful Washington DC and as you can tell I have a great view this evening it's a Sunday night tonight

before the Monday morning testimony I believe before the Judiciary Committee on the OIG report so that's gonna be tomorrow morning and I will be there live it in person to see the fireworks if there are any I hope there are a little bit courage

Mr. Jim Jordan and Mr. Gooluck and Rr. gates to it Mr. Gowdy to all go full wards get these documents so I'm posting this video just because I'm going to attach the interview number three and four that I had done now regarding um you know start the first two interviews were kind of starting in World War one and moving into World War two OSS to the CA different players that were involved dealt the Dulles brothers Hitler

obviously Aleister Crowley in my six in my five how the OSS became the CIA the Vatican's involvement the indoctrination that occurred the different experiments that were done how MKULTRA was brought together under several different kind of philosophies or mythology'

I guess you could say some of it is really hard to listen to but it's the truth and it needs to be told because it's still happening so though as these interviews go long I move it into the United States and Canada in particular I mean it's a very lot of other places but United States in Canada really was infiltrated through black budgets by the CIA and went from OSS into CIA the Vatican was involved in that and Operation Paperclip in how these Nazi scientists including Hitler and Mengele and Himmler and all these kind of the worst characters of all were secretly moved in to Argentina and South America and then some of them were even brought up into the United States and they were given new identities they were brought into universities hospital programs various secret sites black-budget sites where the experimentation continued on all kinds of things and all kinds of Americans especially small children and I'm going to lead into things like the Kinsey studies if anyone has looked into that Masters and Johnson how they're all tied together some of the places that are still in operation as of today that I am aware of but uh these two interviews specifically start to bring into the politics of the United States of America

at least since World War two the different players involved a lot of these players that call them players or politicians or you know businessmen or senators or you know what whatever title they might have there's some of them that don't want their identities known their real identities are the real history zone and I'm not gonna name names at this point except you could do some deduction use your deduction skills and you know kind of think about whose identities might have been hidden recently even even years and years and decades ago but recently really and so these interviews start talking about that and how that came about and why there's such a mystery and why there's so many sealed records and some of the information that I am in possession of to begin to peel back the layers of this onion so the American people can fully understand where we are today why we are here today and who these people really are

because this country is our country the American people's country we are in charge of the government they don't get to hide from us so it's time for their exposure and I'm going to be part of that so you can listen to interviews three and four and it gets into some pretty gnarly details but there's truth there and I've got court cases and documents to back it up personal eyewitnesses you name it this is the story of a whistle blower our whistle blowers in general yes it is dangerous I accept that at the same time I refuse to be silent anymore and so I'm going to carry on releasing this information (auto-generated YouTube Transcript)

Russia? Chairman Mao!

On 1 October 1949, Mao proclaimed the foundation of the PRC[Peoples Republic of China], a single-party state controlled by the CPC [Chinese Communist Party].

In the following years he solidified his control through campaigns against landlords, suppression of “counter-revolutionaries”, and through a psychological victory in the Korean War, which altogether caused the deaths of several-million Chinese.[3][4][5][6]

From 1953-1958, Mao played an important role in enforcing planned economy in China, constructing the first Constitution of the PRC, launching the industrialisation program, and initiating the “Two Bombs, One Satellite” project.

> “Two Bombs, One Satellite” Two Bombs, One Satellite was an early nuclear and space project of the People’s Republic of China. Two Bombs refers to the atomic bomb (and later the hydrogen bomb) and the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), while One Satellite refers to the artificial satellite. China tested its first atomic bomb and hydrogen bomb in 1964 and 1967 respectively

On the other hand, in 1957, Mao launched the Anti-Rightist Campaign, which persecuted at least 550,000 people, most of whom were intellectuals and dissidents, and in 1958 he launched the Great Leap Forward that aimed to rapidly transform China’s economy from agrarian to industrial.[7][8]

The latter led to the deadliest famine in history and the deaths of 20-45 million people between 1958 and 1962.[9][10][11] In 1963, Mao launched the Socialist Education Movement, and 1966 he initiated the Cultural Revolution, a program to remove “counter-revolutionary” elements in Chinese society which lasted 10 years and was marked by violent class struggle

And remember this from the black markets and medical assets program book section

Main article: Organ trade § Illegal organ trade

According to the World Health Organization (WHO), illegal organ trade occurs when organs are removed from the body for the purpose of commercial transactions.[31] The WHO justifies its stance on the issue by stating, “Payment for … organs is likely to take unfair advantage of the poorest and most vulnerable groups, undermines altruistic donation and leads to profiteering and human trafficking.”[32] Despite these ordinances, it was estimated that 5% of all organ recipients engaged in commercial organ transplant in 2005.[33] Research indicates that illegal organ trade is on the rise, with a recent report by Global Financial Integrity estimating that the illegal organ trade generates profits between $600 million and $1.2 billion per year with a span over many countries.

A very secret Illuminati world program I think is gene forming at the highest levels of secrecy, 15 trillion in US dollars making the US and certain families like the Trumps and manofort a lot of money and skim.

Among the secret documents he revealed was the 178-page “black budget” for the 2013 fiscal year. That year’s slush-fund contained $52.6 billion. You can buy a lot of traitorous Stasi rodents with that kind of money.

Also be aware that a lot more money is sloshing around in the federal pig trough which might be getting funneled into spying activities. Many U.S. intelligence operations are conducted under the authority of the Pentagon - for example, those of the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA). Pentagon spending is notoriously difficult to keep track of. Even the U.S. Government Accounting Office says that U.S. Department of Defense spending is “unauditable.”

Prescott Bush

United States Senator from Connecticut In office November 4, 1952 - January 3, 1963

Wikipedia contributors. (2020, March 4). Prescott Bush. In Wikipedia, The Free Encyclopedia. Retrieved 14:52, March 8, 2020,

The Bush family moved to Columbus, Ohio, in 1923, where Prescott briefly worked for the Hupp Products Company. In November 1923, he became president of sales for Stedman Products in South Braintree, Massachusetts. During this time, he lived in a Victorian house at 173 Adams Street in Milton, Massachusetts, where his son, George H. W. Bush, was born.

A staunch supporter of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, he served until January 1963. He was re-elected in 1956 with 55% of the vote over Democrat Thomas J. Dodd (later U.S. Senator from Connecticut and father of Christopher J. Dodd), and decided not to run for another term in 1962. He was a key ally for the passage of Eisenhower's Interstate Highway System,[13] and during his tenure supported the Polaris submarine project (built by Electric Boat Corporation in Groton, Connecticut), civil rights legislation, and the establishment of the Peace Corps.[14]

Prescott Sheldon Bush (May 15, 1895 - October 8, 1972) was an American banker and politician.[1] After working as a Wall Street executive investment banker, he represented Connecticut in the United States Senate from 1952 to 1963. A member of the Bush family, he was the father of Vice President and President George H. W. Bush, and the paternal grandfather of Texas Governor and President George W. Bush and Florida Governor Jeb Bush.

Prescott Bush was politically active on social issues. He was involved with the American Birth Control League as early as 1942, and served as the treasurer of the first nationwide campaign of Planned Parenthood in 1947. He was also an early supporter of the United Negro College Fund, serving as chairman of the Connecticut branch in 1951.

In terms of issues, Bush often agreed with New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller. According to Theodore H. White's book about the 1964 presidential election, Bush and Rockefeller were longtime friends. Bush favored a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket for 1960, and was presumed to support Rockefeller's 1964 presidential candidacy until the latter's remarriage in 1963.

Central Powers of Europe

Germany, Austria, Hungry, Czechoslovakia, probably some others. Windsors, really Germans, are from there. (GLorian Donegan)

Re: Gernam Children (and likely Central Powers Countries) have high reading writing disorders

It is a form of ADD. Here is how I trace it to my family.

Maria of the real story of the Von Trapp family likely had it, and "acted out" in the monestary, etc., but later married Captain Von Trapp in 1926.

About the time my mother was born. I was named after my "grandfather Edward" and told we had a secret royal connection tied to a grandfather of mine.

I think the Borderline Personality Disorder gene was in King George V and his German descendents including Prince Edward of Wales, later King Edward VIII.

He has the speech and writing symptoms, as Albert Eisnstein and Adolph Hiter did, and many other Germans, Austrains, Cheks, and others had including Juliana Pelleetier the Mitochondria lady.

Borderlines do not like or are discomforted by detachment, abandoment. They will freakishly try to fight out the relationship if it fails on its own, moving from grey to black and white. In the black and white polarized state the fight will occur hoping a grey resolution will result.

Her self image and attachment detachment issues could have been esteem related and been a condensation point for emotions to form around as she dealt with insecurity in relationships with others that people under the Los Angles microscope experience.

The Windsors

The House of Windsor is the reigning royal house of the United Kingdom and the other Commonwealth realms. The dynasty is originally of German paternal descent and was a branch of the House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, itself derived from the House of Wettin, which succeeded the House of Hanover to the British monarchy following the accession of King Edward VII, son of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

The name was changed from Saxe-Coburg and Gotha to the English Windsor (from Windsor Castle[1]) in 1917 because of anti-German sentiment in the United Kingdom during World War I.[2] There have been four British monarchs of the house of Windsor to date: George V, Edward VIII, George VI, and Elizabeth II.

KING'S SPEECH

In 1895, Prince Albert Saxe-Coburg-Gotha was born to Victoria von Teck, Princess of Württemberg, and her husband George V. The German boy who would become George VI was a sickly and fearful child prone to tears.

When Prince Albert was three years old, Nicola Tesla, financed by Illuminist John Jacob Astor IV, set up a station in Colorado Springs, later the home of the Air Force Academy. Through it he would transmit wireless signals from Pike's Peak to Paris.

Tesla technology is used extensively against us today, through voice to skull (V2K), image to skull (I2K), and microwave harassment of targeted individuals, and it was used against Prince Albert, later to become King George, when he was little. That's why he was crying a lot, that's why he stuttered and stammered, that's why he used vulgarity, and that's why he had a bad temper.

[Ed Donegan interjecting here, I think this is the FOXP2 Limbic System defect gene]

Book 12 Chapter 33 FROM THE MOUNTAIN PROPHECIES

So, as I have stated, yesterday this same man was again watching the DNA as it was working and also commenting on the new DNA when someone beside him questioned him as to where he had come from, commenting that he had not seen him at all in this kind of work. And in response to the comments of this second person, this man told him that he had come from the Mars base and that he was one of fifteen commanders, who made their way among the moon bases, the Mars base and the base on Saturn, which is really on one of the moons of Saturn according to what our Father in Heaven told me. This man continued to tell the second person that the "pressure" in the underground base on Mars became very unstable, that the conditions on the Saturn base also became unstable, that they base actually "imploded", and that they were forced to leave these Mars! He went on to say that at first they did not know what was bringing about these instabilities on the Mars base, but that at this time, they believe that Yahweh was behind these instabilities. He also said that the whole solar system is unstable at this time.

There are about 17 known FOXP2 LONDON KE Family members with the language writting and speaking issues which affects about half of that family. I think it involves Borderline Personality Disorder too.

Another child, Mary Beth Butt, who lived for only 10 days (November 17, 1943 - November 27, 1943), is buried beside Mary Elizabeth Holdsworth Butt at the Glen Rest Cemetery in Kerrville, Texas, was the fourth child of Howard Butt Sr. and Mary Elizabeth Holdsworth Butt.[6][7]

Butt was a lay minister in the Southern Baptist Church.[2]

AmeriCorps VISTA is a national service program designed to alleviate poverty. President John F. Kennedy originated the idea for VISTA, which was founded as Volunteers in Service to America in 1965, and incorporated into the AmeriCorps network of programs in 1993.[1] VISTA is an initialism for Volunteers in Service to America.

Philanthropy

In 1934, after a destructive Texas hurricane, he founded the Howard E. Butt Community Investment Program whereby H-E-B would contribute 5% of its pretax earnings to various nonprofit organizations throughout Texas. Also in 1934, he established the H.E. Butt Foundation,[1] one of the first charitable organizations in Texas. The foundation focused on funding public school programs, establishing libraries and constructing recreational facilities.[4]

Butt deferred much of his philanthropic activities to his wife, stating: “I make the money, and Mary spends it (on worthy causes). And I am glad she does.”[3] His wife started the State Crippled Children’s Program, served as chairwoman of the Cameron County Child Welfare Board, started the first tuberculosis diagnosis and treatment program in the region, and purchased the first equipment used to test the hearing and vision of schoolchildren.[4]

In 1949, she co-organized and hosted the first Conference of Texas Foundations and Trusts which coordinated philanthropic giving so as to avoid duplication and promoted the exchange ideas and strategies.[8] In 1955, she was appointed by Texas Governor Allan Shivers to the governing board of Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools (later the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation). She served as the only woman member of the board for 18 years[4][5] being appointed by six different governors.[9]

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy appointed Butt to the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity. Butt also helped establish the University of Corpus Christi, now part of the Texas A&M University System.[2]

LAITY LODGE (excerpts) https://www.laitylodge.org/about/

WELCOMING GUESTS
SINCE 1961

Founded by Howard Butt, Jr., in 1961, Laity Lodge has been welcoming guests to retreats designed to reawaken a sense of the sacred-the nearness and goodness of God in all of life-ever since. The Lodge is located deep in the Texas Hill Country, on the banks of the Frio River. We hope you will find our Canyon to be a place of extraordinary beauty. We also hope that you'll find that the things we do together are really quite ordinary: conversing, singing, walking, praying, eating, and resting. Those few things that we believe contribute to a truly good life-a life of steady stewardship and love, lived among friends and before God.

OF THE PEOPLE

"Laity" comes from the Greek λαϊκός (laikos), and means "of the people." Laity Lodge is built on the conviction that all people, in all places and occupations, are called to be witnesses-steadfast, caring visionaries of hope in a world of shadows.

Personal life

In 1924, Howard Edward Butt Sr. married Mary Elizabeth Holdsworth.[3] They had four children:[4][5]

Howard E. Butt Jr. (September 8, 1927 - September 11, 2016), president of the H. E. Butt Foundation and founder of Christian learning center Laity Lodge;

Margaret Eleanor Butt Crook served as director of Bread for the World. Her husband, William H. Crook, served as director of the Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) and later as United States Ambassador to Australia.

> WASHINGTON - The significant role Hoosiers could play in the future of the nation's space program was evident Thursday at the inaugural meeting of the National Space Council.

The first version of the council was created by Congress in 1958 and chaired by President Dwight Eisenhower. President John F. Kennedy thought it was a better job for his vice president. President Richard Nixon abolished the council in 1973. When President George H. W. Bush revived it in 1989, the council was led by Dan Quayle until it was disbanded again in 1993.

Revived by President Donald Trump, the sometimes dormant panel has advised presidents and coordinated space-related policies across agencies since it was first created more than 50 years ago.

Here's a look at some of the Indiana connections:

Purdue University is called the "cradle of astronauts" because 24 graduates have been selected for space travel. That includes Neil Armstrong, the first man to walk on the moon - a fact Pence made sure the audience was aware of Thursday.

Purdue graduate Loral O'Hara was recently selected for NASA's newest astronaut candidate class.

In addition to the Purdue-trained astronauts, many Purdue professors and their students have been involved in space-related research, according to the university.

"No institution has contributed more to our nation's human spaceflight program than Purdue," Purdue President Mitch Daniels has said.

The all-star lineup of the council includes members of Trump's cabinet and national security infrastructure including former Indiana Sen. Dan Coats, who is Trump's director of national intelligence.

Emerson E. White, the university's president, from 1876 to 1883, followed a strict interpretation of the Morrill Act. Rather than emulate the classical universities, White believed Purdue should be an "industrial college" and devote its resources toward providing a broad, liberal education with an emphasis on science, technology, and agriculture. He intended not only to prepare students for industrial work, but also to prepare them to be good citizens and family members.[15]

Amelia Earhart joined the Purdue faculty in 1935 as a consultant for these flight courses and as a counselor on women's careers. In 1937, the Purdue Research Foundation provided the funds for the Lockheed Electra 10-E Earhart flew on her attempted round-the-world flight.

Every school and department at the university was involved in some type of military research or training during World War II.[21] During a project on radar receivers, Purdue physicists discovered properties of germanium that led to the making of the first transistor.[22][23] The Army and the Navy conducted training programs at Purdue and more than 17,500 students, staff, and alumni served in the armed forces.[24]

Established by the National Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958, the NASC was chaired by the President of the United States (then Dwight Eisenhower). Other members included the Secretaries of State and Defense, the NASA Administrator, the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, plus up to four additional members (one from the federal government and up to three from private industry) chosen at the President's discretion.

The Council was allowed to employ a staff to be headed by a civilian executive secretary. Eisenhower did not use the NASC extensively during the remainder of his term, and recommended at the end of his last year in office, that it be abolished. He did not fill the post of executive secretary but named an acting secretary on loan from NASA. Shortly before assuming office, President-elect John F. Kennedy announced that he wanted his Vice President, Lyndon Johnson, to become chairman of the NASC, requiring an amendment to the Space Act.[1]

Edward C. Welsh was the first executive secretary of the NASC, appointed in 1961 by President John F. Kennedy. Welsh, who as a legislative aide to Senator Stuart Symington (D-Missouri) helped draft the 1958 legislation that created NASA and the NASC, spent the 1960s as the principal advisor to the White House on space issues. He also assisted in the development of the legislation that created the Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT). After his retirement in 1969, he remained active as an advisor to NASA.

A former colonel in the United States Air Force, he retired from military service to become a bank executive. He subsequently became a critic of U.S. foreign policy, particularly the covert activities of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) about which he had considerable inside knowledge. Prouty was the inspiration for the character “Mr. X” in Oliver Stone’s film JFK.[2]

Prouty was assigned to coordinate operations between the USAF and the CIA in 1955.[1] As a result of a CIA Commendation for this work he was awarded the Legion of Merit by the US Air Force, and was promoted to Colonel being assigned to the Office of the Secretary of Defense.

According to Prouty, people within the intelligence and military communities of the United States government conspired to assassinate Kennedy.[1] He maintained that their actions were a coup d’état to stop the President from taking control of the CIA after the Bay of Pigs Invasion.[1] Prouty stated that the assassination was orchestrated by Edward Lansdale (“General Y” in Oliver Stone’s film JFK) and that Lansdale appeared in photographs of the “three tramps.”[1]

Prouty was born in Springfield, Massachusetts on January 24, 1917. In 1941, he earned a bachelor’s degree from the University of Massachusetts Amherst (then known as Massachusetts State College).[3] Prouty also graduated from the University of Wisconsi - Madison Graduate School of Banking.[4]

As a critic of the CIA, Prouty pointed out its influence in global matters, outside the realm of U.S. congressional and government oversight. His works detailed the formation and development of the CIA, the origins of the Cold War, the U-2 incident, the Vietnam War, and the John F. Kennedy assassination. Prouty wrote that he believed Kennedy’s assassination was a coup d’etat, and that there is a secret, global “power elite,” which operates covertly to *protect its interests - and in doing so has frequently subverted democracy around the world.[2]

What does consolidation of power means? How do you consolidate power? What are the methods? Please provide Historical examples if possible. Quote retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

Consolidation of power refers to the practice of dissolving or disbanding legislative, judicial and executive authorities and concentrating power in one or two offices or office holders. There are literally dozens of historical examples, from monarchies to elected governments, to individual dictatorships. Usually when we think of hostile governments, we imagine that power was seized violently or through brute force, but the reality is that gradual consolidation of power has led to some of the most brutal dictatorships in history, from Nazi Germany to the Khmer Rouge.

As an example of how power might be consolidated, look at the October Revolution of 1917 in Russia, which established (not the Soviet Union, as people think) but the Russian Soviet Federative Socialist Republic (RSFSR). People point to that event as the launch of Socialism and the Soviet Union, and while it was definitely the catalyst, the actual consolidation and creation of the Soviet Union took place over DECADES as first Lenin, then Stalin, then Krushchev, then Brezhnev gradually disbanded other political organizations, or shifted actual power from organizations, rendering them figureheads, until eventually virtually all actual decision making rested with the Politburo. Consolidating power is not a quick process, but it is one that can happen behind the scenes, and can make it possible for one or two politicians to effectively control an entire government gradually, frequently without anyone else being the wiser until it's too late.

The Russian Revolution was a period of political and social revolution that took place in the former Russian Empire and began during the First World War.

Commencing in 1917 including the

The main events of the February Revolution of 1917 took place in and near Petrograd (present-day Saint Petersburg), the then-capital of Russia, where long-standing discontent with the monarchy erupted into mass protests against food rationing on February 23 Old Style (8 March New Style)

The Provisional Government would prove deeply unpopular, and was forced to share dual power with the Petrograd Soviet. After the July Days, in which the Government killed hundreds of protesters, Alexander Kerensky became head of Government. He was unable to fix Russia's immediate problems: mass job and food shortages, and attempted to keep Russia in the ever more unpopular war. The failures of the Provisional Government led to the October Revolution by the Communist Bolsheviks later that year. The February Revolution had weakened the country; the October Revolution broke it, resulting in the Russian Civil War and the eventual formation of the Soviet Union.

that year with the fall of the House of Romanov and concluding in 1923 with the Bolshevik establishment of the Soviet Union (at the end of the Russian Civil War), the Russian Revolution was a series of two revolutions: the first of which overthrew the imperial government and the second placed the Bolsheviks in power.

In 1981, Nicholas, his wife, and their children were recognized as martyrs by the Russian Orthodox Church Outside Russia, based in New York City.[13]

Grand Duke Nicholas was born on 18 May [O.S. 6 May] 1868, in the Alexander Palace in Tsarskoye Selo south of Saint Petersburg, during the reign of his grandfather Emperor Alexander II. He was the eldest child of then-Tsesarevich Alexander Alexandrovich and his wife, Tsesarevna Maria Feodorovna (née Princess Dagmar of Denmark). Grand Duke Nicholas' father was heir apparent to the Russian throne as the second but eldest surviving son of Emperor Alexander II of Russia. He had five younger siblings: Alexander (1869-1870), George (1871-1899), Xenia (1875-1960), Michael (1878-1918) and Olga (1882-1960). Nicholas often referred to his father nostalgically in letters after Alexander's death in 1894. He was also very close to his mother, as revealed in their published letters to each other.[20]

In 1890 Nicholas, his younger brother George, and their cousin Prince George of Greece, set out on a world tour, although Grand Duke George fell ill and was sent home partway through the trip.

In April 1894, Nicholas joined his Uncle Sergei and Aunt Elizabeth on a journey to Coburg, Germany, for the wedding of Elizabeth's and Alix's brother, Ernest Louis, Grand Duke of Hesse, to their mutual first cousin Princess Victoria Melita of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. Other guests included Queen Victoria, Kaiser Wilhelm II, the Empress Frederick (Kaiser Wilhelm's mother and Queen Victoria's eldest daughter), Nicholas's uncle, the Prince of Wales, and the bride's parents, the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha (mow the Windsors).

Despite a visit to the United Kingdom in 1893, where he observed the House of Commons in debate and seemingly impressed by the machinery of constitutional monarchy, Nicholas turned his back on any notion of giving away any power to elected representatives in Russia.

In 1903, Nicholas threw himself into an ecclesiastical crisis regarding the canonisation of Seraphim of Sarov. The previous year, it had been suggested that if he were canonised, the imperial couple would beget a son and heir to throne. While Alexandra demanded in July 1902 that Seraphim be canonised in less than a week, Nicholas demanded that he be canonised within a year. Despite a public outcry, the Church bowed to the intense imperial pressure, declaring Seraphim worthy of canonisation in January 1903. That summer, the imperial family travelled to Sarov for the canonisation.[53]

Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria-Hungary paid a state visit in April 1897 that was a success. It produced a "gentlemen's agreement" to keep the status quo in the Balkans, and a somewhat similar commitment became applicable to Constantinople and the Straits. The result was years of peace that allowed for rapid economic growth.[55]

Confronted with growing opposition and after consulting with Witte and Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, the Tsar issued a reform ukase on 25 December 1904 with vague promises.[76] In hopes of cutting short the rebellion, many demonstrators were shot on Bloody Sunday (1905) as they tried to march to the Winter Palace in St. Petersburg. Dmitri Feodorovich Trepov was ordered to take drastic measures to stop the revolutionary activity. Grand Duke Sergei was killed in February by a revolutionary's bomb in Moscow as he left the Kremlin. On 3 March the Tsar condemned the revolutionaries. Meanwhile, Witte recommended that a manifesto be issued.[77] Schemes of reform would be elaborated by Goremykin and a committee consisting of elected representatives of the zemstvos and municipal councils under the presidency of Witte. In June the battleship Potemkin, part of the Black Sea Fleet, mutinied.

Under pressure from the attempted 1905 Russian Revolution, on 5 August of that year 1905 Nicholas II issued a manifesto about the convocation of the State Duma, known as the Bulygin Duma, initially thought to be an advisory organ. In the October Manifesto, the Tsar pledged to introduce basic civil liberties, provide for broad participation in the State Duma, and endow the Duma with legislative and oversight powers. He was determined, however, to preserve his autocracy even in the context of reform. This was signalled in the text of the 1906 constitution. He was described as the supreme autocrat, and retained sweeping executive powers, also in church affairs. His cabinet ministers were not allowed to interfere with nor assist one another; they were responsible only to him.

Further complicating domestic matters was the matter of the succession. Alexandra bore Nicholas four daughters, the Grand Duchess Olga in 1895, the Grand Duchess Tatiana in 1897, Grand Duchess Maria in 1899, and Grand Duchess Anastasia in 1901, before their son Alexei was born on 12 August 1904. The young heir was afflicted with Hemophilia B, a hereditary disease that prevents blood from clotting properly, which at that time was untreatable and usually led to an untimely death. As a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, Alexandra carried the same gene mutation that afflicted several of the major European royal houses, such as Prussia and Spain. Hemophilia, therefore, became known as “the royal disease”. Through Alexandra, the disease had passed on to her son. As all of Nicholas and Alexandra’s daughters were assassinated with their parents and brother in Yekaterinburg in 1918, it is not known whether any of them inherited the gene as carriers.

Saint Seraphim of Sarov (Russian: Серафим Саровский; 30 July [O.S. 19 July] 1754 (or 1759) - 14 January [O.S. 2 January] 1833), born Prokhor Moshnin (Прохор Мошнин), is one of the most renowned Russian saints and is venerated both in the Eastern Orthodox Church and the Catholic Church. He is generally considered the greatest of the 19th-century startsy (elders). Seraphim extended the monastic teachings of contemplation, theoria and self-denial to the layperson.

In 1903, Nicholas threw himself into an ecclesiastical crisis regarding the canonisation of Seraphim of Sarov. The previous year, it had been suggested that if he were canonised, the imperial couple would beget a son and heir to throne. While Alexandra demanded in July 1902 that Seraphim be canonised in less than a week, Nicholas demanded that he be canonised within a year. Despite a public outcry, the Church bowed to the intense imperial pressure, declaring Seraphim worthy of canonisation in January 1903. That summer, the imperial family travelled to Sarov for the canonisation. [53]

“The Great Game” was a political and diplomatic confrontation that existed for most of the 19th century and beginning of the 20th century between the British Empire and the Russian Empire, over Afghanistan and neighbouring territories in Central and South Asia.

It also had direct consequences in Persia and British India. Britain was fearful of Russia invading India to add to the vast empire that Russia was building. As a result, there was a deep atmosphere of distrust and the talk of war between the two major European empires.[1][2][3] Britain made it a high priority to protect all the approaches to India, and the “great game” is primarily how the British did this. Some historians have concluded that Russia had no plans involving India, as the Russians repeatedly stated to the British.[4]

Leroy Fletcher Prouty was born in Massachusetts on 24th January, 1917. He graduated from Massachusetts State College in 1941 with a Bachelor's degree.

During the Second World War he served as a army tank commander. He later joined the United States Air Force (USAAF) and in 1943 became the personal pilot of General Omar Bradley. Later that year he flew Chiang Kai-shek to the Tehran Conference.

Omar Nelson Bradley was a senior officer of the United States Army during and after World War II, holding the rank of General of the Army. Bradley was the first Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and oversaw the U.S. military's policy-making in the Korean War.

Prouty also became involved in work for the Office of Strategic Services (OSS). In 1945 he served on Okinawa and was involved in transporting the bodyguard of General Douglas MacArthur to Tokyo. In 1946 Prouty was assigned by the U.S. Army to Yale University. In 1950 he established Air Defense Command and during the Korean War was based in Japan where he was Military Manager for Tokyo International Airport.

In 1955 Prouty was assigned to coordinate operations between the USAAF and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). For the next nine years he worked for the Pentagon. He was Briefing Officer for the Secretary of Defense (1960-61), Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Chief of Special Operations

Colonel Prouty retired from the United States Air Force (USAAF) in 1964 and was awarded the Joint Chiefs of Staff Commendation Medal. He later worked for the General Aircraft Corporation (1964-65) and First National Bank (1965-68). He was also a senior director of a government and military marketing organization.

In 1973 Prouty published his book The Secret Team. In this controversial work Prouty claimed that the CIA had worked on behalf of the interests of a "high cabal" of industrialists and bankers. Prouty thought that the Executive Action programme had not only been used against foreign leaders. He also claimed that the CIA was involved in the killing of President John F. Kennedy [Operation 40 most likely]. Prouty even named Edward Lansdale as the leader of the operation. He claimed he was in Dallas on the day of the assassination: "He was there like the orchestra leader, coordinating these things."

Edward Teller, who together with E. O. Lawrence was one of the driving forces behind the founding of the Lab, served as its second director. The Lab was well along in the development effort for the Navy's Polaris missile warhead, the Lab's first military design project and a major success in miniaturizing nuclear devices. The Polaris design was confirmed in an Operation Hardtack shot in 1958, only a few months before testing was halted by the international nuclear-test moratorium.

The test moratorium was perhaps Teller's greatest challenge as director, as he was faced with keeping the Lab viable and the people working on nuclear designs, even though they couldn't conduct any tests. During this time, plans were laid for a program exploring the peaceful uses of nuclear explosives-Project Plowshare.

In 1960, Teller resigned as director to become professor of physics at large for the University of California. He later served as chairman for the UC Davis Department of Applied Sciences at Livermore, as a Laboratory associate director, and as director emeritus. He also served as senior research fellow at the Hoover Institution of Stanford University.

Teller was best known to the public for his work on the development of nuclear explosives and for his advocacy of a strong defense for America. He was a noted physicist with more than 100 technical publications, several books, some patents, and numerous articles in the popular media.

Born in Budapest, Hungary on January 8, 1908, Teller received his Ph.D. in physics under Werner Heisenberg in 1930, and continued to work under him for another year. From 1931-32, he worked at the University of Göttingen, associated with James Franck. With the rise of the Nazis he left Germany, and from 1933-34 he worked in Copenhagen with Niels Bohr on a Rockefeller Fellowship. At this time, he was married.

After a short period in London, he was appointed Professor of Physics at the George Washington University in Washington, D.C., where he continued to work until 1941.

Prior to 1939, and the announcement to the scientific community of the discovery of fission, Teller was engaged as a theoretical physicist working in the fields of quantum physics, molecular physics, and nuclear physics. In 1941, his interest turned to the use of nuclear energy, both fission and fusion. He began work on the Manhattan Project at Columbia University and the University of Chicago with Enrico Fermi and Leo Szilard. In 1943, he joined Los Alamos and continued his work on both fission explosions and early plans on thermonuclear explosives. In 1946, he returned to the University of Chicago for two years as professor, again as a close associate of Enrico Fermi and Maria Mayer.

From 1949-50 he was again at Los Alamos, concentrating on the hydrogen bomb and contributing to the decision to make the thermonuclear reactions a major part of the US defense program.

In 1952, at the time of the first test of the hydrogen bomb, Teller joined the University of California at Berkeley and started work at the newly founded Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. In 1953, he was named as professor of physics at the University as well as associate director, and from 1958 to 1960, director of the Laboratory.

Among his many honors, Teller was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 2003 by George Bush, just a few months before his death in September of that year. He was presented with the National Medal of Science for 1982 by President Ronald Reagan, as well as the Presidential Citizens Medal in 1989. He was also a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the American Nuclear Society.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
SELECT COMMITTEE ON ASSASSINATIONS,
Washington, D.C., March 29, 1979.

Hon. EDMUND L. HENSHAW, JR.,
Clerk of the House,
U. S. Capitol, Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. HENSHAW: On behalf of the Select Committee on Assassinations, and pursuant to the mandate of House Resolutions 222 and 433, 95th Congress, and House Resolution 49, 96th Congress, I am filing for presentation to the House of Representatives the enclosed Final Report with Additional and Dissenting Views of the Committee.

This supplements the Summary of Findings and Recommendations filed on January 2, 1979 (H.R. Rept. No. 95-1828, 95th Congress, 2d session (1979)).

Sincerely,
LOUIS STOKES, Chairman.

When the leader of a great nation is assassinated, those initially suspected always include his adversaries. When President John F. Kennedy was struck down by rifle fire in Dallas in November 1963, many people suspected Cuba and its leader, Fidel Castro Ruz, of involvement in the assassination, particularly after it was learned that Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin, had sought to travel to Cuba in September 1963.(1) To evaluate those suspicions properly, it is necessary to look at Cuban-American relations in the years immediately before and after President Kennedy took office.

(1) Bay of Pigs.-After much deliberation, President Kennedy gave the go-ahead for a landing of anti-Castro Cubans, with U.S. support, at the Bay of Pigs on the southern coast of Las Villas Province. It was launched on April 17, 1961, but it was thwarted by Cuban troops, said to have been commanded by Castro himself.

On President Kennedy's orders, no U.S. military personnel actually fought on Cuban soil, but U.S. sponsorship of the landing was readily apparent. President Kennedy publicly acknowledged "sole responsibility" for the U.S. role in the abortive invasion.

After the Bay of Pigs debacle, the tension continued to escalate. As early as April 20, President Kennedy reaffirmed, in a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, that the United States was resolved not to abandon Cuba to communism.(18) On May 1, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Latin American Affairs that if the Castro regime engaged in acts of aggression, the United States would “defend itself.” On May 17, the House of Representatives passed a resolution declaring Cuba to be “a clear and present danger” to the Western Hemisphere. Throughout 1961 and 1962, U.S. policy was to subject Cuba to economic isolation and to support stepped-up raids by anti-Castro guerrillas, many of which were planned with the assassination of Castro and other Cuban officials as a probable consequence, if not a specific objective. (21) The Cuban Government, in turn, assumed often correctly- that the raids were instigated and directed by the U.S. Government.(22) In preparation for another large-scale attack, the Castro regime sought and received increased military support from the Soviet Union.

(2) Cuban missile crisis.-All-out war between the United States and the U.S.S.R. was narrowly averted in the Cuban missile crisis in the fall of 1962. On October 22, President Kennedy announced that U.S. photographic reconnaissance flights had discovered that work was underway in Cuba on offensive missile sites with a nuclear strike capability. On October 23, the President issued a proclamation imposing a quarantine on the delivery of offensive weapons to Cuba, to be enforced by a U.S. naval blockade.

The committee’s investigation revealed that military intelligence officials had opened a file on Oswald because he was perceived as a possible counterintelligence threat. Robert E. Jones testified before the committee that in June 1963 he had been serving as operations officer of the 112th Military Intelligence Group at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. 33 Under the group’s control were seven regions encompassing five States: Texas, Louisiana. Arkansas, New Mexico and Oklahoma. Jones was directly responsible for ounterintelligence operations, background investigations, domestic intelligence and any special operations in this five-State area. He believed that Oswald first came to his attention in mid-1963 through information provided to the 112th MIG by the New Orleans Police Department to the effect that Oswald had been arrested there in connection with Fair Play for Cuba Committee activities.

As a result of this information, the 112th Military Intelligence Group took an interest in Oswald as a possible counterintelligence threat.(212) It collected information from local agencies and the military central records facility, and opened a file under the names Lee Harvey Oswald and A.J. Hidell.(213) Placed in this file were documents and newspaper articles on such topics as Oswald's defection to the Soviet Union, his travels there, his marriage to a Russian national, his return to the United States, and his pro-Cuba activities in New Orleans.

Jones related that on November 22, 1963, while in his quarters at Fort Sam Houston, he heard about the assassination of President Kennedy. (Returning immediately to his office, he contacted MIG personnel in Dallas and instructed them to intensify their liaisons with Federal, State and local agencies and to report back any information obtained. Early that afternoon, he received a telephone call from Dallas advising that an A.J. Hidell had been arrested or had come to the attention of law enforcement authorities. Jones checked the MIG indexes, which indicated that there was a file on Lee Harvey Oswald, also known by the name A. J. Hidell. Pulling the file, he telephoned the local FBI office in San Antonio to notify the FBI that he had some information. He soon was in telephone contact with the Dallas FBI office, to which he summarized the documents in the file. He believed that one person with whom he spoke was FBI Special-Agent-in-Charge J. Gordon Shanklin. He may have talked with the Dallas FBI office more than one time that day.

Jones testified that his last activity with regard to the Kennedy assassination was to write an “after action” report that summarized the actions he had taken, the people he had notified and the times of notification. In addition, Jones believed that this “after action” report included information obtained from reports filed by the military intelligence agents who performed liaison functions with the Secret Service in Dallas on the day of the assassination. This “after action” report was then maintained in the Oswald file. Jones did not contact, nor was he contacted by, any other law enforce-ment or intelligence agencies concerning information that he could provide on Oswald. To Jones’ knowledge, neither the FBI nor any law enforcement agency ever requested a copy of the military intelligence file on Oswald. To his surprise, neither the FBI, Secret Service, CIA nor Warren Commission ever interviewed him. No one ever directed him to withhold any information; on the other hand, he never came forward and offered anyone further information relevant to the assassination investigation because he “felt that the information that [he] had provided was sufficient and …a matter of record. …”

Questions had been raised about the contents of some FBI communications on November 22, 1963, that reflected information allegedly provided by military intelligence. In his testimony, Jones clarified several points and corrected several errors in these communications.

The committee found this “routine” destruction of the Oswald file extremely troublesome, especially when viewed in light of the Department of Defense’s failure to make this file available to the Warren Commission. Despite the credibility of Jones’ testimony, without access to this file, the question of Oswald’s possible affiliation with military intelligence could not be fully resolved. (18) The Oswald photograph in Office of Naval Intelligence files.- The Office of Naval Intelligence’s (ONI) Oswald file contained a photograph of Oswald, taken at the approximate time of his Marine Corps induction. It was contained in an envelope that had on it the language “REC’D 14 November 1963” and “CIA 77978.” These markings raised the possibility that Oswald had been in some way associated with the CIA.

In response to it committee inquiry, the Department of Defense stated that the photograph had been obtained by ONI as a result of an October 4, 1963 CIA request for two copies of the most recent photographs of Oswald so that an attempt could be made to verify his reported presence in Mexico City. The requested copies, however, were not made available to the CIA until after the President’s assassination.34 Because of the absence of documentation, no explanation could be given for how or when the Office of Naval Intelligence received this particular photograph of Oswald.

The committee’s review of CIA cable traffic confirmed that cable No. 77978, dated October 24, 1963, was in fact a request for two copies of the Department of the Navy’s most recent photograph of Lee Henry [sic] Oswald. Moreover, review of other cable traffic corroborated the Agency’s desire to determine whether Lee Harvey Oswald had, in fact, been in Mexico City.

The committee concluded, therefore, that the ONI photograph of Oswald bearing a reference to the CIA, was not evidence that Oswald was a CIA agent. Again, however, the destruction of the military file on Oswald prevented the committee from resolving the question of Oswald’s possible affiliation with military intelligence.

Oswald in Mexico City.-The committee also considered whether Oswald’s activities in Mexico City in the fall of 1963 were indicative of a relationship between him and the CIA. This aspect of the committee’s investigation involved a complete review both of alleged Oswald associates and of various CIA operations outside of the United States.

The committee found no evidence of any relationship between Oswald and the CIA. Moreover, the Agency's investigative efforts prior to the assassination regarding Oswald's presence in Mexico City served to confirm the absence of any relationship with him. Specifically, when apprised of his possible presence in Mexico City, the Agency both initiated internal inquiries concerning his background and, once informed of his Soviet experience, notified other potentially interested Federal agencies of his possible contact with the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City. (232) Conclusion

Based on the committee's entire investigation, it concluded that the Secret Service, FBI and CIA were not involved in the assassination. The committee concluded that it is probable that the President was assassinated as a result of a conspiracy. Nothing in the committee's investigation pointed to official involvement in that conspiracy. While the committee frankly acknowledged that its investigation was not able to identify the members of the conspiracy besides Oswald, or the extent of the conspiracy, the committee believed that it did not include the Secret Service, Federal Bureau of Investigation, or Central Intelligence Agency.

As noted, the military file on Oswald, presumably including the ONI photograph, was destroyed by the Department of Defense.

-- (4) 544 Camp Street.-Banister's firm occupied an office in 1963 in the Newman Building at 531 Lafayette Street. (204)

Another entrance to the building was at 544 Camp Street, the address Oswald had stamped on his Fair Play for Cuba Committee handouts. (During the summer of 1963, Ferrie frequented 544 Camp Street regularly as a result of his working relationship with Banister.

Another occupant of the Newman Building, was the Cuban Revolutionary Council, whose chief New Orleans delegate until 1962 was Sergio Arcacha Smith.

He was replaced by Luis Rabel who, in turn, was succeeded by Frank Bartes. The committee interviewed or deposed all three CRC New Orleans delegates. (Arcacha said he never encountered Oswald and that he left New Orleans when he was relieved of his CRC position in early 1962. (Rabel said he held the post from January to October 1962, but that he likewise never knew or saw Oswald and that the only time he went to the Newman Building was to remove some office materials that Arcacha had left there. Bartes said the only time he was in contact with Oswald was in their courtroom confrontation, that he ran the CRC chapter from an office in his home and that he never visited an office at either 544 Camp Street or 531 Lafayette Street.

The committee, on the other hand, developed information that, in 1961, Banister, Ferrie, and Arcacha were working together in the anti-Castro cause. Banister, a fervent anti-Communist, was helping to establish Friends of Democratic Cuba as an adjunct to the New Orleans CRC chapter run by Arcacha in an office in the Newman Building. Banister was also conducting background investigations of CRC members for Arcacha. (Ferrie, also strongly anti-Communist and anti-Castro, was associated with Arcacha (and probably Banister) in anti-Castro activism.

I Edward Paul Donegan assert with mulitple connected corroborating sources assert that because Glorian Donegan was a daughter of Maria Kutschera and a Windsor the Kutschera history of her was part of blackmail to get her to agree or simply take eggs from her without permission for sleeper agents including for overthrow of Indonesia and this has biologically linked the Donegns to Obamas and others.

Further Edward Paul Donegan asserts the Burns family, Bush family and political allies, the Wray family, and others continue to coverup cold war wetdivision history with ongoing assassinations.

Both Col Leroy F. Prouty AND Jen Moore were familiar with the Donegan story of VP Richard Nixon Executive Action backed by the Vatican as well and was part of James Jesus Angleton, the Dulles brothers, and others CIA activities the Roman Catholics parishners would not back.

okay I'm good I was going to touch the last few interviews to the last video

I'm actually obviously in the same place overlooking the beautiful city of Washington DC [and the apartment of Glorian Donegan once again] as the lights go down in a great location but it's too hard to attach multiple interviews without them getting kind of mixed up in order so the last video I did I I can't on the pinned tweet is interview number three and that goes into a little bit about my meeting this child of one of Hitler's top codons.

She was a you know kind of German royalty (married Barron Von Trapp and probably had hopes of marrying a Windsor) she was a Nazi at 8 years old and her survival through the war and eventually get into the United States I didn't go into much detail on part number three so in this interview it is a very extensive detail actually about my meeting her in 2009-2010 the secret she shared with me the doctor documentation transcripts pictures proof identities and certain people and really help bridge the gap for me from what I knew in my various professions including law enforcement and psychology and what I learned working undercover [CIA] positions and through my research and obviously interested interesting and interesting.

Excuse me in history and political science but she was that one of the major probably the major gap-filler for me.

She was a legitimate child of when I'm Nazis top guys and he set up a one ofhis first kind of command centers inside her father's theater her father owned all the theaters in Munich in Germany at the time which 1930s 3-8 was very rare and so those theaters were used to indoctrinate soldiers and children and various people and so the this person that I met was 70 91 I met her and she died at age 80 a year and a half but I did spend a year and a half with her going into the most traumatic human experiences that I've ever heard and I've heard many many horrible tragic trauma things and seeing them as well.

So that's what this interview is about I hope you enjoy it and of course it goes even further into like I said identities and starting to reveal some of that so this is interviewed number four

Indonesia 1958: Nixon, the CIA, and the Secret War

By L. Fletcher Prouty

> Blood ran in the streets. Villages were wiped out and a million people massacred in a battle for the riches and political control of Indonesia.
> Nixon and the CIA wanted Sukarno overthrown. But the creator of Indonesia knew how to fight.

A letter from one of the most beautiful women in the world lies buried in a stack of mail on President Ford's desk. Written in Paris on July 24, 1975, by Dewi Sukarno, the former First Lady of Indonesia and widow of Dr. Achmed Sukarno, the charismatic Father of Indonesia, the letter is an appeal to President Ford for a complete explanation of the CIA-led and supported rebellions that took place in Indonesia in 1958 and 1965. It is not well known in the United States that the 1958 rebellion led to a major Indonesian civil war. The CIA-inspired uprising in Indonesia, unlike the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, was a full-scale military operation. The Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961 was made by a thin brigade of about 1,500 Cuban exiles trained by the CIA in Guatemala. But the 1958 Indonesian action involved no less than 42,000 CIA-armed rebels supported by a fleet of bombers and vast numbers of four-engine transport aircraft as well as submarine assistance from the U.S. Navy. It also involved a major training and logistical supporting effort on the part of the Philippines, Okinawa, Taiwan, and Singapore. But despite this massive armed force, the 1958 rebellion, like the Bay of Pigs invasion, was a total failure. Sukarno's army drove the rebels on Sumatra and Celebes into the sea.

There are some who might call the 1965 uprising a success. At least the rebels were not driven into the sea. However, for the United States it was a fantastically costly endeavor. The rebellion ended in the most massive and ruthless bloodbath since World War II. While the headlines in the United States dealt with the slaughter in Vietnam, the press of the rest of the world heaped blame on the United States for the barbaric massacre in Indonesia. The victorious new government of General Suharto proceeded to assassinate nearly one million people. This terrible slaughter and the ensuing imprisonment of tens of thousands of Indonesians stirred Dewi Sukarno to seek President Ford's assistance in gaining the release of her countrymen from prison.

Dewi Sukarno has received no answer. But even without a reply she knows. The silence from Washington speaks for itself. A denial, if true, would have come without hesitation. The Indonesians know. The Latins had a phrase for it, “Is fecit cui prodest” - the perpetrator of a crime is he who profits by it. Today, major U.S. enterprises are plundering the raw material wealth of Indonesia - rubber, tin, and oil - in a manner that is more vile than what is happening in Chile. And there is no one to stop them.

Achmed Sukarno was one of those rare men who rose during the hours of crisis to unite one hundred million people and lead them out of the ashes of World War II. Sukarno came to liberate his country from the Japanese, the Dutch, the Portuguese, and from all others who were ready to enslave his country once again. He established his government on the “Five Pillars”: (l) belief in one supreme God (2) just and civilized humanity (3) unity of Indonesia (4) democracy (5) social justice.

Sukarno was forced to thread his way between communism and capitalism. His independence made him both friends and enemies. His worst enemies came from his polyglot people who are scattered over more than 3,000 islands. These islands make up the world’s largest archipelago; they stretch along the equator for over 3,400 miles and are located in Southeast Asia between the Philippines and Australia. From one of these islands came Lt. Col. Alex Kawilarang, the military attache serving in Washington who was to defect to the rebel forces and lead the rebel contingent on Sumatra, the Indonesian island richest in natural resources.

His Excellency President Gerald Ford
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President,

As the widow of the late President Sukarno and being the only member of the family living overseas, I address myself to you, being deeply alarmed and disturbed by numerous and persistent reports in the international press. For instance, the CIA is said to have spied on my husband: manufactured a fake film in order to slander the good name and honor of Sukarno: prepared an assassination attempt against him and conspired to oust him from power to estrange him from the Indonesian people by accusing him of collaborating with international communism in betrayal of Indonesian independence, which of course was totally absurd.

My husband has repeatedly informed me that he was fully aware of these immoral, illegal, subversive, anti-Indonesian activities against his beloved Indonesia, his people, and against him personally.

I would like to request from you, as well as from the responsible Congressional Committees in the United States a full explanation about these reports and reprehensible practices as carried out by an official United States Government Agency in the name of several American Presidents and Governments.

Both in 1958 and in 1965, the CIA directly interfered in the internal affairs of Indonesia. In 1958, this monstrous action led to civil war.

In 1965, it led to the ultimate takeover by a pro-Amencan military regime, while hundreds of thousands of innocent peasants and loyal citizens were massacred in the name of this insane crusade against international communism. Still today, ten years later, many tens of thousands of true patriots and Sukarnoists are locked up in jails and concentration camps being denied the simplest and most elementary human rights. American companies and aggressive foreign interests are indiscriminately plundering the natural riches of Indonesia to the advantage of the few and the disadvantage of the millions of unemployed and impoverished masses.

I must now ask you, Mr. President, in the name of freedom and justice, in the name of decency in relations between states and statesmen, between powerful nations and developing lands, in the name of the Indonesian people and the Sukarno family: did the United States of America commit these hideous crimes against Indonesia and against the founder of the nation? Will your Government be prepared to accept responsibility for these evil practices? Over one hundred million Indonesians have been brainwashed, as was the rest of the world by the present regime's propaganda to believe that the communists carried out the insurrection. My countrymen, as well as everyone else, have the right to know the truth of the historic facts. It will be the painful duty for America now to reveal the CIA involvement in Indonesia and release all information and documents relevant to who really initiated the terrifying bloodbath that led to the overthrow of the legal Government and to the inhuman treatment in house arrest lasting three years until my husband's death.

In closing, I would like to strongly appeal to you, Mr. President, to use your influence with the military regime in Jakarta, to immediately free those many thousands of political prisoners, men and women, former cabinet ministers, writers and journalists, who I know are entirely innocent of the crime of treason they have been accused of. If the United States were to be instrumental in helping to improve the fate of so many thousands of courageous compatriots, I think the entire Indonesian nation would be grateful and Indonesians would regain their confidence in America's intentions towards the Third World.

Respectfully,

R. S. Dewi Sukarno

What is not generally known about the complex Indonesian struggle is the role that was played by the then Vice President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, and the bitter aftermath that involved the sudden ouster of Allen Dulles' protege, Frank Wisner, who at that time was the head of the clandestine arm of the CIA.

After Watergate, when Anthony Lukas wrote in his book Nightmare, about the growing mistrust between Nixon and the Director of Central Intelligence, Richard Helms, he could have added that since the 1958 Indonesian rebellion there were many in the CIA who made a career of hating Nixon because of what he had done to Frank Wisner, among others.

The Indonesian campaign began rather casually as so many CIA ventures do. Few if any ever originate at the top.

During an unguarded conversation in Washington the Indonesian military attache mentioned earlier made it known to certain U.S. military acquaintances that there were many prominent and strong people in Indonesia who would be ready to rise against Sukarno if they were given a little support and encouragement from the United States. It happened that one of those U.S. military friends he talked to was not a military man at all, but a member of the CIA. The provocative words got back to Frank Wisner, then the Deputy Director of Plans. He was in charge of the CIA's clandestine activity and he authorized agents to follow up on that first conversation.

The Indonesian attache was wined and dined and encouraged to talk more. Reasons for the attache's return to Indonesia on official business were successfully arranged. He was accompanied by CIA agents traveling under the cover of "U.S. military" personnel. During this visit they spoke with rebel leaders. They learned enough about the potential strength of this opposition to encourage the CIA to set in motion its biggest operation up to that date.

In the Philippines there was a strong nucleus of military men, chief among them a Colonel Valeriano, who had been President Magsaysay's military assistant. He had also worked on paramilitary exercises with the CIA during the Magsaysay campaign against the leftist rebel Huk movement. This military group had gained considerable power during the Magsaysay tenure. Many of these special warfare experts from the Philippines had volunteered for duty in South Vietnam in 1955 when the CIA was deeply involved in providing undercover support for the new and uncertain regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

By early 1958 these Filipinos and their CIA counterparts were prepared to involve the Philippines in the rebellion against Sukarno by setting up special warfare “Green Beret” training bases and by providing the Indonesian revolutionary council with clandestine air bases. One of those bases was on Palawan, the most western island of the Philippine archipelago, in the vicinity of the airfield at Puerto Princessa on Honda Bay. The other base was on the big southern island of Mindanao, near Davao Gulf.

Concurrently, in Washington, operations were being organized. Frank Wisner took over direct command of the everyday operations of the Indonesian project. A large staff under Desmond Fitzgerald of the Far East Division was set up. The most active element of this special staff came from the CIA’s clandestine Air Division which at that time was under the control of Dick Helms. As the plans expanded for this major undertaking, requirements for military equipment, people, aircraft, weapons, bases, submarines, and communications skyrocketed.

In the Pentagon there are thousands of nondescript offices in which all sorts of tasks are done. One of these unobtrusive offices was an Air Force Plans Division office. One day in 1958 two men from the CIA entered that office. After being identified they were permitted entrance to an interior office that was the “Focal Point” office for all U.S. Air Force Support of the clandestine operations of the CIA. I had established that office in 1955 on orders from Gen. Thomas D. White, then Chief of Staff of the Air Force. This came about after several meetings with Allen W. Dulles, the Director of Central Intelligence, and others. When the CIA men entered that office in 1958, I was still in charge.

The agents outlined the Indonesian Plan, the Philippine support and training program, and told me about their own special operations staff that had been put together specifically for this vast project. Then they urgently requested light bombardment aircraft and long-range transport aircraft. We decided to take a number of twin engine B-26 aircraft out of bone-yard storage, put them through a retrofit line, and modify them so that they could be armed with a special 50-caliber machine gun package of eight guns, in the nose of the plane. This would give the B-26 more firepower than it ever had during the Korean War or World War II. The project was given top priority and covered in deep secrecy. Programs for pilot training and the recruitment of "mercenaries" were established.

Concurrent with our work the CIA was putting together a "wartime" operational staff. Lt. Gen. Earl Barnes, who had been a senior air commander during World War II under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was brought in to run all clandestine air activities.

At that time Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer was Commander in Chief of the Ryukyu Command on Okinawa. One day he received a call from General David M. Shoup, the U.S. Marine Commander on Okinawa, asking if the Army could spare 14,000 rifles for a Marine requirement. Surprised at the Marine request for such a large order of guns, Lemnitzer acquiesced nonetheless and ordered the transfer of these weapons on the condition that they would be quickly replaced.

High on the ridge line of central Okinawa overlooking the city of Naha there was a modest size "Army" installation that hustled with considerable activity. This was the main CIA operational base in the Far East. It was under the direction of Ted Shannon, one of the Agency's most powerful agents. It was Shannon's office that had actually requested 42,000 rifles from General Shoup and since the order was so large Shoup had been unable to supply them, and had therefore borrowed 14,000 from the Army.

On nearby Taiwan, the CIA had another large facility - a “Navy” base known as the Naval Auxiliary Communication Center (NACC). This “Comm Center” controlled a large and very active air base a few miles south of Taiwan’s capital, Taipei, and the huge Air America facilities near Taipei and the city of Tainan.

The B-26 bombers were ready to fly and a special ferrying arrangement was made with the Air Force to fly them across the Pacific to the Philippines and Menado.

Rebel Indonesians, trained and equipped in the Philippines, were returned to Sumatra. Some were air-dropped and others landed on the beach from submarines that the U.S. Navy was operating, in support of the CIA, in the oceans south of Indonesia near the Christmas Islands.

The war was on.

On Feb. 9, 1958, rebel Colonel Maluddin Simbolon issued an ultimatum in the name of a provincial government, the Central Sumatran Revolutionary Council, calling for the formation of a new central government. Sukarno refused and called upon his loyal army commander, General Abdul Haris Nasution, to destroy the rebel forces. By Feb. 21 loyal forces had been airlifted to Sumatra and had begun the attack. The rebel headquarters was in the southern coastal city of Padang. Rebel strongholds stretched all the way to Medan, near the northern end of the island and not far from Malaysia.

This was important administratively because by that time Frank Wisner, the CIA Deputy Director of Plans, had set up his forward headquarters in Singapore and at the direction of the 5412 Committee of the National Security Council, headed by Nixon, Wisner occupied that faraway headquarters himself. (It should be noted that in 1958 Allen Dulles was the head of the CIA, his brother John Foster Dulles was the Secretary of State, Eisenhower was President, and Nixon, as Vice President, chaired the clandestine affairs committee, then known as the "Special Group 5412/2." In other words nothing was done in Indonesia that was not directed by Nixon. If an action had not been directed by the NSC, then it was done unlawfully by the CIA.)

In 1958 Allen Dulles would have brought such a major operation to the attention of the Special Group and he would operate with its approval. This was an essential step in national policy because it then empowered the Department of Defense to provide the necessary support requested by the CIA. Much of this fell within the area of my responsibility at Air Force Headquarters, and I was kept informed on a regular basis of approved action and of Nixon's keen interest in this project.

The rebellion flared sporadically from one end of Indonesia to the other.

While the CIA was supporting up to 100,000 rebels, the State Department professed innocence. The U.S. ambassador, Howard P. Jones, maintained that the United States had nothing to do with the rebellion and he protested the capture of the American oil properties. On the other hand, Sukarno had asked for more arms aid from the United States. He must have had strong suspicions about the source of rebel support. The vast number of guns, the bombers and heavy air transport aircraft dropping hundreds of tons of arms and equipment, as well as submarines supporting beach operations were just too sophisticated to be anything but major power ploys. Thus, his appeal for U.S. arms aid had the ring of gamesmanship.

Playing along with the game, John Foster Dulles issued a statement saying that the United States would not provide arms to either side. And while he was publishing that falsehood, the United States furnished and piloted B-26 bombers, and these were bombing shipping in the Makassar Straits. Some had even flown as far south as the Java Sea. Almost immediately all insurance rates on shipping to and from Indonesia went on a wartime scale and costs became so prohibitive that most shipping actually ceased. The bombing attacks, kept so quiet in the United States that they hardly made the news, were being viewed with great alarm by the rest of the world. What was "Top Secret" in Washington was barroom gossip in the capitals of the world.

While Wisner communicated with Washington clandestinely, anyone in the bar at the Raffles Hotel in Singapore, in the Peninsula Hotel in Kowloon, or even on the streets of Istanbul, could learn all about the "American CIA attack" on Sukarno.

The CIA was demanding so much support for its far-flung operations that a top-level committee was established in the Pentagon. Its purpose was to keep track of how much war equipment was being requested and sent to Indonesia. Not unlike the Lemnitzer-Shoup rifle problem, there were problems in the Pentagon because of the way the CIA requested equipment through phony "military" cover channels.

Early in this operation I had put some men from my office into the air-combat section in the Philippines, and the Air Force was reasonably well aware of what was going on. But that was not so for the other services. At the time, Admiral Arleigh Burke was the Chief of Naval Operations. He went one step further than we did. At the height of the rebel operations, Burke sent his Chief of Naval Intelligence, Admiral Luther Frost, to Jakarta, Indonesia's capital, where he stayed for several months carrying on a delicate relationship with the American ambassador and with the Indonesian naval chiefs. This, while U.S. Navy submarines were aiding the rebels south of Sumatra. It turned out to have been a masterful gambit because later, when the rebellion collapsed, the U.S. Navy was able to declare innocence. The Air Force was not so fortunate.

The pretense that the U.S. Government was in no way involved in this massive civil war against Sukarno was wearing thin. It was a reasonable cover as long as the United States could plausibly deny its role in the action. But one day, a lone B-26 out of the rebel CIA base at Menado, flying low over the Straits of Makassar, came upon an Indonesian ship - an ideal target. The pilot banked to take a good run at the ship and began strafing it with those eight lethal .50-caliber machine guns. He was committed to the attack before he found out that the freighter was armed. The B-26 was hit and it ditched near the ship. The pilot, an American named Allan Lawrence Pope, was picked up. Pope was identified as a former U.S. Air Force pilot. The cork was out of the bottle. Sukarno had his proof of U.S. involvement and he played his ace card for an international audience. That one plane and that one pilot cost the U.S. Government tens of millions of dollars in ransom and tribute during the next several years.

After the capture of Pope the rebellion rapidly fell apart. Loyal forces captured Donggala in central Celebes. And on far away Halmahera, government forces captured Jailolo. That ended all opposition except for the CIA-rebel air base at Menado. With the rebellion all but crushed, except for the continued existence of the main CIA force, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles ended the embargo of arms to Sukarno and agreed to send aid to the government of Indonesia! What wondrous duplicity! And Sukarno was not fooled. His forces had been fighting a major civil war inspired and clandestinely supported by the United States, while concurrently the overt branches of the U.S. Government acted as though nothing at all had happened.

By the end of June 1958 it was all over. Then a very strange and rare (rare in terms of normal bureaucracy) thing happened. During the months of this operation it had been my custom to visit the CIA special operations center.

One morning I caught the unmarked, dull-green CIA shuttle bus at the Pentagon and rode to the operations center. I went in. Not a soul was there. The place had been cleaned out. Office after office was absolutely bare. Finally I found one secretary. She was sitting in a straight-back chair and her telephone was on the floor. There were tears in her eyes. She took a call from time to time and gave guarded answers about the former members of that huge staff. The entire section had been scattered to the four corners of the world. A large number of top-level, experienced, clandestine agents and operators had vanished. It took our Air Force office, skilled as we were in the ways of the CIA, months to find some of them again.

Then we began to piece together what had happened. With the collapse of such a major effort and with the inability of the Government to deny plausibly before the world its role in the whole sordid affair, blame had to be placed somewhere. In an unprecedented action, Nixon had summarily fired Frank Wisner, along with some others. But Frank Wisner, a longtime OSS and CIA man, was a key intelligence officer. Few knew enough about his career to realize that he was senior, by far, to Helms and Colby. Clearly, he was Allen Dulles' heir apparent.

When the OSS had been deactivated after World War II by President Truman, it was Wisner who had kept a tight-knit band of professionals together. This small cadre kept valuable OSS records and, more importantly, they had maintained the delicate lines of communication with agents, spies, and underground personnel in Eastern Europe, Russia, and Germany. They held this fragile web together. Without them hundreds of people might have been killed and priceless assets destroyed. And Frank Wisner suddenly, almost whimsically, had been fired.

To a man, the Agency was aroused by this action. Rightly or wrongly, they hated Nixon for this. I remember being at meetings during which the name of Nixon would be mentioned and I have seen CIA men bristle and redden as though someone had let a poisonous snake loose in the room. Some vowed he would never become President.

Meanwhile the Agency moved to pull itself together. That one deft bloodbath appeared to end things. There was no Board of Inquiry as there was after the Bay of Pigs. And, remarkably, there was no public outcry as there would be a few years later after the U-2 scandal. The agency was busy sweeping things under the rug.

Meanwhile those special B-26s were all flown back to the States and based at Elgin Air Force Base in Flonda. That was late in 1958. By 1959 they began to stir again. A man named Castro had come to power in Cuba. During those fateful days in April 1961 it was those same B-26s that the CIA used to attack Cuba.

This is the story that Dewi Sukarno is asking President Ford to explain to her and to the Indonesian people. Actually, the 1958 civil war was child's play compared to the brutal bloodbath of 1965. Sukarno was in control after the 1958 disaster and he wrung a heavy tribute from the U.S. Government for its indiscretions. But in 1965 his game ended, like Allende's in Chile, with defeat. An attempted communist coup d'etat was defeated by General Suharto. Sukarno never made the great public statement that was to assure the success of the coup, and after its defeat and the ensuing bloodbath, he was stripped of his power. After a few years of ignominious house arrest the hero of all Indonesia died in 1970.

What was the story behind Nixon's harsh action against Wisner?

Was that the deep-rooted reason why CIA top-echelon insiders such as Dick Helms really hated and distrusted Nixon? In later years did they take out their grudge against him with a piece of tape on a Watergate doorway? There may never be answers to these questions, or perhaps they have been answered already. It is said that when the great volcanic mountain of Krakatoa in Indonesia blew up causing the greatest explosion the world had ever known, the dust of Indonesia was spread all over the world. The holocausts of 1958 and 1965 may have done the same thing.

the following is an excerpt from an interview conducted with L. Fletcher Prouty on May 6, 1989, regarding his book The Secret Team, The CIA and Its Allies in Control of the United States and the World, Prentice Hall, 1973. This segment recounts Prouty's experience when he found out that some things he had been doing for years in support of the CIA had not been known by the senior military officer in the armed forces - the chairman of the JCS - and that they had been done, most likely, in response to other authority. A transcript of this interview will be published in 1998 by rat haus reality press as the book Understanding Special Operations.

Prouty: … Millions and millions of dollars were poured into that exercise - a lot of people were involved in it - and it never went through any Air Force procurement. Now, the cleared individual - the man in the team - in the procurement offices, made papers that covered up this gap. There were papers in the files but they had never been worked on - they were simple dummy papers in the files. Now, we could do things like that with no trouble at all. The U2 was started like that. That's how the U2 got off the ground. Ostensibly, purchased by the Air Force, but not paid for by the Air Force, and so on.

So, when I say that this team was quite effective, it was very effective, very strong, handled a lot of money, worked all over the world, thousands of people were involved. I know, one time, when I was speaking to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, at that time General Lemnitzer, he said, "You know, I've known of two or three units in the Army that were supporting CIA. But you're talking about quite a few. How many were there?" Well, at that time, there were 605. Well General Lemnitzer had no idea. It's amazing - heres the top man in the military and he had no idea that we were supporting that many CIA units. Not military units - they were phony military units. They were operating with military people but they were controlled entirely, they were financed by the CIA. Six hundred and five of them. And I'm sure that from my day it increased; I know it didn't decrease.

So, people don't understand the size and the nature of this clandestine activity that is designed for clandestine operations all over the world. And it goes back, again, to things we've spoken of earlier, that that activity must be under somebody's control. There is no law for the control of covert operations other than at the National Security Council level. And if the National Security Council does not sign the directives, issue the directives, for covert operations, then nobody does. And that's when it becomes a shambles as we saw in the Contra affair and in other things. But when the National Security Council steps in and directs it and holds that control, then things are run properly. And we've seen that during the last decade theres been quite a few aberrations where they were talking about Iran or Latin America or even part of the Vietnam War itself. In fact, it was in the Vietnam War where the thing really began to come apart - it just outgrew itself and the leadership role disintegrated. And we see the worst of it in the Iran-Contra affair.

Ratcliffe: Following on that you write about Dulles being able to “move them up and deeper into their cover jobs” - would this be a function of them being there longer than the people who would be promoted to something else in time?

Prouty: Yes. When we put them in, they might be somebody’s assistant. And they’ve been there for three years and the man that was above them, who was probably a political appointee, leaves and they might move this man up there. Or when a newer political appointee comes, he has no knowledge that this man is really from CIA. He’s just a strong person in his office and he gives him a broader role. Sometimes these people (chuckling) were working - well, one man I know was in FAA and we needed his work to help us with FAA as a focal point there. He’d been there so long the FEA had him in a very big, very responsible job, and you might say 90% of his work was regular FAA work. A very strong individual. Well, that meant that when we needed him to help us with some of our activities on the covert side of things, he was in a much better position to handle this than he had been originally.

This happened with quite a few of them. That’s why I say in the case of Frank Hand, he had been in the Defense Department so long that he was able to handle really major operations that weren’t even visualized at the time he was assigned. All this carries over into many other things. I pointed out that the Office of Special Operations under General Erskine had the responsibility for the National Security Agency as well as CIA contacts and the State Department, and so on. Well, as we filled up these positions, some of them became dominant in some those organizations, such as NSA.

Early people in this program have created quite a career for themselves in other work. For instance, a young man in this system was Major Haig. Major Al Haig. He went up through the system. He was working as a deputy to the Army's cleared Focal Point Officer for Agency support matters who was the General Counsel in the Army, a man named Joe Califano - a very prominent lawyer today. When the General Counsel of the Army was moved up into the office of Secretary of Defense later - in McNamara's office - he carried with him this then-Lieutenant Colonel Al Haig up to the office of Secretary of Defense. And during the Johnson Administration when they moved to the White House, Califano and Haig moved to the White House. Then during the Nixon time, Haig with all his experience in the White House worked with Kissinger. And you can see that it was this attachment through the covert side which gave Haig his ability to do an awful lot of things that people didn't understand, because he had this whole team behind him. To be even more up-to-date, there was a Major Secord in our system. And Major Secord is the same General Secord you've been reading about in the Iran-Contra business.

A lot of these people worked right up into the White House. And there were these same assigned people even at the White House level that really were working on this CIA covert work rather than the jobs that they seemed to hold, that the public understood was the job that they were working for. It's a much more effective system than people have thought it was … .

Ratcliffe: You describe what seems to be a very enlightening day - an event in 1960 or 1961 when you briefed "the Chairman of the JCS on a matter that had come up involving the CIA and the military." [p.257] As you described it:

The chairman was General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, and his commandant was General David M. Shoup. They were close friends and had known each other for years. When the primary subject of the briefing had ended General Lemnitzer asked me about the Army cover unit that was involved in the operation. I explained what its role was and more or less added that this was a rather routine matter. Then he said, “Prouty, if this is routine, yet General Shoup and I have never heard of it before, can you tell me in round numbers how many Army units there are that exist as `cover` for the CIA?” I replied that to my knowledge at that time there were about 605 such units, some real, some mixed, and some that were simply telephone drops. When he heard that he turned to General Shoup and said, “You know, I realized that we provided cover for the Agency from time to time; but I never knew that we had anywhere near so many permanent cover units and that they existed all over the world.”

I then asked General Lemnitzer if I might ask him a question. He said I could. “General”, I said, “during all of my military career I have done one thing or another at the direction of a senior officer. In all those years and in all of those circumstances I have always believed that someone, either at the level of the officer who told me to do what I was doing or further up the chain of command, knew why I was doing what I had been directed to do and that he knew what the reason for doing it was. Now I am speaking to the senior military officer in the armed forces and I have just found out that some things I have been doing for years in support of the CIA have not been known and that they have been done, most likely, in response to other authority. Is this correct?”

This started a friendly, informal, and most enlightening conversation, more or less to the effect that where the CIA was concerned there were a lot of things no one seemed to know.

Can you recount more of the details of this enlightening conversation for us?

Prouty: Well, you know I referred to it earlier. It astounded me, that day. I assumed that there were a lot things that the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was not aware of every day in the Air Force, in the Navy, and in the CIA. But I had never expected such a blanket answer, that he didn't know, and that General Shoup didn't. Now, what we were talking about was rather specific.

At the time of the rebellion in Indonesia when the CIA supported tens of thousands of troops with aircraft, and ships, submarines, and everything else, in an attempt to overthrow the government of Sukarno, we needed rifles pretty quick to support these rebels and I called out to Okinawa and found out that the Army didn't have enough rifles for what we wanted. We wanted about 42,000 rifles and they had about 28,000. But that he said he thought he could get - General Lemnitzer was a Commander at that time in Okinawa. So he was right up close to this thing. He said that he'd have somebody call the Marine Corps and see what he could get from them. Well, it just happened that General Shoup was the head of the Marine unit at Okinawa and he said, sure, he could provide the extra 14,000. So without delay, we had 4-engine aircraft - C-54's- -flown by Air America crews but under military cover - appeared to be military aircraft - come into Okinawa, pick up these 42,000 rifles, prepared for air drop in Indonesia. They'd fly down to the Philippines and then down to another base we had and then over into Indonesia and drop these rifles.

Well of course, we replaced those rifles. The General didn't know where they were going, we just borrowed them, and the unit that borrowed them was military and the call had come from the Pentagon. There was no problem with supplying the rifles. So years later, we replaced them. Well then when I told him about that in the Pentagon, he said he never knew where those rifles went and General Shoup said, "you know, Lem, when you asked me for 14,000 rifles, I thought you wanted them and, of course, being a good Marine, I gave you 14,000 rifles." He said, "you owe me 14,000." They were sitting there kidding but they never knew they went to Indonesia. You see, they never knew they were part of a covert operation going into Indonesia.

Well, this is true of a lot of things that go on. We kept the books in the Pentagon. We covered that. We got reimbursement for it. That part of it was all right. And that's what kept it from being a problem because as long as General Lemnitzer's forces got the 28,000 rifles back and Shoup got the 14,000 back for the total of 42,000, they didn't complain to anybody. They had their full strength of rifles. That's the magic of reimbursement.

Well, his kind of thing, on an established basis - the units are there - when I said there are 605 units, those are operating units- -now, some of them may only be telephone drops, because that's their function, they don't need a whole lot of people, they're just handling supplies, or something like that. But put this in present terms. When Colonel North believed that he had been ordered to take 2,008 Toe missiles and deliver them to Iran - see? - there has to be some way that the supply system can let those go. You can't just drive down there with a truck to San Antonio at the warehouse, and say, "I want 2,008 missiles." You have to have authority. And 2,008 Toe missiles - I don't know what one of them costs, but it's an awful lot of money, and somebody had to prepare the paperwork for the authorization to let the supply officer release those. And I'm sure they went to a cover unit that North was using for that purpose. But it appears from what we've heard from this that, unlike the way we used to run the cover operations, when these things got to Iran, these characters sold them them for money. In fact, they sold them for almost four times the listed value of these things.

And this is the problem Congress has been having - is what happened to the money after they got there. And you can see how the system developed. You see, originally, we developed it on this one-for-one basis. Another thing is we never used this kind of supply, to deliver grenades to the Contras and charge them $9.00 a grenade or whatever it was. We just delivered the grenades. It was part of a Government program. And the CIA would reimburse the Defense Department. Everything came out even. We didn't "sell" anything.

New chief Jaran faces bouts with arson, graffiti & break-ins retrieved from https://provincetown.wickedlocal.com/article/20090104/NEWS/301049897 and copied or modified to here

Fire and police officials started 2008 exhausted and worried, coming off a difficult period in 2007 when 13 deliberately set fires destroyed property, came close to killing one firefighter and made residents feel unsafe in their own homes.

The town lost its only ladder truck to an accident in November.

Fire and police officials started 2008 exhausted and worried, coming off a difficult period in 2007 when 13 deliberately set fires destroyed property, came close to killing one firefighter and made residents feel unsafe in their own homes.

The arsons resumed in March and April when five more fires were set, with one destroying artist Arthur Cohen's studio and several canvases he had stored there. Despite efforts by local, county and state police, the arsonist or arsonists were never caught. Since April, there have been no other incidents.

Police had more luck catching two graffiti artists, one of whom was allegedly responsible for dozens of "tagging" incidents on private and public property. And a new head cop was hired in May after a lengthy search. Chief Jeff Jaran moved to Provincetown from Bow, N.H., and was directed by Town Manager Sharon Lynn to "professionalize the department."

Posted Dec 11, 2013

PROVINCETOWN - Police Chief Jeff Jaran is now the former chief after the town manager fired him following a closed-door meeting with selectmen that lasted more than three hours on Wednesday night.

"The result at this level was expected," said Andrew Gambaccini, Jaran's attorney.

Jaran will dispute the termination at an arbitration hearing where he expects "full vindication," the attorney added. The former chief would not comment.

Jaran has been the subject of much public scrutiny ever since the May 7 election and following his angry reaction to a N.W.A song with anti-police lyrics played at The Squealing Pig pub.

Town Manager Sharon Lynn and the selectmen hired Jaran in 2008 from Bow, N.H., where he had been the police chief for four years.

Jaran has three years left on a five-year contract. He was paid about $127,000 in 2013, according to the contract.

Lynn suspended him on Sept. 12 after the police union issued a no-confidence vote in their chief. The union charged him with trying to get staff to vote for Selectman Austin Knight, as well as other inappropriate behavior.

Selectmen hired an independent investigator, Frank Rudewicz of Marcum LLP to look into the union's complaints as well as the incident at The Squealing Pig.

Town officials agreed to pay the former chief, who was fired in December 2013, about $150,000 so he would give up any > further options to sue the town, according to Selectman Thomas Donegan. That amount is on top of about $362,000 that an arbitration panel previously ordered the town to pay Jaran in lost benefits, salary with interest and legal fees. The agreement also means that the town cannot appeal the arbitration panel's decision.

> Since then, the selectmen have made a policy change so that if town counsel and the town manager have a strong disagreement, town counsel is obligated to tell the selectmen about it, Selectmen (Town Council) member Tom Donegan said.

In researching Mind Control, influencing behavoir by stimuli of often intense stimuli caustic to the listener, some will "lose it" and act out emotionally, and Jaran may have been baited to lash out.

Crisis Teams will create a crisis of peeping whereever I go and I will be ostrocized for it driving me into homeless shelters, further, my trust fund will be sued rewarding the real peepers of minor females or unsuspecting females since those peepers, at the seen, point the finger at my camera, thus they are the heroes.

In the modern Midnight Climax a role play occurs with Dominatrix punishing a bad exploiter of minor aged females. The person being punished will forge the permissions for biological assets or other property sieuzres in the role play, A "fin[ancial] Domme" suggest singing financial assets away if the community, all the parties in the role play, find a civil settlement acceptable of a transgression against minor females is detected while in roleplayl with adult females, thus the resolution of the matter preempts a criminal complaint since restitution was made.

Although I am not the person in the role play it seems the person in the role play uses my name and under “interrogation” gives up secrets about liking minors, not true of me.

I assert the assets seized for the genome usage rights is a source of black budget for CIA operations the adult entertainer environment, creating forged (black market/black money) property rights to biological or other assets, the rights permissions are actual forgeries and under blackmail the real Edward Donegan would have no reason to or no expectation to accede to.

A crisis actor working for church charities does something wrong, while identified as Edward Donegan by similar clothing, then concedes to harming his fellow church goers, I have nothing to do with any of these people, but because I am impersonated that impersonator moves my genome into charities and also for profit operations.

I live in an Al Capone world in which thsoe around me “claim the goods” the goods theirs if they pick fights with me, abusively.

The police are acting in concert with the abusers of me and want to help them sue me for the goods.

MKULTRA never ended and this is part of the Stalking the Church Committee hedl hearings on, Espionage units conducting impersonations and even surrogacy or other operations using adult entertainers.

The could call DARPA Brain Research into sexuality, etc., especiallly if genes modifying the brain are knocked down or turned on by gene therapy.

Operation Midnight Climax, as it was called, was a very real part of a larger covert project called MKULTRA

Mind Control? retrieved from The CIA's experimentation with LSD led to disastrous results. By Stephen Ornes August 3, 2008 and copied or modified to here

In 1953 the director of Central Intelligence, Allen W. Dulles, officially approved MKULTRA, which sought chemical, biological, and radiological approaches to interrogation and behavior modification. Early on, the experiments employed volunteers, but as the program grew, ordinary American citizens and foreign nationals became unsuspecting subjects in the studies. At least one death was directly attributed to the experiments: Army scientist Frank Olson drank Cointreau laced with LSD and committed suicide a week later.

"They launched into reckless experimentation without close medical supervision," says psychiatrist James S. Ketchum, whose book, Chemical Warfare Secrets Almost Forgotten, recounts his participation in a different Army project exploring the use of LSD as a chemical weapon. "Moral issues were considered minor if greater national security could be obtained."

The CIA's Secret Quest For Mind Control: Torture, LSD And A 'Poisoner In Chief' November 20 * Heard on Fresh Air

KINZER: In the early 1950s, Gottlieb hired this guy, George Hunter White, to run a safe house for him in New York City to which people would be lured off the street and then given LSD so CIA officers could watch them from an adjoining apartment through a one-way mirror. Later, White was moved to San Francisco, where he set up one of the craziest MKUltra projects that was known inside the agency as Operation Midnight Climax. This was an operation in which White would assemble a stable of prostitutes who would bring their men back to an apartment that the CIA hired and furnished, feed them LSD and George Hunter White would sit in an adjoining apartment sitting on a portable toilet, drinking pitchers of martinis while watching people having sex under the influence of LSD with the vague idea that this was somehow going to help the United States defeat communism. So these were the kind of people that naturally gravitate to a project like this one.

I am an Espionage victim and very unfairly so.

It appears the MKULTRA Components tied to the Secret Life of Hitler / Girl Interrupted King Edward VIII Von Trap FOXP2 Gene history of the last hundred years is ..

- MONARCH London KE Family of FOXP2 aka Borderline Personality Disorder and Eugenics and Psychiatric Research
    - Extreme ADDH leading to poor regulation of smooth acts and smooth speech. Short term lapses in brain executive area functions, short term memory, task attention, etc., and thus at times emotions not quickly checked. ADHD similar to Bipolor Disorder in but in Bipolar excessive brain activity overwhelms normal controls as though a surge rising over a levy. In ADHD impulses are normal strenth but the attention may drift away from the normal impulse regulation thus the normal strength impulse gets through a faulty levey. Think if it as roulet in which 1 out of six impules get through on a regular basis because the rotators has one broken chamber. But that is on a constant rotating permanent basis, not a one pole for a few weeks, then normal most times, the pattern of two distinct and longer effective symptoms.

- PAPERCLIP Symptomatic choppy handwriting in grammar and letter formation

- ARTICHOKE Swallowing and digestive system problems including fine muscle undulation and fine muscle timing, secretions and sensing

- CRYPTOME also called Digraphs or Free Mason Di Vinci Codes,seems to tie the research meetings to key dates such as one year anums since a November 18 birth day and other recognition dates like December 13 or February 20 often using dates near them to avoid being too obvious as recognition signaling

Project MKOFTEN was a covert U.S. Department of Defense program developed in conjunction with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). It was initiated in 1966 following other parallel programs[1] such as MKULTRA, initiated on April 13, 1953, which was later changed to Project MKSEARCH in 1964.[2] A partner program to MKSEARCH, the goal of MKOFTEN was to “test the behavioral and toxicological effects of certain drugs on animals and humans”.[3]

MIDNIGHT CLIMAX was CIA and DIA in massage parlors, said to be using drugs with adult entertainers I think more likely at first recruiting surrogate mothers for selected ovum research projects and later in a version of MIDNIGHT CLIMAX called PIZZAGATE, another CIA Black Opp, don't confuse the work black. Those a black opps CIA activity it is ALSO being used by some black masons and CIA backed personnel who while in massage parlors or Goth Dominatrix operations they are culturally invading as well, creating their position of trust and infiltration of what had been a mostly Western Hemisphere culture and turning into a seeming outgrowth of black and gay underground culture which had not been recognized until recent reports of earlier secret goth scene leadership and these new "realities" are part of ethnic suppression of what seems White Supremacism portrayed to be a mental psychoses, .

The combination of the three, MKULTRA, MKOFTEN, and Midnight Climax focus on Genetics experiments studying, isolating in control tests (twins studies, changing paternal side, changing maternal side, changing nurture as well as nature) seem to be Eugenics science spanning generations since the 1920s in clandestine Rockefeller and Tavistock Institute research between MI5 and the OSS and Vatican.

LAW ENFORCEMENT INTELLIGENCE UNITS under the NDAA also called FUSION CENTERS piece together information on making and estimate as to who is a menace to society and then Target them with assets seizures, etc.,

I call them LAW ENFORCEMENT SAPIENCE CENTERS which utilize information from White House Plumbers and Illuminati Family Bosses to sapiently identify whistle-blowers and then SUBVERT the credibility and reach of the whistle-bower voice.

Subversion diverts in a downward direction a normal persons normal life by Criminal Harassment Under Color of Law, politically or religiously motivated but using things like KOMPROMAT (Compromising material like child porn) planted and other forms of sabotage including surveillance and cooption of the targeted person's assets during or in conjunction with the evidence plants.

In my case SUBVERSION by MKULTRA is “Happy Slapping” (blockading) recovery from Diabetes by interfering with lean meat purchases, etc., then in the fight arresting me and calling me paranoid and unable think for myself (an actual medical diagnosis) and the US Dept of Defense diagnosis of me circulated.

The harassment of TARGETED INDIVIDUALS follows MKULTRA techniques and operates under FBI COINTELPRO, DARPA, and other agency support including local police agencies and businesses.

In view of the public and in institutions out of the view of the public Illuminati backed US State actors frame me as an antisocial masturbating person, that anti social person owes others his (my) DNA to female victims, one repercussion upon me, the other repercussion of that pretext is isolation of from the white adult women I seek relationships with.

A third repercussion is that while single, and while framed as mentally and sexually incompetent, that pretext allows blind conservator access to my DNA rights they use for themselves and the impersonator’s victims.

A forth repercussion is that the Transcendentalist Humanists and Religious SJWs serving Non White and World SJW interests do so at the intellectual, political, and religious co-option harm of a white Epistemic Atheist political nationalist activist.

The acts of the real perp are the created Legend, public perceptions, of me.

Here the real perpetrator is further out from me of the female victim but the zoom camera seems to take a smart phone closeup.

Espionage Agencies Made Me and Espionage Agencies can Wrongfully Identity Me and Break Me

Is this photographer in my vicinity about to be punished by a Dominatrix because he is Ed Donegan and took that picture, caught with the model having that picture OR is he doing it because his doing so as me will sabotage me in reproductive, legal, religious, political, and other circles?

Both reasons.

Espionage based Gangtalk plants evidence on the victim, me, to be used to dupe others, targets of the disinformation, such as Dominatrices who believe the planted evidence about me.

Gangstalk The Espionage manufacture of evidence and other illegal acts for the use of behind-the-scenes sabotage of the Espionage victim. That manufactured evidence variously called Compromising Photos, Compromising Information, or KOMPROMAT.

In my case it is sexually abusive and humiliating to me, designed to be, untrue, and very much the wrong treatment of Glorian and James Paul Donegan's son. James Woosley, you are the criminal, not me.

FBI and others us a Legend, a fake peeping and pedo created and sold back story which incites against me in public and normal life.

I am a Gangstalk victim in the U.S., and Espionage technique. Illegal, criminal, and fraudulent activities of actors, in the U.S. State actors, plant evidence and use various schemes to victimize and stigmatize me in Criminal Harassment Under Law and Conspiracy Against Rights, which should result in the death penalty for those in the Espionage conspiracy against my rights.

Fake Heroes at the Scene were the REAL exploiter of children though the their "hunt for the real photograprher" was a pony hunt for me, taking away the suspicion from them themselves

In fact in highly scripted repeating operations some person wearing a Sherri's cap, NYPD cap, Aviator Glasses, etc., glaring at me are creating an innuendo that I had done something which is the Criminal Harassment Under Color of Law scheme to blame police acts on me before the public.

CIA DOD USMC Secret Service DOD Vatican dominate Texas and its histories, and the long history of mistakes therein going all way back to the JFK assination and Andy Ellington CIA DOD Labs, Gotlieb MKULTRA Programs, and other DOD and GOP activity.

I can not get a restraining order against these people or out of the state.

When I filed for it in South Texas Federal District Court a mistake occured much like losing Geroge Bush's records. My lawsuite was subverted by a corrupt legal establishment turing it over to be handled by the Texas iconic figures I was suing, TJ Henry Law included.

Repeatedly it is said to me the aviator glasses have no meaning and in no way am I accused of anything. Repeatedly it is said to me this is all part of fighting white supremacism and repeatedly I say this is what triggered both white supremacism and white separatism in me.

A person I call Tx, an Information Doppelganger near me but further than me from a female witting or unwitting victim, zoom photographers her or masturbates.

The anti social conduct is attributed to me by Identity Theft and Money Launder the rights to genes by authorizing my genetics out of hte Star Trek TOS genome replicator machine. I can not prove DNA being removed from me. This is the new tech.

In Rx people in public treat me a certain way by effectively misquoting me in statements I receive from them, such as women saying “I am sorry” to me as though, in the Espionage Legend, I would not be able to control myself in her presence, compelled by her beauty to anti social conduct such as masturbation or secret photography.

Here cover story for planting that Espionage Legend of me being antisocial, is she claims TO me that she was sorry because she stepped in front of my shopping cart.

But her misquote of me is planted, she quoted me as saying I did not want her around because of “my problem.” The only problem in clear text, the real world, is she stepping in front of my shopping cart though never the less, the Legend is created.

That is the means of a the Covert Operation. The Motive is an explanation must be found that my DNA is voluntarily in non whites such as the OBamas and others such as likely the Kelly (Mark and Scott) family, the Kennedy's, and others.

The CIA did that in 1961 illegally and in these covert operations, this crime, the covert operation is creating a money laundering scheme in which my permission allegedly exists, and therefore earlier existed, for a white supremacists DNA in non whites, and Atheists DNA in religious ministers.

In the modern world of family databases the CIA and others must manufacture and excuse for what was already illegally done and this covert operation makes faked claims, fake legitimacy, to my DNA being used without notice to me.

Tx, the Doppelgänger is OKing my DNA Use. I, Rx, is the recipient of others acts towards me which are not based on me but the acts fo Tx.

It took me a long time to figure this out because the acts towards me made no sense in terms of any connection to who I was or my own actions.

The bizarre acts towards me are based the Doppelgänger of me who I call Tx.

Nothing about me is subject to blackmail. Thus they created Tx and blackmailed him as an ass peeper.

Organized stalking methods were used extensively by communist East Germany's Stasi (state police) as a means of maintaining political control over its citizens. The Stasi referred to the tactics as "Zersetzung" (German for "decomposition" or "corrosion" - a reference to the intended psychological, social, and financial effects upon the victim).

Although they are illegal in the U.S., the same covert tactics are quietly used by America's local and federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to suppress dissent, silence whistle-blowers, and get revenge against persons who have angered someone with connections to the public and private agencies involved.

Illegal counterintelligence operations have been perpetrated against Americans by urban police departments in the U.S. since the late 1800s. Traditionally, the groups of mostly-undercover police officers involved are called "red squads," although the modern official term is "Law Enforcement Intelligence Units (LEIUs)."

Military commanders are prime targets of Reflexive

Control. This method, as defined by Timothy Thomas is "a means of conveying to a partner or an opponent specially prepared information to incline him to voluntarily make the predetermined decision desired by the initiator of the action." This aspect of Soviet military doctrine is based on three pillars: (1) influencing the enemy commander's perception of the situation, (2) shaping their mission objectives and planning procedures, and (3) impairing effective decision-making processes. The idea being, if one can indirectly control the enemy military commander's decision-making process, then the aggregate effect is control over their troops and the combat environment. To influence an opponent, however, it first requires developing a comprehensive understanding of the target's deductive decision making processes and constructing an Information Doppelgänger to mislead the target.

Birth name Edwin Anderson Walker Born November 10, 1909 Kerr County, Texas, U.S. Walker experienced combat during the Korean War, commanding the Third Infantry Division's 7th Infantry Regiment and serving as a senior advisor to the army of the Republic of Korea.

Walker was then assigned as commander of the Arkansas Military District in Little Rock, Arkansas. In 1957, he implemented an order by President Eisenhower to quell civil disturbances related to the desegregation of Little Rock's Central High School. Osro Cobb, the US Attorney for the Eastern District of Arkansas, recalls that Walker "made it clear from the outset … that he would do any and everything necessary to see that the black students attended Central High School as ordered by the federal court … he would arrange protection for them and their families, if necessary, and also supervise their transportation to and from the school for their safety."

Walker repeatedly protested to Eisenhower that using federal troops to enforce racial integration was against his conscience. Although he obeyed orders and successfully integrated Little Rock High School, he began listening to segregationist preacher Billy James Hargis and oil tycoon H. L. Hunt, whose anti-communist radio program Life Line was funded by conservative activist and publisher Dan Smoot. Anti-communist activists in the late 1950s claimed that communists controlled important parts of the U.S. government and the United Nations,[citation needed] and that some Soviet spies and agents occupied prominent jobs within the federal government, for example, some of the Silvermaster group.[citation needed]

In 1959, Walker met publisher Robert Welch. Welch founded the John Birch Society to promote his anti-communist opinions, one of which was that President Eisenhower was a communist. This assertion surprised Walker because it coincided with the segregationist argument of Reverend Billy James Hargis that the civil-rights movement was a communist plot.

On August 4, 1959, Walker submitted his resignation to the U.S. Army. President Eisenhower denied Walker's request and instead offered him command of the more than 10,000 troops in Augsburg, Germany, in the 24th Infantry Division, which Walker accepted. He began promoting his "Pro-Blue" indoctrination program for troops, which included a reading list of materials by Hargis and the John Birch Society.

The name "Pro-Blue", said Walker, was intended to suggest "anti-red." He later wrote that the Pro-Blue program was based upon his experiences in Korea, where he saw "hastily mobilized and deployed soldiers 'bug out' in the face of Communist units with inferior equipment and often smaller numbers. American soldiers, unprepared for the psychological battlefield, needed to know why they had to beat the enemy as well as the how."

In early 1962, Walker campaigned to become governor of Texas and lost the Democratic primary election to the eventual winner, John Connally. In October 1962, Walker was arrested for promoting riots at the University of Mississippi in protest against the admission of black student James Meredith into the all-white university. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy ordered Walker committed to a mental asylum for a 90-day evaluation, but psychiatrist Thomas Szasz protested and Walker was released in five days. Attorney Robert Morris convinced a Mississippi grand jury not to indict Walker.

The Bush administration prosecuted me as mentally ill, knowing I was not, and buried the evidence of that before, after, and during my imprisonment, an mental hospital "bipolar disorder" imprisonment for my accusing the FBI DOJ Criminal Division in New York 2006 of corruption regarding grants at the NIH and moved into the FBI DOJ as its own work not mine.

I don't have Bipolar Disorder, I have FOXP2 Speech Spasmodia and the Masons know it and rig the psychiatry with their own hacks with an agenda, social engineering or removing neutal evaluators.

Christopher Asher Wray (born December 17, 1966)

Replacement of fired James Comey as Director of the FBI

Christopher Asher Wray (born December 17, 1966)[2] is an American lawyer who has served as Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) since 2017.[3] From 2003 to 2005, Wray served as Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division in George W. Bush's administration.

His paternal great-grandfather, Taylor Malone, was also a Vanderbilt University graduate,[11] and the co-founder and president of Malone & Hyde, "one of the South's largest wholesale grocery firms."[12] His maternal grandfather, Samuel E. Gates, "helped shape the laws that govern national and international airline flights" as an official of the Bureau of Air Commerce.[13]

Wray attended the Buckley School,[14] in New York City and the private boarding school Phillips Academy in Andover, Massachusetts.[6] Wray then attended Yale University from which he graduated cum laude[6] with a Bachelor of Arts degree in philosophy in 1989, and earned his Juris Doctor in 1992 from Yale Law School. While at Yale Law, Wray was the Executive Editor of the Yale Law Journal. After graduating from law school, Wray spent a year clerking for Judge J. Michael Luttig of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit.[15]

Last spring, when President Donald Trump was considering firing FBI Director Chris Wray, Attorney General Bill Barr threatened to resign in protest, a person briefed on the deliberations told Insider.

The person said Barr went to the White House for a meeting and was introduced to Bill Evanina, a top counterintelligence official in the Trump administration who had previously worked at the FBI. When Barr realized Evanina was being suggested as a replacement for Wray, he left the room.

When told of the plotting, Barr threatened to resign in protest, according to the person briefed on the deliberations.

It was the closest Wray, who has held onto his position under the Biden administration, ever came to getting fired during Trump's tenure, the person briefed on the matter said.

A Brief History of NIH.ASP

National Institute of Health and its stalking, ghosting, and co-opting me which the State Dept foreign affairs civil service magazine had done (Wharton School) and other organizations stalking, ambushing, pre-empting my workk before I completed it thus denying me the history of my having completed my work.

I was open about thinking believing that lower IQs were causal of black under achievement comparatively with other races and denial of the IQ component was poor science first in its blinndess to eptistemic truth and also in that the alternative Ethics explanation that the White Race was an oppressor race fueled the resentment of non whites, already resentful under the diplomat science concept or Relative Deprivation Theory I had been taught in university classes.

Similarly situated people who have differing outcomes will become resentful because those with the lower outcomes will resent the success of the good outcomes of others and the system as a whole comes in to question and perhaps rebellion.

I sent this to the FBI, to the NIH, and others in the Bush and the New York Criminal Division offered a grant to a non white Muslim based on my web site premises by Vernelia Randall.

Whether I should have received grant to compare DNA studies with Information Science is perhaps a a matter of debate but I should have been allowed to APPLY For grant without arrest threat and I should have gotten the FOIA copy of the grant that WAS given as I requested.

Instead I was arrested for repeated contacts to the FOIA office as I tried to nurse the grant request along to completions.

During my prosecution and after all copies of NIH.ASP disappeared even from ARCHIVE.ORG, my private detective under the CJA would not look for it on the web, and I was told I was delusional over the topic and no copies of the original material were made available for review as to whether I was right or not.

My mother and family were told I was wroing about the grant request and foia request.

I requested the information about the FBI copies of this site from CASA Linda apartments and the FBI again refused compliance with the FOIA request although the FBI and NIH police DID have copies of the web site and opely questioned me over it and its “advocacy for white supremacism.”

During this online research fight I was accusing Obama and the Congressional Black Caucus of skewing the findings towards social theory and away from science and thus building left wing social premises such as Affirmative Action on sentiment (Ethics) rather than facts (Epistemia.)

I assert the entire prosecution was racially charged, racailly movitated, and racial violence through the legal system and also I assert I was dirty bombed for some reason, likely Polunium or other radation source, as Micheal Mulchasy of Columnbia University was George W. Bush’s Attorny General.

Michael Mukasey

Speaking as the author and researcher of this book my belief is 2006 to 2007 were a critical time as the Bush family began a program to continue MKULTRA activities in a way that if genome were spread under the 1961 plan and leakers or evidence was eliminated the truth of the JFK assassination tied to Donald Barr, William Barr, Mukasey, coming out of Columbia University Manhattan Project could be concealed.

81st United States Attorney General In office November 9, 2007 - January 20, 2009 appointed President George W. Bush

> November 20, 2008 WASHINGTON (AP) - Attorney General Michael Mukasey was hospitalized but conscious and alert early Friday after collapsing during a late-night speech to a conservative legal group

President George W. Bush, scheduled to attend a weekend financial summit in Peru, was informed about Mukasey collapse, press secretary Dana Perino said.

Mukasey was born in 1941 in New York City.[6] His father was born near Baranavichy in Belarus (then in the Russian Empire) and emigrated to the U.S. in 1921.[7][8]

Mukasey graduated in 1959 from the Ramaz School, an independent (formerly boys' and now co-educational) Modern Orthodox Jewish prep school in the Upper East Side neighborhood of Manhattan in New York City. His wife, Susan, was later a teacher and headmistress of the lower school at Ramaz, and both of their children (Marc and Jessica)[9] attended the school.[10]

As an undergraduate student, Mukasey was the editorials editor of the Columbia Daily Spectator[11] at Columbia University (MKULTRA Manhattan Project), where he received his Artium Baccalaureus degree in 1963, majoring in history. He received his Bachelor of Laws from Yale Law School in 1967.

Forty-four American colleges or universities, 15 research foundations took part in MKULTRA

I believe more media and politics and businesses have been involved in MKULTRA this the short version of it especially in Texas and the Texas NASA DARPA operation of Christian Missionary world evangelism described by Linda Newkirk.

Social Security Numbers, Drivers License, credit checks, lease enforcement, apartment numbering and other dopples

I am not lethal COINTELPRO ambush victim and was not able to get out of the USA and am working on exposing MKULTRA now, under all its illegal names including COINTELRPO, Organized Stalking, Targeting, NDAA Kill lists, Disruption, etc., which are mere arbitrary police state “preemptive violence” which preempts witnesses to MKULTRA wrongdoing, MULTRA of the Bush family, Rockefeller, others.

FBI Boston Bombing Video Altered To Hide Fact Bomber Was Black Ops Mercenary? rBEFORE IT'S NEWS and copied or modified to here

As reported exclusively on Before It's News, the FBI surveillance video is in fact a digitally manipulated slideshow of still photos and not an actual video.

This is evidenced by the existence of ghost images appearing in between still photos in the so-called video as a transition effect is applied during the fade between frames.

As many in the alternative media have already pointed out special-ops were photographed all over the site of the Boston Marathon bombing before, during and after the attacks.

While there is speculation those photographed could be Navy Seals the overwhelming majority of the evidence points to those in the photograph being part of a for hire black-ops mercenary squad known as Tradecraft.

Shortly after Before It's News reporter Alexander Higgins reported on the digitally manipulated slideshow the FBI and the media are fraudulently passing as actual surveillance video it was suggested the alteration may have been done to hide mercenary's signature skull logo.

With mercenary firms around the globe now owned by Wall Street banks and acting as private armies for global elitists who are funded in most cases exclusively with US taxpayer money such ruthless thugs not loyal to our Constitution have no business conducting operations inside the United States.

It raises all kinds of questions about their presence which become even more intriguing when considering the main stream corporate media and law enforcement officials refuse to even acknowledge their presence at the bomb site nonetheless date attempt to explain why they were there and what they were doing.

Premised on the apparent ring and the characters involved ...”

It appears when I arrived in Texas in flight from unlawful (and high ranking white house level politicalk figures and interests) activities in the Arlington Virginia - Washington D.C. metro area (the are across the Potomac river and with the many bridges a short walk from one to the other.

I already had disposed opinions. Opinions deeply hated (as I was) by militant racial political interests. I am what some others and I call "race realists." Race may be hard to determine as most people are mixed and how narrow does a person to define the exact continent, county, or township area of relatives, etc.,? Some things have racial associations like afros (Africa) and folded eylids (Asia) but again even that can have complex elements.

I thin a person can and might well believe IQ's vary in averages across continents. So I carried this political liability already as others wish to discredit me and do so abusively.

That facilitated but did not cause a long term series of covert illegal activities that I think go back to "British Psychiatry: From Eugenics to Assassination by Anton Chaitkin. https://www.psicopolis.com/psichtr/britpsych.htm. Eugenics were big in the 1920's and especially with the British and I think The Kings Speech. They studied psychiatry and child development illegally and with bastard children who often were abused and prison inmates and others were. My mother was a bastard child and as second generation to her I am inside the affects of long running deep state Eugenics and hate crimes left over from atomic testing and radiation and dna studies of my family.

Grifting their way out of poverty. Much of this hit in Corpus Christi Nueces County when my after 30 years of non-stop BDSM club life of one of the world centers of it, and massive intellectual development and sophistication and travel stunned the spilled over dumpster of the population of South Texas.

One might try to lift a person out of intellectual or economic or worldliness poverty. IN that town they wanted that; lessons on what big city life was and they got those lessons, and to get them they used an impersonator of me grifting my trust fund saying it was ME who needed all of this. THey city of scum learned to emulate me in all ways except in being honest and they killed I think as many as 20 people to keep their crimes running.

It was fraud on me and used a smear campaign against me as part of that and I think those who put the program in place wanted and needed those smears and created to program to impeach and destroy me and hinder my life story and even own rights all matters. The obsession with who I am has been from thugs and deeply psychotic and sexually obsessed as others hope to take themselves and then dress in all ways as who I am into Austin and other locations in the world, themselves having my story as their invented backstory of who they themselves are.

In Texas I have been subjected to all the dirty tricks I have been long used to: Noose hoaxes I have left on or more around, planted meth paraphernalia, planted gym clothes victims, planted under age victims, assertions of actual Nazism, assertions I have deep mental retardation, accusations I am paranoid rather than reporting an illegal stalk, I have had break-in by thieves and break-ins by under-cover operatives in the leasing office using access to the apartment to plant evidence, vandalize the apartment, and falsify at least 200 and likely more rental records, receipts, and maintenance records of activities much in not all of that was used in court despite the evidence was fabricated rather than true.

Another strange things has been the compulsive and strange buttocks fetisism. A dopple of me, a loser who DOES use my identity has the need for adult high price models to show buttocks, adult buttocks that because they are big enough as adults will blind LOSER to children's buttocks. This need the LOSER has for that "therapy" from high priced models (payed for by my trust fund) seems another part of skid row and prison house jail house ghetto culture they are projecting onto a distorted image of me. I spent years trying to figure out why they came up with that. In the 50 years of my life I have been awake to the existance of the other sex I have at times noticed them. I tried figuring out what started all this and it is nothing. It is there issue. I finally realized they have it wrong (about who I am or what I a interested in) because what they project on me is what their crime spree needs thought of me for their crimes to make sense to anyone. I am sure they have found something but it is like finding a needle in the hay stack and then saying that is the hey not the needle. It is obvious to me but not to others.

Use of shell accounts like an apartment near my north corner 1x1 a 1001 N. Water Street has been an entity piggy backed to mine by fake appearances such as swapped original painted unit numbers, the claim they adjoining some old or new hotel room adjoin thus are the same leased space, or plants on the outside catwalk seem to join the shell entity and occupant to me thus the assets go to that “joined apartment” which it is not.

I am told that person in 47, a black male, has made claims to be me. He also makes outward appearance he is talking to journalist on his phone outside 47 as I am calling journalists from inside 46 and after I move out, likely on profits to the books taken from me, he will buy the unites as condos and join them tearing down the wall between and what were competing identities to who I was and the accounting do my assets and liabilities and covert it all over to him as I am gone on the building conversion to condos making 46 and 46-46 (as he calls 47) all one fused unit.

Lots of data is on that on the CDROM and lawsuit data but a I can not get the case taken.

The US has made its biggest anti-money-laundering changes in years *

Congress included a provision to ban anonymous shell companies in the National Defense Authorization Act. By Jen Kirbyjen.kirby©vox.com Updated Jan 4, 2021, 9:50am

If you're a corrupt foreign official or drug trafficker, there's a pretty easy way to protect your illicit cash: create an anonymous shell company.

You form a shell company meaning a business that exists only on paper, with no employees, no products it makes or sells, no revenue, nothing except maybe a bank account and some assets - but you do it without disclosing your (the owner's) real name, offering a convenient way to launder your money and evade law enforcement in the United States.

Except that might now be a lot harder to do in the US. A provision in the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA), the $741 billion defense bill, will effectively ban anonymous shell companies.

The NDAA passed with bipartisan support in Congress. Trump vetoed the package, but Congress voted overwhelmingly to override the president's veto for the first time during Trump's tenure.

That means that now, when someone opens a shell corporation, they'll be required to provide the owner's name and some basic identifying information. This > simple step will give law enforcement and national security officials a powerful tool to crack down on corruption.

>
> To help understand more about what this new provision does and why it's so important, I called up Clark Gascoigne, a senior policy adviser at the Financial Accountability and Corporate Transparency (FACT) Coalition, a nongovernmental organization that advocates against corrupt financial practices by promoting transparency and anti-money-laundering policies.
> "This is the biggest anti-money-laundering update that we've had in 20 years," he told me.
> Our conversation, edited for length and clarity, is below.

Yet "black operations" or "black budget" special operations also under the NDAA or other espionage means thrive under shell companies and simple line entries as to a budget or budget reference number but no tracking or oversight of the operation from financial or other meaningful sense.

The Cartel usage of sham accounts tied to me in appearance only but get merged into accounting regarding me are part of shell accounts secretly run by a hostile party to create mechanisms for shifting of funds in "brand confusion" similar names, similar locations, etc.,

apparent from Vocabulary.com

Apparent means obvious, but - and this is confusing - it can also mean something that seems to be true but isn't definite. "The train's arrival is apparent - it's in the station - but apparently my friend missed it because she is not getting off."

It makes sense that apparent has the same ancient root as appear because it's about what is plain to see. Its subtle power of suggestion, however, is wonderfully useful. The "heir apparent" technically means next in line, but the ink isn't dry. The power of apparent is that it leaves the door open for a little ambiguity. Maybe the heir apparent will be the next king, or maybe he'll be overthrown in a bloodless coup by his apparently more ambitious cousin.

Synonyms: ostensible, seeming superficial concerned with or comprehending only what is apparent or obvious; not deep or penetrating emotionally or intellectually Twins study: How did either Tom Dunham or Edward Donegan Feb 20 Nov 18 Dec 13 son of Glorian do in life?

Things apparent outside my hotel room door as i talk to landlords in Austin and my desire to rent an apartment in Austin. And btw the door which I had closed when I left the apartment was open and m belongings tied to me visible.

A Fabricated and Suggestiv Fact creates roadblocks	Translated into a thought, conclusion, judgment, hearsay, or otherwise acted upon
A Rumor is seeded	others asked to translate it into a judgment on it, or pass it along as true, or act on it themselves (like Dr Tim Kelley, him shown information made up by cops or others or mistaken identities)

Creating a fake human trafficking ring on social media

From Tom Dunham's site Molestquote

There seems to have been a feedback loop between my neighborhood, and my work at SelectQuote Insurance

> Around the time a woman was breaking into my apartment, various allusions to this event were made at SelectQuote Insurance.
> The method of entry suggests theatrics were planned from the get go. The keys left hanging on my window didn't open anything, but were probably there to suggest that they opened my door. The woman probably had a master key, but conceivably could have picked the lock while pretending to use the keys as well.
> I was given a fake rock for hiding keys while on the job at SelectQuote around this time. Just out of the blue. I was also warned to change my locks before my then estranged wife got back into town. Which was exactly when the break-in took place.

Tom Dunham and I will have a hard time moving forward in life while things like this and in a twins study if either of us were compared to others we would be the problem children but Obama comes from the Good black side if his family were achievement is seen in Twins Studies.

A receipt fom Lori Cox Oakland California Behavioral Health is among the rubble out side my open hotel door some if it with crack or meth pipe soot stains. Who likes a crackhead?

Cloths, rags, and papers left outside my room rental seem to indicate I was using amphetamines inside my long stay room. Note this is not planted inside my room. When I left my hotel room with my bicycle the doorway was clear. When I returned the doorway had these publicly visible items and the hotel room door was ajar so passerbys would be able to see my belongings could be seen inside the room and these materials could be seen outside my room. I reported it to the hotel staff and they noted the event at that time.

I was using Austin in a healthy way, excxersizing, Ro Fitness and the sandwhich shop though me nice and using the dock well, this subverted my trip to Austin as I looked for housing.

“Theatrics” is the term I take from Dunham’s blog.

Tom Dunham suggests in many posts it seems to be law enforcement concocting all of these theatrics. In fact when I examined the items left o my doorstep in Austin, Texas, pictured above, I find this among it.

Tom Dunham worked for SelectQuote as a computer programmer and web developer doing the work of several engineers.

The appearance of a minors exploitation ring appeared outside his door and windows as sets of keys were planted and inculpating statements were made to him by strangers.

Here is his description of himself and his site saying the company he worked for was tied to the trafficking including an impersonator of him at a dinner in on the eve or day of a massage parlaor bust seeming tied to Edward Paul Donegan.

If you see something say something and Tom Dunham and I publicly out out via tech means and police reports a network seems to exist but it not tied to either him or myself, Edwwrd Paul Donegan, but is “talked about” in rumors about Edward Paul Donegan and Tom Dunham.

Select Quote review is his web site, for a while taken of the web for allegations violated Selectquote.com domain name rights, and in his site Select Quote review he says Select Quote the company is unsafe for kids because it built what I call a “gambit” network of exploiting minors that then the blame could be placed on others and I indicated to him I thought political glamour seeking Kamla Harris, San Franisco DA defeating Terence Hallinan was behind the fake ring.

I believe this sets up asset seizures under the NDAA in 2011 under Judge Roll case which Illuminati interests need and thus used [subsumed, abused] Government offices to achieve via civil penalties on incomplete evidence but appearances.

I am not hammering on any moral judgements about gays nor would the real Tom Dunham. But that Tim Kelly, M.D., worked in soical justice comittees as a Rainbow worker, I believe a Methodist, he is had a gravity towards a taproot into a supply of genetic medicine for the poor in a Robin Hood like scheme if someone from the right wing held the rights to those genes.

[The real Tom Dunham speaking below is writing about a person with similar yahoo email to the real Tom Ddunham (TeeDee, yahoo.com) and that online sock puppet identity appars to be the author of SelectQuoteReview, real Tom Dunhams site.]

The mentally challenged person posting as Tom Dunham from New York in the second rebuttal is obviously not me. He gives how to get a police report, which is not a conviction. Not to mention, this person is having trouble distinguishing between a TV show and real law enforcement.

Perhaps in his fantasy world Agent Scully brought Tomas Dumas Dunham (not my name) down for God knows what, but here in the real world if I were an ex-felon anyone would be able to look that up. Again, this is the sort of person that defends SelectQuote Insurance.

Clearly, my website, http://www.selectquotereview.com, is factual and to the point. As you see here, SelectQuote's cronies are willing to lie. Once caught in their lies, they attempt to wriggle away by posting nonsense using my name. Is there any doubt that I'm the one whose been telling the truth all along?

Though Tom Dunham put up a knowledgeable site, its reputation was poisoned by the seeming craziness of its ALLEGED author, Thomas Duhmans Dunham who is NOT ON HIS MEDS, he and SelectQuoteReview should IGNORED <CNTRL>I !!!

With that subverion of Tom Dunham's report of a scam underway his domain name was attacked.

Take for instance this real psychiatrist, a gay rights advocate at UC San Francisco/

SelectQuote Review argues its company name trademark and DNS name not allowed in the SelectQuoteReview domain name and thus SelectQuoteReview should be subverted from being online.

NATIONAL ARBITRATION FORUM

DECISION (excerpted for brevity here in Illuminati Dawn)

SelectQuote Insurance Services v. Tom Dunham

Claim Number: FA1207001454896

PARTIES

Complainant is SelectQuote Insurance Services ("Complainant"), represented by ISCRS Inc., Idaho, USA. Respondent is Tom Dunham ("Respondent"), California, USA.

REGISTRAR AND DISPUTED DOMAIN NAME

The domain name at issue is selectquotereview.com , registered with eNom, Inc. ("the Disputed Domain Name").

PANEL

The undersigned certifies that he or she has acted independently and impartially and to the best of his or her knowledge has no known conflict in serving as Panelist in this proceeding.

Dawn Osborne of Palmer Biggs Legal as Panelist.

Complainant owns the SELECTQUOTE mark for which it has obtained federal trade mark registrations in the USA. It has a website at selectquote.com

As a result the Complainant owns the exclusive right to use selectquote.com in connection with its online insurance services.

The Disputed Domain Name is nearly identical and confusingly simlar to the Complainant's marks. The Disputed Domain Name contains the Complainant's entire mark plus a generic term "review" meaning that the casual observer is bound to mistake the Disputed Domain Name for a name connected with the Complainant.

Respondent has no rights or legitimate interests in the Disputed Domain Name. It is not commonly known by the Disputed Domain Name. It is not affiliated with the Complainant in any way and has no permission to use the Complainant's mark.

Respondent registered the Disputed Domain Name in 2012 significantly after Complainant's first use in commerce in 1985.

Respondent's typosquatting is, in and of itself, evidence of bad faith. Respondent has caused the websites reachable by the Disputed Domain Name to display the Complainant's mark spelt correctly, serving as further evidence of bad faith removing any doubt as to whether or not the spelling was intentionally designed to improperly capitalize on the Complainant's mark.

[Panel states for Select Quote to make its case] (1) the domain name registered by Respondent is identical or confusingly similar to a trademark or service mark in which Complainant has rights; and (2) Respondent has no rights or legitimate interests in respect of the domain name; and (3) the domain name has been registered and is being used in bad faith.

[panel rules]

The Panel finds that the Respondent [Ton Dunham] has not violated any of the factors listed in the Policy 4(b), nor has he engaged in any content that would constitute bad faith registration and use pursuant to Policy 4 (a)(iii). The Panel agrees with the Respondent that his use is purely nominative. See Chicago Bd. Options Exch. Inc. v. Private, FA 804703 (Nat. Arb. Forum Nov. 29 2006)(finding no bad faith registration and use where the respondent used the complainant's trade mark in its domain name in order to provide information on the complainant's Option Exchange and the respondent was not attempting to brand itself as related to the domain name or to steal business from the Complainant).

The Police Misconduct alleged by Tom Dunham which I was not aware of the details of while I found the same thing happening to me, then to later find Tom Dunham's similar accounts.

The same things done to Tom Dunham were done to me. Though this is a table describing events Tom Dunham they happened to me in Austin causing my detention in Austin.

The actions or the seeming actions of these dopples, these sock puppets, are litigable, are the basis of liabilities to minors which I believe were intended to shake down my trust fund under the Judge Roll case at the same time of Judge Roll' death and my mother's death and the start of this phoney ring, 2011.

For decades I have been surrounded by exactly this and all patterns of activities are the same. Under Color of Law including using Behavioral Health a factual theory is being faked he and I are schizo, retarded, need Behavioral Halth Care, and it turns out the impersonators of Tom Dunham and I are working with Genentech and mother's with Gloria[s] DNA to

If fact it appears that DNA rights usage is coming out of an alleged, publicly apparent, minors exploitation network which is uncovered when actuall adult entertainer find child porn on the impersonators of Tom Dunham or I and seem to OWE DNA rather than being arrested.

Tom Dunham are normal upstanding people without liabilities. Our impersonators and those who control those impersonations as marionettes are criminals with liabilities including money laundering of genes rights as the impersonators get blackmailed for those rights.

The Dopples SUBVERT the reputations of Tom Dunham and myself and at least I get death threats for pointing out the dopples as they act in my identity and they have the police and media support, much clout behind the operation.

This book, once called Genoracketeering now called Illuminati Dawn is being subverted and the sites I promote it on are being subverted, Parler I prefer over twitter to put my posts on but Parler was taken off line in part the Cyberwarfare front company Amason.com just as Tom Dunham’s web site SelectQuoteReview.com outing the Gangstalk of him was subverted and taken off line.

- Proves the ring exists
- Proves Tom Dunham and I are NOT a part of it
- Proves it is police and prosecutor backed and likely is used to shake down my trust fund by social justice leaning law enforcement.

The interest in my genome appears tied to MKULTRA and the Manhattan Project and that activity is abnormal, not Tom Dumham nor I.

Neither he nor I have the clout to stop this, only describe it.

I assert (while being disposed to like the culture of San Francisco) that Kamala Harris diversity crusades may have been subsumed into a larger agenda of MKULTRA in which she and later Nueces Texas District Attorney Mark Gonzales accepted or created Deep Pockets cases against my trust fund with little or negligent or complicit over reach in my adult interests which I do have and harming minors or being exploitative which I do not have an interest in.

Google knowledge panel retrieved from Terence Hallinan and copied or modified to here as Kamala Harris defeats Terrancy Hallinan, Hallinan the police unjon favorite.

San Francisco Moderate, Centrist, Terence Hallinan to be replaced by Leftist Kamala Harris she her campaign for District Atttorney featured shutting down BackPage.com and the trafficking and exploitation of minority children.

SF District Attorney Terence Hallinan (December 4, 1936 - January 17, 2020) was an American attorney and politician from San Francisco, California.[1] He was the second of six sons born to Progressive Party presidential candidate Vincent Hallinan and his wife, Vivian (Moore) Hallinan.[2] Hallinan was educated at the London School of Economics, University of California, Berkeley, and University of California, Hastings College of the Law. He practiced privately in San Francisco.

Hallinan's propensity for fistfights continued in law school. When he and his brother were picketing in San Francisco against the House Un-American Activities Committee, some of their classmates arrived to picket them.[5] Strong words ensued and a fight was arranged in Golden Gate Park. Initially Hallinan was part of the crowd of UC Hastings student onlookers but he soon began a brawl with one of the opposing spectators. He also engaged in fistfights at a Young Democrats meeting and over a woman while at UC Hastings.[5]

As a student, Hallinan also became interested in nonviolent resistance. While attending the London School of Economics, he was arrested with Lord Bertrand Russell during a Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament sit-down demonstration in front of the U.S.

embassy.[8] When he returned to America, he joined the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and spent the summer of 1963 in Mississippi.[6] Local authorities jailed Hallinan twice but the U.S. Attorney General and the National Council of Churches intervened to secure his release.[5]

Back in San Francisco, Hallinan helped organize the W.E.B. DuBois Club to support Communist Party USA.[9] In the fall of 1963, he joined the Ad Hoc Committee to End Discrimination and participated in sit-ins at the Sheraton Palace Hotel, Mel's Drive-In, and the Van Ness Avenue Cadillac showroom. His civil disobedience in the city resulted in six arrests and two separate criminal convictions.[5]

Effigies and Crusades Against Effigies

[text below editorially selected and excerpted to here]

[Kamaa] Harris' "smart on crime" philosophy, also the title of her first book, exemplifies her unwillingness to please either side.

Before entering public office, as a private attorney, Harris specialized in domestic violence and youth sexual abuse cases, including those involving teenage prostitues. As DA, she brought a less punitive approach to sex work, meeting with sex workers and pushing the vice squad to emphasize worker safety rather than criminalization.

But Harris continued a practice of using undercover cops to catch would-be johns before they solicited prostitution, which was revealed to disproportionately target Latino men. She also drew the ire of sex worker advocates when, as Attorney General, she went after the CEO of Backpage, a popular site for erotic transactions.

Dopples of Tom Dunham and Edward Donegan, these absuviely created Effigies are who the Prosecutors claim have don them and their clientele harm but not the real Tom Dunam or Edward Donegan

Effigy from Wikipedia

Google Knowlege Panel An effigy is an often life-size sculptural representation of a specific person, or a prototypical figure. Lately, the term is mostly used for the make-shift dummies used for symbolic punishment in political protests and for the figures burned in certain traditions around New Year, Carnival and Easter. Wikipedia

Effigy from Vobablulary.com

In modern usage, effigy most often refers to a likeness, such as a dummy, that is hanged, burned, or otherwise abused when protesting the despised person's actions.

In modern usage, effigy most often refers to a likeness, such as a dummy, that is hanged, burned, or otherwise abused when protesting the despised person's actions.

If you've encountered the phrase "in effigy," it's probably been in a news report about protesters burning a stuffed figure made to look like a loathed corporate leader or head of state. Since the 18th century or longer, effigies have been destroyed in place of individuals who, as far as the angry crowd is concerned, have escaped justice. Effigy can also refer to a sculptural portrait of the deceased reclining upon a burial monument.

Ed Donegan's opinion on attacks upon, persecution of my property or my Dopple (effigies of me) away from my presence, those things not defending themselves as I would defend myself from false allegation.

Subversion of my rights and property can be and here is accomplished of a Dopple is taken for Tom Dunham or myself, has the character and other attributes grandstanding District Attorneys, Governors, or Churches are on the hunt for as the victimize of the under privileged.

Character Assassination built at effigy rallies allows Right erosion, and especially when the character assassinations done in cliques protect the assertions, rumors and rumor mongering, being challenged by the vilified.

The trick, literally the trick, and good politics, is to ask others to keep the allegation secret and prevent the challenge to the secret allegations, and propose a secret alternative get-back. In my case conservator and blind conservators field the rumors and are happy to plead me guilty and utilize my trust fund.

The attack on the effigy is a cheer leading > event building crowd psychology.

> I have doubted how this has occurred but the psychology of supporting popular under dog victims at the expense of character maligned dehumanized person appears to create the transcendentalist ethical approval of a clearly fraudulent program, only burning the White Supremacist or Pedophile in effigy, not in a way that actually harms him, seems OK especially if he is never told his trust fund was shaken down for the minority children's good. Such psychology and defamation of Tom Dunham and myself was built by PsyOps over a period of decades, in my case, forty years.

In a recent letter bombing event a FOXP2 like writer addressed flammable materials to news organizations and Kamala Harris. At that time I was saying "bomb the press" for its role in covering up MIDNIGHT CLIMAX, the still running CIA program under various names, and perhaps the sender of the letters was a false flag effigy of me.

The firewood for the rallies is constant evidence plants which provoke Tom Dunham and Ed Donegan to object to the police which works towards the police favor in they are more credible, claims of planted evidence NOT credible.

Nevertheless; while Tom Dunham and I have struggled to find an answer as to why such an effort to frame and subvert us could exist, an answer has been found and it is MKULTRA and the role of Masons and high power espionage interests in this entire operation including creating a black market that uses money launder to look like a legitimate market and legit mate program with legitimated orignes, ends, and means.

Stalkers Deceive then Mobs Perceive - Clouds of Supsicious Seeded

Creating an Exit Plan for the tarnished or Closing Doors before they are reached

As Subversion of a person the person, the Gangstalk Victim, the stated goal may be to simply remove the undesirable, and the mob at the office may believe that.

Subversion can take the form of malice or competition as has been used politically as KOMPROMAT (Compromising Materials) are passed from person to person to create a Persona Non Grata on police tactics of harassment rather than legitimate interests in undermining a person.

Tom Dunham, Veronica Hoffman, and myself Edward Paul Donegan came from an artistic progressive culture of high tech, high tech art, dance, music, web sites, fashion, and more.

Socially progressive and married to an Asian woman with an Asian child, Jewish night club rocker, Latex fashion company owner, gogo dancer, and Dominatrix, and music leader Veronica Hoffman, and Atheist old school mentality goth night person, atheism, and counter Christianity hisotrian and political philosopher, our enemies turned to be interested in undermining us and at the same time becoming competing elements in what we where already doing before sabotage.

The mass of our existence and what is in its perimeter appeared to be in its whole targeted by alternative racial and ethnic groups for not only the destruction but subsumption of our lifestyles and I believe this in conjunction with the genomic was really a pairing away of a group of people by sociologically and even genetically competing camps who should have been partners rather than competitors.

I have expressed I believe Neuman of Kink Engineering as well as Sarah Tonin may hve been victimized as well as in fact many large scale populations and interests have been attacked as well a the People themselves collectively and the need for this was driven by very large historical forces as invisible as gravity.

One of the techniques of Gangstalking, getting rid of and discrediting witness, is to stage misrpresentive appearances then transmit those appearances to others, the others then picking fights from unjust positions towards the first person.

Veronic Hoffman was asked for a lark to try on a Nazi outfit and later was possible “forced teamed” with Larouchers at at ATM machine.

Lyndon Larouche, neo-fascism, coded anti-Semitism, and the Jeremiah Duggan CaseQuote retrieved from Essays & Editorials

Evidence pertaining to the death of Jeremiah Duggan further suggests that Lyndon LaRouche and his international network (hereinafter referred to as the ‘LaRouche Organization’) have repeatedly violated German and European Law regarding incitement to racism and extreme right politics. In both German and European Union law, anti-Semitism, ‘extrem’ politics, and incitement to religious/racial hatred are illegal.

Yet even the brief summary below points appears to implicate Mr LaRouche a United States citizen, all of these activities; and also significantly, the principal arm of his LaRouche Organization in Europe, the Schiller Institute (located in Wiesbaden, Hesse), in the global dissemination of neo-fascist propaganda and Holocaust revisionism.

Forced Teaming (unwanted people in vicinity) which I am subjected to creates abusive or misleading surroundings particularly in public where a person such as myself or her may have a need to be such as a grocery store, gas station, apartment, or ATM machine.

She and Tom Dunham and one other guy William Vogel were closely tied to my arrest by the Dept of Energy/ NIH and the night of my arrest. Rod Rosensteidn and FBI Director Mueller were invovled and he Bush family held the White House.

> Heautoscopy is a term used in psychiatry and neurology for the hallucination of "seeing one's own body at a distance".[24] It can occur as a symptom in schizophrenia[25]

My experience and it seems probably and theoretically possible that the Means police use to plant evidence is to dress as the original, thus the police are the Dopple of the original, gives the original a tough police report to the police since it seems the person is a schizophrenic and in paranoia sees themselves everywhere including perhaps "psychotically viewing themselves remotely as they themselves commit crimes sleepwalking."

The concept of the CIA using appearances that SEEM delusional has been reported by mainstream media as longstanding ways to hide experimental flying objects as UFO sightings.

If you see something crazy, say something crazy, and be locked up in a psych-ward" thus the dopple of the real person has closed the door to police reports, the police friendly to the dopple anyway.

This was the man who blockaded my attempts to contact Sarah Tonin, a female dominatrix I had just instagrammed and the response was to steal my phone and physically attack me then take over my contacts using my stolen phone with aberrant behavior.

This person has called himself a Sovereign and as he money launders rights to my genes his name is RICO and I think that is a schizo side of Edward Donegan, not Racketeering Influence Criminal Organizations or activities.

I can name 30 such examples of exactly this which lead to me being called Schizo rather than a reporter of illegal CIA activities.

The dopple who stole my phone is safe from being called a RICO operative because that is his name, not his crime.

Another method of getting witness to police or politician misconduct into psych wards is the place a fight in between the witness to police misconduct and the normal life of the witness to police misconduct, then arrest the victim of police misconduct for fighting.

A sighting of a dopple which is reality may be dismissed by a clinician who suspects a possible organic cognitive misfire.

> Recently, functional and electrical neuroimaging studies shed light on this question by pointing to a correlation between the core symptomatology of mental dissociations and temporo-parietal junction (TPJ) - an area involved in sense of self, agency, perspective taking, and multimodal integration of somatosensory information. Interestingly, results also suggest that each specific aspect of each form of mental dissociation is associated with brain areas that are specific to that domain. *

What I found suspicious of Matt dying who was part of Kink Engineering was his 1) being alone and thus in a situation there would be now witness and 2) There was already MASSIVE scale

a live musical one night overlapping with HF DCA and also later tied to Joseph Biden on a related matter with Metallica. the Avatar I saw for matt was the blue deco art sultry smoke woman I have never seen ANYWHERE EXCEPT the goth version of a Metallica song someone put a slide show to using Gregorian version of the song.

These factors combine into what I call a Piece Slice of Gravity, invisible forces widening out from my family origins, into covert actors and actions surrounding me and a series of coverups and cleanups as more of the operation,large and growing, becomes exposed to the regret of the Espionage agencies involved.

I watch a lot of Goth videos, see lots of liberal and classical art, I have only seen that one image once, in the Honor Flight DCA video. Similarly, some comment, I think a survivor, had a comment about being submissive to commanding voices, perhaps a marshall, air marshall, police, or some other Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit (Fusion Center) connected actor or actors.

Title: RIP, Matt.

Archean and the staff at Kink Engineering are sad to report that Mad_Scientist (Matt) passed away on May 23rd, 2012, at the age of 35. His death was accidental. He was a great friend, a brilliant mind, and an exceptional lover.

Matt was awesomely creative and scientifically curious. His first focus for his customers was always safety. Many of you will remember Matt commenting in the vac bed groups and taking a strong stand against the idea that a person could safely do vac bed bondage whilst alone.

Kink Engineering's philosophy continues to be safety first; therefore, even though it hurts to say it, we have a duty and responsibility to the community and to our past and future customers to be completely honest here.

Matt died, because he made a stupid decision to go into a vac bed alone, while Archean was out of town. He thought he had figured out the safety issues and created another layer of safety; he was wrong and it cost him his life.

There is no way that we at Kink Engineering could ever cover up the real cause of death and pretend it happened any other way, to do so would be a disservice to our customers, the community, and to Matt, who was adamant that vac beds be used responsibly and safely.

Matt's death was a direct result of prolonged neck compression from the neck gasket. The bed he chose to go in had been custom fitted to Archean, who has a much smaller neck. The baro receptors in his internal carotid arteries signaled to his body that his blood pressure was dangerously high, and this sent off a vagal response to slow the heart. Since the signal of high blood pressure could not be relieved, Matt lost consciousness and the vagal response caused his heart to stop completely.

Had there been a person to assist outside the vac bed, they would have been able to get him out at the first sign of trouble or non-responsiveness. All Matt's safety contingency plans relied on him still being conscious enough to implement them, and thus, they were useless.

Never, ever get into a vac bed alone. There is no safe way to do so. The man who understood vac beds the best, in the whole world, wasn't able to do it safely.

Please do not allow this scene to replay with another person's death.

We will miss you and love you forever, Matty.

SelectQuote Admits to San Francisco Police Connection

SelectQuote and the San Francisco Police conspired together to hurt my daughter:

1. I hear threats regarding Abby at SelectQuote (who imply they have a lot of pull with police).
2. Police destroy evidence which would help me.
3. Police manufacture evidence to discredit me.
4. Abby is essentially kidnapped (no disrespect intended towards the foster mom).

There was a lot more than a month's worth of trouble. For now I'm just giving a high level view of the worst of it. Here, I detail the possibility of police involvement in a break-in to my apartment a month later.
It is worth noting that I am limited in my ability to get comments from those involved at SelectQuote. I have spoken to three different private investigators in an attempt to get one to interview Michelle Tan. One stated that he did cases like this, but not this particular one.

SelectQuote has let slip that they can get privileged information about witnesses from the police. This looks like an improper relationship, especially given the

In short when people are planted at Select Quote a Doppler Radar rebound is read.

The Dopple of Tom Dunham is at Select Quote. The Dopple will leave Select Quote, harm a victim, seem like the emanation of Select Quote was the Tom Dunam Line, it was not, it was the Dopple I call Tx, then the victims report comes back to Select Quote as information about Rx Tom Dunham who the Disinformation is sticking to at Select Quote.

The Incident occurred when the Dopple of Tom Dunham left Select Quote as a Confidential Informant to go harm a victim in a different context.

- A public environment like a gym or business gets Confidential Informants and their handlers

- The Confidential Informants resemble the Gangstalk victim by physical description but differ in that the Dopple is a wrong do-er and harming people.

- A victim perhaps exploitative photographed, will later find she had been victimized when both the Gangstalk Victim and the Confidential Informant were at the location (Golds Gym members refereed Moron J Ploy.)

- In my case the victim who is alleging being harmed will approach misrepresentation of me who also likely represents her, as “the community” the “church group” or a retardation firm.

- Though all the little piece of the chain of events happened, were drawn out any single context the Police Narrative will glue them into a narrative context fitting the events together real and faked.

As I state elsewhere in the book this Subverts Tom Dunham, myself, and other Targeting Program victims. The veneer is the Marshalls are targeting a sex offender or a racist or a Nazi which the public will accept thus that evidence plant is made and that investigation is launched.

Holder Machen Jr. Rosenstein and MKULTRA Secrets of Massachusetts

Marshalls and Secrets of Massachusetts (Targeted Killings Sex Offenses) if it seems the white supremacist is a sex offender sexualizing non white children and thus also owing them DNA, the hypocrite, he should come to orgasm thinking of hot hollywood adult white women, and seek them out if what he says is true.

Fallacies and Five Minutes Hate

A series of things are done in frame jobs with little pieces here or there enacted which will then be explained, placed into a context which is not the context they occurred in but will fit the narrative of Grand-standers giving Fine Minutes Hate speech, a Ministry of Truth - Ministry of Justice reference alluding to 1984 in which lying State operatives claiming themselves for Justice and Trut as ministers of their organizations do hit pieces before the public and the evil of Jews and ultimately the need to machine gun them as they are in rafts in the water stranded.

In fact New Speak a Propaganda friendly system.

By the time I had found detailed infromation from Tom Duhnahm about operations at Select Quote and in the Bay Area I had already found the exact same activities in Texas and viewed them as lethal espionage and a long "Kills" victim list.

For instance Bobby Courtney tied to a Mexican gang, has he described it to me, who was taking him to strip clubs and car dealers in my identity, Edward Donegan, a naive person who was being taught to feel "boobies" (hooters.) *

Or Jimmy or Jayson Thomsposn who could have compromised the mission with their stories, or Floyd Simpson, same problem and in the county an (I think placed) hispanic prosecutor looking to indict the white establishment and transfer to the minority poor in a crime ring which must be kept secret.

These operation will target this genome and family.

And our MKUKLTA DARPIA DIA background.

With these operatives.

Doppling me and also flashing the buttocks of minors at me and my property as though it is my actions of photographing them, I am not.

Is their a way out of poverty for this poor land and these poor people?

Sinking Tom Dunham and Veronica Hoffman and our credibility

Those around Tom Dunham and myself will be told of what the Dopple of Ton Dunmahm or myself has done, then those nuetral parties will be asked to join with the police against Tom Dunham or myself, but the purpose of the police activity was merely to harrass the lives of TOm Dunham or myself, not a genuine investigation, just spreading clouds of suspicion, a means of harassing us under color olf law, rumor sreading, subversion of the reputation of Tom Dunham and myself.

Veronica Hoffman was harassed and investigated as a Nazi after she, the Jewish artist, was asked as a lark to try on a Nazi outfit.

Don't we care about them and protecting them from who appear to be white supremacist pedophiles in a Nazi Larouche and Child abuse ring Pediatricians and others are being briefed about with fake data behind the backs of Tom Dunham and Ed Donegan?

Phenomenon Wikipedia retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

A phenomenon (Greek: φαινόμενον, romanized: phainómenon, lit. ‘thing appearing to view’; plural phenomena)[1] is “an observable fact or event.”[2] The term came into its modern philosophical usage through Immanuel Kant, who contrasted it with the noumenon, which cannot be directly observed. Kant was heavily influenced by Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz in this part of his philosophy, in which phenomenon and noumenon serve as interrelated technical terms. Far predating this, the ancient Greek Pyrrhonist philosopher Sextus Empiricus also used phenomenon and noumenon as interrelated technical terms.

Ascription, in sociology, is a way to acquire status, along with achievement or chance. In philosophy, it is related to belief ascription [Could be Character Assassinating a person]. It is also a concept in linguistics, refer to Predicate [factual basis to interpret a person or his rights or his standing or character]

Description is the pattern of narrative development that aims to make vivid a place, object, character, or group. Description is one of four rhetorical modes, along with exposition, argumentation, and narration. In practice it would be difficult to write literature that drew on just one of the four basic modes. ABSTRACT Any inconsistent theory whose underlying logic is classical encompasses all the sentences of its own language. As it denies everything it asserts, it is useless for explaining or predicting anything. Nevertheless, paraconsistent logic has shown that it is possible to live with contradictions and still avoid the collapse of the theory. The main point of this paper is to show that even if it is formally possible to isolate the contradictions and to live with them, this cohabitation is neither desired by working scientists not desirable for the progress of science. Several cases from the recent history of physics and cosmology are analyzed.

Keywords: Consistency. Cosmology. Contradiction. Logic. Physics. Relativity.

It carries out the meaning of bunko and fraud. Deceitful appearances and use of mistaken identity, hiding in cognizance of guilt an accusation against me they did not dare make. Not to me, but they made the accusation to my trust fund and the general public.

Too Big To Be Accountable for Fraud and Illegality

Nothing about the Gangstalk of me under MKULTRA is legal. It is all bunko and all fraud but the NOW Media and NWO State and its NWO officials are too big to be accountable, not in the courts where Free Masonry and the CIA rule, nor are any of these Crony actors and Crony companies accountable to anyone including my lawsuits THEIR hack Ellington tanked, which of course the media did not out as having occurred.

Conspiring against Comey, Sessions, others, were also part of the [activist] Media cronyism plot.

Fraud and Racketeering

There is an observable Phenomenon on my area. Women are being "enfiled" via photography. I am also in the area. By splicing someone else s' "camera film" to my alleged possession of a camera and my camera film, the description of the phenomena is that I took the picture, it is ascribed to me, creating a belief about me.

By "splicing" film from different cameras in use a fake chain of events is manufactured. My phone reading a book will be alleged to have film on it of what was in front of me as I was reading a book and I call this the "Google Books Play."

Tx the real photographer, will admit to others of teen or tot exploitation. It will not be believed they are me. It will be believed if the punishment of Ed is a fun thing they should be allowed to take the place of Ed, with an adult entertainer who will punish the photograph and call the US Marshalls and photographed victim representative, likely Cadera of TJ Henry, or Woosley at the fusion center 555 building.

Habitat for Humanity, Salvation Army homeless shelters, Baptist homeless shelters, and other groups (Catholic Charities, Opus Dea H-E-B) and other causes tied to 1926 MKULTRA and DARPA are part of misrepresentation of my genomic rights and false claims against it, big in Texas that a white supremacist "owes" his DNA to minority in religious orphanages and other medical services programs.

When I take UBER to the story I get an unwelcome tour of Habitat for Humanity near the story and also an unwanted drive by of Salvation Army as the driver allegedly “ministers to me” and I call the cops saying get the religious nut jobs and their programs and their ministries away from me.

Passover of 2007! Was it on April 02, as many calendars say; or is it just beginning now, on May 02, 2007?

My Dear Ones, I looked with great anticipation toward this Passover, which I believed to begin on the 2nd of April of this year! I had hoped that our Father would send the wings for me at that time and take also the clean souls, who are ready to go! But, as I would learn a month later, it seems that this date of Passover, though widely distributed may actually be in error! However, even if the original date of April 02 is incorrect, beautiful things did begin to happen regarding these works during that time! - FROM THE MOUNTAIN PROPHECIES BOOK TWELVE CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

APPEAL TO ALL VICTIMS WHO CORRESPONDED WITH THE LATE DARRIM DAOUD (deceased 15 Nov.2009) IN ENGLISH + ESPAÑOL + ITALIANO

Please disseminate this far and wide, and post it in other forums.

I need our community to provide me with the source materials I need in order to compile a folder of Darrim Daoud's communications with our community, in chronological order. This is a massive task, for which the help is needed of anybody who had contact with Darrim during his lifetime, especially during November 2009.

Clearly, many in our community believe that the death threats made against Darrim were finally carried out, and that Darrim was never suicidal. I promised Darrim that, if he was found killed, I would try to ensure that his death was recorded as an unlawful killing. Like a lawyer who suspected his client was guilty, I would be obliged to Darrim to carry out his wishes and to keep my promise to him, even if I did have doubts that he was killed unlawfully, which I don't. Although I don't know in advance what you will all send me, from what I know about Darrim, I am expecting that the folder I intend to compile will go to evidence that Darrim was killed unlawfully.

Kiva Lending Team: The Darrim Daoud Group

We loan because … Darrim wanted a fairer world for all. He believed in peace, freedom, truth, justice and love. We want to honour Darrim's memory by participating in something he found worthwhile and rewarding.

About us: In Darrim's words: "Power to the people!"

"Overcoming poverty is not a gesture of charity. It is an act of justice. It is the protection of a fundamental human right, the right to dignity and a decent life …" ~ Nelson Mandela

Darrim described himself as half English and half Iraqi. He was killed on November 15 2009. He was only 34 years old. Please see this report of Darrim's death in Crawley News.

During the last few years of his life, Darrim claimed that he was a victim of organised stalking and electronic harassment using directed energy weapons. He organised a protest against organised stalking and electronic harassment on 14 October 2009, as part of the international day of protest announced in this press release. Darrim testified on several occasions during the final few weeks of his life, that he had been receiving threats to his life.

The two types of harassment that Darrim alleged, were organised stalking, and torture inflicted from a distance by the deployment of non-lethal directed energy weapons, often called electronic harassment. Darrim designed a two-sided placard that he carried proudly on his “demonstration”, which was attended by eight people in all.

At the top of this page, is displayed Darrim’s own artwork for the two sides of that two-sided placard. Darrim conducted an online survey of people who reported either of these two types of abuse, discovering that over 80% of those who reported either type of abuse, reported both types.

Darrim alleged that this harassment was inflicted upon him by the British public sector. He asked me to intervene in any inquest into his death, if he was violently killed. He confirmed to me and others that he was not suicidal. At first, the police told the media that Darrim’s death was “non-suspicious”. I wrote this letter to West Sussex Coroner declaring my interest in the matter of Darrim’s death. West Sussex Coroner made this decision that I was not a properly interest person in the inquest into Darrim’s death. I had not been granted judicial review of that decision by the time of the inquest hearing on 5th - 6th May 2011, reported here. I attended the whole of the two day-long inquest.

What is "economic espionage"? retrieved from FBI.GOV link and copied or modified to here

Economic espionage is foreign power-sponsored or coordinated intelligence activity directed at the U.S. government or U.S. corporations, establishments, or persons, designed to unlawfully or clandestinely influence sensitive economic policy decisions or to unlawfully obtain sensitive financial, trade, or economic policy information; proprietary economic information; or critical technologies. This theft, through open and clandestine methods, can provide foreign entities with vital proprietary economic information at a fraction of the true cost of its research and development, causing significant economic losses.

> The Economic Espionage Act of 1996 was a 6 title Act of Congress dealing with a wide range of … The act makes the theft or misappropriation of a trade secret a federal crime. … used in the Uniform Trade Secrets Act and state laws based on the UTSA. … in the RICO list of predicate offences signifying racketeering activity.

Counterintelligence - FBI - FBI.govwww.fbi.gov › investigate › counterintelligence What is Economic Espionage?

According to the Economic Espionage Act (Title 18 U.S.C. §1831), economic espionage is (1) whoever knowingly performs targeting or acquisition of trade secrets to (2) knowingly benefit any foreign government, foreign instrumentality, or foreign agent. In contrast, the theft of trade secrets (Title 18 U.S.C. Section 1832) is (1) whoever knowingly misappropriates trade secrets to (2) benefit anyone other than the owner.

> Historically, economic espionage has targeted defense-related and high-tech industries. But recent FBI cases have shown that no industry, large or small, is immune to the threat. Any company with a proprietary product, process, or idea can be a target; any unprotected trade secret is vulnerable to theft by those who wish to illegally obtain innovations to increase their market share at a victim company's expense.

DHC Homeland Security Investigations HSI A Diverse, Global Force retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

HSI is a critical investigative arm of the Department of Homeland Security and is a vital U.S. asset in combating criminal organizations illegally exploiting America's travel, trade, financial and immigration systems.

HSI's workforce includes special agents, analysts, auditors and support staff. Its men and women are assigned to cities throughout the United States and to offices around the world. HSI's international force is the department's largest investigative presence abroad and gives HSI one of the largest international footprints in U.S. law enforcement.

HSI has broad legal authority to enforce a diverse array of federal statutes. It uses this authority to investigate all types of cross-border criminal activity, including:

- Financial crimes, money laundering and bulk cash smuggling;
- Commercial fraud and intellectual property theft;

- Cybercrimes;
- Human rights violations;
- Human smuggling and trafficking;
- Immigration, document and benefit fraud;
- Narcotics and weapons smuggling/trafficking;
- Transnational gang activity;
- Export enforcement; and,
- International art and antiquity theft.

The threats presented by criminals in these areas have far-reaching consequences. In response, HSI uses a versatile approach to conducting its operations so that it can achieve the best results for the nation and its people.

Aggression, defined as "any behavior directed toward another individual that is carried out with the intent to cause harm" [1] can further be categorized as reactive versus instrumental aggression. Reactive aggression is impulsive and emotional, whereas instrumental aggression is premeditated, proactive and goal-oriented [1]. Additionally, personal factors such as attitudes, personality traits and genetic disposition as well as situational factors including provocation, frustration, pain and drugs contribute to aggression [1].

Tactics

As the U.S. Senate's investigation of Cointelpro found, tactics used by the FBI included many of the methods associated with gang stalking, such as overt surveillance (stalking for psychological operations purposes). The agency even perpetrated crimes such as blackmail and assassinations.

Organized stalking methods include warrantless electronic surveillance, slander, blacklisting, and a variety of psychological operations. The latter presumably exploit findings from studies such as the notorious MKUltra experiments conducted on American and Canadian citizens by the CIA, as well as the aforementioned psychological torture tactics refined by the Stasi. In fact, as explained in the overview below, former CIA analyst and expert on the history of U.S. spying, George O'Toole wrote about a connection between the CIA and the aforementioned LEIUs.

An organized stalking victim is systematically isolated and harassed in a manner intended to cause sustained emotional torment while creating the least-possible amount of evidence of stalking that would be visible to others. The process is sometimes referred to as "no-touch torture." Methods are specifically chosen for their lack of easily-captured objective evidence. Perpetrators use common annoyances such as constant noise by neighbors or rude comments and abusive behavior by strangers, but on a frequent ongoing long-term basis. The cumulative effects of relentless exposure to such tactics can amount to psychological torture for the victim.

Accomplices - such as neighbors, co-workers, and even friends or relatives of the victim in some cases - are recruited to participate (often unwittingly) by counterintelligence personnel using various means, such as by telling them that the target is a potential threat or that the target is the subject of an "investigation."

A whole set of psychological operations are perpetrated against targeted individuals. These methods, described in detail in the overview below, include such things as threats, slander, vandalism, abusive phone calls, computer hacking, tormenting the victim with noise, and "mobbing" (orchestrated verbal harassment by strangers, neighbors, or co-workers).

9/11 - New World Order Webmaster, Dr. Eric T. Karlstrom: Emeritus Professor of Geography, California State University (bio) ETK Introduction

The following excellent summary articles come from the websites- www.fightgangstalking.com, https://gangstalking.wordpress.com/faq/, and http://www.whale.to/c/predatory_gangstalking.html. Information in these articles corroborates, supplements, and extends information that I posted on this site in my January 21, 2015 post entitled Appendix 9. "Gang Stalking:" Organized and Electronic Targeting the "Domestic Enemy." Notes from Books, utube Presentations, and Blogs."

This subject is extremely important and is so poorly understood and recognized by the public that I want to make this material available here. I also recommend that those interested in learning more about this subject visit these and other websites because they also include many excellent graphics, youtube films, resources, etc.

The author of the first article below is a former security/intelligence officer who makes the important point that the term "gang stalking" may itself be a disinformation term invented by the intelligence agencies that conduct these covert, criminal, "counter-terrorism" programs in order to "neutralize" and/or destroy the innocent civilians whom they target. The more accurate term for this kind of unconstitutional and criminal activity, according to the author, is "counterintelligence stalking."

Finally, False Confession, asking me to restart services I already had as though in the past I abused the services or environment, when in actuality is was canceled in-explicitly as though the computer malfunctioned in membership database, etc., It looks to others my resigning up for services I ALREADY HAD was a confession I had done something wrong before when in fact an identity thief did something wrong instead. In effect seeming to sign a confession which is not represented as being a confession because a statement of misconduct is not actually intended by the request to to continue services.

He was reportedly effectively forced out of the DIA after clashing with superiors over his allegedly chaotic management style and vision for the agency.[51][52][53][54] In a private e-mail that was leaked online, Colin Powell said he had heard in the DIA (apparently from later DIA director Vincent R. - Breaks my eggs in the U.S., socially sabotaging me to women,
- And it also creates the legal retribution of seized or blackmailed DNA of mine being used inter-racially, internationally, and inter-religiously,

These are all violations of my Human Rights, and all upon false pretexts of substance and violations of Due Process such as non-recusals, payoffs, witness tampering, denial of defense experts, etc.,

Twenty Years Ago

Bizarre morons were swarming me in now what I call a Gangstalk. Several times I described this to others around 2001. At the time I was being fired from Wells Fargo a few months after 9/11 my father was out visiting who also lived in California and we were sitting in the lobby of Fox Plaza Apartments where I had been set to move into on a signed lease to a 22nd floor apartment overlooking downtown sf in downtown Sf.

I was telling my father about being swarmed by people who WOULD NOT identify themselves nor leave my vicinity either.

He said he noticed an odd buzz of plain clothes people obviously around us as we moved through the city but did not know what to make of it either.

I could not understand it myself and repeatedly approached them and they said they were NOT doing it yet were assaulting people in my vicinity, sometimes pushing and shoving them out of the blue and denying to me they were doing it.

Many many times I called them out and they said they had nothing to do with me and I knew nor should they. They did seem a times law enforcement and at one time I walked along Kerney Street to the BART train pulling up my sweater “no gun” as they were making bulling gestures towards me as they seemed to be trying to provoke a fight.

Nothing made sense to me and as always they never tried to justify anything to me and I frequently talk about shouting matches with these morons “accuse me of something” and thy can not or do not.

As I pointed out the the nuns at Mother Teresa’s when I arrived i Corpus Christi THEY, the people around me, are the dupes of these people. Whatever they say BEHIND my back to others is what they CAN NOT JUSTIFY with me present.

Lacking cause to assault me, they assault those around me and make up excuses to the public, without me present, as to why they are doing it.

They also were creating appearances I now know as KOMPROMAT which is suspicious things in my vicinity which elsewhere without me present I will be blamed for to others, me not there to defend myself.

In fact this has been a Gangstalk for at least since 1995 and I believe it tied to the Obama family children and IVF of them.

In 25 years no one has actually accused me of anything and I have increasingly been defeated in the legal and psych ward system as I have tried to fend them off.

Considering the loss in my health I have lost a 35 year fight (25 direct years, 10 lost years to future bad health) stemming from the time I was 35 to what will be 70 years old still not being able to call out morons who refuse to identity themselves TO ME!

My mother was surrounded by them too and they fit the description of Black Hebrew Islrealites with a racial chip on their shoulders and from deep ghetto or homeless populations from 1995 to present I think I can come up with 200 witnesses to this.

If you use Jen Moore's math 43 years plus my add of 10 years loss of health for 53 years (20 years old to 73 years old) of my own family life lost.

The very blacks who have stalked me now say they will have my babies because they are in my vicinity and I demand their deaths.

Pizzagate reporter Jen Moore cited a 42 year long gang stalk of someone who's genome was tied to secret identities, I believe the Obama's, and was subjected to Pizzagate.

I believe the person she was referring to was me, this relates to my mother and I , both of whom were maliciously gang stalked, and if you take her 43 year now report of me being stalked (which fits Cal State Hayward and also U of O some) then that works to 20 years old to 73 years old family life lost for me.

STATE SANCTIONED

This is protected by murder as Jen Moore died after receiving death threats, her reporting that highly classified programs are used to fake this KOMPROMAT as Government officials fake child porn to create the pretext that I did, thus the pretext for legal retribution against me is created.

I believe the U.S. Government is under the motivational sway of foreign racketeering influences joined or forced upon US Government officials against at the Sovereignty interests of the United States and my family.

Part of the motive for this is concealing the guilt of existing US Agencies, officials, and previous participating parties in the mess that MKLTRA created.

In the case of Neuces County District Attorney Mark Gonzales and Nueces County Services the latte has made statements to me regarding the former, Mark Gonzales, as being overtly involved.

The NOMINAL OPERATION from what I have been able to gather is what I will term the TWO BIRDS PLOY.

An alleged White Supremacist leaning white male is impersonated, then shaken down, for Bone Marrow Stromal Cells (non umbilical cord cells) rights which will benefit minorities and will be blackmailed from the scumbag white supremacist, a double benefit of achieving equality and gaining Neo Natal orphanages rights of use of experimental pharmaceutical Genomics.

Also, the best I and Jen Moore (deceased before I found her data and deceased before I found the same things I found but did not know she also had found) can reveal to the public is that the immunology and other genetics being moved around in a Charities black market operation gaining Charity rights to the genes covers up a deer and more highly placed and more highly motivated Deep State criminal enterprise.

Covering up the immunology tied CIA Illuminati creation of Barack Obama in 1961 tied to Atomic Testing in the Nevada Los Angles Hawaii are of Atomic Testing my father was in with Sidney Gottlieb and the FOXP2 London KE Dysgraphia gene in my mother' side also likely under that same Sidney Gottlieb microscope and with an extra ovum from my mother Feb 20 1961 also with JFK and Thorkil Christensen care and IQ testing being carried out under the Kennedy administration MKULTRA program, and also in the 1990s under Arkansas Illuminati continue genetic infusions from the Donegans into the children of the Obamas to maintain Obama generational consistency, then following Genetic Databases of Family Origins, again infusing Donegan DNA around the word where then it will found and traced from there into the Obama family where it EXPLICABLY came from.

Thus I consider the nominal matter most are asked to participate in, a shakedown of an impersonator of me for my genomic rights in Pizzagate to be veneer over a much more dangerous "non white lie" mission of deadly at any cost coverup of the JFK assassination by the Illuminati and world history unfolding since then, this Birther Conspiracy Theory that a criminal enterprise Deep State built around the CIA and Clintons and Illuminati are trying with black market criminal activity covering up existing illegality they are already at risk of exposure for.

In a "Chance Encounters Play" a person at a point I call Position 2 will act on behalf of covertly operating Position 3, a secret motive and secret operative, and a crafted chance conversation with Position 1 (the person being secretly prompted about things, myself.)

Peerless Cleaners

3434 S Staples St, Corpus Christi, TX 78411

Repeatedly a shakedown scheme operated on that property (Pizzagate, described elsewhere) and a Nueces Behavioral Health worker working for a new DA who was “ so wonderful” wanted to have all sorts of chance conversations with me, at random about “colors, people and Hegal, and Natural Law philosophy, and she provoked all sorts of arguments with me on topics in harassing unwanted conversation of the type that constantly surrounds me placing me in an interrogation chair anywhere I go or requiring me to life as a mute.

Bitterly far leftist and stating she was a Democrat, unsolicited by me, she thought black and white thinking were about the races and racial groups and this would be the future of all future natural law philosophy as carried out by behavioral health care who could recognize this new District Attorney as some sort of racial savior political philosopher who would strike down white supremacism.

I have long stated I threw around some words once to people not used to the matters I was speaking on or my usual life long vocabulary that though I was far right I had always wanted to “lean in” and try to be open to those around me, and not place myself in some zealot camp. (I now do seek a zealot camp.)

This I call the Hegel Event Horizon where new faddish words emerged in Behavioral Health because over educated white collar workers with special terminology and political history don’t normally get trapped in the psychological system, thus they were learning new words from me upon prison release, and Behavioral Health Care had a new Vainglory Mission of defeating White Supremacist Extremism.

Using the words I taught them with just meant people should “Chill out” in California Speak, or “Chill!” when my mother was joking that others were too serious.

Patreus was CIA then and had been following me and studying me since my Real Harm Real Foul days when I asserted poor sociology blamed Whites for Blacks acting like Blacks.

Trump, likely played for a fool, followed on along with this faddist as he took up “marketer” Tom Donegan’s, Mark Weirnesses, and Orin Hatch’s “fight against white supremacism,” them pickup up new words for worn out sociology as well.

Landlords

Jim Volcelka, Mac Lamar Properties (Casa Linda and Princess Apartments) William Ruiz Capitola Califronia

When I was at the Salvation Army they used the forged narrative system EVERYONE uses. I am “assigned” a mattress, bedroom, etc., but then a change is made (I sued a guy name William Ruiz over this, an assigned chair disappears to a different location and different chain of events) but the new chain of events follows the item or mattress as I am moved away from it and someones begins using it. It is in the narrative though I had been assigned that matrees. It is NOT in the narrative a change was then made.

That I had been at one time the possessor of an item of clothing, a location, or a similar one found in a different chain of events links me fraudulently to the other chain of events.

This fits what I call the 2.5/3 node information circuit. There are really two things that happened. But a cross-out, a cross switch occurs in the narrative, a deceptive element, such as the mattress assignments change after first being given. Thus the original mattress designation, unless updated, is incorrect.

Under cover operations mounted in MY HOME from position 3 (unknown party, probably Obama connected) planted evidence I was retarded and planted evidence I was a peeper, these operations conducted in and assaulting me in my own home.

(too numerous to mention but for example) William Ruiz was half black aging man with thinning very long hair whose floor was disgusting ash soaked and shower that over flowed not draining.

Ruiz verbally assaulted me repeatedly when he went to use the shower the floor was still wet from when I used it and it was a flood condition. I finally got sick of this, bought a very small plunger and plunged the drain and it worked will after that.

To create the Legend it did not he assaulted me again over a wet floor when it was dry and also someone lectured retarded me a plunger used on the situation, if later done, WOULD fix the situation. Similarly while driving him to the hospital I pointed out picking a lane that does not have traffic rapidly moving in an out (far right lane) provided some stability at times from constant lane changes. He then moments later stated that to me as though it was his advice to me. This was all thirty days long)

Courts including South Texas Federal District Court

I tried to sue over this and get restraining orders but the usual Forensic Data Device Failures Ploy was under way. As is common for me, at FBI , gym, or elsewhere, the camera system at the Clerks office was out and being adjusted as I FILED MY CASE over this. I was gang stalked at the filing with a non white double and they said mine would have to be retroactively filed some other time I was not present because fo tech issues.

Cheap shot unjustified innuendo dominated the hearing led by B Janice Ellington, probably tied to Andy Ellington and geno racketeering and identity theft of me in the legal system as the CIA and Obamas get favors granted to them, or US Marshals working on illegal asset seizures of my genomics on the evidence they are planting are part of the corruption.

Mail seemed to be intercepted as well at 1001 N. Water Street as I was supposed to get mail on the matter, mail theft commonly part of COINTELPRO and harassment in the legal system.

I was zerod out from 1001 N. Water Street 1/17/2021

Over and over again the magistrate Ellington and the court personnel took cheap shot after cheap shot of derogatory innuendo suggesting I was harmful to county ninas and over and over again I tried to call out those worthless innuendo cheap shots, and they could not or would not back it up.

Rigged court of cheap shot hacks.

Non White Counties and Services

The Hispanic/black self victimization cottage industry in this toilet pueblo supports Doppelgangers of me doing the harm and racket social justice representation of me pleading me guilty to the activities harming their clients and charging my genome in unreported activities of furtive money laundering of genomic valuation and transactions NOT reported to me and even reported as a POTENTIAL use, thus I can not meet the Corpus Christi police officers demand I PROVE they are using my genome without telling me.

Nueces County Texas impoverished, non white, eager for fake claims

Executive Surf Club 306 N Chaparral St, Corpus Christi, TX 78401

Non stop genoracketeering in public thus I stay home. A scuzzy black from the kitchen area says vaguely to the room “Your order is going to be at the window service” and a teen with a tiara is there in tight leggings, and a guy like me is at the glass storefront window, not the food service window, smart phone camera filmint the teen as the teen sits down with some black and white friends of hers near me.

I call out the obvious Doppelgänger who then claims chest pain and is taken away by an ambulance.

In a constantly run scam she, the teen in the tiarra, was the visual pornography of the public peeper Doppelgänger of me, who, when caught, will owe my DNA to the teen or "provider" of the teen for the "cyber tryst" DNA result.

I will not agree to this and I was impersonated. Social Justice workers will blame scumbag dirt white supremacist for this, and his DNA is due to those exploited females and vigilantism towards me, the real goal of this persecution of me.

This is clear bunko and clear racketeering no mistake about it and backed by corruption with enough political clout and pull to get away with it as a "moral" cause of defaming an older white male inciting hate crimes against him (me) in retaliation for the acts of others.

Austin Java House 5404 Manchaca Rd, Austin, TX 78745

This was the first time I really saw the whole scam pieces or at least recognized them as Pizzagate. A scuzzy black from behind the counter seemed to be in some transaction with a Doppelgänger of me who was being hooked up with some leggy blonde in tights, the leggy blonde and the Doppelgänger of me leaving and the scuzzy black remaining. I began to realize allegedly I had left with the hookup though I was just as always doing the normal business in the establishments normal operation and someone else concatenated some other act or some other transaction on top of that, not my own, and either intoned something vaguely towards me or did not, but in either case of whatever others did I was not tied to the extra stuff and never was.

The Doppelgänger though will agree in my identity to pay for the pizza with my DNA, and the retardation firms I do no want or need will dole out my DNA to pay for pizza bills they say I owe.

A function of these things is that when the Doppelgänger is exiting the Doppelgänger is followed and shaken down and confesses to wrong doing, and this is traced back to the establishment which with police backing will ban me from the establishment the Doppelgänger left with the pizza from.

Outlandishness

Like people caught in a lie, Lucy at the chocolates assembly line, or dancing in a show she did not rehearse for, zany crazy antics are more insane all the time. Desperate misrepresentation of me and desperate frame job attempts and outlandish claims of what turns me on are out of this world, no possible reason on earth could any of this racket have any foundation in truth whatsoever but every more desperate use of overt obvious clear fraud with greater fervor continue at cover up attempts, covering up none of this was ever true and isn't true now and never will be true.

It is them, not me, peeping, and it is them, not me signing my genome over to others, and it is them, not me asking misrepresentation of me to agree to all of that when I do not.

Judge Roll

A Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR) report circulating in the Kremlin today states that the top US Federal Judge for the State of Arizona was assassinated barely 72-hours after he made a critical ruling against the Obama administrations plan to begin the confiscation of their citizen's private retirement and banking accounts in order to stave off their nations imminent economic collapse, and after having the US Marshals protecting him removed.

According to this SVR report, Federal Judge John McCarthy

Roll was the Chief Judge for the United States District Court for the District of Arizona who this past Friday issued what is called a “preliminary ruling” in a case titled “United States of America v. $333,520.00 in United States Currency et al” [Case Number: 4:2010cv00703 Filed: November 30, 2010] wherein he stated he was preparing to rule against Obama’s power to seize American citizens money without clear and convincing evidence of a crime being committed.

The case being ruled on by Judge Roll, this report continues, was about bulk cash smuggling into or out of the United States that the Obama administration claimed was their right to seize under what are called Presidential Executive Orders, instead of using existing laws. The Obama administration used as support for their claim before Judge Roll, the SVR says, the seizing of all American citizens’ gold, in 1933, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt’s signing of Executive Order 6102, which was ruled at th/e time to be constitutional.

Pizza Gate and IQ Research

The ARC of Northern Virginia and an Epstein is tied to Pizza Gate and my mother's trust fund. I have nothing to do with Pizza Gate but frame jobs of it and my and Tom Dunham's complicity in it are being publicly staged.

ARC of Norther Virginia and the Tia Marselli Autism Institute are tied to IQ research as well and Sub Saharn employees (Trinitas Nsambari) who are also connected with my brother working with the all black US DOD Public Health Service false arrest of me.

This includes planted evidence from Lori Coxx, Oakland Social Worker.

FISA Gate

William Ruiz, Jim Volcelcka, and others have been used to fake my voice print saying this to me that will later be alleged that I myself said.

For instance when we were alone Jim Volcelcka described to me he took the ASVAB at a Military Entrance Processing Center but then decided not to enlist. I took that IQ test at a military processing center and decided not to enlist.

That was when I lived with Jim Volkelca briefly. I had planned to live there a year staring on a Saturday but somebody likely a Marshall said “aren’t you coming to dinner of Friday?” when there was no plan for me to do so and I believe a Bifurcation was set where I was framed to the landlord even before I moved in at a dinner I was not actually set to attend, and a picture of Obama was later seen on site.

When I lived with William “Bill Ruiz in Capitola in the location prior to Jim Volkelca’s BnB William Ruiz said to me “It sure is nice to be able to shower after not having showered in weeks” when it was me, not him, who had just come from being evicted for camping at Wylder State Park.

William Ruiz stole my clothes as well and impersonated me to “pizza” on his computer. I was zerod out from both legitimate rentals for activities I did not participate in.

At Salinas KinkBnB my swimsuit and lap pool googles were stolen as they were repeatedly, so, as with the Soldiers for Christ motorcycle peeing into the pool, again, it will APPEAR Ed Donegan will be doing so through stolen or impersonated goods.

I believe later Jim Volckelca will use what is thought to be my voice, perhaps with Mistress Deja Vu, to fake a FISA issue with me. Also in, that same house, someone was shopping both for size 13 boots AND guns.

In cases such as Ball Park West Apartments, Clarendon Courts, 42nd Street Capitola CA, Salinas KinkBnB, Corpus Christi Texas and Casa Linda Apartments the story is the same.[1]

Identifying laundry or other items are being stolen from my home (including bed sheets, as also at Best Western Paradise In Corpus Christi) and this will be used to fake someone being me to "pizza."

This also fits with the Judge Roll death in that the CIA/DIA backed "Harvey Dents" "Don Johnsons" :"Kendel Persons" are Sub Saharan black pimps pimping out white women in the U.S. to CIA and Law Enforcement payed for by real Edward Donegan's DNA.

Footenote:[1] At 42nd Street Capitola with William Ruiz, it was William Ruiz stealing my motorcycle jacket, pretending to be me to a domina of some type, utilizing identity theft quite similar. Not only were clothes stolen in both locations (42nd Street Capitola Street and KinkBnB California locations) but the voice prints were faked. In 42nd Street Capitola William Ruiz said to me after I had come from weeks of camping "it sure is nice to shower again after not showering for weeks." William Ruiz also, like at KinkBnB where Obama's picture was, cited white supremacism as the reason for faking being me.

Introducing CIA Slush Fund Midnight Climax MKULTRA (now Pizzagate) and money laundering genes rights

Pizzagate is a Prelude Interlude Collision Cartel operation of organized crime run by an espionage team. The Prelude is it is made to appear Ed Donegan is an in-sphosticate immature person and as such is bottom feeding. While that is being done as a prelude the operators of the plan are colluding with each other to copy the sophistication of Ed Donegan and infiltrate places they think Ed Donegan would steer illegally or attempt to do so. Clearly faked appearances and rumor mongering make up the entire illegal PsyOps scheme. In a addition to defaming Ed Donegan the scheme uses the smears to pick fights, get him evicted either based on the fights or based on the appearances the fights are over., etc.,

Why someone would do this is my theory my family history is a secret of MKULTRA and operators of that treason based history don't want the truth to come out or me to be taken seriously.

Project CHATTER Project ARTICHOKE “Manchurian Candidate”

Not only are the hits on me and on Jen Moore clearly directed at covering up the JFK RFK Marilyn Monroe Malcom X murders by he CIA, hundreds of others murdered are a long string of unsolved murders by these Espionage state-actors acting for personal interests, covering their crimes and crime families.

Sailing into the wind, towards the rule of law, the sail follows the mast close to even with the line of the hull of the boat.

In reality and part of the near magic of sailing is a sail a few degrees off true-wind, directly into the wind, the wind must move around. the longer path around the outside of the shape of the sail from the inner path allows a low pressure in front of the boat to pull the sail forward.

In that path the sais position is fixed by the pressure of being off from the wind just a bit pushing the sail away from the boot and the Main Sheet rope, a line pulling the back of the sail towards the boat.

I assert a major shift occurred with the assassination of JFK and RFK. Crime began to push the boat from behind. the forces of wind shifted 180 degrees but things looked this same.

At least for the the Jim Donegan Glorian Gainey Donegan Edward Paul Donegan family a racial research element was part of the shift and is part of sociology.

Subject: Information submitted on Jennifer Marie Moore and a suggestion of a Homicide finding.

I am a firsthand witness to the events surround the death threats, locations Ms. Moore was at and filming and documents as it pertained to my family history and a criminal racket operation she had received death threats for reporting.

Not only as a first hand witness can I vouch for what she asserted were death threat to her in regards to reporting on my family information I have received death threats from the same powerful espionage figures in events which do trace back deep into history, the OSS (Office of Special Services which became the Psychological Warfare Operations and TSS Technical Services CIA assassinations group of the CIA) and how that pertained to operations during WWI, WWII, and into the sixties with the illegal programs of MKULTRA, experiments in psychology, and in illegal programs tied to the creating of moles and sleeper agents for the 21st Century during the 1960s.

In fact when Jen Moore pointed her camera at the location my mother and I live at not far from you coroner's office in Arlington Virginia (850. North Randolph Street Arlington Virginia apartment 221) she was talking about very famous celebrities who had contact with Nazis such as the Bush family prior to hard steers into dangerous territory the Nazis began to embrace.

It was during that transition time from 1925 and the British Imperialism Speech at Wembley Park to the removal of the Von Trapp family (7 known, 3 unknown) children of Maria Augusta Kutschera the history Jen Moore was documenting "ruffled feathers."

I find the death threat she experienced were well documented including by videos, her assertion she was threatened with death, and that powerful elite espionage and political families and politicians had much to hid credible because Jen Moore and I experience the same storyline and threats from the same powerful actors including the FBI who during J. Edgar

Hoover's time and since have used Mafia connections (Cali Cartel, La Cosa Nostra, Knights Templar drug cartel) and others such as Mexican Mafia when the FBI leaders or high level politicians find themselves in trouble for their espionage past including high profile assassinations such as Sam Giacanca assassinated before testifying before Congress and other high profile murders.

Jen Moore was by the documents she left and the connection to my family and the history of my family fighting these mob forces openly and online. I can attest to the truthfulness she had reason to fear for her life including when she was taking on the forces of the Mafia and Mexican Mafia in Nueces County Texas which as an unapologetically mafia tattooed outlaw biker tattooed District Attorney 125 miles from the Mexican border where drug and human trafficking exist. It is likely both the county I live in, powerful politicians, and the FBI itself would rather the truth of Jen Moore's death be buried deep but it does relate to criminal rackets which are backed by powerful political forces, political forces which have much to lose.

For the moment I am only providing two links, one to my book on the subject which is also being harassed and then to her YouTube videos which include 850 N. Randolph and my mother and I am my family's story.

Wikipedia retrieved from Slush fund and copied or modified to here

A slush fund is a fund or account that is not properly accounted, such as money used for corrupt or illegal purposes, especially in the political sphere.[1] Such funds may be kept hidden and maintained separately from money that is used for legitimate purposes. Slush funds may be employed by government or corporate officials in efforts to pay influential people discreetly in return for preferential treatment, advance information (such as non-public information in financial transactions), and other services.[2] The funds themselves may not be kept secret but the source of the funds or how they were acquired or for what purposes they are used may be hidden. Use of slush funds to influence government activities may be viewed as subversive of the democratic process.

In accounting, the term slush fund describes a general ledger account of commingled funds to which all manner of transactions can be posted, with debits and credits cancelling each other.[citation needed]

Examples

Richard Nixon's "Checkers speech" of 1952 was a somewhat successful effort to dispel a scandal concerning a slush fund of campaign contributions.[3] Years later, Nixon's presidential re-election campaign used slush funds to buy the silence of the "White House Plumbers".[4]

The slush fund and slush fund documents of the Department of Defense black operation are retyped here from earlier MS World documents Understanding the early days of August 2018. I had thirty days at Capitola with William Ruiz where I compiled money laundering racketeering Slush Fund kited genome value documents that contaned videos posted to YouTube and three MS Word documents with additional and cross referenced material.

All the data was moved around by posts to YouTube, emails to 1701 Studio Auston rope work studio, Genetech which was involved, Fetlife BDSM Site legal services, and various police departments. Jen Moore refereneced many of my documents which at times she alludes to were co-opted by the “Special Counsel” and perhaps she meant Rod Rosenstein, I don’ t know, she did not use a name.

Retypings of the Word documents to here

This is used with me. At MacDonalds at Walmart South Staples I order a small fries. I am told my “small fry is on the way” and a teen appears, likely as an illegal jail bait to be photographed.

A CIA backed person will photograph that teen in that same flash, also , then be punished (by an adult woman) for MY genome, using my identity to confess to the adult model under, and the adult entertainer will really “make that [CIA impersonator of Ed[pay” when the adult adult entertainer is brought as sex therapy for the CIA agent, who will then be caught by the Victoria Secret model, and made to pay for his erotic crime against the small fry, using my DNA to settle the debt.

Unless someone, like the CIA knows the value of the genome, could not settle such a debt even if owed (and I was not told why my genome would be of interest to anyone) thus the insider trading on undisclosed value of the genome.

OSS to CIA, black budgets, Operation Paperclip, & Hidden Identities (Jen Moore Youtube Video I explain)

Identity theft is constant in my life every moment of my life as a Stalked person and what is done is I start a document then it is taken over by someone else as I am turned away from it by some form of heckle; for instance, “This Drivers License Windows is closing for end of business today so come back tommorow morning to work on the bottom half of of form and photo taking” OR “the DMV is shut down today, just go home” but then it open back up when you are not there.

WHen my identity is proven in the first half like I was in a Home Depot provably somewhere it means a dopple of me at a Home Depot somewhere else can pickup my switched out identity and contiue as me in St Louis or elswhere.

This is document is some MS Word docs and Youttube videos I did and link to here but here in this document are some screen shots I placed into the Word docs on the black budget kited funds in RICO operation, and some excerpted text.

A pernicious Blackmail/Extortion ring has formed. The complexifying elements are that

- Emezzelers have captured funds into bank accounts tied to them but falsy claimed are actually mine use Identity Theft and other Fraud tactics to hold, and money launder the funds due me but held by others. I have no verbal, financial, or any another account of the financial accounts but others use identity theft to create the cover story I am aware of the money and I am spending out of it. Chris Lloyd of Orinda California appears central to this illegal scheme.

- Identity Thieves are using impersonations of me to engage in despicable and politically defaming conduct. PICTURED A bike other than my bike, but of similar description, in an otherwise empty parking lot, is spying on women of the gym. Golds Gym Corpus Christi. Rarely and non-exploitatively I do use a forward facing dash camera to tape scenic motorcycle rides on MY motorcycle, not the one pictured below.

- The impersonators themselves are both engaging in the despicable conduct and agreeing to be blackmailed socially by dominatrices who will "punish them" by making them give money or other assets to blacks. "Domination is not prostitution." The embezzled money is turned over to "above board" dominatrices such as Kora Kaine, Anastasia, Veronica Hoffman, and adult toy suppliers in a money laundering operation to semi legitimate businesses or donations. [added 2/15/2022 or seem like legitimate assets seizures of Ed Donegan's trust fund based on the acts of the person who stole the identity of Ed Donegan and used that identity in St Louis or elsewhere.}]

- Public spectacle staged photos (along with phone hacking) create the appearance I am aware of the embezzled misused funds. For instance I have only a motorcycle. If I consider buying a car an look for one or request one from my trust fund, vehicles I am considering will be driven near me, pause, then drive away as though I am examining them. I conjunction with this unrelated spam phone calls will reach my phone making it seem I am being asked to authorize and am involved in some vehicle purchase which I am not. Without out accounting to me embezzlers will buy the vehicle as though authorized by me, keep it for themselves, and conceal it from me. (Corpus Christi Toyota 4Runner or Chris Lloyd Porsche, or real estate such as in Missouri, Moraga California, or Corpus Christi.

- At Points of Sale cashiers intone some “good times” are being bought in addition to groceries from some planted female. I suspect a second transaction (not the legitimate one I make) is later made by an impersonator of me which will access the embezzled account rather than my account. The impersonator will then leave the store or gym with the planted female for the “good time” although the innuendo was said towards me at the point of sale.

- There is law enforcement or Secret Service, DOD, or other internal law enforcement support based on what I have been told by at least 9 people. In ErosX (My identity is crossed out with someone elses) black sex offenders, black foreign nationals, and junkie white trash or other tatooed prison felons have been setup to receive stolen or embezzled property, telling me they were hired by the DOD to do so and in fact they have used names like “Harvey Dent” and “Casper.” I do believe this is slush fund related corruption and in international RICO scheme.

ONE EXAMPLE WILLIAM RUZ

A Motorcycle jacket [aka Ruiz “Rocket” Johny Rocket the Trust Fund paid for was stolen and a chair I sat in moved, both to a location I was not at so an impersonator could use those items to establish an identity of me and shower peep.

Verbal narrative but vaugely so was added by William

Ruiz that while in my motorchycle jacket I was using remote moinotor equipment to watch women shower.

[Safety gloves were also pilfered and thieves encourage to pilfer from me are encouraged to do so in ways that harm my progress towards important goals or safety, the FBI scheme of disrupting a person's life)

HOW PARTS OF THIS HAVE UNFOLDED (I was in a Home Depot looking for piece of wood for a cat play piece of furniture and walked out the Corpus Christi Home Depot without a purchase. That weekend an identity thief with email, age, birthday near me, but unrelated to me, bought property for a rental property I have nothing to do with or accounting of, but is owned by and Identity Thief of me.

The picture of me not buying anything in Corpus Christi is fused with something at a different GPS, a purchase by an identity thief, for a fake record that I did buy something when in fact an identity theft bought something from funds and an account not disclosed to me.

I was in Corpus Christ, was visible in Corpus Christi Texas Home Depot, and nowhere near Missouri Home Depot.

Photos of where Dopples of me operate, Arsons to those areas afterwards in sevarl cases, and the misspellingg domain confusion or brand confustion tricks to hijack my identity and move to elsehwere with it where other events not tied to me in reality will unfold.

I believe I am and since 2003 have been studied as a "White supremacist terrorist" as has been my music scene Goth/ Fetish/ Industrial and my picture of my at a goth fetish club (2003 Spank, San Francisco) was not a normal “Klu Klux Klan” photo in any way. U.S. and other intelligence agencies are at war with this “too white” scene because some of its music references are about the fall of Western Civilization or “politically incorrect themes.” [VNV Nation, Ramstein, though these groups acutally favor individuality when the speak at all about social justice.

Tom Dunham, myself, and Veronica Hoffman were all in that scene and attending events together.

He said he was hoping to fly back to Los Angeles the following day, to meet Veronica's family — some in nearby Santa Barbara and others coming in from Texas and Georgia — to organise a memorial service for this coming Saturday (August 8).

She had already attempted suicide once, he revealed, but had been saved by a friend who was staying at her dungeon at the time. "I took her to Cedars Sinai, where they adjusted her medication, and it looked like she was getting better," he said. Unfortunately, it seems that the improvement was temporary.

On Sunday, with Joseph in Toronto, she took advantage of a brief absence of the same friend who'd saved her before and was still watching her, to make a second suicide attempt. Sadly this time she was successful.

She would have been 30 in November. She was one of my dearest friends; life without will never be the same, and I know many others will feel just the same.
Accordingly, we are now planning a Fetishistas celebration of Veronica's brief but stellar contribution to our world — a reminder of her capacity for brightening up so many lives despite the demons she battled.

We therefore invite photographers and models who shot with her and fetish folk with entertaining anecdotes about her (and boy there must be plenty of those!) to participate in our tribute.

Please send your Veronica stories and pictures to tony@thefetishistas.com and we'll publish as many of them as we can.
Thank you. TONY MITCHELL

REVEREND DAVID MANNING - Former head of the Trinity Baptist Church in Chicago. Was murdered during the apparent robbery of a catfish restaurant in 1972. Shortly afterwards, Rev. Jeremiah Wright took over as head of Trinity and a many parishoners (who later left the church) suspected Wright in having a hand in Reverend Manning's death. Decades later, Manning's son JAMAL MANNING was found dead of an apparent crack overdose in 2004. It was rumored he was going to bring evidence of Wright's complicity in his father's death. His testimony was timed to coincide with Obama's first senate race. *

Nazis, like the Kutcshera family members (impregnated by King Edward VIII before throne) were brought into the USA though Glorian loving USA loyal, like Jim.

CIA and others tap into the rights to my genome by changing the chain of events, Peter Steele style, in acts towards me changing the public event with actors. A tot bends over in front of me and someone says to me "you owe me for that child porn" when in fact I called the police on the whole event, and was there for something else, but their acts changed the appearances of WHY I WAS in the public place.

- Extortion and or Money Laundering and Evidentiary Fraud
    - Two Seconds after Rule
        - Private home event (true part of narrative)
        - Public implicating expressive conduct w/o explicit speech (false appearances linked to the earlier event)
- Misrepresentation of me by parties with a conflict of interest, really wanting my assets and not protecting them

- Splicing of, mixing of, appearances into contaminated chain of events for interested parties to misinterpret in their favor, their organizations favor

- Use of my genome for impersonators of me to buy their way out of legal troubel with Dominatrixes and or Victoria Secrets models because those models catch the impersonator of me with child porn

- Misrepresentation of the People in prosecutors, health car workers wanting a fake claim against one citizen to benefit another for social justice and not civil or criminal justice wishes.

- Social Justice firms happily use their beneficiaries to impersonate Edward Paul Donegan to adult models, and get caught ina character assasinating way because the white supremacist seems to have child porn and seems to owe non white victims and will have to pay financially and with genome

Tails of the Hibbachi Lid, Habitat for Humanity and Salvation Army likely involved in this fraud

This system of trying to link people to events they are not a part of by starting with something real about a person, then building a “liars club” story of what that is, is Espionage frame jobs, and in this frame job, those who know but did not tell me the desirability of my genome are using that value under identity theft to pay non white children's groceries and even offer those children my genome, and it SEEM legit but it is fraud and tied to the secret history of my genome, and Truther.

In the chapter on Texas and violation of my rights for fake claims against me by the local religions I document this further. In short, here, I had in my home changed my password to hibachi, a low security password I have used and shared with shared computers for 30 years or so. It is no secret I use that password sometimes.

It only meant I wanted an easy to remember quick computer login but at the Princess Apartments they (again) but a hibachi grill on the border of my property AS IF we are buying groceries together for all the children and families of the county. My grocers are physically rob from me and I am given death threats trying to get them up the stairs to me apartment as they are robbed.

I am mobbed at grocery lines as people claim we are buying groceries together as a community, and the police observe the spectacle of me at the grocery line with (unwelcome) people with me I can't get away from me.

Those who have the CIA knowledge, the insider knowledge of what is in, WHO is in, my genome, can "tap" the genome by claiming I owe them. Fixing something real in my life, under my control, with something public, false, out of my control, creates a spliced chain of events, a spliced chain of evidence of what happens which appears to be tied to me.

Oceania in Texas is Habitat for Humanity is in fact an inhumanity in racial shakedown, sexual assaults for eugenics gain, black markets and murder in sex trafficking organ trafficking money laundering

Free Masons, Churches, Habitat for Humanity, and Salvationist CIA Favored Causes

One of the mechanisms for funding espionage illegally via use of trade secrets including in genomic medicine Title 18 U.S.C. §1831 [What is Economic Espionage *] is the use of what I call Assets Down Liabilities Up in which a Doppelgänger drains assets due to me through identity theft however when caught the Doppelgänger still in my identity will confess to the operatives who placed him to the fraud I pointed out, thus the fraud by the Doppelgänger is alleged to me.

On YouTube her Task Force videos

Published on Jun 5, 2018 Hidden behind this envelope are the identities of those who wish to keep this secret. It belongs to the American People and in due time I will reveal them

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wIIAj8yGZhs > okay this is video number 11 and Task Force: Whistle blowers Journey:Live in D.C underneath this envelope is three cases and you can zoom in they say US District Court District of Columbia Washington DC the top case is in a pills case closed type II so as I go on on my YouTube journey I'm going at some point to expose in some way what is under this yellow or manila envelope and under it are cases that involve the identities of some people who would rather not that that not be done

> I think it's important for the American people to know some of these facts so in the past week or so as I just started out this YouTube channel I've been doing a series of interviews on another YouTube channel with farmer Jones and the interviews have to do with things such as MKULTRA, the Vatican the Vatican's connection to the CIA how MKULTRA was started details about pre-world War one and what led into the Second World War and things like at the MKUlTRA program which many people have heard about talks a lot about Sigmund Freud who was kind of the founder of MKULTRA or one of them he's known as the father of psychology the father of psycho psycho analysis different titles like that but his history has been sanitized and even most psychologists or doctors psychology do not know a lot of this history and I do for a variety of reasons I'll get into and even going further into people like dr. Carl Jung it's Ju and Ji Young in theory theory is very well known the realms of psychology and psychoanalysis many people don't know is that Mr. young was our doctor young was also Carl Yung or Alan Dulles secret agent agent 488 and Allen Dulles was the founder of the CIA he originally was an OSS which was our initial United States of America their intelligence service and then it moved into the CIA during and following World War two and Allen Dulles was the first director of that of the CIA his brother Lewis John Foster Dulles was also in there and Allen Dulles was a CIA agent at the time of JFK's assassination so that is an interesting part that will come out as well so I've been doing a series of interviews with another YouTube channel farmer Jones who's been great on this history and what I know about MKULTRA and the Nazis and the development of the program in historical context to which it was built and why what were the kind of underlying motivations at that time and what was some of the really very disturbing parts that has been sanitized from our history in many ways and so I've been doing a series of interviews

I did my fourth today I believe on this history and as I've stated before in my videos I was a someone who enforced the law at for a pretty long time in some very dark places and I also had my degree in psychology

a clinical (mkultra?) psychology so I was involved in that as well so I came into this knowledge by combining a lot of that work also a lot of research but then I had a very interesting transition that led me to connect all these dots and that was I met a person in 2009 who was 79 years old she was the child of Hitler's top commandant and her father owned all the theaters in Munich and Berlin around Germany and back in those days the big screen movie theaters were very rare she was one of the kind of the elite German children on the Nazi side and so these theaters were used to help indoctrinate the German youth and the Hitler Youth and also the German soldiers during the war and she was literally at the feet of Hitler during a lot of this history from age you know early on but from age 8 through 17 when World War two really the bombs came raining in on Munich and she attempted to escape and was saved by American GI soldiers which is just a remarkable story of survival and she made it to the United States of America and became a very famous person in her own right and I'm not gonna name her at this point but for reasons that I can only guess would be a miracle from God that he would bless me with the chance to know this person and many of you may not believe and and all that and that's fine but it was my honor to truly meet her and hear her story and listen for about a year and a half from 2009 into 2010 as she turned 80 years of age (1926 to 2006) and she passed away at that time but in that process of a year and a half I learned about trauma from

of which most if not any that I could think of and I've experienced and what seen a lot of trauma could possibly imagine just horror upon horror and she told me the gritty details of what she saw from on the opposite side of the Holocaust victims and then what she saw was she was escaping through Germany into Switzerland as a 17 year old witnessing really the the gravity and depravity of what had occurred that she was not fully aware of her position in life and then the coming to terms with that I'm in the year and a half that we spent time together she also new called young as a friend or a associate I guess you could say at some point in her life and I can get into that at some other point but she shared this information with me in an attempt to relieve her soul with what she would describe it of the burden of pain and shame and guilt that she felt even though she was just a little child while all this was happening

so we went through that process and I've shared some of that on the interviews with farmer Jones so my goal is to keep sharing these interviews because it's a rich history it's American history and it obviously it's not told and complete because it's one part of it or many different parts from many different angles that for reasons it's hard for me to understand I came into contact with these various kind of extremes [Winsors Kutscheres] or these different worlds and was able to put some pieces together [in GLorian Donegan] so for that reason I have wanted to share this stuff for a long time didn't know when the right reason was and also there's a lot of pressure to not talk about these things

it's one of the reasons why I am in possession of these cases but I've also put them on disk drives and sent them to many other locations safe locations where they would be released anyway should someone try to remove this these cases from me

I've already been sent out so that being said I hope through the series of interviews - you know maybe educate some or enlighten some share stories of survival stories of love stories of trauma stories about PTSD and what it really is complex PTSD stories of healing and hope also of deep sadness and tragedy I hope to be able to explain part of the reason that we are here in America now in this way with things like pedophilia child trafficking and these really horror things that are going on that have seemingly saturated or our country

I hope to explain issues regarding blackmail and compromise and how it's done and the different levels the ways they do it and why many of our top maybe you know people in justice systems or law enforcement federal agents CIA politicians businessmen you name it are either blackmailed or our participants of this very dark world and I hope to you should just bring some enlightenment and education to that effect

I don't have all the answers obviously I have you know just a part of it so I encourage everyone to comment ask questions give your expertise on this channel and hopefully we can tie more and more pieces together to attempt to stop this kind of American Nightmare on behalf of the children of our country and maybe the children you know involved in this kind of all over the world so at some point I will move the manila envelope down and reveal the identities that are behind this envelope which will explain a whole lot at some point so I hope to do that this is video number 11 I'm going to post in video number 12 the first interview and then subsequently after that so you can listen and comment and please give your feedback and we will take it from there all right good night

Gangstalking information from Non NWO Non Free Mason Storm Front (European Nationalist Socialists)

I already posted this in the open forums but since I feel it won't get posted, I logged in. I just wondered if anyone here on this forum* is familiar with "Gang Stalking". http://www.joestirling.com/ http://www.gangstalkingworld.com/ http://www.targetedindividuals.com/ http://gangstalking.wordpress.com/

> "Gang Stalking is a systemic form of control, which seeks to control every aspect of a Targeted Individuals life. Gang Stalking has many similarities to workplace mobbing, but takes place outside in the community. It called Gang Stalking, because the target is followed around and placed under intrusive and directed surveillance by groups of organised "Covert Human Intelligence Sources" also known as Citizen Informants 24/7. Using anti-terror laws to spy on ordinary people."

> Forget about Scientology, these people have enough money and manpower and are ready to ruin your life.

> It is real and I have been a victim for most of my life. Be carefull what you do on the internet, say in real life and be prepared. Very few know why they are being targeted and who is behind it. There is also alot of disinformation and frankly nobody really knows the truth. The most logic theory is that Gang Stalking is performed by freemason groups.

> A Freemason is a fool and a tool to be used by the establishment. There are 5 million Masons worldwide paying money (crooked Masonic businesses pay lots more) to the very wealthy American/Israelis families. This is where the gigantic amounts of cash go every

Inferiority Complex retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Embittered, left out generation after generation, the Ethics of framing and shaking down an Establishment old white male who is from ouit of twon sounds good

Building a narrative of “payback” for White Supremacism allows a rationale in which criminal acts are justifiable

In psychology, an Inferiority complex is an intense personal feeling of inadequacy, often resulting in the belief that one is in some way deficient, or inferior, to others.

According to Alfred Adler, a feeling of inferiority may be brought about by upbringing as a child (for example, being consistently compared unfavorably to a sibling), physical and mental limitations, or experiences of lower social status (for example, being treated unfavorably by one's peers due to belonging to a different race, economic background, or gender).[2]

An inferiority complex may cause an individual to overcompensate in a number of ways. For example, a person who feels inferior because they are shorter than average (also known as a Napoleon complex) may become overly concerned with how they appear to others. They may wear special shoes to make themself appear taller or surround himself with individuals who are even shorter than they are. If this is taken to the extreme, it becomes a neurosis.[3]

It may also cause an individual to be prone to flashy outward displays, with behaviors ranging from attention-seeking to excessive competitiveness and aggression, in an attempt to compensate for their either real or imagined deficiencies.

> An emotional problem caused by unreasonable fears or worries. have/develop a complex about something: I used to have a complex about being in crowds. give someone a complex: If you keep telling her she's clumsy, you'll give her a complex.- Google People Ask what is a complex?

Video #3 Good Vs Evil: we must fight on we know what you've done we have evidence those videos or pictures or just testimony in and of itself physical injuries obviously total emotional trauma we've got it all and it's going to come out one way or the other.

and you're not going to stop us so you might think that you are and you might do some things to stop some people in some ways but we have made preparations.

we're very good at making preparations so we have backup plans with backup plans that have backup plans that have some more backup plans so this information is not in one location it's never going to be.

it's gonna be in many locations so you know the choice to to try to stop any one of us will only be met with more and more exposure so you know that probably just wouldn't be a good idea.

but that's that's your choice so we're gonna keep pushing forward and I know I'm always taking pictures of parking lots and cars because I can't take a lot of pictures of some of the things that I'm doing for safety reasons but I just wanted to give another heads-up that I'm back at it again this weekend.

Wikipedia retrieved from Statute of limitations and copied or modified to here

Heinous crimes

Crimes considered heinous by society have no statute of limitations.[2] Although there is usually no statute of limitations for murder (particularly first-degree murder), judges have been known to dismiss murder charges in cold cases if they feel the delay violates the defendant's right to a speedy trial.[44] For example, waiting many years for an alibi witness to die before commencing a murder trial would be unconstitutional.[citation needed] In 2003, the U.S. Supreme Court in Stogner v. California ruled that the retroactive extension of the statute of limitations for sexual offenses committed against minors was an unconstitutional ex post facto law.[45]

Military law

Under the U.S. Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ), desertion has no statute of limitations.[46]

Initiation of charges [when the case begins with fresh DNA evidence affecting the clock as an ID'd peroson though no name

The statute of limitations in a criminal case only runs until a criminal charge is filed and a warrant issued, even if the defendant is a fugitive.[41]

When the identity of a defendant is not known, some jurisdictions provide mechanisms to initiate charges and thus stop the statute of limitations from running. For example, some states allow an indictment of a John Doe defendant based upon a DNA profile derived from evidence obtained through a criminal investigation.[42] Although rare, a grand jury can issue an indictment in absentia for high-profile crimes to get around an upcoming statute of limitations deadline. One example is the skyjacking of Northwest Orient Airlines Flight 305 by D.B. Cooper in 1971. The identity of D. B. Cooper remains unknown to this day, and he was indicted under the name “John Doe, aka Dan Cooper.” [43]

Orient Airlines Flight 305 1971? Timed with CREEP

Resentful CIA Agents For Hire were being fired and resentful (as Dan Cooper said he had a grudge. Paymistress Dorothy Hunt was hunting for "retirements" funding. This led to UAL 553.

The Committee for the Re-election of the President (or the Committee to Re-elect the President, CRP, but often mocked by the acronym CREEP) was, officially, a fundraising organization of United States President Richard Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign during the Watergate scandal. In addition to fundraising, the organization also engaged in political sabotage against Nixon's opponents, the various Democratic politicians running in the election.

History

Planning began in late 1970 and an office opened in the spring of 1971. Besides its re-election activities, CRP employed money laundering and slush funds, and was involved in the Watergate scandal.

The CRP used $500,000 in funds raised to re-elect President Nixon to pay legal expenses for the five Watergate burglars. This act helped turn the burglary into an explosive political scandal. The burglars, as well as G. Gordon Liddy, E. Howard Hunt, John N. Mitchell, and other Nixon administration figures (Watergate Seven), were indicted over the break-in and their efforts to cover it up.

The acronym CREEP became popular due to the Watergate scandal. - Wikipedia

Was he a cold-war CIA pilot like Holt? Trained to sneak into Guatamala or other countries by parachute drop? A Boeing B-26 crewmemeber or pilot? Boeing is in Seatle and he recrognized McCord airbase.

During the flight from Portland to Seattle, Cooper demanded Mucklow remain by his side at all times.[7]: 150 She later said Cooper appeared familiar with the local terrain; while looking out the window, he remarked, "Looks like Tacoma down there", as the aircraft flew above it. When told the parachutes were coming from McChord Air Force Base, Cooper correctly noted McChord was only a twenty-minute drive from Sea-Tac.[7]: 156 She later described the hijacker's demeanor: "[Cooper] was not nervous. He seemed rather nice and he was not cruel or nasty."[20]: 174

https://cowboystatedaily.com/2024/11/23/who-is-d-b-cooper-new-evidence-may-crack-one-of-americas-greatest-mysteries/ Retired pilot, skydiver and YouTuber, Dan Gryder told Cowboy State Daily that he may have found the missing link after uncovering the modified military surplus bailout rig he believes was used by D.B. Cooper in the heist. It belonged to Richard Floyd McCoy II, and was carefully stored in his deceased mother’s storage stash until very recently.

McCoy has long been one of the FBI’s leading suspects after successfully pulling off an identical, but better-executed, hijacking in Utah just five months later.

“That rig is literally one in a billion,” Gryder said of the distinct parachute.

McCoy’s children, Chanté and Richard III, or “Rick,” agree with Gryder that they believe their father was D.B. Cooper, a secret that shrouded the family but wasn't overtly discussed.

For years, they said, the family stayed mum out of fear of implicating their mother, Karen, whom they believe was complicit in both hijackings. Upon her death in 2020, they broke their silence to Gryder after being contacted by him off and on for years.

Gryder, who has been researching the case for more than 20 years, documented his investigation in a lengthy two-part series on his YouTube channel, "Probable Cause," in 2021 and 2022, where he connects the dots and shows actual footage of him finding the parachute in an outbuilding on the McCoy family property in North Carolina in July 2022. https://cowboystatedaily.com/2024/11/23/who-is-d-b-cooper-new-evidence-may-crack-one-of-americas-greatest-mysteries/

Seymour Johnson Air Force Base is a United States Air Force base located in Goldsboro Wayne County) North Carolina.[2] The base is named for Navy Lt. Seymour A. Johnson, a test pilot from Goldsboro who died in an airplane crash near Norbeck, Maryland, on March 5, 1941.[3]

In August 1940 the War Department designated the airport as essential to national defense. In December 1940, $168,811 was authorized for the construction of a U.S. Army Air Corps Technical Training School. [James Paul Donegan meets Glorian Donegan?]

The 1961 Goldsboro B-52 crash was an accident that occurred near Goldsboro, North Carolina, on 23 January 1961. A Boeing B-52 Stratofortress carrying two 3 megaton Mark 39 nuclear bombs broke up in mid-air, dropping its nuclear payload in the process.[2]

On April 14, 1942, the first German U-boat fought by the American navy in U.S. waters was sunk sixteen miles southeast of Nags Head. Within the next couple of months, three more U-boats were sunk along the North Carolina coast: one by a U.S. Army Air Corps bomber, one by a U.S. Coast Guard patrol ship, and one by a U.S. Navy destroyer. North Carolina’s total of four sunken U-boats represents the most of any state. By that July, the commander of Germany’s U-boats became discouraged.

He redirected his remaining warships to the northern Atlantic Ocean and Mediterranean Sea. Nevertheless, Germany considered its attacks against the United States a success, even if they failed to win the war. Gerhard Weinberg, a professor of history at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, has since called the war zone off the U.S. coast in 1942 “the greatest single defeat ever suffered by American naval power.”

Lee Oswald's Girlfriend in New Orleans?
Secret or OSS TSS CIA Bioweapons Researcher?

[image]

Some readers may be tempted to stop reading right now, given the sheer implausibility of the tale.

That the CIA would need to develop a bioweapon to kill Castro is farfetched, since they had a variety of poisons that would have killed him - including some that would do so without it being obvious he was in fact murdered.

Further, when the CIA wanted scientific research done, they were able to recruit top-notch Ph.D.-level university talent. Their research on toxins was headed by a renowned biologist. For the MK/ULTRA project (dealing with "mind control") they recruited top university scientists.

Yet we are supposed to believe that this particular project was carried out by a high-school dropout (Oswald), a college student with no advanced science classes (Baker), a fellow who had a mail order doctor's degree from an institution in Italy (Ferrie) and a reputable doctor (Sherman) who was in fact an orthopedic surgeon.

Ferrie, at one point, did own some mice, and told his friends he was engaged in "cancer research." But then he also, at one point, had a large tank in his back yard which he claimed he was going to convert into a submarine to attack Castro's Cuba.

Judyth as a high school science student. She and her supporters have produced hard evidence of only two elements of her story: (1) she was a good science student in high school and (2) she worked at the Reily Coffee Company at the same time as Lee Oswald.

The mice, by the way, were long gone from his apartment by the summer of 1963.

And somehow the plotters couldn't supply a proper facility, so the research was done in the apartments of two members of the team. Real CIA research was done in university labs, or at secure military installations.

Judyth's supposed encounter with Michaelson would have taken place when she was a first semester sophomore in high school. Given the CIA's ability to recruit top-notch Ph.D. talent, it's a bit odd to be told that they were scouting high school students.

The notion of injecting Castro with cancer cells is pretty far-fetched. Knocking out his immune system would have resulted in his death without any additional ingredient in the "cocktail."

Judyth's treatment of scientific issues is pretty slipshod. For example, in one e-mail she asked rhetorically "I would like to see a list of people involved in this case who died of lung cancer, especially if they did not smoke, such as Jack Ruby. And how many heart attacks (sodium morphate)." Endnote She further explained to researcher Gary Buell that:

> Ed Donegan says the same thing. The OSS CIA theory is death by cancer is death from natural causes, or an x ray beam 5 years before from behind a wall
>
> Gary, David Ferrie told me about it. I actually believed at that time that there was nothing Dave did not know. In medical matters like this he described this as a method he could use to commit suicide and people would think it was a heart attack. There would be no way to discern it wasn't a natural death.

Gary, David Ferrie told me about it. I actually believed at that time that there was nothing Dave did not know. In medical matters like this he described this as a method he could use to commit suicide and people would think it was a heart attack. There would be no way to discern it wasn't a natural death.|

Buell investigated this, and found that there is no such thing as "sodium morphate." But if there is no such poison that can induce a heart attack, where did Judyth get this? Her apparent source is a crackpot conspiracy essay that appeared in 1975 titled "The Skeleton Key to the Gemstone File." That document states that sodium morphate is “a favorite Mafia poison for centuries. Smells like apple pie, and is sometimes served up in one, as to J. Edgar Hoover. Sometimes in a pill or capsule. Symptoms: Lethargy, sleep, sometimes vomiting. Once ingested, there is a heart attack - and no trace is left in the body.” Thus a poison Ferrie supposedly told Judyth about in 1963 is nowhere in the medical literature, not part of crackpot conspiracy literature until 1975, but all over the internet by the time Judyth was sending out her e-mails circa 2000.

My best guess on my family history, their research, my research is Malcolm Wallace killed JFK and the FBI used Lee Harvey Oswald’s dead hands, their guy in Russia now in Dallas shot by Ruby, to put his palm print on Mike Wallaces gun. - Estes, a long-time conman who served two prison terms for his crimes, said that Marshall (Department of Agriculture) possessed information linking Estes’s fraudulent schemes to a heavily funded political slush fund (Operation40. McCoy was born December 7, 1942, in the town of Kinston, North Carolina 80 miles South East of Raleigh NC, to Richard Floyd McCoy Sr. (1916 - 2008) and Myrtle McCoy (1922 - 2020), who were first cousins. He grew up in nearby Cove City. In 1962 McCoy moved to Provo, Utah, and enrolled at Brigham Young University (BYU) before dropping out to serve a two-year tour of duty in the Army. He served in Vietnam as a demolition expert and pilot[1] and was awarded the Purple Heart in 1964.[citation needed]

Richard McCoy was a devout Mormon who had lived in Provo, Utah since 1962, when he enrolled at Brigham Young University. He dropped out to join the army, where he served two years in Vietnam as a demolition expert and pilot. He was wounded in action, for which he was awarded the Purple Heart in 1964 and was sent home to recuperate. He returned to Brigham Young University where he met his future wife. He then agreed to serve another term in the Army on the condition that he could go to Vietnam. This time he was awarded an Army Commendation Medal for heroism. In 1968 he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for a rescue he flew as a combat helicopter pilot. https://fearoflanding.com/history/the-odd-story-of-richard-floyd-mccoy-jr/

In 1965, McCoy returned to BYU, where he met Karen Burns. They married in August 1965 in Raleigh. By 1971 they had two children, Chanti and Richard.[citation needed]

McCoy served another term in the Army on the condition he could go to Vietnam, where he was awarded both the Army Commendation Medal and Distinguished Flying Cross. Upon returning to Utah, he served as a warrant officer in the Utah National Guard and was an avid skydiver.[2]

McCoy taught Mormon Sunday school and studied law enforcement at BYU. His purported dream was to become an FBI or CIA agent.[citation needed]

Nuremberg Laws retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The Nuremberg Laws (German: Nürnberger Gesetze, pronounced [ˈnʏʁnbɛʁgɐ gəˈzɛtsə] (About this soundlisten)) were antisemitic and racist laws that were enacted in Nazi Germany on 15 September 1935, at a special meeting of the Reichstag convened during the annual Nuremberg Rally of the Nazi Party. The two laws were the Law for the Protection of German Blood and German Honour, which forbade marriages and extramarital intercourse between Jews and Germans and the employment of German females under 45 in Jewish households; and the Reich Citizenship Law, which declared that only those of German or related blood were eligible to be Reich citizens. The remainder were classed as state subjects without any citizenship rights. A supplementary decree outlining the definition of who was Jewish was passed on 14 November, and the Reich Citizenship Law officially came into force on that date. The laws were expanded on 26 November 1935 to include Romani and Black people. This supplementary decree defined Romanis as “enemies of the race-based state”, the same category as Jews.

Out of foreign policy concerns, prosecutions under the two laws did not commence until after the 1936 Summer Olympics, held in Berlin. After the Nazis seized power in 1933, they began to implement their policies, which included the formation of a Volksgemeinschaft (people’s community) based on race. Chancellor and Führer (leader) Adolf Hitler declared a national boycott of Jewish businesses on 1 April 1933, and the Law for the Restoration of the Professional Civil Service, passed on 7 April, excluded the so-called non-Aryans from the legal profession,

The Anschluss ("joining"), also known as the Anschluss Österreichs English: Annexation of Austria), was the annexation of Austria into Nazi Germany on 12 March 1938.

The idea of an Anschluss (a united Austria and Germany that would form a "Greater Germany")[a] began after the unification of Germany excluded Austria and the German Austrians from the Prussian-dominated German Empire in 1871. Following the end of World War I with the fall of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, in 1918, the newly formed Republic of German-Austria attempted to form a union with Germany, but the Treaty of Saint Germain (10 September 1919) and the Treaty of Versailles (28 June 1919) forbade both the union and the continued use of the name "German-Austria" (Deutschösterreich); and stripped Austria of some of its territories, such as the Sudetenland.

Prior to the Anschluss, there had been strong support from people of all backgrounds in both Austria and Germany for unification of the two countries.[3] In the immediate aftermath of the dissolution of the Habsburg Monarchy - with Austria left as a broken remnant, deprived of most of the territories it ruled for centuries and undergoing a severe economic crisis - the idea of unity with Germany seemed attractive also to many citizens of the political Left and Center. Had the victors of World War I allowed it, Austria would have united with Germany as a freely taken democratic decision.

But after 1933, when the Austrian-born Adolf Hitler rose to power in Germany, desire for unification could be identified with the Nazis, for whom it was an integral part of the Nazi "Heim ins Reich" concept, which sought to incorporate as many Volksdeutsche (ethnic Germans outside Germany) as possible into a "Greater Germany".[4] Nazi Germany's agents cultivated pro-unification tendencies in Austria, and sought to undermine the Austrian government, which was controlled by the Austrofascist Fatherland Front. During an attempted coup in 1934, Austrian chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was assassinated by Austrian Nazis. The defeat of the coup prompted many leading Austrian Nazis to go into exile in Germany, where they continued their efforts for unification of the two countries.

In early 1938, under increasing pressure from pro-unification activists, Austrian chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg announced that there would be a referendum on a possible union with Germany to be held on 13 March. Portraying this as defying the popular will in Austria and Germany, Hitler threatened an invasion and secretly pressured Schuschnigg to resign. The referendum was canceled. On 12 March, the German Wehrmacht crossed the border into Austria, unopposed by the Austrian military; the Germans were greeted with great enthusiasm. A plebiscite held on 10 April officially ratified Austria's annexation by the Reich.

International crimes

Under international law, genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes are usually not subject to the statute of limitations as codified in a number of multilateral treaties.[18] States ratifying the Convention on the Non-Applicability of Statutory Limitations to War Crimes and Crimes Against Humanity agree to disallow limitations claims for these crimes. In Article 29 of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes "shall not be subject to any statute of limitations".

Fraud upon the court

When an officer of the court is found to have fraudulently presented facts to impair the court's impartial performance of its legal task, the act (known as fraud upon the court) is not subject to a statute of limitation.[51][52] This mainly covers a "fraud where the court or a member is corrupted or influenced or influence is attempted or where the judge has not performed his judicial function - thus where the impartial functions of the court have been directly corrupted."[53] In this regard, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit has stated the following:

[Ed Donegan I note judges work either behind the scenes or without proper recusual thus as a potential "double" agent/ interest role and hinding discovery of that or court filings is fraud upon the court]

Officer of the court in general includes any judge, law clerk, court clerk, lawyer, investigator, probation officer, referee, legal guardian, parenting-time expeditor, mediator, evaluator, administrator, special appointee, and/or anyone else whose influence is part of the judicial mechanism.[54]

In order to meet the necessarily demanding standard for proof of fraud upon the court we conclude that there must be: (1) an intentional fraud; (2) by an officer of the court; (3) which is directed at the court itself; and (4) in fact deceives the court.[52]

Officer of the court in general includes any judge, law clerk, court clerk, lawyer, investigator, probation officer, referee, legal guardian, parenting-time expeditor, mediator, evaluator, administrator, special appointee, and/or anyone else whose influence is part of the judicial mechanism.[54]

Continuing-violations doctrine

In tort law, if any person or entity commits a series of illegal acts against another person or entity (or in criminal law if a defendant commits a continuing crime) the limitation period may begin to run from the last act in the series.[55] The entire chain of events can be tolled if the violations were continuing. The Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit has explained that the continuing-violations doctrine "tolls the statute of limitations in situations where a continuing pattern forms due to discriminatory acts occurring over a period of time, as long as at least one incident of discrimination occurred within the limitations period."[56] Whether the continuing-violations doctrine applies to a particular violation is subject to judicial discretion; it was said to apply to copyright infringement in the jurisdiction of the Seventh Circuit,[57] but not in the jurisdiction of the Second Circuit.[58][59]

> For Books are not absolutely dead things, but doe contain a potencie of life in them to be as active as that soule was whose progeny they are; nay they do preserve as in a violl the purest efficacie and extraction of that living intellect that bred them. And yet on the other hand, unlesse warinesse be us'd, as good almost kill a Man as kill a good Book; who kills a Man kills a reasonable creature, Gods Image; but hee who destroyes a good Booke, kills reason it selfe, kills the Image of God, as it were in the eye. I will produce a witness list to what I allege. In many cases the records have been altered or erased.

But in Books is appeal, and the right to appeal is scientific.

It may be that a bad decision is produced by one court or another and fallibility and corruption do exist in courts and other places.

Appeal to a different court, considered higher than initial courts, or to history, are Repeatability.

Can the arguments and decisions be repeated? Books are the final appeal to Reason.

My purpose is to create this record using my own life history records and available other records including those critical files, video files, interviews, and other materials from Jen Moore which broke the case.

This is often considered, makding the record is created for appeal later, and is a move of Law. Ultimately the record should be available and be reviewable.

In that way Reason is testable by different judges and the impurities of any judge be isolated as outlying.

This is also my purpose in writing these books and lawsuits centering on verifiable documentation.

The purpose of Reason, of Science, of Epistemic Truth, is Equal or if you wish this taxonomy accurate non-arbitrary Protection. The same Science of law should apply to all, and with the protections of Science.

Should one skew the result as would be different than a different test subject it can no long be Science but rather the Arbitrary.

In the writing of this book and doing anything else in my life getting death threats, knives shown to me if I go near a library, and while me at the keyboard heinous noise like this.

Prelude (What If?)

In July 1945, USS Indianapolis completed a top-secret high-speed trip to deliver parts of Little Boy, the first nuclear weapon ever used in combat, to the United States Army Air Force Base on the island of Tinian departing Hunters Point Naval Shipyard San Francisco, Manhattan Project area and routing throgh Pearl Harbor at high speed,

The ship followed in the Clipper Ship tradition of speed as a form of self defense rather than a battle group but traveling alone and stripped of defensive capable ships the Indianapolis was at risk.

The Kaiten were manned torpedoes and suicide craft, used by the Imperial Japanese Navy in the … Kaiten submarines, and Fukuryu suicide divers or human mines. While the USS Indianapolis was faster than most surface warships it could not outrun a Kaiten.

Captain Charles B. McVay III, who had commanded Indianapolis since November 1944 through several battles, survived the sinking, though he was one of the last to abandon ship, and was among those rescued days later. In November 1945, he was court-martialed on two charges: failing to order his men to abandon ship and hazarding the ship. Cleared of the charge of failing to order abandon ship, McVay was convicted of “hazarding his ship by failing to zigzag”. Several aspects of the court-martial were controversial. There was evidence that the Navy itself had placed the ship in harm’s way. McVay’s orders were to “zigzag at his discretion, weather permitting”; however, McVay was not informed that a Japanese submarine was operating in the vicinity of his route from Guam to Leyte.

The Scouting Fleet was created in 1922 as part of a major, post-World War I reorganization of the United States Navy. The Atlantic and Pacific fleets, which comprised a significant portion of the ships in the United States Navy, were combined into a new entity, the United States Fleet. Defined as “the principal naval force of the United States,” the new fleet was composed of four elements: (a) the Battle Fleet, (b) the Scouting Fleet, (c) the Control Force, and (d) the Fleet Base Force. The fast ship likely was analogous to a fighter/recon/bomber light high seed interceptor air craft.

In the movie portrayal of the event which may or may not be altered under artistic license McVayy III had worried zig zagging was not effective against the Kaiten and it seemed simply outrunning torpedo boats defeated the regular torpedo.

Taking sea: Overhauled, Indianapolis joined Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher’s fast carrier task force on 14 February 1945. Two days later, the task force launched an attack on Tokyo to cover the landings on Iwo Jima, scheduled for 19 February. This was the first carrier attack on mainland Japan since the Doolittle Raid. The mission was to destroy Japanese air facilities and other installations in the Home Islands. The fleet achieved complete tactical surprise by approaching the Japanese coast under cover of bad weather. The attacks were pressed home for two days. The US Navy lost 49 carrier planes while claiming 499 enemy planes, a 10-to-1 kill/loss ratio. The task force also sank a carrier, nine coastal ships, a destroyer, two destroyer escorts, and a cargo ship. They destroyed hangars, shops, aircraft installations, factories, and other industrial targets.

Indianapolis was then sent to Guam, where a number of the crew who had completed their tours of duty were relieved by other sailors. Leaving Guam on 28 July, she began sailing toward Leyte, where her crew was to receive training before continuing on to Okinawa to join Vice Admiral Jesse B. Oldendorf’s Task Force 95

Jesse Barrett “Oley” Oldendorf (16 February 1887 - 27 April 1974) was an admiral in the United States Navy, famous for defeating a Japanese force in the Battle of Leyte Gulf during World War II. He also served as commander of the American naval forces during the early phase of the Battle of the Caribbean. In early 1942, a secret group of senior Navy officers empaneled by President Franklin D. Roosevelt assessed him as one of the 40 most competent of the 120 flag officers in the Navy.

The mission destination was to reach Tinian a Guam Philippines area (Mariana Islands) to the south of Japan.

The ship was sunk July 30 1945 ,and had no crew rescue available in the shark infested waters half way from Perl Harbor to the Mariana Islands.

On August 4 1945 the 509th Bomber Group with P-51 escorts and B-29 Bombers would get the orders written August 3rd 1945 to drop the first nuclear bomb in history. That would be followed by a second bombing. Per my father, who seemed to be a part of the first nuclear wing the Japanese were refusing the surrunded and only a threat to drop a third bomb finally connvinced them to surrender. He had also told me we, the allies, were bluffing and third bomb was not ready at the time.

This were true?

Chapter 8 The Permian Basin Gang retrieved from Website of Webster Griffin Tarpley and copied or modified to here

During the years following the Second World War, the patrician families of the Eastern Anglophile Liberal Establishment sent numbers of their offspring to colonize those geographic regions of the United States which, the families estimated, were likely to prosper in the postwar period. On the surface, this appears as a simple reflex of greed: cadet sons were dispatched to those areas of the provinces where their instinctive methods of speculation and usury could be employed to parasitize emerging wealth. More fundamentally, this migration of young patrician bankers answered the necessity of political control. The Eastern Establishment, understood as an agglomeration of financier factions headquartered in Wall Street, had been the dominant force in American politics since J.P. Morgan had bailed out the Grover Cleveland regime in the 1890's. Since the assassination of William McKinley and the advent of Theodore Roosevelt, the power of the Wall Street group had grown continuously. The Eastern Establishment may have had its earliest roots north of Boston and in the Hudson River Valley, but it was determined to be, not a mere regional financier faction, but the undisputed ruling elite of the United States as a whole, from Boston to Bohemian Grove and from Palm Beach to the Pacific Northwest. It was thus imperative that the constant tendency towards the formation of regional factions be pre-empted by the pervasive presence of men bound by blood loyalty to the dominant cliques of Washington, New York, and the "mother country," the City of London.

One crony contacted by father Prescott was Ray Kravis, who was in the oil business in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Oklahoma had experienced a colossal oil boom between the two world wars, and Ray Kravis had cashed in, building up a personal fortune of some $25 million. Ray was the son of a British tailor whose father had come to America and set up a haberdashery in Atlantic City, New Jersey. Young Ray Kravis had arrived in Tulsa in 1925, in the midst of the oil boom that was making the colossal fortunes of men like J. Paul Getty. Ray Kravis was primarily a tax accountant, and he had invented a very special tax shelter which allowed oil properties to be “packaged” and sold in such a way as to reduce the tax on profits earned from the normal oil property rate of 81% to a mere 15%. This meant that the national tax base was eroded, and each individual taxpayer bilked, in order to subsidize the formation of immense private fortunes; this will be found to be a constant theme among George Bush’s business associates down to the present day.

Ray Kravis’s dexterity in setting up these tax shelters attracted the attention of Joseph P. Kennedy, the buccaneering bootlegger, entrepreneur, political boss, and patriarch of the Massachusetts Kennedy clan. For many years Ray Kravis functioned as the manager of the Kennedy family fortune (or fondo), the same job that later devolved to Stephen Smith. Ray Kravis and Joe Kennedy both wintered in Palm Beach, where they were sometimes golf partners.2

In 1948-49, father Prescott was the managing partner of Brown Brothers, Harriman. Prescott knew Ray Kravis as a local Tulsa finance mogul and wheeler-dealer who was often called upon by Wall Street investment houses as a consultant to evaluate the oil reserves of various companies. The estimates that Ray Kravis provided often involved the amount of oil in the ground that these firms possessed, and these estimates went to the heart of the oil business as a ground rent exploitation in which current oil production was far less important than the reserves still beneath the soil.

Such activity imparted the kind of primitive accumulation mentality that was later seen to animate Ray Kravis’s son Henry. During the 1980’s, as we will see, Henry Kravis personally generated some $58 billion in debt for the purpose of acquiring 36 companies and assembling the largest corporate empire, in paper terms, of all time. And, as we will also see, Henry Kravis was to become one of the leaders of the leveraged buyout gang which became a mainstay of the political machine of George Bush. But in 1948, these events were all far in the future.

So father Prescott asked Ray if he had a job for young George. The answer was, of course he did.

But in the meantime Prescott Bush had also been talking with another crony beholden to him, Henry Neil Mallon, who was the President and Chairman of the Board of Dresser Industries, a leading manufacturer of drill bits and related oil well drilling equipment. Dresser had been incorporated in 1905 by Solomon R. Dresser, but had been bought up and reorganized by W.A. Harriman & Company in 1928-1929.

Saint Joan of the Stockyards (German: Die heilige Johanna der Schlachthöfe) is a play written by the German modernist playwright Bertolt Brecht between 1929 and 1931

On the occasion of the opening of the new theatre of Frankfurt, “Faust I” is performed on 14 December 1963 and “Die Heilige Johanna der Schlachthöfe” (Consider as a deal with the devil) on the following day.

Saint Joan of the Stockyards (German: Die heilige Johanna der Schlachthöfe) is a play written by the German modernist playwright Bertolt Brecht between 1929 and 1931, after the success of his musical The Threepenny Opera and during the period of his radical experimental work with the Lehrstücke. It is based on the musical that he co-authored with Elisabeth

Hauptmann, Happy End (1929).[1] In this version of the story of Joan of Arc, Brecht transforms her into “Joan Dark”, a member of the “Black Straw Hats” (a Salvation Army-like group) in 20th-century Chicago.

During the Nazi period, Bertolt Brecht lived in exile, first in Scandinavia, and during World War II in the United States, where he was surveilled by the FBI.[3] After the war he was subpoenaed by the House Un-American Activities Committee. Returning to East Berlin after the war, he established the theatre company Berliner Ensemble with his wife and long-time collaborator, actress Helene Weigel. From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia[4]

On his father’s recommendation, Brecht sought to avoid being conscripted into the army by exploiting a loophole which allowed for medical students to be deferred. He subsequently registered for a medical course at Munich University, where he enrolled in 1917.[10] There he studied drama with Arthur Kutscher, who inspired in the young Brecht an admiration for the iconoclastic dramatist and cabaret star Frank Wedekind.[11]

In 1924 Brecht worked with the novelist and playwright Lion Feuchtwanger (whom he had met in 1919) on an adaptation of Christopher Marlowe’s Edward II that proved to be a milestone in Brecht’s early theatrical and dramaturgical development.[24] Brecht’s Edward II constituted his first attempt at collaborative writing and was the first of many classic texts he was to adapt

The Life of Edward II of England (German: Leben Eduards des Zweiten von England), also known as Edward II, is an adaptation by the German modernist playwright Bertolt Brecht of the 16th-century historical tragedy by Marlowe, The Troublesome Reign and Lamentable Death of Edward the Second, King of England, with the Tragical Fall of Proud Mortimer (c.1592). The play is set in England between 1307 and 1326.

The Troublesome Reign and Lamentable Death of Edward the Second, King of England, with the Tragical Fall of Proud Mortimer known as Edward II, is a Renaissance or Early Modern period play written by Christopher Marlowe. It is one of the earliest English history plays, and focuses on the relationship between King Edward II of England and Piers Gaveston, and Edward's murder on the orders of Roger Mortimer.

Captain George Von Trapp, who will meet and marry Maria Kutschera, the sister of Johanna Kutchera (Maria and Johanna orphaned then nieces of stand in "father" Franz Kutschera) has a much better business, ideological, and persona relationhip with England and HMS Navy

Edward II (25 April 1284 - 21 September 1327), also called Edward of Caernarfon, was King of England from 1307 until he was deposed in January 1327. Edward had a close and controversial relationship with Piers Gaveston, who had joined his household in 1300

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 - Charles Ruff, the powerful Washington lawyer who represented President Bill Clinton during the Monica Lewinsky sex scandal and his impeachment trial, died Sunday.

WHITE HOUSE spokesman Jake Siewert said President Clinton was told that Ruff had died after an accident at his Washington home.

Details of the accident were not available.

“All of us at the White House admired Chuck for the power of his advocacy, the wisdom of his judgment and the strength of his leadership. We loved him for his generous spirit and his keen wit which he used to find humor in even the most challenging circumstances,” Clinton said in a statement issued aboard Air Force One during his return flight to Washington after his historic visit to Vietnam.

DID BILL CLINTON MURDER HIS OWN MOTHER? *

Following her graduation from high school, Virginia moved to Shreveport, Louisiana, to study to be a nurse like her mother. During her training in Shreveport, she met her first husband, William Jefferson Blythe, Jr., whom she married in a civil ceremony in 1943, just before he shipped out for World War II military duty. Upon completion of her training, she returned to Hope, Arkansas. When her husband was discharged, he picked her up and they moved for four months to Chicago, Illinois.

She moved back to her parents’ house while she and William were in the process of getting a new home in the Hope area. While William was on his way back to Hope, he was killed in an automobile accident, three months before Bill Clinton’s birth. Virginia later spent time in New Orleans, Louisiana training to be a nurse anesthetist. In 1950, Virginia married car salesman Roger Clinton Sr., the father of the second of her two boys, Roger Jr. Clinton was an alcoholic and was physically and mentally abusive to Virginia and her boys. He did not adopt Bill, but Bill took his surname legally in 1962. He told his mother that it would be easier if they all had the same last name. Roger Sr. and Virginia divorced in 1962 but remarried each other a few months later.

Texas Governer John Connally and President JFK hit by bullets in parade in Texas

John Connally served in the United States Navy during World War II, first as an aide to James V. Forrestal, then as part of the planning staff for the invasion of North Africa by General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

On his release from the navy, Connally practiced law in the Alvin Wirtz law firm, until Lyndon Baines Johnson, then a newly elected senator, persuaded him to return to Washington, D.C. to serve as a key aide. He had close ties with Johnson before his navy days and maintained them until the former president's death in 1973.

At Johnson's request, in 1961 President Kennedy named Connally Secretary of the Navy. Connally resigned eleven months later to run for the Texas governorship. During Connally's secretaryship, the Navy had a budget of $14 billion and more than 1.2 million workers600,000 in uniform and 650,000 civilian-stationed at 222 bases in the United States and 53 abroad.

On November 22, 1963, Connally was seriously wounded while riding in President Kennedy's car at Dealey Plaza in Dallas when the president was assassinated. Connally, riding in the middle jump seat of the president's limousine in front of the president.

Cuban Missile Crisis and Navy Blockade of Cuba

Cuban Missile Crisis retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

The Cuban Missile Crisis was a 1 month, 4 day (16 October - 20 November 1962) confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union which escalated into an international crisis when American deployments of missiles in Italy and Turkey were matched by Soviet deployments of similar ballistic missiles in Cuba. Despite the short time frame, the Cuban Missile Crisis remains a defining moment in U.S. national security and nuclear war preparation. The confrontation is often considered the closest the Cold War came to escalating into a full-scale nuclear war.[3]

In response to the presence of American Jupiter ballistic missiles in Italy and Turkey, and the failed Bay of Pigs Invasion of 1961, Soviet First Secretary Nikita Khrushchev agreed to Cuba's request to place nuclear missiles on the island to deter a future invasion. An agreement was reached during a secret meeting between Khrushchev and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro in July 1962, and construction of a number of missile launch facilities started later that summer.

50 years ago, on 22 November 1963, US President John F Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Texas. The shockwave of that tragedy rocked the world and still reverberates today. The sadness at President Kennedy's untimely death was equally heartfelt in the corridors of the OECD, an international organisation whose creation in September 1961 he personally and strongly supported.

Event-driven architectureWikipedia retrieved from link and copied or modified to here

Event-driven architecture (EDA) is a software architecture paradigm promoting the production, detection, consumption of, and reaction to events.

An event can be defined as “a significant change in state”.[1] For example, when a consumer purchases a car, the car’s state changes from “for sale” to “sold”. A car dealer’s system architecture may treat this state change as an event whose occurrence can be made known to other applications within the architecture. From a formal perspective, what is produced, published, propagated, detected or consumed is a (typically asynchronous) message called the event notification, and not the event itself, which is the state change that triggered the message emission. Events do not travel, they just occur. However, the term event is often used metonymically to denote the notification message itself, which may lead to some confusion. This is due to Event-Driven architectures often being designed atop message-driven architectures, where such communication pattern requires one of the inputs to be text-only, the message, to differentiate how each communication should be handled.

This morning I spoke about the war in Vietnam, and I will speak briefly about it in a few moments. But there is much more to this critical election year than the war in Vietnam.

It is, at a root, the root of all of it, the national soul of the United States. The President calls it "restlessness." Our cabinet officers, such as John Gardiner and others tell us that America is deep in a malaise of spirit: discouraging initiative, paralyzing will and action, and dividing Americans from one another, by their age, their views and by the color of their skin and I don't think we have to accept that here in the United States of America.

Demonstrators shout down government officials and the government answers by drafting demonstrators. Anarchists threaten to burn the country down and some have begun to try, while tanks have patrolled American streets and machine guns have fired at American children. I don't think this a satisfying situation for the United States of America.

Our young people - the best educated, and the best comforted in our history, turn from the Peace Corps and public commitment of a few years ago - to lives of disengagement and despair - many of them turned on with drugs and turned off on America - none of them here, of course, at Kansas - right?

All around us, all around us, - not just on the question of Vietnam, not just on the question of the cities, not just the question of poverty, not just on the problems of race relations - but all around us, and why you are so concerned and why you are so disturbed - the fact is, that men have lost confidence in themselves, in each other, it is confidence which has sustained us so much in the past - rather than answer the cries of deprivation and despair - cries which the President's Commission on Civil Disorders [Kerner Commission] tells us could split our nation finally asunder - rather than answer these desperate cries, hundreds of communities and millions of citizens are looking for their answers, to force and repression and private gun stocks - so that we confront our fellow citizen across impossible barriers of hostility and mistrust and again, I don't believe that we have to accept that.

I don't believe that it's necessary in the United States of America. I think that we can work together - I don't think that we have to shoot at each other, to beat each other, to curse each other and criticize each other, I think that we can do better in this country. And that is why I run for President of the United States.

The Five MKULTRA CIA Created Obama Birth History Problems

The genuine birth story has come out and is clearly provable.

Malcom X was the biological father, Glorian Donegan the ovumn donor, Evan Ban the surrogat, Ann Dunham the Hawaii Polynesia cover story and who was never pregnant. St Josephs Hospital in LA was the birth hospital with JFK nearby in Santa Monica Nov 19 1961, JFK and George Ball and Thorkil Kristensen monitoring the Feb20 fertilization.

Much has been done to cover up the real story including the silencing of the Kennedy's and Malcom X by Illuminati

The Hawaii story has fallen apart as the cover story. The East West Center and USAID clearly used that birth claim to plant Obama in Indonesia.

The Kenya story, the Kenya story to be used later placed a possible Obama birht in Kenya and eligibility for Presidency problems if that fake Kenya certificate was found, now that he would be President in the U.S. instead.

The RFLP Immunology problem. The immunology ties families to regions of Earth and are used for family databases. That creates a DNA trail problem The Obama children angle. Would you do anything for your children? If Obama had known early on he might have gotten the truth out early on. But the truth started to become available after the lie of his birth had been relied upon for a great deal of consequential matters.

This goes to 1997 and Illuminati creating of genomically consistent children with the original birth of him from Glorian FOXP2 line.

All of these fronts create a war against the truth. Arkansas world medical Illuminati and the Clintons, the story of Michelle OBama DNA and her not being inconsistent with Glorian Donegan mitochondria could be the Andrew Breitbart murder.

The Three Basic Birther Incantations

1. Barry Senior was a Kenyan and Obama theoretically might have been born at a Presbyterian mission though that was for later cover story use. The real father was

2. Madelyn Dunham was a CIA officer in CIA operation ins Hawaii also becoming a US State under a plan controlled by Sidney Gottlieb to preempt Polynesian socialists and gain the pacific island before it became an Asian Cuba.

3. White US Anne Dunham was the Indonesian Polynesian anthropologist who would travel Indonesia with her Hawaiian born Barry.

Tragic billionaire's wife Eva Rausing became fascinated with 'hard drugs' while attending the same California college as Barack Obama, her family has revealed.

The mother-of-four was found dead on Monday in the £70 million London mansion she shared with her husband, Tetra Pak heir Hans Kristian Rausing, who has been been arrested on suspicion of her murder.

Mrs Rausing, who had a well documented drug addiction up until her death, studied at Occidental College, a private liberal arts college in Los Angeles, at the same time as the current US president.

In fact this has been by various calculations 25 to 43 years of gang stalking racial assaults upon me and my mother for which prior to Birther data emerging there had been no explanation for even though it spanned so many decades.

For, they [NWO] have come from many nations, all working together, their “think tanks” operating twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week and they have all said, “Let us defile her!

Let us look upon her and defile her! And, we will stop this thing from coming into the Earth!”

And, hoards after hoards of them, all from many nations, have come in their stealth and in their cunning, with their latest in space technologyall given to them by Satan [USA], and they have said, “We will defile he [Glorian] ! We will spoil this plot! We will stop what Yahweh plans!

We will bring an end to this! We will traumatize her! We will kill her; and as she takes her last breath, the inter=dimensional portal will open and we will flee! [and they did, I was getting her a vomit bib but hear her terrified last message in my voice mail

We are not grounded in the earth! We will fly high again! We will roam among the stars again!

We will sneak out and Yahweh and the hosts of the heavens will be powerless to stop us! We are gods! We have all of the power and this woman is a nobody!

She is nothing before us! It is nothing for us to kill her, nothing for us to steal this new spiritual code!

We will [gang] [organized] stalk her! We will find her weak links and we will break her![social sabotage, other societal sabotage]

She is ours! She is our prisoner [surrounded by Stalk]! We will never let her out of our sight and we will keep her filled up with wires, rods and implants!

Then, we will know her every move! We will know her every thought and this "baby" will not grow! In her weakened state, we will steal this baby! We will steal this new spiritual DNA and we will be even greater than we are!"

And, so their conversations have gone from day to day as they have mounted up in their enthusiasm, My Child. And, Satan, being full of pride and arrogance has been in your face almost constantly.

For, he has made quite a study of the new spiritual DNA and how it works and the strength and power of this new spiritual DNA, which is surely coming into humanity, and the power of this new spiritual DNA has astounded him!

It has worried him and frightened him; for the power as given to this new spiritual DNA surely surpasses what the fallen angels have!

MESSAGES FROM OUR GALACTIC FAMILY

Sheldon Nidle's Archive

Update by Sheldan Nidle for the Spiritual Hierarchy and the Galactic Federation

3 Batz, 9 Zac, 2 Ik - February 20, 2007

Selamat Jarin! We come again bringing more information about your world and the current status of first contact.

Our Earth allies are on the very brink of being able to put into effect their plans for global transformation. A series of coordinated maneuvers in the past few weeks have finally got the last dark cabal on the run, which is making possible the long-promised deliveries of the prosperity programs to their most anxious recipients. This aspect of the grand plan is only able to happen because those working for the ouster of the present US administration are very close to achieving this objective. Likewise, the announcements of global debt annulment and the range of new international banking laws are ready to roll at a moment's notice. All this is kept under wraps by a mainstream media focusing instead on America's steadily worsening Iraqi affray. For us, the vital hardcore news is the covert end game between the old guard of Illuminati rulers and those intending to reshape your world's present collapsing reality.

The significance behind this "chess game" is that your world is to be completely transfigured, which is why your rulers are intent on keeping your attention directed toward the war in the Middle East. This dastardly "production" is being used as a smokescreen to disguise the all-out confrontation raging between the dark cabal and their rivals, our Earth allies. During the course of this conflict, a great deal of masquerading by both sides was undertaken to achieve their goals. These strategies allowed our Earth allies to develop a broad game plan, which is at last bringing this hapless cabal to its knees. But inevitably, a few minor points remain outstanding. These are now being resolved and we expect some major developments to happen shortly. We retain our role of official watchdog and intelligence advisor to our Earth allies on a spectrum of matters, ranging from the reformation of the global banking system to the most effective way to conduct the removal of many recalcitrant regimes around the world. We have also been permitted to draw up a detailed program for rectifying your multitude of global environmental crises.

Reforming a planetary society with the complexity of yours in no easy matter. Our Earth allies have gone through some difficult initiations since the Anunnaki, your former overlords, came over to the side of the Light in the mid-1990s. Today, the allies constitute a hodgepodge of individuals and groups that were at first very much at odds with each other. Later on, in the early years of this century, they increasingly joined forces until they now work surprisingly well together. They have forged an exhaustively detailed plan for bringing about a wholly new world, and 90 per cent of these plans are already agreed upon; the remaining 10 per cent is dependent upon the uprooting of the American regime. Over the past five years, this illicit regime squeezed the global money flow until it is now very difficult to conduct business internationally. This angered many who formerly approved of the self-serving ways of the dark cabal and led to a spate of new rules and regulations being drafted and put into place for quick enactment.

What is happening now is the final maneuvering-into-position by a secret global coalition intent on legally expulsing the present US regime. As you can image, this is a complex undertaking that began in the post-WWII era. The growing arrogance of various corporate and allied wealthy individuals forged an interwoven global complex whose goal was to dismantle the legal constructs that hold this democratic republic together. This was clearly perceived by early members of the secret coalition who had long worked in government and saw at first hand what was going on around them. This strengthening power grab by a rich and corporate America reached its first pinnacle in the 1960s, reaching new heights in the 1980s and 1990s. By this time, a number of ongoing court cases brought by this pro-democratic coalition were challenging what had become a dictatorial oligarchy intent on creating a corporate-based, non-democratic American Empire. The epitome of this is the present US regime.

The dark cabal set up the present US administration to complete a process begun in the closing days of WWII. But a growing body of patriotic and disgruntled government employees and assorted allies clearly understood what was covertly being done to hijack the American Republic. The focus of this underground group was on legally remedying these abuses and returning the fiscal resources pilfered by the dark. They also saw that both political parties were becoming puppets for the empire-building programs of the dark. The opposing sides finally engaged in an all-out clash in the late 1990s, a highlight of which was the stolen election of 2000. With this contemptible act, it became clear that the needed reforms were not going to be enacted by the now-degenerated US political system. Equally clear was the need for creating an effective alternative to this system and putting it into power. The upshot is the present bunch of policies advocated by our Earth allies.

This means that the imminent economic, political, and governmental changes are the counter-measures to a vast covert coup that has successfully hijacked the US government and converted it into the chief agent for clamping your entire global society in a vice of slavery. This was to have been extant by the late 1990s had it not been for the Anunnaki's changing sides. We emphasize this repeatedly to establish a central point: The reverberating changes in this galaxy's politics are being mirrored by events happening locally on your world. This is why our original first contact mission took on new meaning and scope, and why Heaven drastically revised the early-1990's timetable. First contact morphed from the more usual swift paradigm shift into a more involved and gradual process, in which your spiritual awakening was externally represented in the remaking of your political, cultural, and economic environments.

The recasting of your reality includes a gently increasing exposure to our benign presence. This variegated operation has already provided a substantial escalation in sightings over the past five years and, to a lesser extent, in the increase of interaction between our crews and yourselves. Our intent is to make you aware that we are here, and that we are set on completing this first contact mission in as reasonable a timeframe as is divinely given us. Bear in mind that this mutual first-contact learning-curve applies to you as much as it does to us; you, too, have much to learn about our reality and how we live, work, and play. From this perspective, you can see that a lot must be fitted in to a rapidly decreasing amount of time. These time constraints put considerable pressure upon our Earth allies to get their part done, and then let us do the rest.

Our part in all this is to set up our crews with the most efficacious approach for carrying out the mass landing procedure. All indications so far point to doing it in one fell swoop. From experience, we have discovered that a piecemeal approach simply doesn't work on your planet. Recent experimental attempts in various isolated areas with the less inculcated peoples still stirred up over-stimulation and considerable resistance. Based on this, we now intend to stick with an intervention en mass at the divinely appointed time. This will also ensure that all goes as planned. But prior to this, you will need a series of awareness-raising broadcasts in order to remove, to the extent that we require, the deep-seated xenophobia ingrained in you since childhood. Happily, the time for all this is drawing nigh!

Today, we continued our discussion about the coming great changes and how these relate to the first contact mission. We feel it is important that you grasp what a monumental operation this is turning out to be. But whatever the challenges, we can and will succeed in this divinely prescribed mission. Remember, Together, We are indeed Victorious! Know in your Heart of Hearts that the perpetual Supply and infinite Abundance of Heaven are indeed Yours! Selamat Majon! Selamat Kasitaram! (Sirian for Rejoice! and Be Blessed in Heavenly Love and Joy!)

Selamat Jarin! We come again bringing more information about your world and the current status of first contact. Our Earth allies are on the very brink of being able to put into effect their plans for global transformation. A series of coordinated maneuvers in the past few weeks have finally got the last dark cabal on the run, which is making possible the long-promised deliveries of the prosperity programs to their most anxious recipients.

My Precious Child, I am your Father in Heaven, yea Yahweh, yea Jehovah, Most High God! Yes, My Child, these are tragic times, tragic, My Little One, because of the selfishness, the apathy and the rebellion of My people; but also tragic because this is the day of My wrath upon the ungodly! This is a day of payback for the workers of iniquity and a day of blessings for My Faithful!

> The Payback Theory is whites of Eurpean royalty robbed black Ehtiopian Gods of their ANnuki children, Annuki their royal line
> The theory holds that Barack Obama and his children are of this Annuki descent and that is why Windsor genome is in his family.

This was a very nasty river, reminding me of dirty dishwater, but without the soap foam; and in this river were very large, black objects, which seemed to change shape, so that I could not make them out. I asked our Saviour what this river was, and He told me that this is the “payback” river and that this river is now flowing into the Earth! I asked Him to tell me what the many dark objects were and He told me that these are blocks of payback, which are now coming into all the nations of the whole Earth. He told me that these nations will now reap as they have sown! My Dear Ones, this payback is now. This swift-moving river is now coming into the Earth and this dark payback is the great darkness, which is now upon the face of the whole Earth!

Children are planted all around my home and in public near me. Sexualized children disgust me but the Black Nationalist prison felons arrange their own photos of the children, allege to others behind my back that those picture taken by me and I am scum.

And this payback is gangtalking and defamation KOMPROMAT, then that KOMPROMAT used to defame white and gain a litigancy for that DNA in racial warfare and genoracketeering based in hatred of whites.

This is from an Obama Deep state blaming whites for having held down blacks and robbing them of their DNA, them the blacks, who were the Kings of Africa.

The prophecies of the true Kings found once and for all, with at least some British co-operating burrying FOXP2 high IQ genes in Ethiopia as world IQ engineering.

That Glorian Donegan was the source of this DNA to be found in Africa AND the Obama family is one reality. One falsity is that a scumbag Edward Paul Donegan retard was blackmailed out of it because HE was peeping at #DatAss.

About

My family history Rough Music abuse of my ordered by high authorities with something to hide

I Edward Paul Donegan am not offering an alternate reality from what most Kennedy assassination(s) researchers report which is a plot in which CIA funded by world businesses from International Trade Mart of Zapata Petroleum and others hired Charles Harrelson and others to assassinate JFK from the Train-yard with Murder Inc., operatives working under Lansdale. I am offering an additional reality, a puzzle piece fitting into the fabric of what is known yet offering new victims list of those the CIA killed, new motives for why JFK was executed in public by his own government, and why RFK and other law enforcement of that and later US history have also died in suspicious deaths. My reality that is a new puzzle piece placed into this puzzle is similar to a decryption key that suddenly takes worlds of possibilities that could be true and leaves only one that is true and satisfies all of logic's requirements and answers unanswered questions.

Here I show an illustration of that concept I found on Shutterstock as one of their examples.

My father was a TWA pilot flying the Boeing 707, Lockeed L11011, and other single enginre propeller and jumbo jets following his WWII and Korea military flight service.

TWA retrieved from WIKPEDIA and copied or modified to here

Trans World Airlines (TWA) was a major American airline which operated from 1930 until 2001. It was formed as Transcontinental & Western Air to operate a route from New York City to Los Angeles via St. Louis, Kansas City, and other stops, with Ford Trimotors. With American, United, and Eastern, it was one of the “Big Four” domestic airlines in the United States formed by the Spoils Conference of 1930.[3]

Howard Hughes acquired control of TWA in 1939, and after World War II led the expansion of the airline to serve Europe, the Middle East, and Asia, making TWA a second unofficial flag carrier of the United States after Pan Am.[4][5] Hughes gave up control in the 1960s, and the new management of TWA acquired Hilton International and Century 21 in an attempt to diversify the company’s business.

As the Airline Deregulation Act of 1978 led to a wave of airline failures, start-ups, and takeovers in the United States, TWA was spun off from its holding company in 1984. Carl Icahn acquired control of TWA and took the company private in a leveraged buyout in 1988. TWA became saddled with debt, sold its London routes, underwent Chapter 11 restructuring in 1992 and 1995, and was further stressed by the explosion of TWA Flight 800 in 1996.

TWA was headquartered at one time in Kansas City, Missouri, and planned to make Kansas City International Airport its main domestic and international hub, but abandoned this plan in the 1970s.[6] The airline later developed its largest hub at St. Louis Lambert International Airport. Its main transatlantic hub was the TWA Flight Center at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York City, an architectural icon designed by Eero Saarinen, and completed in 1962.[7]

Hughes gave up control in the 1960s, and the new management of TWA acquired Hilton International and Century 21 in an attempt to diversify the company's business.

Hilton has 18 brands across different market segments, including Conrad Hotels & Resorts, Canopy by Hilton, Curio - A Collection by Hilton, Hilton Hotels & Resorts, DoubleTree by Hilton, Embassy Suites Hotels, Hilton Garden Inn, Hampton by Hilton, Homewood Suites by Hilton, Home2 Suites by Hilton, Hilton Grand Vacations, LXR Hotels and Resorts by Hilton, Waldorf Astoria Hotels Resorts, Signia by Hilton, Tru by Hilton, Tapestry Collection by Hilton, Tempo by Hilton and Motto by Hilton.

On December 12, 2013, Hilton again became a public company, raising an estimated $2.35 billion in its second IPO.[8]

The abuse of Glorian Donegan genome, racketeering it, and the treatment of me by high ranking politicians tied to that history and the subversion of me by evidence plants and defamatory impersonations of me and money laundering of my mother's trust fund as an asset.

No one needs political asylum from the USA I thought as I approached embassy after embassy in Washington DC Metro Area where I lived and asked for political asylum, not understanding why I was being chased by police who would not interview me without or without council nor stop stalking me.

POPULAR TERMINOLOGY

- Targeted Person: An individual who has been placed into a program of psychological and often physical warfare tactics which are orchestrated by criminal organizations, corrupt politicians, and law enforcement personnel.

- Covert Harassment: Also known as gangstalking or organized stalking, is a highly criminal campaign directed at a targeted individual that aims to destroy an innocent person's life through slander and carefully executed psychological and physical assaults.

- Slander Campaign: An intentional, premeditated effort to undermine an individual's reputation, credibility, and character.

Extrajudicial Execution

In his own words, a Targeted Individual (TI) exposes his tormented life and the heartless, sadistic and invasive methods used covertly to undermine his credibility, cause illness and excruciating pain, ruin him financially, tear apart his family, drive him mad and lead him to consider suicide. This dramatic and cautionary tale may seem extreme and far-fetched, but thousands of other Targeted Individuals throughout the world are suffering in silence right now. In this candid account, the author describes the psychological, emotional, mental and physical torture that he has endured for over six years, hoping that he will survive long enough to see this book in print.

Guinea Pigs: Technologies of Control

For years the federal government has sought to remotely control human behavior. Starting with the CIA projects MKULTRA and MKSEARCH in the 1950s, the American public has been unwitting guinea pigs in a multitude of non-consensually performed experiments that have continued into the 21st century. Guinea Pigs takes readers on a journey into the darkest corners of U.S. non-consensual experimentation and the various technologies of control that have led to our current surveillance state. The recent revelations regarding the extent of NSA eavesdropping is only the tip of the iceberg ..

No Ordinary Stalking

Organized stalking is carried out by an enthusiastic and structured group that has cruel intentions:

stalk, harass, injure, financially ruin, and mentally crumple human prey until incapacitation occurs. What sets this crime apart is that innocents are picked off the street. There is no getting away from the stalkers and no getting away from the unusual technology that is used to take over someone's life.

"For the first couple of months," says June, "I thought it was a sick game. Now that I've been tormented for years, well, it's clear that organized stalking is a sophisticated crime that follows a step-by-step process to leave the victim as bare and isolated as the dead tree on the cover. He or she may still be standing, but that's about it.

"I'll sum it up this way. Veiled intimidation ensures that targeted individuals are viewed by the public as free people, which they are not. They are playthings to their controllers. Hostages in plain sight. Victims are quite literally owned yet have limited chance of rescue because their desperate circumstances are misunderstood.

Some die from the violence. Some die from suicide. And the rest merely exist."

Organized stalking is worldwide and is called gang stalking in some areas. The electronic harassment that accompanies organized stalking is also known as covert harassment.

Why is this of concern to me or about VATICAN and USA Intelligence Agency CIA Catholics in Action assassinations including inside and outside of the USA, in Latin America, Cube, JFK himself, and earlier, rescues during pre Nazi Germany?

My being named Edward Paul Donegan

My father James Paul Donegan as he explained it was that I was named Edward after my Grandfather Edward, and my middle name Paul was from his middle name.

He explained my nickname “Ned” that was used until about 1985 as the English version of Edward. I found that odd, he mostly hated English historians and Europeans generally and we were proud Irish, though he disavowed anything Irish in the name Ned.

In researching this now in 2020 I find this to be true.

Google knowledge panel quoted here

> Ned is an English given name and variant of Ed, sometimes short for Benedict, Edward, Edmund, Edgar, or Edwin.
>
> “Ned” may have risen from generations of children hearing “mine Ed” as “my Ned” (an example of a process linguists called re-bracketing).[citation needed]
>
> Ned can also be a diminutive for the Slavic name Nedeljko.

It was also told to me by my mother and relatives in the south Edward was some sort of once king.

I though perhaps in some part of County Donegal, Belfast history though it was not made clear.

It had something to do with the 1920s and again I assumed it was related perhaps some Irish change of rule and perhaps some local jurisdiction annexed or replaced by a new Constitution or something.

In the course of researching all this I have found that the King Edward grandfather of mine was likely once King Edward VIII and I carry the London KE FOXP2 gene which runs in German and Austrian families, including the Windsors and Von Trapps.

Cape Cod, Manhattan Project Atomic Exposure to Radiation Testing

I grew up in Marshfield MA with my father and mother, Uncle Harold and other brothers of my father.

Cape Cod Bay lies in between Cape Cod and the mainland - bounded on the north by a horizontal line between Provincetown and Marshfield. North of Cape Cod Bay (and Provincetown) is Massachusetts Bay, which contains the Stellwagen Bank National Marine Sanctuary, located 5 miles (8 km) north of Provincetown. The Atlantic Ocean is to the east of Cape Cod, and to the southwest of the Cape is Buzzards Bay. The Cape Cod Canal, completed in 1916, connects Buzzards Bay to Cape Cod Bay; its creation shortened the trade route between New York and Boston by 62 miles (100 km).[7]

My brother has moved back there to Provincetown MA.

My father James Paul Donegan lived in Marshfield Massachusetts along with his brothers Robert Donegan, Edward Donengan Jr, Francis Donegan, and their wives and children and Harold Donegan.

I think it is during these times my family and the Kennedy family were in contact on Cape Cod and later in Los Angles at my birth.

That at least is likely. I is also possible this overlays with Barack Obama’s birth at that same time.

James P Donegan started his life in Boston with his brother [my] Uncle Happy who worked on Three Mile Island and other engineering projects and other relative in Boston tied to the liquor trade.

Just under 18 he left for WWII and became a pilot flying in “the first nuclear” wing of the air force or something like that he sometimes vaguely referred to.

He was part of above ground nuclear testing. After Hiroshima and Nagasaki the CIA and DARPA Dept of Energy were studying the affects of radiation and he stood in a tower near an above ground test so the affects of the radiation could be studied.

I suspect DNA drawn from me mother and father and fertilization success was studied In Vitro, under a microscope, and at that same time, an additional egg was used from my mother for Barack Obama and later in other families, perhaps already in the Kennedy's since the 1920s.

My father continued to work with both the military and CIA during the Korean war as a reconnaissance pilot trying to identify structures and targets inside of Korean and conducting bomb damage assessments as well.

FOXP2 as Likely in Glorian Donegan, Edward Paul

In an odd coincidence I do not recognize at the time I was calling Elder Law Partners about GLorian DOnegan's will which was being concealed from me by my brother the Navy Yard Shooting broke out and the Elder Law Partner seemed hostile as if it had something to do with me.

My belief is MONARCH was Prince Phillip, Duke of York, of Kings Speech who basically overthrew King Edward VIII, Prince Edward of Windsor who was friendly with Nazis including Kutcheras and Von Trapps. Queen Elizabeth II then Phillips wife backed the Windsor 1905 and 1925 Empirial plan to capture the whole world via Masonic lodge back room war mongering, taking over King George V lost realms and getting them back. JFK disagreed. The Lilliput problem was FOXP2 and the OSS and CIA and others used out of wedlock less visible to track Artichoke, swallowing trouble, dry throat, paperclip, dropped grammar, and easy going nature, slightly bipolar, or just letting inspiration in. Schoolwork, trying shoes, speech, other troubles though with the extreme ADHD symptoms. CIA FBI Others long tracked secret twins including Marilyn Monroe.

> Washington Navy Yard Shooting: 13 People Confirmed Dead *

My mother Glorian Donegan was likely one of the Windsor daughters of King Edward VIII and Maria Kutschera Von Trapp, with speech issues and speech therapy including vocal coaching.

My mother and I show the symptoms of Dysgraphia, dry throats and swallowing dry food problems, written letter formation, and and in m case written sentences and speech hurry.

- Speech meter regulation problems including spasmodia and slurring and rapidity or lack of smoothness of articulation in speech

- Dry Throat: My mother threw up after most meals, never finding a solution. It was not anorexia, she was choking. I had the same problem and went to the doctor in my 20s or 30s for a upper gi swallowing study. The radiative iodine fluid went down ok, but I have go gulp solids hard and or with water or I will choke. Dry throats are part of FOXP2 and neurology.

- My mother and I have a tendency to polarize with those who have taken pole positions with us (including detachment if and when attachment is sought.) This is often called creating a borderline between potential positions, or Borderline Personality Disorder.

- I have ADD and Dyslexia which I believe tied to Dysgraphia in which during speech articulation or even bodily control things are intermittently rather than continuously controlled and this includes while writing.

I was told to seek acting or speech coaching most of my life to help regulate my speech. These are issues the British Royals with stutter or Singers may seek out such as the Von Trapps (Maria) or descendents of King George V including King Edward VIII of the Kings Speech

Or that someone like Alma Powell would have worked with in speech and auditory testing and diagnosis.

Lionael Logue in the news: March 11, 2020

"Not a moment's hesitation or mistake!" Never-before-seen letter from King George VI thanking speech coach for his help immortalised in The King's Speech comes to light 83 years on." A newly "discovered" thank-you letter from King George VI to Lionel Logue.*

Monarch wrote thank you to Lionel Logue for help preparing his 1937 speech Tells Australian therapist of the ‘anxiety‘ he suffered as coronation approached

South Australia

Lionel George Logue was born in College Town, Adelaide, South Australia on February 26, 1880. He was the eldest of three children. His South Australian born parents were George Edward Logue, an accountant in the family brewery and later a hotel licensee (publican), and his wife Lavinia, née Rankin.

From 1889 to 1896 he attended Prince Alfred College, Adelaide from 1889-1896, a private school established in 1869 as a Methodist boys’ school.

In Adelaide, Logue studied elocution with Edward Reeves, “who purged his voice of much of its Australian accent” (Edgar, in Ritchie, 2000). By 1902 he had become Reeves’ secretary and assistant teacher, while pursuing his studies at the Elder Conservatorium of Music. He remained a music and theatre-lover throughout his life and also enjoyed walking and gardening.

Western Australia

After leaving the conservatorium, the versatile Logue worked on a gold mine in Kalgoorlie, Western Australia.

On March 20, 1907 he married a 21 year old clerk, Myrtle Gruenert in St George’s Anglican Cathedral, Perth. Lionel and Myrtle settled in Perth, where he taught elocution, public speaking and acting, staged plays, recited Dickens and Shakespeare at public gatherings, and founded a public speaking club. As well, he taught at the YMCA, Scotch College, and from 1910, Perth Technical School. In 1911 he went on a world tour.

As a Christian Scientist, Logue was passionate about healing, and perhaps this, coupled with his background in elocution, lead to a role he assumed in Perth during World War I (1914-1918) when he treated at least seven returned servicemen who had speech disorders attributed to shell shock.

Edgar (in Ritchie, 2000) writes, “Using humour, patience and ‘super-human sympathy’ he taught them exercises for the lungs and diaphragm, and to breathe sufficiently deeply to complete a sentence fluently”. Logue’s approach included the recitation of tongue twisters such as, “She sifted seven thick stalked thistles through a strong, thick sieve.” (Denis Judd, King George VI, in Langford, p.472).

Perth feminist activist Irene Greenwood (1899-1992) recalled being taught “voice production” by Lionel Logue in Perth, circa 1921, also noting that “his techniques were designed to repair the damaged vocal chords [sic] of gassed war veterans” (Richardson, 1996).

Harley Street

In 1924 Logue commenced practice at 146 Harley Street, London. He made a good living, charging wealthy patrons substantial fees while providing a free service to poorer people who sought his professional help. A Freemason, Logue was appointed as speech therapist to The Royal Masonic School, Bushey.

During the second world war his practice dwindled, and he worked as an air raid warden (probably unpaid, or for a small allowance) in London three nights a week.

After his wife's death in 1945, Logue was attracted to spiritualism. Survived by three sons: Valentine, Laurie and Anthony, Logue died in London on April 12, 1953, and was cremated. At the time of his death his address was 68, Princes Court, Brompton Road, Knightsbridge, London, S.W.3, and his occupation was noted as "Speech Therapist" in the London Gazette Death Notice.

King George VI (1895 - 1952)

Encouraged (Davie, 2002) by his wife Elizabeth (1900-2002), the then Duchess of York, the Duke of York, later to become George VI (reigning from 1936 to1952) consulted Logue about his stutter in 1926.

"Until Edward VIII abdicated, his younger brother Bertie was not expected to succeed to the throne. He was born in 1895 and led a regimented childhood without a great deal of family warmth or empathy. Although naturally left-handed he was required to learn to write with his right hand. He developed a serious stutter as a young boy which caused him difficulty and embarrassment and which he fought to conquer throughout his life. Adding insult to injury, his siblings were apparently allowed to ridicule his speech" (Baker 2002).

Sinclair (1988) reports that the young duke visited Logue's rooms almost every day for two months, and that he was: "frequently accompanied by the Duchess, who became thoroughly familiar with Logue's program of breathing exercises so that she help her husband to practise them at home. Within a few weeks, an improvement was apparent and the Duke told his father that, although 24 years of speaking in the wrong way could not be set right in a month, he was confident that in time he would be able to talk without stammering."

By contrast with Sinclair's "two months", Logue and Conradi (2010, p. 68) viewed Logue's bill, drawn up on March 31, 1928. It showed that Logue and the Duke met for eighty-two appointments over 14 months between 20 October 1926 and 22 December, 1927.

There have been several press reports of Elizabeth helping him with breathing exercises, some of which were online around the time of Elizabeth's death. According to Davie (2002) an author, and also deputy editor of The Observer:

"When the young duke went off to Harley Street to be treated by the Australian speech therapist Lionel Logue, she often went with him. He gradually overcame his disability, but she was always beside him when he had to make a speech, and helped write them, eliminating the difficult consonants."

Notable Australian poet and biographer, Suzanne Edgar, in Volume 15 of the Australian Dictionary of Biography, provides the most detailed account of Logue's diagnosis and treatment, and the duke's response.

"The therapist diagnosed poor coordination between larynx and diaphragm, and asked him to spend an hour each day practising rigorous exercises. The duke came to his rooms, stood by an open window and loudly intoned each vowel for fifteen seconds. Logue restored his confidence by relaxing the tension which caused muscle spasms. The duke's stammer diminished to occasional hesitations. Resonantly and without stuttering, he opened the Australian parliament in Canberra in 1927.

Using tongue twisters, Logue helped the duke rehearse for major speeches and coached him for the formal language of his coronation in 1937. At Westminster Abbey on 12th May, wearing the M.V.O. decoration given to him by King George VI on the previous night, Logue sat in the apse to encourage him during the ceremony. Before the King's radio broadcast that evening, Logue whispered to him: “Now take it quietly Sir”.

“The ‘slow, measured pace’ which he had afforded the King’s diction proved affecting in His Majesty’s wartime broadcasts and speeches.Elevated to C.V.O. in 1944, Logue was with the King for the V.E.-Day broadcast on 8 May 1945. Their friendship was ‘the greatest pleasure’ of Logue’s life” (Edgar, 2000).

Margaret Drabble

According to one of my favourite authors, Margaret Drabble, who has a particular personal insight into stuttering, despite Logue’s help George VI never became comfortable with public speaking, particularly broadcasting.

“He rehearsed everything with Logue and dreaded last minute alterations to his text: the Sovereign’s Speech afforded him an added difficulty as it had to be delivered sitting, not standing.

Occasionally, he was able to be pleased with his efforts: in 1940, his diary records that his he was very pleased with the way he delivered his speech on Empire Day - ‘it was easily my best effort. How I hate broadcasting.’” (Drabble, 2001).

Una Mulholland née Vowles 1904-1999

Dr Mary Rose Cooney MBBS, MBA, MFM, PhD of Brisbane (personal correspondence November 11, 2010) has lasting memories of her mother’s high regard for Lionel Logue. She shared the contents of a newspaper clipping about her mother from 13 April, 1931:

“One of Queensland’s leading elocutionists, Miss Una Vowles, L.T.C.L., L. Eloc. A., will leave Brisbane for London on Saturday next, May 2, with the object of continuing her studies abroad, specialising in speech training. Mr. Lionel Lowe [sic], of West Australia, who was an elocution teacher to H.R.H. the Duke of York, will be her tutor for speech defects. Miss Dorothy Carey, of Gympie, will accompany Miss Vowles on her tour, which will include Ireland, Germany, France, Italy and Austria.”

In a letter home dated August 5, 1931 Miss Vowles (26) wrote, “Quite a number of people have asked me were we related to the Westralian branch of the Vowles family. Lionel Logue said to me the other day - “The only other Una I have ever known lived in W.A. She was the wittiest, cleverest and smartest woman in the West and her husband adored her. Her name was Una Kirby”!

Funny wasn’t it? Immediately told him that was Una Victoria Vowles after whom I was called, my father’s sister. He told me he never takes students but as he liked me and as I am an Australian he would do his best for me. He is a very interesting man and though he looks young is between 50 & 60.”

When Miss Vowles returned home, she was interviewed for a story that appeared in The Brisbane Courier on 16 February, 1932. In an article that featured in the Courier Mail on August 28, 1933 Miss Vowles commented on fashions in speech and deliberate lisping as an affectation. Dr Cooney notes that her mother, who passed away in 1999, had an elocution studio in Brisbane, continuing to help people who stammered into her later years.

My thanks to Dr Cooney for providing this information and permitting me to include it here.

> Developmental verbal dyspraxia (DVD), also known as childhood apraxia of speech (CAS) and developmental apraxia of speech (DAS),[1] is a condition in which children have problems saying sounds, syllables and words. This is not because of muscle weakness or paralysis. The brain has problems planning to move the body parts (e.g., lips, jaw, tongue) needed for speech. The child knows what they want to say, but their brain has difficulty coordinating the muscle movements necessary to say those words.[2] From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia *

British Society of Speech Therapists

Logue was a founder, in 1935, of the British Society of Speech Therapists, and in 1944 became a founding fellow of the College of Speech Therapists (now called the RCSLT). The College was granted royal patronage by George VI (in 1948, according to Eldridge, 1968, and see a letter from Logue to George VI requesting royal patronage) and Elizabeth, the Queen Mother was its patron from 1959 until her death on March 30th, 2002. Indeed, she was patron or president of 350 organisations.

Spiritualism

Logue's interest in spiritualism brought him in contact with Lilian Bailey OBE, described by Marjorie Aarons as:

"one of the greatest trance mediums of modern times. During her forty years of dedicated service to countless people in all walks of life who received comfort and guidance. Many famous people, The Queen Mother, Lionel Logue, speech therapist to King George VI are just a few of the people who sort [sic] her great gifts."

He also knew Hannen Swaffer, the well-known journalist and spiritualist apparently confiding in him that he had read John Brown's diary at Windsor Castle!

Dysphagia

About dysphagia

Dysphagia is the medical term for swallowing difficulties.

Some people with dysphagia have problems swallowing certain foods or liquids, while others can't swallow at all.

Other signs of dysphagia include:

- coughing or choking when eating or drinking
- bringing food back up, sometimes through the nose
- a sensation that food is stuck in your throat or chest

- persistent drooling of saliva

- Over time, dysphagia can also cause symptoms such as weight loss and repeated chest infections.

You should see your GP if you have swallowing difficulties.

What causes dysphagia? Dysphagia is usually caused by another health condition, such as:

a condition that affects the nervous system, such as a stroke, head injury, or dementia cancer - such as mouth cancer or oesophageal cancer gastro-oesophageal reflux disease (GORD) - where stomach acid leaks back up into the oesophagus

Dysphagia can also occur in children as the result of a developmental or learning disability.

Dysphagia can be caused by problems with the: mouth or throat, known as oropharyngeal or “high” dysphagia oesophagus (the tube that carries food from your mouth to your stomach), known as oesophageal or “low” dysphagia

The esophagus gets very important function at alaryngeal phonation as air reservoir, the upper esophageal sphincter gets the function as air activator and the pharyngoesophageal segment gets the function of the voice generator, thus allowing the function of the voice resonators.

Dysgraphia and what I thought about my writing

I had an injury as a child chasing m brother and breaking older plate glass while a small child.

The larger plates falling from below broke loose slowly enough I saw it start to fall and put my open hand up. The cuts to my wrist, head, and shoulder followed as the glass slid to the front of me.

For many years of my life I tactically checked the tendons in my wrist and could not find any reason I could not write normally but thought the accident must have been the cause.

Dysgraphia and Border Personality Disorder

Borderline Personality Disorder appears part of what affected King George V descendants and includes both speach and personality traits.

This is what I believe the Illuminati “rescued” some Kings Daughters for and are tied to a London KE Family the Illuminati speak of and that my motehr was in that category.

At New York MCC in 2008 I described this behavior of my mother, having outbursts, and having to lock the household doors because she she would not quiet, and sometimes even leave the house if she would attack the door.

Generally I used the same response as my father, leaving during her “rapid cycle” emotional instability though at times the causality of the dispute by her and those receiving the accounts traced that instability to me instead.

In fact both my mother and I likely show Unstable (emotionally polarizing) Personality though perhaps by the degree or gender roles at differnent levels, or maybe the same, me having to judge inside of the forrest.

Still, my deciding to leave her presence during her emotional instability was never my own Bipolar Disorder that others have claimed, as Arlington Police Department once assessed, my decisions simply to go to or move to other locations than with her normal allowable acts.

There has been a deragotory “spin” put on this by my brother Tom DOnegan and others which misrepresents the reasonableness of me and my acts and changes Borderline Personality Disorder into Bipolar Disorder.

I first recognized the name and symptoms of Borderline Personality Disorder from a mental health national organization flyer while in a waiting area at Drewery Mental Health (Arlington County) behavoiral services. I had heard the term Borderlie Personality Disorder but presumed it some type of “marginal personality” issue. I later read about it and described it to my brother as fittiing both me and my mother including ABondomment problem symptoms I had recogtnized in her since the mid 1990s.

In fact in growing up I spent many summers in South Carolina with her adoptive family. My Uncle Harold, her adoptive brother, talked about “keepign walking around money” with me in case she ever blew, and also made comments to me on a regular basis as if I were like a blue blood, but also my Aunt Dot noticed my eratic childhood.

I believe these symptoms tying to the Secret Life of King Edward VIII and Adolf Hitler are tied to Judi Gibbs and Brittany Murphy deaths.

Borderline Personality in film

> Borderline personality disorder (BPD), also known as emotionally unstable personality disorder (EUPD),[8] is a mental illness characterized by a long-term pattern of unstable relationships, a distorted sense of self, and strong emotional reactions.[4][5]

Brittany Murphy’s career also included work as a singer. She commented: “My singing voice isn’t like my speaking voice … I’ve just always kept it a secret and never taken credit because I wanted to learn how to work behind the microphone in a recording studio, and some of the singers don’t even know it was me recording on their albums.”[22] From Wikipedia the free encyclopedia

Judi Gibbs, wife of NASCARs Joe Gibbs, was tied in some way through a Penthouse magazine on the secret life of Adolph Hitler, I think Eva Braun, the Winsors, Kutcheras, Von Trapps, all in pre WWII clutch which later forced the abdication of King Edward VIII as war erupted, and also led to out of wedlock children who carry the gene affecting King Edward VIII speech regulation issue.

About Edward Paul Donegan directly

Throughout my life I have been put through what is called a Gang Stalk, a form of stalking which is illegal but has the cover story of being randomly occurring, not a stalk.

I call this the Cameron Brief Ploy. In my vicinity, constantly, people created out of place things and references. Small things, but out of place. I challenged them, piece by piece but it is said I am making something out of nothing.

Yet as these things like women walking down the street in front of me, out of my control that they got in front of me, are pieced together with other pieces, like ambigous statements from others in places of business, pizza shops, etc., then behind my back those out of place things can be “fit together” in a way the the resulting assembled puzzle makes [non] sense out of those little evidence plants around me that i Was told were nothing to be noticed and merely random other things around me.

The purpose of gangtsalking is hostile and can have adverse affects. Normal non hostile society is walled off from the gang stalking victim, assaults upopn the stalked person are often, if the police back the stalk, are adjudicated against the stalked person. Some are even led to suicide by the gang stalk.

One of the psychological and criminological elements of the stalk is that it often involves Doppelgangers who are annoyances and who will piggy back their own acts onto the victims identity as well as being a harassment of the victim by being present at all.

I have spent years on the legal and psychiatric symptom pinned down by either offensive environments of hostility by stalkers or retaliated against legally as a result of my complaints against the difficult to prove stalking.

Additional Complications vindicating my soundness of mind

My brother has sought and obtained psychiatric commitments over matters like NIH.ASP and Thea Smith though he had been utilized by the government to create the illegal acts I was confronting and I was in the correct about them.

Evidence I was correct and my brother has been utilized as sabotage of me inside the family has been mostly erased but is known to exist.

He like I inherited the world in which we live, the coverup of a national and even world nightmare left behind by Sidney Gottlieb.

Wipe My Record Clean (and Veronica Hoffman's too)

I believe my criminal and psychiatric record should be expunged and to the degree it is possible I should be made whole, it is too late for my mother who was also gangstalked and died only with telephone friends such as those from California.

One other element in my psych history

Having been treated for Meth addiction with Wellubutrin continuing counseling in the psychiatry system as been a lifelong need and a lifelong medical record. Thse are norms in addiction treatment and staying eligible for low income programs I have been driven into

Outlandish and DOD Serving wrongful diagnosis of me as I have asserted Government wrongdoing

As my mother always said (and she was correct) I have been the same normal every day person at all times without any change in that for as long as she ever knew me.

She did think I was wrong about if I was being stalked though.

The Dept Of Defense continues to try and move me to gutter ghetto all black living with the most severely retarded peopl and thus with whom I am forced into the populations of.

Before coming to Texas I confronted Thea Smith over “Pizzagate” and like most other places was both assaulted as a white supremacist and held in the most severly mentally ill state hospital skid row classification wards.

The diagnosis created by racial hatred was that I was unable to think or create ideas on my own, thus needed others as caregivers.

I have since lost the paperwork but there is such a (wrongfully) applied DSM diagnosis. It has nothing to do with me but is a State manufactured basis to claim conservatorship of me and my property.

It was done in conduction with unmasked open racial assaults and racial hatred.

Things my intellect require me to believe even though I am told it is not true by what I am conditioned to

This seems tied to my family DNA.

- A weird Illuminati like site tied to Genetech “making new organisms of “level above humans” out of Zygote from Gloria.

- Her Feb 20 November 18 pregnancy dates of me and her Dec 13 birthday of her own.

- Her and my seeming expression of the FOXP2 gene and her adoption into a Bishopville DuPont atomic contractor connected home.

- The lifelong unjustifiable conspiracy against my rights sexual reproductive including defaming KOMPROMAT by those who refuse to show, and do not have genuine cause for, their actions, a dilemma I have never been able to overcome.

- The moving of Feb 20 DNA around the world by the U.S. DOD

Tom and Mark

My brother Thomas Neil Donegan and his partner Mark Weirness were suspected by my mother of being involved in some terrible plot, and Tom being under the influence of Mark.

She spent years in agony and pain trying to figure out what they were doing and why they treated her the way they did, both in hiding things from her, in treating her horribly, and in certain other acts.

Among those acts were removing her hats from her apartment without her permission and taking all of her photos for scanning and never returning them nor providing the scanned pictures, and that this was some kind of plot.

Today that makes sense to me in that part of the advanced package of 23 And Me includes facial structure genes, etc., and this could be part of hiding record of her genome.

At time of my mother, Glorian Donegan's death, Tom vowed to "get me" finally, since I had called him a "fag." In fact I am not or was not anti gay. Only when he created fights on purpose (likely to create a cold silence which would curtain his acts from talk) did the issue ever come up.

Victoria Windsor: Blogger, researcher into ancestry: .. .reported that.she had “found evidence that the records of Madelyn Payne Dunham and Stanley Armour Dunham had been “tampered with.” Cause of death not yet revealed. Said to have died from a “sudden illness”

Victoria Brein Windsor

Rest in Peace

Victoria was active on blogs and newspapers in the constitutional arena. She was an excellent researcher, particularly in the area of ancestry. One of the last emails The Post & Email received from her stated that she had found evidence that the records of Madelyn Payne Dunham and Stanley Armour Dunham had been “tampered with.”

Victoria had also performed extensive research on the background of then-presidential candidate Rick Santorum in an attempt to determine if he met the definition of “natural born Citizen” found in Article II, Section 1, clause 5 of the U.S. Constitution.

The San Mateo Phone Calls

Two calls I remember as being the most memorable I had with my mother other than from the prison phone call in Maryland.

- In one phone call 911 had happened. She called me as I was getting dressed for work. She could see the Pentagon fire from her apartment window on the 21st floor. I talked with her for a while about what she had heard. After I hung up I heard about from Wells Fargo too, work was on, we did not know if the financial system would come under attack.

- In an earlier phone call, in that same apartment, while working at Excite©Home, a huge fight with her was underway with Tom. She had called me in agony wondering what to do and I was going to try to intermediate it with Tom. She congratulated me on being the only person who talked to everyone in the four person family of origin system. I let that go to my head and never backed her enough against Tom.

  While I was at Excite©Home the election dispute was underway between Bush and Gore. My brother said at THAT time he was being promoted at work. Later at that job same job at AOL Time Warner he would extend an opportunity to me for an interview with them.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sidney_Gottlieb KULTRA Sidney Gottlieb (born Joseph Scheider; August 3, 1918 to March 7, 1999) was an American chemist and spymaster best known for his involvement with the Central Intelligence Agency's 1950s and '60s assassination attempts and mind control program, known as Project MKULTRA.

Gottlieb, the son of Hungarian Jewish immigrant parents, was born in the Bronx as Joseph Scheider in 1918. He received a Ph.D. in chemistry from the California Institute of Technology. A stutterer from childhood, Gottlieb also earned a master's degree in speech therapy. He had a club foot, which kept him out of service in World War II but did not prevent his pursuit of folk dancing, a lifelong passion.

Edward was kept under the strict tutorship of Hansell until almost thirteen years old. Private tutors taught him German and French.[11] Edward took the examination to enter the Royal Naval College, Osborne, and began there in 1907. Hansell had wanted Edward to enter school earlier, but the prince's father had disagreed.[12] Following two years at Osborne College, which he did not enjoy, Edward moved on to the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth. A course of two years, followed by entry into the Royal Navy, was planned. A bout of mumps may have made him infertile.[13]

Edward witnessed trench warfare first-hand and visited the front line as often as he could, for which he was awarded the Military Cross in 1916. His role in the war, although limited, made him popular among veterans of the conflict.[22] Edward undertook his first military flight in 1918, and later gained a pilot's licence.[23]

Edward's youngest brother, Prince John, died at the age of 13 on 18 January 1919 after a severe seizure.[24] John suffered from epilepsy, and Edward, who was 11 years older than his brother and had hardly known him, saw his death as “little more than a regrettable nuisance”.[25] He wrote to his mistress of the time that “[he had] told [her] all about that little brother, and how he was an epileptic. [John]‘s been practically shut up for the last two years anyhow, so no one has ever seen him except the family, and then only once or twice a year. This poor boy had become more of an animal than anything else.” He also wrote an insensitive letter to his mother, Queen Mary, which has since been lost.[26] She did not reply, but he felt compelled to write her an apology, in which he stated: “I feel such a cold hearted and unsympathetic swine for writing all that I did … No one can realize more than you how little poor Johnnie meant to me who hardly knew him … I feel so much for you, darling Mama, who was his mother.”[25]

Edward automatically became Duke of Cornwall and Duke of Rothesay on 6 May 1910 when his father ascended the throne as George V on the death of Edward VII. He was created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester a month later on 23 June 1910, his 16th birthday.[14] Preparations for his future as king began in earnest. He was withdrawn from his naval course before his formal graduation, served as midshipman for three months aboard the battleship Hindustan, then immediately entered Magdalen College, Oxford, for which, in the opinion of his biographers, he was underprepared intellectually. A keen horseman, he learned how to play polo with the university club.[15] He left Oxford after eight terms, without any academic qualifications.[16]

In 1917, during the First World War, he began a love affair with Parisian courtesan Marguerite Alibert (later Fahmy), who kept a collection of his indiscreet letters after he broke off the affair in 1918 to begin one with an English married woman, Freda Dudley Ward, a textile heiress.

Edward’s womanising and reckless behaviour during the 1920s and 1930s worried Prime Minister Stanley

Baldwin, King George V, and those close to the prince. Alan Lascelles, the prince's private secretary for eight years during this period, believed that "for some hereditary or physiological reason his normal mental development stopped dead when he reached adolescence".[39] George V was disappointed by his son's failure to settle down in life, disgusted by his affairs with married women, and was reluctant to see him inherit the Crown. "After I am dead," George said, "the boy will ruin himself in twelve months."

Throughout the 1920s, Edward, as Prince of Wales, represented his father, King George V, at home and abroad on many occasions. His rank, travels, good looks, and unmarried status gained him much public attention, and at the height of his popularity, he was the most photographed celebrity of his time.[27] He took a particular interest in science and in 1926 was president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science when his alma mater, Oxford University, hosted the society's annual general meeting.[28]

The House of Windsor is the reigning royal house of the United Kingdom and the other Commonwealth realms. The dynasty is originally of German paternal descent and was a branch of the House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, itself derived from the House of Wettin, which succeeded the House of Hanover to the British monarchy following the death of Queen Victoria, wife of Albert, Prince Consort.

The name was changed from Saxe-Coburg and Gotha to the English Windsor (from Windsor Castle[1]) in 1917 because of anti-German sentiment in the British Empire during World War I.

There have been four British monarchs of the house of Windsor to date: three kings and the present queen, Elizabeth II

Book 12 Chapter 33 FROM THE MOUNTAIN PROPHECIES

So, as I have stated, yesterday this same man was again watching the DNA as it was working and also commenting on the new DNA when someone beside him questioned him as to where he had come from, commenting that he had not seen him at all in this kind > of work. And in response to the comments of this second person, this man told him that he had come from the Mars base and that he was one of fifteen commanders, who made their way among the moon bases, the Mars base and the base on Saturn, which is really on one of the moons of Saturn according to what our Father in Heaven told me. This man continued to tell the second person that the "pressure" in the underground base on Mars became very unstable, that the conditions on the Saturn base also became unstable, that they base actually "imploded", and that they were forced to leave these Mars! He went on to say that at first they did not know what was bringing about these instabilities on the Mars base, but that at this time, they believe that Yahweh was behind these instabilities. He also said that the whole solar system is unstable at this time.

Who the first and second person speaking were, appearently possibly King Edward VIII or relatives, someone, possibly Sidney Gottlieb was working with them. Or some Vatican type using Yaweh.

What I can say is that Sue Anne Donegan over years of knowing me, 35, found me emotionally unstable. In my early youth my father though my reactions odd, and, well, had me tested. He and others were impressed my my intelligence though.

In fact what my father told me is when he had me undergo testing as a youth a rattle had dropped near my crib and in some way my reactions had just made no sense to him and that was when he finalized the decision to bring me in for evaluation. He said the testing that resulted would have gone to my head if he had told me what my IQ was but my reactions were very strong though to things.

One of my theoris is that they were watching for these same reactions, developmental psychitrists, in Obama at the various earl developmental marks, and deciding if to go ahead with programs in communist infeted Americas or anywhere else, depeding on how Obama turned out.

https://www.sciencedirect.com/topics/biochemistry-genetics-and-molecular-biology/ke-family 2.2 The Discovery of FOXP2 The starting point for the FOXP2 story was the identification of an unusual family in which multiple close relatives suffered from similar disruptions of speech and language skills. This family, dubbed the KE family, spanned three generations and included 15 affected members as well as a similar number of unaffected relatives. Because the disorder was present in each successive generation and affected approximately half of the family members, it attracted the attention of geneticists who recognized that the pattern was consistent with dominant monogenic inheritance

Possible DuPont involvement

The DuPonts had huge invovlement in the South Carolina area I was from, Bishopville, South Carolina, and the Dupont family is tied to Burgundian royaltiy and Protestentism and allegely tied to MKULTRA. One Dupont had the married name “Crownshield.”

The brothers my mother was adopted into the family to be raised with were C.E., Herbert, and Harold.

As for an age guestimate, my father told me he had to lie a little about his age, to appeart to be older, to enlist in WWII. so he was about 18. The King Edward WII speech was likely King Edward VIII in his middle ages. My father was about ten years older than my mother I think, and I think she was born in 1923. Could be 25 years or 30 years younger than King Edward VIII.

Bizarre mass hysteria has been used, in conjunction with Republican and Democratic sponsored bills like the NDAA and Intel Access to Mass Media bill, as well as bizarre roving criminal harassment under color of law - manufactured social sabotage, is likely designed to humiliate, destroy, and deny reproductive opportunity to me as inter racial and international rape occurs of me under MKULTRA.

Despite the broad daylight attacks the US Media has supported the U.S. Government operations facility mass hysteria based on falsity in suupport of these goals.,

The big wigs need co-operation from the public, including denying me Due Proccess or my side to things, and the CIA and DOD get that from any business, police organizion, or media organization. I call the Front Companies and they are hostile to me and manipulated by those seeking CIA co-operation.

With the Media, and Mass Speech in particular, the only affective guardian of every other right, I remain a trapped prisoner in the U.S. unable to overcome war crimes and hate crimes against me.

The mechanics of this have been a scheme I call Perfect Sigma of evidence manufacture for use in Persecution behind my back rather than prosecution in any court.

Blacks have no way to prevent me from being around women so the goal has been to sabotage me to women and try to convince them not to be around me.

Former British Ambassador to the United States

Joseph Patrick Kennedy was an American businessman, investor and politician known for his high-profile positions in United States government and for the political and other achievements of his children. Kennedy was born to a political family in East Boston, Massachusetts. Wikipedia

Born: September 6, 1888, Boston, MA Died: November 18, 1969, Hyannis Port, Barnstable, MA Height: 6′ 0″ spouse: Rose Kennedy (m. 1911969) Children: Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., Ted Kennedy, John F. Kennedy, MORE

Wikipedia

Kennedy was born to a political family in East Boston, Massachusetts. He made a large fortune as a stock market and commodity investor and later rolled over his profits by investing in real estate and a wide range of business industries across the United States. During World War I, he was an assistant general manager of a Boston area Bethlehem Steel shipyard; through this position, he became acquainted with Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In the 1920s, Kennedy made huge profits by reorganizing and refinancing several Hollywood studios; several acquisitions were ultimately merged into Radio-Keith-Orpheum (RKO) studios.[1] Kennedy increased his fortune with distribution rights for Scotch whiskey. He owned the largest privately owned building in the country, Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

Kennedy was a leading member of the Democratic Party and of the Irish Catholic community. President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed Kennedy to be the first chairman of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), which he led from 1934 to 1935. Kennedy later directed the Maritime Commission. Kennedy served as the United States Ambassador to the United Kingdom from 1938 until late 1940. With the outbreak of World War II in September 1939, Kennedy was pessimistic about Britain's ability to survive Nazi Germany's attacks. During the Battle of Britain in November 1940, Kennedy publicly suggested that "Democracy is finished in England. It may be here [in the United States]".[2] Following this controversy, Kennedy resigned his position.

Kennedy was married to Rose Kennedy. During his later life he was heavily involved in the political careers of his sons. Three of Kennedy's sons attained distinguished political positions: John F. Kennedy (1917-1963) served as a U.S. Senator from Massachusetts and as President of the United States, Robert F. Kennedy (1925-1968) served as Attorney General and as a U.S. Senator from New York, and Ted Kennedy (1932-2009) also served as a U.S. Senator from Massachusetts.

Cape Cod Times. So near me, the Donegans, and the Kennedy's,. and Barack Obama Sr in Cape Cod 1964

My belief the alleged marriage of Barack OBama Sr and Madelyn Payne Dunham, the said parents of Barack Obama, was a sham.

That marriage said to be February 2 1961 was probably really decided on February 20 1961 when a fertilization succeeded using Glorian Donegan DNA and Malcom X DNA in an MKULTRA experiment.

That would place Barack Obama born on November 18 (my birthday) or a birth certificate on November 19 1961, my own birth certificate.

To cover this up, the alleged the claimed bride was already three months pregnant, thus creating a phone August 1961 birth for President Obama, and they moved the claimed place of birth to Polynesian Hawaii for easier CIA use of him later in Indonesia as a CIA planted future leader.

Malcolm visited Qubilah in December 1996 in San Antonio, where she was undergoing treatment. She had remarried, and Malcolm quickly bonded with his stepfather. The marriage soon ended; Malcolm and his mother began to fight, sometimes physically. On February 26, 1997, she called the police saying she wanted him committed to a mental hospital. After a brief stay, Malcolm was released. In April, he called the police and reported that they had been in a fight. His mother said she was going to place him in foster care, but sent Malcolm back to New York on April 26 to live with his grandmother instead.

Abstract

This article examines the rumors about President Barack Obama which accused him of being Muslim, unpatriotic, and a terrorist sympathizer. Despite ample evidence that the rumors were patently false, on Election Day, fully 10% of the voters continued to believe that he was Muslim. In addition, many continued to harbor the pernicious racial, socio-ethnic, and religious biases that shaped the rumors. This article asks, and answers “why” the rumors persisted.

This article provides an answer from a unique communication theory perspective. This article first mines the sources of the Obama rumors, and how those rumors were amplified in the media. Next, using semiotic concepts, the article illuminates how the Obama rumors played upon themes of patriotism, “American-ness,” race, and Islamophobia. This article then takes its most novel approach by setting forth the contours of rumor communication, and the central role quotidian hermeneutics played in embedding the Obama rumors.

Pioneer Fund retrieved from Wikipedia and copied or modified to here

Pioneer Fund is an American non-profit foundation established in 1937 "to advance the scientific study of heredity and human differences". The organization has been described as racist and white supremacist in nature,[1][2][3] and as a hate group by the Southern Poverty Law Center.[4] One of its first projects was to fund the distribution in US churches and schools of a Nazi propaganda film about eugenics.[5]

From 2002 until his death in October 2012, the Pioneer Fund was headed by psychology professor J. Philippe Rushton. Rushton was succeeded by Richard Lynn.[6][7][not to be confused with Mr Flynn]

Two of the most notable studies funded by Pioneer Fund are the Minnesota Study of Twins Reared Apart[8] and the Texas Adoption Project, which studied the similarities and differences of identical twins and other children adopted into non-biological families.

Research backed by the fund on race and intelligence has generated controversy and criticism, such as the 1994 book The Bell Curve, which drew heavily from Pioneer-funded research. The fund also has ties to eugenics,[9] and has both current and former links to white supremacist groups such as American Renaissance and Mankind Quarterly.

The Texas Twin Project Published online by Cambridge University Press: 30 October 2012 retrieved from US National Library of Medicine National Institutes of Health and copied or modified to here

Abstract

Socioeconomic position, racial/ethnic minority status, and other characteristics of the macro-environment may be important moderators of genetic influence on a wide array of psychosocial outcomes. Designed to maximize representation of low socioeconomic status families and racial/ethnic minorities, the Texas Twin Project is an on-going study of school-age twins (preschool through 12th grade) enrolled in public schools in the Austin, Texas and Houston, Texas metropolitan areas. School rosters are used to identify twin families from a target population with sizable populations of African-American (18%), Hispanic / Latino (48%), and non-Hispanic White (27%) children and adolescents, over half of whom meet U.S. guidelines for classification as economically disadvantaged. Initial efforts have focused on a large-scale, family-based survey study involving both parent and child reports of personality, psychopathology, physical health, academic interests, parent-child relationships, and aspects of the home environment. In addition, the Texas Twin Project is the basis for an in-laboratory study of adolescent decision-making, delinquency, and substance use. Future directions include geographic expansion of the sample to the entire state of Texas (with a population of over 25 million people) and genotyping of participating twins.

Supersonic Sukhoi Su-7 From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Role Fighter and fighter-bomber / ground-attack aircraft
National origin Soviet Union
Manufacturer Sukhoi
First flight 7 September 1955

Introduction 1959

The Sukhoi Su-7

(NATO designation name: Fitter-A) is a swept wing, supersonic fighter aircraft developed by the Soviet Union in 1955. Originally, it was designed as a tactical, low-level dogfighter, but was not successful in this role. On the other hand, the soon-introduced Su-7B series became the main Soviet fighter-bomber and ground-attack aircraft of the 1960s. The Su-7 was rugged in its simplicity but its shortcomings included short range and light weapon load [1]

Original Su-7 fighters

On 14 May 1953, after Joseph Stalin's death, the Sukhoi OKB was reopened[2] and by the summer, it began work on a swept-wing front-line[N 1] fighter. The first prototype, designated S-1, was designed to use the new Lyulka AL-7 turbojet engine. It was the first Soviet aircraft to utilize the all-moving tailplane and a translating centerbody, a movable inlet cone in the air intake for managing airflow to the engine at supersonic speeds.[3] The aircraft also had a dramatic wing sweep of 60°, irreversible hydraulically boosted controls, and an ejection seat of OKB's own design.[2]

The S-1 first flew on 7 September 1955 with A. G. Kochetkov at the controls. Fitted with an afterburning version of the AL-7 engine after the first eleven flights, the prototype set a Soviet speed record of 2,170 km/h (1,170 kn, 1,350 mph, Mach 2.04) in April 1956.[3] The prototype was intended to be armed with three 37 mm Nudelman N-37 cannon and 32 spin-stabilized 57 mm (2.25 in) unguided rockets in a ventral tray.[3] The second prototype, S-2, introduced some aerodynamic refinements. Testing was complicated by the unreliable engine, and S-1 was lost in a crash on 23 November 1956, killing its pilot I. N. Sokolov.[2] Only 132 had been produced between 1957 and 1960, and the aircraft entered service as Su-7 in 1959.

Su-7B fighter-bomber

On 31 July 1958, Soviet tactical aviation (Frontovaya Aviatsiya,[N 1] фронтовая авиация) tasked Sukhoi with developing a ground-attack variant of the Su-7, which could replace the scrapped Ilyushin Il-10 pictured below.

> The Ilyushin Il-10 (Cyrillic Илью́шин Ил-10, NATO reporting name: “Beast”[3]) was a Soviet ground attack aircraft developed at the end of World War II by the Ilyushin construction bureau. It was also license-built in Czechoslovakia by Avia as the Avia B-33.

On 31 July 1958, Soviet tactical aviation (Frontovaya Aviatsiya,[N 1] фронтовая авиация) tasked Sukhoi with developing a ground-attack variant of the Su-7, which could replace the scrapped Ilyushin Il-10. The resulting prototype, S-22, incorporated structural refinements for high-speed, low-altitude operations. It first flew in March 1959, and entered service in 1961 as the Su-7B. [3]

https://www.pinterest.com/jarrspide/planes-sukhoi-su-7-fitter/

Operationally, Su-7s were hampered by a high landing speed of 34-360 km/h,[4] as dictated by the thin, highly-swept wing. Combined with poor visibility from the cockpit, and lack of an instrument landing system, it made operations very difficult, especially in poor weather or on poor airfields.[5] In 1961-1962, Sukhoi experimented with blown flaps on S-25 but the benefit was too small to warrant implementation. JATO rockets tested on S-22-4 proved more useful and were incorporated into Su-7BKL. Attempts to improve takeoff and landing performance eventually resulted in the Sukhoi Su-17.

Mutual assured destruction (MAD) is a doctrine of military strategy and national security policy in which a full-scale use of nuclear weapons by two or more opposing sides would cause the complete annihilation of both the attacker and the defender (see pre-emptive nuclear strike and second strike).[1] It is based on the theory of deterrence, which holds that the threat of using strong weapons against the enemy prevents the enemy's use of those same weapons. The strategy is a form of Nash equilibrium in which, once armed, neither side has any incentive to initiate a conflict or to disarm.

The term "mutual assured destruction" was coined by Donald Brennan, a strategist working in Herman Kahn's Hudson Institute in 1962.[2]

Mutal Assured Destruction Early Cold War

Atomic bomb explosions over Hiroshima, Japan, 6 August 1945 (left) and over Nagasaki, Japan, 9 August 1945 (right). In August 1945, the United States became the first nuclear power after the nuclear attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Four years later, on August 29, 1949, the Soviet Union detonated its own nuclear device. At the time, both sides lacked the means to effectively use nuclear devices against each other. However, with the development of aircraft like the American Convair B-36 and the Soviet Tupolev Tu-95, both sides were gaining a greater ability to deliver nuclear weapons into the interior of the opposing country. The official policy of the United States became one of "massive retaliation", as coined by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, which called for massive attack against the Soviet Union if they were to invade Europe, regardless of whether it was a conventional or a nuclear attack.[citation needed]

> By the time of the 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis, both the United States and the Soviet Union had developed the capability of launching a nuclear-tipped missile from a submerged submarine, which completed the “third leg” of the nuclear triad weapons strategy necessary to fully implement the MAD doctrine. Having a three-branched nuclear capability eliminated the possibility that an enemy could destroy all of a nation’s nuclear forces in a first-strike attack; this, in turn, ensured the credible threat of a devastating retaliatory strike against the aggressor, increasing a nation’s nuclear deterrence.[15][16][17]

Since 1958, Boeing has been a key integrator of the Minuteman Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) system, the nation’s land-based nuclear deterrent. Through more than 50 years of continuous enhancements, Boeing’s innovations in design, sustainment, maintenance and modernization have ensured the safety, security, and effectiveness of the Minuteman system.

The Ground Based Strategic Deterrent (GBSD) is the U.S. Air Force’s intended replacement for the Boeing LGM-30G Minuteman III ICBM weapon system, the land-based, silo-launched backbone of the nuclear deterrence triad. GBSD deployment is expected to begin in 2027, and GBSD will remain in service through 2075.

Unmatched ICBM Heritage

As a prime systems integrator and original equipment manufacturer, Boeing created, tested and deployed every Minuteman ICBM for the U.S. Air Force - over 1,800 Minuteman-series missiles. This, while beating accelerated schedules to deliver an ICBM that has far exceeded its expected lifespan of 10 years. Decades later, Boeing remains integral to keeping the Minuteman III going strong, with an average alert rate of 99.7 percent.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/United_States_national_missile_defense History of national missile defense systems When the United States Air Force was split from the United States Army in 1947, the Army retained the role of ground based air defenses that would evolve into National missile defense. The Army retained the lead role in this area until the success of the Aegis system shifted the focus to the United States Navy in the 21st century.[2]

Nike-Zeus

Main article: LIM-49 Nike Zeus

In the 1950s, a series of anti-aircraft missiles were developed as part of Project Nike. The latest in the series, Nike-Zeus, offered extremely long-range interception and very high performance. In the late 1950s, the program investigated the use of Nike-Zeus missiles as interceptors against Soviet ICBMs. A Nike warhead would be detonated at high altitudes (over 100 km, or 60 statute miles) above the polar regions in the near vicinity of an incoming Soviet missile.

The problem of how to quickly identify and track incoming missiles proved intractable, especially in light of easily envisioned countermeasures such as decoys and chaff. At the same time, the need for a high-performance anti-aircraft weapon was also seriously eroded by the obvious evolution of the Soviet nuclear force to one based almost entirely on ICBMs. The Nike-Zeus project was canceled in 1961.

Project Defender

The Nike-Zeus use of nuclear warheads was necessary given the available missile technology. However, it had significant technical limitations such as blinding defensive radars to subsequent missiles. Also, exploding nuclear warheads over friendly territory (al in space) was not ideal. In the 1960s Project Defender and the Ballistic Missile Boost Intercept (BAMBI) concept replaced land-launched Nike missiles with missiles to be launched from satellite platforms orbiting directly above the USSR. Instead of nuclear warheads, the BAMBI missiles would deploy huge wire meshes designed to disable Soviet ICBMs in their early launch phase (the "boost phase"). No solution to the problem of how to protect the proposed satellite platforms against attack was found, however, and the program was canceled in 1968.

Civil Rights Context

In the early 1960s, the fundamental prize sought by the Civil Rights Movement was something that African Americans had never known: full legal equality.

When John F. Kennedy became president in 1961, African Americans throughout much of the South were denied the right to vote, barred from public facilities, subjected to insults and violence, and could not expect justice from the courts. In the North, black Americans also faced discrimination in housing, employment, education, and many other areas. But the civil rights movement had made important progress, and change was on the way.

Progress and Protests: 1954-1960

In 1954, the Supreme Court ruled unanimously in Brown v. Board of Education that racial segregation in public schools was unconstitutional. Many southern political leaders claimed the desegregation decision violated the rights of states to manage their systems of public education, and they responded with defiance, legal challenges, delays, or token compliance. As a result, school desegregation proceeded very slowly. By the end of the 1950s, fewer than 10 percent of black children in the South were attending integrated schools.

The pace of civil rights protests rose sharply in response to the Supreme Court's decision. Martin Luther King Jr. led a boycott that ended segregated busing in Montgomery, Alabama. In 1957, National Guard troops under orders from President Dwight D. Eisenhower enforced the desegregation of Little Rock Central High School in Arkansas. But, even after Little Rock, school integration was painfully slow, and segregation in general remained largely untouched.

In February 1960, four black college students sat down at a Woolworth's lunch counter in Greensboro, North Carolina, and asked to be served. They were refused service, and they refused to leave their seats. Within days, more than 50 students had volunteered to continue the sit-in, and within weeks the movement had spread to other college campuses. Sit-ins and other protests swept across the South in early 1960, touching more than 65 cities in 12 states. Roughly 50,000 young people joined the protests that year.

ROBERT KENNEDY VISITED PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY SCHOOLS, MAY 11, 1964

In 1954 when the Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, Kansas decision declared that racially separate schools were inherently unequal and therefore a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment's equal protection clause, Virginia's white political leaders at the state and local levels chose to avoid desegregation at all costs. The Commonwealth of Virginia led a "massive resistance" movement, threatening to close public schools rather than desegregate. In 1959, the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors closed its public schools and later provided tax money to support private, white-only schools.

President John F. Kennedy spoke about Prince Edward County in a civil rights address to Congress in February 1963. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy urged action in Prince Edward County in a speech in Kentucky on March 19, 1963. Kennedy's administration joined state and private organizers in the Prince Edward County Free School Association, which rented three of the closed public schools for African American students to attend during the 1963-1964 school year.

On May 11, 1964, Robert F. Kennedy visited Prince Edward County to observe the Free Schools. Shortly after, the Supreme Court ordered the reopening of Prince Edward County schools in Griffin v. Board of Education of Prince Edward County. In September 1964, about 1,500 mostly African American students, returned to public school in Prince Edward County.

The premise of this book is the OSS moved Arnold Schwarzenegger and his brother, Maria Kutschera with three children from the Windsors out of wedlock getting her booted out the convent, 7 step children with Captain Von Trapp,, and the Maria August Kutschera 10 landed in Raleigh North Carolina.

I have long wondered the exact or real story my father first came into contact with Glorian Donegan and I now suspect it was through John Hurt, a WWII Army Air Corops intelligence officer.

James Paul Donegan from Boston Massachusetts grew up poor and on the “wrong side of the tracks” with his mother and father in both brutal poverty and brutal discrimination as his parents tried to get jobs as Irish immigrants.

He joined the Arm Air Corps as soon as he could hoping to fly and got his dream right away flying the P-51 as a recon pilot.

My guess is during Army Air Corps Recon work working with bombers like the B-17 and B-29 he was working with John Hurt, John Hurt who was workign with Captain Von Trapp and the Kutscheras from Gernmany in 1926 and in Raleigh Greensboro North Carolina were Glorian and Harld Gainey were too, 2 of the 3 unlisted Maria Augusta Kutschera children.

It is John HUrt Lee Harvey Oswald was trying to call before he was shot and killed in custody in Dallas Texas and I think it was over the sleeper agent plan using Glorian Donegna DNA and how this tied to the program JFK was trying to stop.

Among the three less known were Harold Gainey and Glorian Gainey moved into the home of Festus Gainey in North Carolina, poor farmers. Marilyn Monroe was an orphan taken by the Joseph Kennedy Sr and kept in a shelter across from RKO in Los Angeles.

Like with Albert Einstein and Kennedy family members FOXP2 Syndrome (Minimal Brain Dysfunction) was under speech and language analysis and present in Albert Prince of York later King George VI and can be charismatic with a flighty ADHD lightness to thins which can include personal touches and sentiments.

From there the story moves to Los Angeles and Manhattan Project Los Alamos atomic DNA testing is underway with atomic bombing follow ups, above ground test exposure and follow ups.

In Los Angeles November 18 I am born as is Barrack Obama Jr. as this gene is tested in twins studies by royal families including in Australia and England and Saudi Arabia and the USA with the Bush family, Rockefeller, and others.

It then moves to Seattle and the 21st Century Expo and Windsors and Kennedy's there. Clark Gable and Marilyn Monroe Further Reading know of the program and have some films out telling similar stories that are fictionalizations based on true but undisclosed events, as also Jet Pilot is about James and Glorian Donegan and Love Story about JFK and Jackie Kennedy.

JFK wants out and Malcom X was used as the father under an FBI CIA Landsdale program (J. Edgar Hoover, James Angleton, Donald Barr, George H.W. Bush Dick Cheney Ted Cruz sr. program and includes some births under the program as sleeper agents.

To clear US Oil Business mafia involvement (after JFK objected) JFK is hit and it looks like Lee Harvey Oswald who the CIA and FBI put there to take the blame, but it really was the oil business and LBJ.

The plot comes full course back to Texas and George H.W. Bush and LBJ come from, and the DOD CIA influence on the state, just as Rockefeller Standard Oil controls Little Rock Arkansas just miles from WACO Texas.

Peire Dupont is another name in Free Masonry and is tied to DuPont involvement in Columbia New York City's Columbia University atomic energy development science.

Harold Gainey would work for DuPont chemical in South Carolina and other contractors in the space race included Boeing a part sponsor of the 21st Century Expo.

To protect the identity of the sleeper agents coming from various family lines including the Donegans (Glorian and James and Edward, me) numerous intelligence, assassinations, and black budget operations are being carried out.

Atlanta Georgia and Ladies Gardening Society was an outreach program for black mothers who wished to test DNA influence by experimental DNA contrived families.

Like with Dorothy Kilgallen Further Reading and Marilyn Monroe Further Reading Lee Harvey Oswald knew of the situation and tried to call on e of the WWII military intelligence figures from USA in Germany, John Hurt to explain what was going on really.

> Oswald and his connection to John Hurt in Raleigh, NC which has famously come to be known as “The Raleigh Call“.

In the 1920 Census, age 10, he is living with his family in Citronelle, Mobile, Alabama - his father, James Abner Hurt; mother, Ruby Gail Brower Hurt; and 2 sisters, Diantha and Ruby. After he was grown, his parents later settled near Delphi Louisiana where they’re buried.

Hurt enlisted in the Army on Nov. 5, 1929 and was released on Dec. 29, 1945. During the late ’20s - early ’30s, he moved to Virginia and attended the University of Virginia where he obtained a Law degree in 1933 - though it seems he didn’t work as a lawyer but mostly as an Insurance adjustor or inspector.

He married Billie M. Greer, from Raleigh, in 1939 and they lived in Raleigh until they died.

His residence in 1940, when he was drafted into the Army Air Corp for WWII, was Roanoke Island, VA, and according to his records and statements, he was an agent in an Army Counterintelligence Unit in Europe and Japan for 3 years during this time.

This brings us up to an intriguing and enigmatic story regarding Lee Harvey Oswald and his connection to John Hurt in Raleigh, NC which has famously come to be known as “The Raleigh Call”.

Alveeta Cave Treon (born Amma Alveeta Tyler; findagrave memorial#: 100872109) worked as a switchboard operator at the Dallas Police Dept in 1963 and was on duty Saturday night 11.23.63 with one coworker, switchboard operator, Louise Swinney (findagrave memorial#: 118682790), when Lee Harvey Oswald attempted to place a phone call to one, John Hurt, in Raleigh, NC at 919-824-7430. (The phone number was later shown to, in fact, be that of John David Hurt and his wife Billie Greer Hurt of Raleigh, NC).

The call was being monitored by 2 FBI or Secret Service agents in an adjoining “listening room”. Ms. Swinney nervously took charge when Lee Harvey Oswald attempted to make a collect call to John Hurt in Raleigh. She plugged in the call but then blocked the microphone while she called the listening room to let the agents know Oswald was attempting to call out.

The next thing she did after speaking with the agents shocked Ms. Treon - she disconnected the call then told Oswald there was “no answer”. Alveeta later testified to the House Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) that Ms. Sweeney was behaving very anxiously and she felt, from her behavior, that the agents had pressured her to abort the call and tell Oswald there was no answer.

Immediately after she disconnected the call the agents came out of the listening room, thanked them and left. During the call, Ms. Treon could see Ms. Swinney making out a “call slip” - as was routine - with all the pertinent information about the call on it: caller, callee, phone number, town, time etc … but after Ms. Swinney went off duty and left the room, Ms. Treon could not find the slip - and in fact it has never been found.

During the call, even though Ms. Treon only listened in and didn’t speak to Oswald, she made out a duplicate call slip as a souvenir for her daughter who had requested she do so if Oswald tried to call out. Only later did she come to realize the significance of this call. She kept the slip and her story of the strange call private until moving to Missouri in 1965, where she mentioned it to a friend one day. He notified the Chief of Police, who was very interested in the case. Then national reporters found out and did investigative journalism into the call.

Soon it became known as the “Raleigh Call” and was extensively researched by JFK researchers, most prominently by Prof. Dr. Grover B. Proctor, Jr., a historian, author and former university Dean (see his original research and videos on the Raleigh Call on his website: http://groverproctor.us/jfk/index.html), and later by the HSCA to whom both Ms.Treon and Ms. Swinney testified about the call in 1978.

JFK researchers and former CIA agent Vincent Marchetti believe Oswald was desperately trying to contact his intelligence “cut-out” (Hurt) who in turn would contact his handler to vouch for him as an intelligence agent or asset and/or bail him out. Oswald had become increasingly vocal about his arrest and innocence because, up to that point, no one had helped him and he was being denied legal representation by the Dallas Police Dept. He attempted to place the call late Saturday night 11/23/63, the day after he was charged with murdering President Kennedy and Officer Tippit and only about 12 hours before he himself was murdered by Jack Ruby.

called and did not believe anyone from our Committee had ever called him.

When asked about his background, Hurt stated that he was in the Army and that he served in the Army Counterintelligence Corps (C.I.C.) in Europe and Japan; his dates of service were approximately 1942-1946. Hurt stated that he enlisted in the service. When asked about his Intelligence work, he said the work in Europe involved interviewing nationals of European countries to determine if they had any connection with the German Secret Police pursuant to their requests to come to the United States. He said the people were German, Norwegian and Swedish primarily. He stated that he was stationed in Japan on Honshu Island near a place called "Karosawa" (phonetic). He said the only work of any significance or particular interest he did there was to stumble upon a bullion of silver which the Germans were using to trade with the Japanese.

Hurt stated that his commanding officer in the C.I.C. was

A strange twist in the “Missing FBI Agent” story: “Stephen Ivens … warned that he and a former FBI agent named Donald Sachtleben had uncovered evidence of an impending terror attack on US soil stating that those behind the attack were ‘all insane.’”

FBI Agent Fleeing Massive Manhunt Warns "They're All Insane" retrieved from EU Times and copied or modified to here

A bizarre Foreign Ministry report circulating in the Kremlin today states that this Friday past (11 May) Russian Envoy Vladimir Vinokurov, the Consulate General of San Francisco, was approached near his hotel room during a visit to Los Angles by an agent of the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) identifying himself as Stephen Ivens [photo top right] who warned that he and a former FBI agent named Donald Sachtleben had uncovered evidence of an impending terror attack on US soil stating that those behind the attack were "all insane."

Before Ivens was able to finish his "message," this report says, the three American Diplomatic Security (DS) agents, who trail all Russian diplomats in the US, began to “surge” towards Ivens causing him to flee.

According to US news sources, Special Agent Ivens, after leaving downtown Los Angeles, returned to his home in Burbank whereupon he then fled into the rugged Verdugo Mountains after which a massive manhunt for him ensued involving 100 FBI agents, 40 sheriff’s department rescuers and a dozen local police officers.

FBI officials stated to the local media that Ivens was “distraught” and “might be suicidal” adding that they believed he had in his possession his service weapon. At no time, however, did anyone ever state as to why Ivens would be in such a state.

According to other US news sources, Special Agent Ivens graduated from Braintree High School in Massachusetts 18 years ago and was selected by his fellow students as “shyest” in his class. He was further described by FBI colleagues as well liked, a devoted agent with no history of disciplinary action on the job, and according to FBI spokeswoman Laura Eimiller “Married with a one-year-old child, he has been working for the FBI for the past three years in the national security area. Prior to that, he worked as a Los Angeles police officer for eight years.”

Late yesterday, after the massive manhunt failed to find any trace of Ivens, his wife Thea Ivens issued an urgent public appeal stating: “Steve, if you are out there listening right now, your wife wants to let you know, ‘Babe, we are in this together for better or for worse. I love you, no matter what happens.’ Your child wants you to know, ‘Daddy’s work? Daddy home?’”

Even more bizarre about this case, this report continues, is that the retired FBI agent named Donald Sachtleben mentioned by Ivens, who also knew about this impending “plot,” was arrested within hours of Ivens disappearing and charged with trading child pornography.

Most important to note about Sachtleben was, aside from his being an over 25-year veteran of the FBI, he was a special agent bomb technician before retiring in 2008 who specialized in counterterrorism and bombing investigations and whose most important case was the 11 September 2001 attacks on New York City.

According to US news reports about Sachtleben’s arrest, this most knowledgeable of FBI agents openly traded child porn using the e-mail address ‘pedodave69©yahoo.com’ in an act so stupid for one of the United States most highly trained intelligence agents it defies belief.

The practice of US intelligence services charging their most feared dissidents with child pornography and/or sex charges is well known, with the most celebrated case being against the former UN weapons inspector William Scott Ritter, Jr. who warned about the lies being told to the American people in the run-up to the Iraq War only to find himself sent to prison on trumped up charges involving a minor girl.

To exactly what kind of false flag plot Agents Ivens and Sachtleben had uncovered this report doesn’t say, other than to note that the credibility of this information should not be dismissed due to how fast and hard US intelligence agencies are acting to cover their tracks should any additional information come forth.

Grimly to be noted is the use of false flag operations by the United States and their political elite classes are well known and well documented, the most famous of them being Operation Northwoods.

Operation Northwoods was a series of false-flag proposals that originated in 1962 within the United States government, and which the Kennedy administration rejected. The proposals called for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), or other operatives, to commit acts of terrorism in U.S. cities and elsewhere. These acts of terrorism were to be blamed on Cuba in order to create public support for a war against that nation, which had recently become communist under Fidel Castro. One part of Operation Northwoods was to "develop a Communist Cuban terror campaign in the Miami area, in other Florida cities and even in Washington."

Operation Northwoods proposals included hijackings and bombings followed by the introduction of phony evidence that would implicate the Cuban government. It stated: "The desired resultant from the execution of this plan would be to place the United States in the apparent position of suffering defensible grievances from a rash and irresponsible government of Cuba and to develop an international image of a Cuban threat to peace in the Western Hemisphere."

Several other proposals were included within Operation Northwoods, including real or simulated actions against various U.S. military and civilian targets. The plan was drafted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, signed by Chairman Lyman Lemnitzer and sent to the Secretary of Defense. Although part of the U.S. government's Cuban Project anti-communist initiative, Operation Northwoods was never officially accepted; it was authored by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but then rejected by President John F. Kennedy.

As the events of Oklahoma City and 9/11 prove, however, the appetite for false flag operations against the American people by their own government is far from sated, with the next one, undoubtedly, being the worst of them all.

Former Federal Contractor Petitions to Plead Guilty to Unlawfullly Disclosing National Defense Information and Distributing Child Pornography Donald John Sachtleben, a former FBI bomb technician who later worked as a government contractor for the agency, has filed a petition to plead guilty to newly filed charges of unlawfully disclosing national defense information relating to a disrupted terrorist plot. Sachtleben previously had filed a petition to plead guilty to charges of possessing and distributing child pornography resulting from a separate investigation.

Sachtleben, 55, of Carmel, Ind., has signed plea agreements in both cases. The documents were filed today in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Indiana. Charges in the national security case were filed today, and charges in the child pornography case were filed in May 2012.

The developments were announced by Deputy Attorney General James M. Cole; Ronald C. Machen Jr., U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia Joseph H. Hogsett, U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Indiana, and Valerie Parlave, Assistant Director in Charge of the FBI's Washington Field Office.

The plea agreements signed by the parties would resolve both cases in court proceedings in Indiana. The agreements, which are contingent upon the Court's approval, call for Sachtleben to plead guilty to the two national security charges as well as the two child pornography offenses. The plea agreements call for Sachtleben to be sentenced to a total of 140 months of incarceration, including a 43-month prison term for the national security offenses and a consecutive 97-month term for the child pornography charges.

FBI Agent Missing in California a 1994 Braintree High Graduate retrieved from Patch.com and copied or modified to here Stephen Ivens left his home in Burbank, California on foot last week, was reported missing and police and FBI continue to search for him on Monday.

More than 100 public safety personnel are searching for a possibly suicidal FBI agent in the mountains of Burbank, Califorinia who graduated from 18 years ago, selected by fellow students as “shyest” in his class.

Los Angeles-based Special Agent Stephen Ivens left his Burbank home on foot last Thursday, reportedly despondent and suicidal, and police and FBI agents have been searching for him in the Verdugo Mountains, according to the Los Angeles Times.

Ivens attended Braintree High and graduated in 1994, according to the school’s registrar and the yearbook. He is listed in the yearbook as belonging to the 1993 football team and is pictured with another student in the superlative section under the title “Shyest.” In that

The Associated Press reports that Ivens, 35, "was distraught and authorities fear he may have harmed himself," though the report notes that officials would not provide any further details.

A search of Ivens' home did not turn up his handgun, according to the AP, but there is no indication of foul play and he does not appear to be a threat to others.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, a Texas native, tells reporters in Dallas that President Kennedy may visit Texas sometime that summer. Johnson hopes that Kennedy's schedule would allow him to have a breakfast in Fort Worth, a luncheon in Dallas, an afternoon tea in San Antonio and dinner in Houston

June 5, 1963

President Kennedy, Vice President Johnson, and Governor Connally are together in a meeting in El Paso when they agree to a second presidential visit to Texas later that year.[17] (In 1978 Connally testified to the House Select Committee on Assassinations that in the spring of 1962 "Vice President Johnson told me then that President Kennedy wanted to come to Texas, he wanted to come to Texas to raise some money, have some fund-raising affairs over the State."

June 6, 1963

Rep. Albert Thomas announces that he is reconsidering his decision to retire and may run again for reelection based on the advice of Vice President Johnson.

Kennedy decides to embark on the trip with three basic goals in mind: to raise more Democratic Party presidential campaign fund contributions, to begin his quest for reelection in November 1964[20] and, because the Kennedy-Johnson ticket had barely won Texas in 1960 (and had even lost in Dallas), to mend political fences among several leading Texas Democratic party members who appear to be fighting politically against themselves.

The invitation is received at the White House on September 19, 1963 Lee Oswald is issued a 15-day Mexican tourist card using the name “LEE, Harvey Oswald”

September 20, 1963:

President Kennedy addresses the United Nations General Assembly and offers the Soviet Union a joint expedition to the Moon.[25][26] The proposal is controversial with many members of Congress and raises fresh questions about how much money should be appropriated to the NASA budget.

September 21, 1963:

Rep. Thomas, a member of the powerful House Appropriations Committee and chairman of its Subcommittee of Independent Offices that had been reviewing the Kennedy Administration’s record $5.3 billion 1964 NASA budget proposal,[28] sends a letter to the president asking for clarification of his U.N. speech regarding a joint Soviet-US moon landing.[29] He wonders whether this proposal indicates a weakening of America’s effort in the space program. Thomas had also played an instrumental role in the location of the Manned Spacecraft Center, now known as the Johnson Space Center in his home district of Houston.

September 23, 1963:

President Kennedy responds to Thomas’ letter requesting clarification of the goals of the U.S. space program by writing him a letter explaining his position.

Ruth Paine drives Marina Oswald from New Orleans back to her home in Irving, Texas.[32] Late that night Lee Oswald also leaves New Orleans[33] to travel to Mexico City in the hopes of somehow gaining entrance to Cuba,[34] to where travel has been banned by the United States.

At a press conference in Austin, Governor Connally announces that he will visit Washington, D.C. from October 2-4, 1963 and that he hopes to see President Kennedy, but has no plans to invite him to visit Texas although he would be delighted if he were to come.

The White House accepts the invitation to the Albert Thomas dinner in Houston and turns it into a two-day political trip encompassing all the major cities of Texas.[37] Although Kennedy had wanted to visit Texas at some point, he had not planned to go at this particular time.

September 25, 1963:

Late in the evening, White House sources, in an exclusive to the Dallas Morning News, announce that the president will visit Texas November 21-22, 1963 and that the tour will include Dallas.

September 27, 1963:

Lee Oswald arrives in Mexico City and registers at the Hotel del Comercio.[40] He visits the Cuban consulate three times in an attempt to secure a visa to Cuba, as well as the Soviet embassy to obtain a visa, but is denied in both instances.

Oswald applies for a job at Padgett Printing but is not hired because of a poor recommendation given by Robert Stovall, president of Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall.

Oswald returns to stay at the Paines' residence in Irving for the weekend.

October 7, 1963:

Guiding the bill through the House was subcommittee chairman Albert Thomas. The bill prohibits NASA from spending any of its budget on a joint Soviet Moon landing.

October 11, 1963:

Kenneth O'Donnell sends a reply to Jack Valenti formally accepting his invitation for the president to speak at the dinner honoring Rep. Thomas.

October 14, 1963:

Fred Korth resigns his position as Secretary of the Navy. He had been recommended by Johnson for the post when Connally had abruptly resigned in December 1961 to run for governor of Texas.[51] The awarding of the TFX Program contract to Fort Worth-based General Dynamics Corp. had ignited a controversy when it was learned that Korth, as president of Continental National Bank, had once approved a line of credit for General Dynamics.[52] In 1948, Korth, as a private lawyer, had represented Edwin Ekdahl in his divorce proceedings against Marguerite Oswald.

October 15, 1963:

Ruth Paine calls the Texas School Book Depository and arranges for a job interview for Lee Oswald with building superintendent Roy Truly. Truly interviews Oswald later that day and hires him as a temporary employee. Oswald starts work the following day.[54]

October 20, 1963:

Kenneth O'Donnell, special assistant and Appointments Secretary to President Kennedy, calls Jerry Bruno the advance man for the Kennedy trips, and asks him to come to the White House to discuss the planning of the trip to Texas.

October 21, 1963:

Bruno meets with O'Donnell and is told to contact Walter Jenkins, one of Vice President Lyndon Johnson's top administrative assistants, to get his input for the trip.

October 24, 1963:

Bruno meets with Jenkins, who tells Bruno the stops that Governor Connally has suggested. The first stop would be to fly to San Antonio on November 21 and drive in a motorcade to Brooks Air Force Base, then fly to Houston and drive in a motorcade to the Rice Hotel, where the Albert Thomas dinner was originally scheduled to take place, and stay overnight at the hotel. Then on the morning of November 22, the president would fly to Fort Worth to receive an honorary degree at Texas Christian University (TCU) at 9:30 a.m. and then from Fort Worth ride in a motorcade for the short distance to Dallas,[56] where he would attend a luncheon at the annual meeting of the Dallas Citizens Council at the Statler Hilton Hotel.[57] Finally, the president would attend a fundraising dinner in Austin before returning to Washington. Jenkins suggests that Bruno go to Texas, meet with Governor Connally and evaluate the sites himself, and to also meet with Democratic Texas senator Ralph Yarborough, a bitter political enemy of Connally and Johnson, to avoid any trouble between the two parties on the trip.

United States ambassador to the United Nations Adlai Stevenson II gives a contentious speech on United Nations Day at the Dallas Memorial Auditorium, where he is booed and heckled. After the speech, he is hit on the head with a picket sign and spit upon.

October 28, 1963:

Bruno flies to Austin to begin his evaluation of the stops being considered for the Kennedy visit on November 21-22.

October 29, 1963:

Bruno meets with Henry Brown, president of the Texas AFL-CIO and a friend of Senator Yarborough, to obtain his input from labor leaders. He then has lunch with Governor Connally to review his itinerary, which includes an honorary degree from Texas Christian University; this event, because Kennedy is Catholic, is one that Bruno considers among the highlights of the trip.[62] Connally informs Bruno that he has assigned different members of his staff to each stop on the itinerary and that they would be in charge of the visit.[63] Bruno tells Connally that he welcomes his input and suggestions, but that the final decisions on the itinerary will be made by the White House.

Governor Connally announces that a "Texas welcome dinner" for Kennedy will be held in Austin on November 22. The governor says that the dinner will be a $100-per-plate event held at 7:30 p.m. at the Austin Municipal Auditorium as a climax to the president's Texas trip. It is sponsored by the state Democratic executive committee. No other plans have been completed except those for the November 21 Albert Thomas appreciation dinner in Houston.

October 30, 1963:

Bruno and Johnson aide Clifton Carter visit the Texas cities that the president will visit.[67] The San Antonio and Houston sites are checked and confirmed as acceptable, but when visiting Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Bruno is informed by school officials that TCU has no intention of conferring an honorary degree on the president and that they have only approved the use of their campus as the location for a speech. Bruno informs Connally of this development, and Connally says he will meet with the university's Board of Regents the next night.

Bruno then travels to Dallas to evaluate the ballroom at the Statler Hilton Hotel where the luncheon is planned to take place on November 22. He is met there by J. Erik Jonsson, chairman of the Dallas Citizens Council (and an owner of Texas Instruments), and Robert B. Cullum, chairman of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce and owner of the Tom Thumb Food Stores. Cullum informs Bruno that the ballroom at the Statler Hilton is now unavailable because organizers of a bottlers' convention had reserved it and would not surrender it.[68] Jonsson and Cullum suggest the Dallas Trade Mart, but after visiting the site, Bruno dislikes the many catwalks that would be over the president, which, in light of the Stevenson incident that had just occurred a few days earlier, could present a security problem. He asks to be shown other available sites in Dallas.

October 31, 1963:

Bruno visits two other potential luncheon sites, the Dallas Memorial Auditorium, which he deems too large, and the Graduate Research Center of the Southwest, which he believes would be too far out of town and thus impractical. He is also informed that Governor Connally is unhappy with the decision not to use the Trade Mart for the luncheon because of the catwalk issue. Bruno agrees to visit the Trade Mart again but still has misgivings. Connally telephones that he has met with the TCU Board of Regents and that they will not confer an honorary degree on the president.[70] Bruno is now faced with two holes in the schedule, Fort Worth and Dallas. One last place is suggested as a luncheon possibility, the Women's Building (now known as the Women's Museum) at the fairgrounds at Fair Park.

President Kennedy is asked at a press conference about rumors that Johnson will be dumped in 1964 as his running mate,[72][73] which Kennedy denies.

November 1, 1963:

Bruno returns to Washington, D.C. with the Dallas luncheon site location still undecided. The Fort Worth visit is eventually resolved when the city's chamber of commerce agrees to sponsor a breakfast for the president. Because of this, the president's overnight stay is changed from Houston to Fort Worth so that he will have time to attend the breakfast.

November 2, 1963:

The arrest and assassination of Ngô Đình Diệm, the president of South Vietnam, marks the culmination of a successful CIA-backed coup d'état led by General Dương Văn Minh. Diệm and his adviser, younger brother Ngô Đình Nhu, are arrested after the Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) is successful in a bloody overnight siege on Gia Long Palace in Saigon. Kennedy cancels his planned visit to Chicago to attend the Army-Air Force football game so that he may instead keep in close touch with developments in South Vietnam.

November 3, 1963:

Vice President Johnson leaves Washington, D.C. for a one-week visit of the Benelux countries.

November 4, 1963:

Gerald Behn, the Secret Service Special Agent in Charge (SAIC) for the White House detail,[79] telephones Forrest Sorrels, Secret Service SAIC of the Dallas district. He instructs Sorrels to survey the buildings that the president is planning to visit during the Dallas leg of the trip. The two leading contenders to host the Dallas luncheon are the Trade Mart (strongly favored by Governor Connally) and the Women's Building at the state fairgrounds, which Bruno favors and Connally bitterly opposes.[80] Later that day, Sorrels reports back to Behn that the Women's Building appears to be preferable from a security standpoint, but that it is not a nice place to take the president. He reports that the Trade Mart has about 60 entrances as well as six catwalks over the area where the luncheon would be held, which could pose a problem in adequately staffing the site with security personnel.[81]

White House Secret Service agent Winston Lawson is informed that he has been assigned to the Dallas visit.

November 5, 1963:

Bruno visits the White House and has separate meetings with Kenneth O'Donnell, Gerald Behn and Walter Jenkins. It is decided that the Trade Mart poses too great a security risk, and the Women's Building is chosen as the Dallas luncheon site.

November 6, 1963:

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announces that First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy will accompany the president on his Texas trip.

November 7, 1963:

The Albert Thomas appreciation dinner to be held on November 21 sells out a second time. Organizers of the dinner had already moved the venue from the Rice Hotel, where the event had sold out, to the larger Sam Houston Coliseum because of increased demand for tickets once it became known that Kennedy would attend. After it was announced that the First Lady would also attend, tickets to the dinner at the larger venue sold out as well.

Bruno types out a proposed schedule for the Texas trip, which includes the Women's Building as the site for the Dallas luncheon.

: Bobby Baker is featured on the cover of Life magazine. The article features a full-page picture of Vice President Johnson with his arm around Baker and reveals that Baker was known around the Senate as "Lyndon's boy." Robert Gene Baker (November 12, 1928 - November 12, 2017) In 1942, Baker became a page for Senator Burnet Maybank, [1] and quickly became friends with several important Democrats. When Lyndon Johnson was elected to the Senate in 1948, John Connally took Baker in to introduce him to Senator-elect Johnson.

Bobby Baker had been an aid to Burnet Rhett Maybank (March 7, 1899 - September 1, 1954) was a US senator, the 99th governor of South Carolina, and mayor of Charleston, South Carolina who died prematurely of a heart attack in 1954.

As Johnson is visiting the Benelux countries, Life's Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter William G. Lambert receives approval to significantly expand his nine-member team investigating Baker and to send them to Texas to focus on Johnson's financial affairs. Teams of reporters began working in Johnson City, Austin and the Texas Hill Country searching through deeds and other records of recent land sales, as well as the real-estate and banking transactions of the Johnson family's L.B.J. Company. Reporters also investigate the advertising sales and other activities of KTBC-TV, the cornerstone of Johnson's extensive radio and television interests. The first of what is supposed to be a series of articles laying out some of the new findings is soon written by Keith Wheeler for future publication.

It is announced that First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy will begin resuming her official White House duties on November 20th, more than a month earlier than expected. She had previously announced the cancellation of all her events for the rest of the year following the premature birth and death of her third child, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, the past August.

November 9, 1963:

Oswald is driven by Ruth Paine to take his driver's license permit test, but because there is a special election that day, the office is closed.[93][94]

Around 2 p.m., Oswald test-drives a new red Mercury Comet Caliente two-door hardtop at the Downtown Lincoln Mercury dealership at 118 East Commerce in Dallas. He tells salesman Albert Bogard that he will be back to buy it in two or three weeks when he will have the $300 down payment.

It is announced that hearings by the Senate Investigations subcommittee on the Tactical Fighter Experimental (TFX) Program will resume on November 19.

Vice President Johnson winds up his tour of the Benelux countries and returns to Washington, D.C.[98]

November 11, 1963:

Johnson visits Welch, West Virginia for a Veterans Day celebration.[99]

November 12, 1963:

Billie Sol Estes, an alleged former business partner of Johnson, appears before the Senate Investigations subcommittee for questioning. He pleads the Fifth Amendment to all questions posed.

Estes of the USDA also alleged in the 1980s that he had inside knowledge that Johnson was involved in the assassination of Kennedy.[7][8] In 1984, he provided a voluntary statement to a grand jury in Texas alleging that the homicide of a key investigator in the Department of Agriculture case was perpetrated by Malcolm Wallace, an aide to Johnson, upon orders from the then-Vice President.[1] Estes claimed that Johnson was involved in the fraud schemes and had the official killed to prevent him from exposing Johnson's role.[9] Two former Johnson associates responded to the allegations stating Estes was a "pathological liar".[10] When the Department of Justice asked for more information, Estes responded that he would provide information on eight other murders ordered by Johnson, including the assassination of Kennedy, in exchange for immunity from prosecution and a pardon. According to Estes, Johnson set up the assassination to become president.[1]

As for Baker, South Carolina native aid to Johnson who is under investigation, Attorney General Robert Kennedy reportedly telephones Bobby Baker to assure him that it was not he who was behind the investigation that led to Baker's resignation as secretary to the Senate Majority Leader. Rumors had been swirling that the attorney general was making Baker the scapegoat of a scandal in an attempt to embarrass Johnson because Kennedy wanted to force Johnson off the ticket in 1964.

A special flight carrying all the advance groups that are to work on the preparation for the trip to Houston, San Antonio, Austin, Fort Worth and Dallas departs Andrews Air Force Base at 8:20 a.m.

November 13, 1963:

Jack Puterbaugh and White House Secret Service agent Winston Lawson, along with Dallas Secret Service agents Forrest Sorrels and Robert Steuart, visit the office of Robert B. Cullum, president of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, to discuss plans for the Kennedy visit. They reexamine the Trade Mart and the Women's Building and meet with representatives of the Trade Mart.[105]

November 14, 1963:

Johnson arrives in Los Angeles for a whirlwind visit. He addresses a luncheon meeting of delegates to the Regional Conference on Equal Employment Opportunities. He then flies by helicopter to Huntington Beach for the dedication of a new Douglas Aircraft Company missile and space facility before flying to Beverly Hills for the Democratic Party's Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. After the dinner, Johnson flies to Texas.[106][107]

Acquiescing to the wishes of Governor Connally, Kenneth O'Donnell reverses his prior decision to hold the Dallas luncheon at the Women's Building and changes the location to the Dallas Trade Mart. According to both O'Donnell and Bruno, this change in the luncheon site, although seemingly insignificant at the time, dramatically alters the motorcade route taken through Dallas.

Lee Oswald appears at the Allright Parking Garage at 1208 Commerce Street to inquire about job openings.

November 15, 1963:

President Kennedy delivers a speech in New York City at the AFL-CIO convention, and then flies to West Palm Beach, Florida to spend his last weekend.[112]

The White House announces that the Dallas Trade Mart will be the site of President Kennedy's luncheon address and there will be a motorcade through downtown Dallas. Until that point, there had been speculation in the news media that Kennedy's tight schedule in Texas would not allow enough time for a motorcade through Dallas.

The Navy's first submarine-launched ballistic missile, the Polaris upped the Cold War ante and played a vital strategic role

Kennedy stays in Palm Beach, Florida, spending much of the day preparing for the five speeches that he will deliver the next day in Tampa and Miami.

November 18, 1963:

Kennedy delivers three speeches in Tampa with a motorcade through the city, then flies to Miami and gives two more speeches, including a hemisphere policy talk at the Miami Beach convention of the Inter-American Press Association, where he urges the Cuban people to overthrow the Castro regime.[117] He flies back to Washington, D.C. late that evening. On the return flight, Kennedy confides to his good friend Senator George Smathers of Florida that Vice President Johnson wants First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy to ride in the car with him during the upcoming tour of Texas.[118]

November 19, 1963:

In an informal discussion with his secretary Evelyn Lincoln, Kennedy reveals some of his plans for the next administration if he is reelected in 1964. He informs Lincoln that he is seriously considering replacing Johnson as his running mate in 1964 with Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina.[119][120][121][122]

November 22, 1963:

The second in a series of articles on the Bobby Baker scandal appears in Life magazine.

Kennedy's upcoming trip to Dallas had been first announced to the public in September 1963.[124] The exact motorcade route was finalized on November 18 and was announced to the public a few days before November 22.

During the third week of October 1963, Lee

Harvey Oswald was living in a rented room in a boarding house in the Oak Cliff district of Dallas. He had just been hired for a seasonal job at the Texas School Book Depository as a $1.25-per-hour clerk, filling customer orders for books.[126] Oswald had obtained the job after a referral by Ruth Paine,[127] with whom Oswald's wife Marina and their children were living.[128] At about the same time, Paine had separated from her husband Michael.

A month before Kennedy's ill-fated trip, U.N. ambassador Stevenson was jeered, jostled, hit by a sign and spat upon when he visited Dallas to mark U.N. Day.[130][131] Dallas police were fearful that similar demonstrations would occur when Kennedy visited Dallas.[132] Several people, including Stevenson, warned Kennedy against coming to Dallas, but Kennedy ignored their advice.[21] Dallas police chief Jesse Curry increased the level of security during Kennedy's visit; he put into effect the most stringent security precautions in the city's history.[132] Curry even deputized citizens to take action for any suspicious acts that could endanger the president.

Air Force Two also lands at Carswell with vice president Lyndon B. Johnson, the Texas governor John Connally, and Senator Ralph Yarborough. Connally and Yarborough dislike each other so much that Yarborough is unwilling to travel in the same car as Johnson, who is an ally of Connally. The following day, the president tells him to ride with Johnson.

At 11:35 p.m., the First Couple arrives at the Hotel Texas in Fort Worth, after being cheered by thousands of well-wishers lined on the route towards the West Freeway. Despite the late time and rainy weather, the President and Mrs. Kennedy take some time to shake hands with well-wishers gathered outside the hotel before retiring to their assigned suite (Room 850) for the night.

King George VI Wembley Speech (1925)

by David Freeman, for Finest Hour 150

On the last day of October, 1925 HRH Prince Albert, Duke of York, twenty-nine years old and second son of King George V, made his first broadcast speech. The occasion was the closing ceremony of the Empire Exhibition at Wembley Stadium. The Duke spoke into a microphone before a crowd of 100,000, but what often happened in private now happened in public: his words came haltingly, and he was acutely embarrassed. One man listening to the crowd that day, a speech therapist recently arrived from Australia, remarked, “He’s too old for me to manage a complete cure, but I could very nearly do it.”

From the Beatles song and mamy other sources it seems FDR and Admiral Halsey and Joseph Kennedy Sr get a deal worked where Marilyn Monroe, Glorian Donegan, and perhaps Julie Andrews make into the USA in 1926. The Franz Kutschera piece is hidden for as long as possibel but records are more and more available. William Frederick Halsey, Jr., was born in Elizabeth, New Jersey on 30 October 1882, the son of Master William F. Halsey, USN. He graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1904 and spent his early service years in battleships and torpedo craft. The latter became a speciality - he commanded the First Group of the Atlantic Fleet's Torpedo Flotilla in 1912-13 and several torpedo boats and destroyers during the 'teens and 'twenties. Lieutenant Commander Halsey's First World War service, including command of USS SHAW (DD 68) in 1918, was sufficiently distinctive to earn a Navy Cross.

In 1922-25, Halsey served as Naval Attache in Berlin [the time in question of Salzburg Austria Von Trapp family and Nazi activities in that area 1925], Germany and commanded USS DALE (DD 290) during a European cruise. During 1930-32, Captain Halsey led two destroyer squadrons. He studied at the Naval War College in the mid-1930s and also received instruction as a Naval Aviation Observer. He then commanded the aircraft carrier SARATOGA and the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Florida. Halsey was promoted to Rear Admiral in 1938, commanding Carrier Divisions for the next three years, and, as a Vice Admiral, also serving as Commander Aircraft Battle Force.

Vice Admiral Halsey was at sea in his flagship, USS ENTERPRISE, when Japan attacked the U.S. Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor on 7 December 1941. During the first six months of the war, his carrier task force took part in raids on enemy-held islands and in the Doolittle raid on Japan. Beached by illness just before the June 1942 Battle of Midway, he took command in the South Pacific in mid-October 1942, at a critical stage of the Guadalcanal Campaign. After Guadalcanal was secured in February 1943, Admiral Halsey's forces spent the rest of the year battling up the Solomons Chain to Bougainville, then isolated the Japanese fortress at Rabaul by capturing positions in the Bismarcks and Admiralties.

Norma Jean and Glorian Gainey have similar childhoods born the same year

Gladys named Mortensen as Monroe's father in the birth certificate (although the name was misspelled),but it is unlikely that he was the father as their separation had taken place well before she became pregnant. Biographers Fred Guiles and Lois Banner stated that her father was likely Charles Stanley Gifford, Gladys's superior at RKO Studios, with whom she had an affair in 1925, whereas Donald Spoto thought that another co-worker was probably the father. Although Gladys was mentally and financially unprepared for a child, Monroe's early childhood was stable and happy.

Gladys placed her daughter with evangelical Christian foster parents Albert and Ida Bolender in the rural town of Hawthorne. She also lived there for six months, until she was forced to move back to the city for employment. She then began visiting her daughter on weekends. In the summer of 1933, Gladys bought a small house in Hollywood with a loan from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and moved seven-year-old Monroe in with her.

They shared the house with lodgers, actors George and Maude Atkinson and their daughter, Nellie.

In January 1934, Gladys had a mental breakdown and was diagnosed with paranoid schizophrenia. After several months in a rest home, she was committed to the Metropolitan State Hospital. She spent the rest of her life in and out of hospitals and was rarely in contact with Monroe. Monroe became a ward of the state, and her mother's friend Grace Goddard took responsibility over her and her mother's affairs.

Over the next four years, Monroe's living situation changed often. For the first 16 months, she continued living with the Atkinsons, and may have been sexually abused during this time. Always a shy girl, she now also developed a stutter and became withdrawn. In the summer of 1935, she briefly stayed with Grace and her husband Erwin "Doc" Goddard and two other families. In September 1935, Grace placed her in the Los Angeles Orphans Home. The orphanage was "a model institution" and was described in positive terms by her peers, but Monroe felt abandoned.

Founded in 1880 as the Los Angeles Orphans Home Society by Mrs Frank Gibson, … Norma Jeane's room overlooked the water tower of the RKO studios. http://www.cursumperficio.net/FicheAO6.html

Encouraged by the orphanage staff, who thought that Monroe would be happier living in a family, Grace became her legal guardian in 1936, but did not take her out of the orphanage until the summer of 1937. Monroe's second stay with the Goddards lasted only a few months because Doc molested her. She then lived for brief periods with her relatives and Grace's friends and relatives in Los Angeles and Compton.

Born Glorian Gainey in 1926 to Festus Gainey of the Dustbowl it seems from records that was a sham or falsified identity hiding the Kutchera or Windsor name. At 9 years old GLorian Gainey and her brother Harold were orphaned at about 1935 or 1936 moved to the Dew household in South Carolina near the Camden DupPont plant her brother Harold would later work at. DuPont was a military supplier of chemical explosives and nuclear resarch along with Kellog X, the secret resarch branch of Kellog, DuPont and Kellog the Manhattan Project contrators run out of COlumbia University in New York City the large building tower overlooking Manhattan Ilsand propmpting Enrico Fermi gazing fromhis office window to create the name Manhattan Project for the Atomic Bomb.

Glorian showed the sign of dry throat, Marilyn stuttering. Voice coaches often recomend acting and coach actors. Ed DOnegan has the dry throat symptom too. RKO is signifiant because it was a Joseph Kennedy Sr owned studio and he may have been able to keep tabs on Norma Jean.

In 1952 Marilun Monroe will have a secret visit to Seatle WA as MKULTRA gets more underway under VP Nixon and in 1962 the 21st Century Expo will be held in Seatle, for Conspiracy Theorists, home of free mason ALbert Pike and of course Starbucks. James Paul Donegan intercepted "bogies" and looked for targets for bombers over enemy terriroty disurpting suply lines, weapons manufacture and heavy industry, it seems finding a route to the atomic bombing run and locating a target and escorting the bombers in. He decribed the RECON pilot role as he talked about his RECON planes, modified fighers, and flying over Korea during the Korean War.

The story is told when his plane was on fire over Southg Carolina where GLorian Gainey now lived with the Dew family he met Glorian and married her, landing on the farm's open space. The Korean War 1952 - 1953 and later movie filming as story

The Korean War was fought between North Korea and South Korea from 1950 to 1953. Druing this time Bissle Jr of the CIA was flying the U2 out of Atsugi air base Japan, James Paul Donegan was flying there, Lee Harvey Oswald was there and I have suspected the story of James and Glorian was being told in the movied Jet Pilot, Glo aka GLorian was swapped out as a Russian, not Austrian Nazi defector for Col Shannon the recon pilot harrassed by the WASPS.

Indonesia Regime Change planned by Vice President Nixon 1958

This was important administratively because by that time Frank Wisner, the CIA Deputy Director of Plans, had set up his forward headquarters in Singapore and at the direction of the 5412 Committee of the National Security Council, headed by Nixon, Wisner occupied that faraway headquarters himself. (It should be noted that in 1958 Allen Dulles was the head of the CIA, his brother John Foster Dulles was the Secretary of State, Eisenhower was President, and Nixon, as Vice President, chaired the clandestine affairs committee, then known as the “Special Group 5412/2.” In other words nothing was done in Indonesia that was not directed by Nixon. If an action had not been directed by the NSC, then it was done unlawfully by the CIA.)

In 1958 Allen Dulles would have brought such a major operation to the attention of the Special Group and he would operate with its approval. This was an essential step in national policy because it then empowered the Department of Defense to provide the necessary support requested by the CIA. Much of this fell within the area of my responsibility at Air Force Headquarters, and I was kept informed on a regular basis of approved action and of Nixon's keen interest in this project.

Jim Donegna who flew with the Bissle Jr operation with Prouty in Atsugi was leaving USAF for TWA and starting a family since being married in 1952 at the same time JFK married Jackie. Tom Donegan i sborn about 1958 and Jet Pilot is being filmed.

An excerpt from Col Prouty a Donean friend - What is not generally known about the complex Indonesian struggle is the role that was played by the then Vice President of the United States, [Vice President] Richard M. Nixon, and the bitter aftermath that involved the sudden ouster of Allen Dulles' protege, Frank Wisner, who at that time was the head ofthe clandestine arm of the CIA. [Ed Donegan asserts the firing of Aland Dulles was alsto tied to the Indonesia plan and is tied to the Donegan family as this timeline supports.]

After Watergate, when Anthony Lukas wrote in his book Nightmare, about the growing mistrust between Nixon and the Director of Central Intelligence, Richard Helms, he could have added that since the 1958 Indonesian rebellion there were many in the CIA who made a career of hating Nixon because of what he had done to Frank Wisner, among others.

The Indonesian campaign began rather casually as so many CIA ventures do. Few f any ever originate at the top.

During an unguarded conversation in Washington the Indonesian military attache mentioned earliermade it known to certain U.S. military acquaintances that there were many prominent and strong people in Indonesia who would be ready to rise against Sukarno if they were given a little support and encouragement from the United States. It happened that one of those U.S. military friends he talked to was not a military man at all, but a member of the CIA. The provocative words got back to Frank Wisner, then the Deputy Director of Plans. He was in charge of the CIA's clandestine activity and he authorized agents to follow up on that first conversation.

The Indonesian attache was wined and dined and encouraged to talk more. Reasons for the attache's return to Indonesia on official business were successfully arranged. He was accompanied by CIA agents traveling under the cover of "U.S. military" personnel.

During this visit they spoke with rebel leaders. They learned enough about the potential strength of this opposition to encourage the CIA to set in motion its biggest operation up to that date.

In the Philippines there was a strong nucleus of military men, chief among them a Colonel Valeriano, who had been President Magsaysay's military assistant. He had also worked on paramilitary exercises with the CIA during the Magsaysay campaign against the leftist rebel Huk movement. This military group had gained considerable power during the Magsaysay tenure.

Many of these special warfare experts from the Philippines had volunteered for duty in South Vietnam in 1955 when the CIA was deeply involved in providing undercover support for the new and uncertain regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

By early 1958 these Filipinos and their CIA counterparts were prepared to involve the Philippines in the rebellion against Sukarno [and trying to install Suharto backed by the CIA and Crane Group] by setting up special warfare “Green Beret” training bases and by providing the Indonesian revolutionary council with clandestine air bases.

One of those bases was on Palawan, the most western island of the Philippine archipelago, in the vicinity of the airfield at Puerto Princessa on Honda Bay. The other base was on the big southern island of Mindanao, near Davao Gulf.

1959 Joseph Kennedy Sr. once again on the phone regarding GLorian Donegan and other less speculative sources

Wayne Madsen - President Obama’s own work in 1983 for Business International Corporation, a CIA front that conducted seminars with the world’s most powerful leaders and used journalists as agents abroad, dovetails with CIA espionage activities conducted by his mother, Stanley Ann Dunham in 1960s post-coup Indonesia on behalf of a number of CIA front operations, including the East-West Center at the University of Hawaii, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID), and the Ford Foundation. Dunham met and married Lolo Soetoro, Obama’s stepfather, at the East-West Center in 1965. Soetoro was recalled to Indonesia in 1965 to serve as a senior army officer and assist General Suharto [backed by the CIA and USA] and the CIA in the bloody overthrow of [existing] President Sukarno.

Barack Obama, Sr., who met Dunham in 1959 in a Russian language class at the University of Hawaii, had been part of what was described as an airlift of 280 East African students to the United States to attend various colleges - merely “aided” by a grant from the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation, according to a September 12, 1960, Reuters report from London. The airlift was a CIA operation to train and indoctrinate future agents of influence in Africa, which was becoming a battleground between the United States and the Soviet Union and China for influence among newly-independent and soon-to-be independent countries on the continent.

JFK will inherit this plan but dislike it from the start leading to the firing of Allan Dulles, Bissle Jr. and Charles Cabell and possiblyi for the injustice done to the Donegan’s.

Edward Donegan asserts that Col Prouty who was a key player in the Indonesia operation and Joseph Kennedy Sr who created the Jospeh Kennedy Foundation in honor of his deceased son he hoped would become President of the USA was funding this plan for Indonesia. Ed Donegan asserts from the Price ALbert and Admirial Halsey call to get Maria Kutschera daughters into the USA and knew and Prouty knew who Glorian was and Glorian was selected for Barrack Obamas white mother with Eva Ban and Stanly Ann Dunham and Marilyin Monroe possible public image usable claimed white mothers for the half black man.

At a press conference to announce that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada would be coming to the United States on February 20, President Kennedy mispronounced the Canadian leader's name multiple times. Kennedy had asked Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who in turn had asked Assistant for European Affairs Foy D. Kohler, who suggested the German pronunciation "Dee-fen-bawk-er"; Diefenbaker's name was misspelled by various news sources as "Diffenbaker", "Diefenbacker", "Diefenbacon" and even (by UPI) "Fifenbaker".[24] Privately, the Prime Minister, whose name was pronounced "Dee-fen-bay-ker", was enraged at what he viewed as being mocked by the American president.[25]

March 11 1961 Plans for an invasion of Cuba were presented by CIA official Richard M. Bissell, Jr. for the approval of President Kennedy.

In a meeting attended by the President, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, CIA Director Allen Dulles, and General Lyman Lemnitzer, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staffs, Bissell outlined the proposed "Operation Trinidad", with an invasion force storming the beaches of Trinidad, Cuba by sea and by air. Kennedy rejected the plan as "too spectacular", and directed Bissell to come up with a less obvious placement of troops. Only four days later, Bissell had drawn up a new plan, with the force to strike at the Bay of Pigs within a month. "The Kennedy team was impressed," one historian would say later, "when they should have been incredulous."

March 12, 1961 (Sunday) Mob Meetings wwith CIA over Castro

Miami mobster John Roselli, who was assisting the CIA in its plans to assassinate Fidel Castro, met with a Cuban contact at the Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach. Roselli would testify before the U.S. Senate, 14 years later, about the delivery of money and poisoned pills for the contact to place in Castro's food. Columnist Jack Anderson would break the story in his column of January 18, 1971.[31] The CIA would acknowledge its involvement 46 years after the fact, with the declassification of documents in 2007. March 14 A B-52F-70-BW Stratofortress bomber, with two nuclear weapons, crashed 15 miles (24 km) southwest of Yuba City, California after its crew bailed out.[40] The two nuclear bombs were torn from the aircraft on impact, but did not detonate.

Brigade 2506 from Gautamala and elsewhere carried out the abortive Bay of Pigs Invasion landings in Cuba on 17 April 1961.

November 28 1961 The Firing of Cabell, Dulles, and Bissle Jr.

JFK is in no way impressed with Regime Change plans and the CIA. Dulles if fired.

During the Kennedy Administration, Dulles faced increasing criticism. In autumn 1961, following the Bay of Pigs incident and the Algiers putsch against Charles de Gaulle, Dulles and his entourage, including Deputy Director for Plans Richard M. Bissell Jr. and Deputy Director Charles Cabell, were forced to resign. On November 28, 1961, Kennedy presented Dulles with the National Security Medal at the CIA Headquarters in Langley, Virginia. The next day, November 29, the White House released a resignation letter signed by Dulles. He was replaced by John McCone.

Notice historians note Dulles faced criticims for the world wide spectacle of Bay of Pigs and the return of captives to the USA. Also note the much less known similar plan for Indonesia by the same fired personell, and the timing of firings and timing of JFK assasination I assert fits the Indonesia plan specifically and also includes Cuba, Gautamala, Iranian, and other plans.

Seattle World's Fair) was a world's fair held April 21, 1962,

In June 1960, the Bureau International des Expositions (BIE) certified Century 21 as a world's fair.[8] Project manager Ewen Dingwall went to Moscow to request Soviet participation, but was turned down. Neither the People's Republic of China, Vietnam nor North Korea were invited.

As it happened, the Cold War had an additional effect on the fair. President John F. Kennedy was supposed to attend the closing ceremony of the fair on October 21, 1962. He bowed out, pleading a "heavy cold"; it later became public that he was dealing with the Cuban Missile Crisis. JFK was seen and photographed secretly visiting the site before it opened.

1925 May 19: Malcolm X is born Malcolm Little in Omaha, Nebraska, the fourth of Earl and Louise Little's seven children. Earl, a Baptist minister, is a follower of Marcus Garvey's black nationalism and serves as Omaha chapter president of Garvey's Universal Negro Improvement Association. Louise Little serves as the division secretary. 1938 December 23: Louise Little is diagnosed as mentally ill and sent to the Kalamazoo State Mental Hospital, where she will stay for 26 years. 1952 August 7: Malcolm is released on parole, spends one night with Ella Collins, then goes to Detroit to live with his brother Wilfred. He quickly joins the Nation of Islam and attends meetings at Detroit's Temple No. 1, one of the four temples that the Nation operates at the time. Malcolm rejects the surname "Little" as a slave name given to his family by white oppressors, and he becomes known as "Malcolm X." Dismayed that the Nation of Islam is not attracting more followers (at the time, total nationwide membership was about 400), Malcolm begins an intensive recruiting campaign with Elijah Muhammad's blessing. Soon membership in the Nation begins to soar. 1955 Malcolm X attends the first Conference of the Non-aligned Nations in Bandung, Indonesia. 1959 Spring-Summer Malcolm makes his first trips abroad, visiting Ghana, Sudan, Nigeria, Iran, Syria, Egypt, and the United Arab Republic; illness prevents him from traveling to Mecca. Attorney General Robert F Kennedy visits the Seattle World's Fair with members of his family on August 7, 1962.

n August 7, 1962, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy (1925-1968) visits the Seattle World's Fair with members of his family. They spend most of the day enjoying a wide variety of exhibits and amusements. In the afternoon, Kennedy gives a speech to an overflow audience in the playhouse. Media coverage of Kennedy's visit to the Century 21 Exposition is slightly overshadowed by news of the suicide of Marilyn Monroe (1926-1962) in Los Angeles two days earlier.

The attorney general arrived at Sea-Tac Airport the previous night, accompanied by his wife Ethel (b. 1928) and four of their seven children - David, Robert, Joseph, and Kathleen, ages 7, 8, 9, and 10, respectively. Also with them were Kennedy's sister, Eunice Shriver (1921-2009), and her 8-year-old son, Robert. The Kennedy clan made their way to the Olympic Hotel for a good night's rest.

The next morning, they arrived at the fair one hour late, to which Eunice Shriver noted, "You know how it is travelling with kids" (The Seattle Times, August 8, 1962). Accompanying the attorney general were Lem Billings (1916-1981), a close friend of the President; Courtney Allen Evans (1914-2010), assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; and Edwin Guthman (1919-2008), a former Seattle Times newsman who was tapped in 1961 to become RFK's press secretary.

Kennedy's first order of business was a press conference at the playhouse, but the procession slowed down in the lobby as everyone gathered around a replica of astronaut John Glenn's Friendship 7 capsule, which had been temporarily moved there from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) exhibit. In its place at the NASA building, the actual capsule was on display for a week before heading to the Smithsonian Museum in Washington, D.C.

Before Kennedy was introduced by Governor Albert Rosellini (1910-2011), the children had already scampered off to the Gayway, the fair's amusement park area. After answering a few questions from reporters, Kennedy accompanied fair president Joe Gandy (1904-1971) to see some of the foreign exhibits, while his wife, sister, and Guthman went to check on the kids. https://www.historylink.org/File/10022

SEATTLE, JUNE 1 - A deeply tanned, hearty Prince Philip flew his private plane into Seattle today for a stirring welcome at the Seattle World's Fair.

The smiling husband of Queen Elizabeth II stole the hearts of the crowd as "a real prince charming," and had a laughing good time touring the Fairgrounds.

He best summed up his impressions of the Fair and

Seattle-which today was warmed by brilliant sunlight-during his lunch in the “Eye of the Needle” restaurant near the top of the 600-foot Space Needle, symbol of the Fair, when he said:

> “Fabulous.”

Gov. Albert D, Rosellini used three words to best sum up the crowd’s impression of the Prince by calling him “a regular guy.”

A crowd of more than 20,000 persons already was on the Fairgrounds when the Prince, his official party, city, state and Fair hosts arrived at the British Pavilion by motorcade.

Officially greeting Prince Philip on his entrance to the Fair were World’s Fair President Joseph E. Gandy and Ewen C. Dingwall, vice president and general manager. At the Great Britain Pavilion, Cecil Cooke, commissioner-general of the exhibit, and his deputy, George Farndell, welcomed their royal guest.

Almost from the time the Prince eased his four-engined transport plane, the “Heron” into a landing at Boeing Field here, the Duke of Edinburgh was a genial, smiling guest who drew cheers virtually on a sustaining basis.

His first view inside the British Exhibit was that of a huge photo of his wife, Queen Elizabeth II. He smiled and never stopped.

Making jokes frequently, and stamping his food as he laughed, he moved through the United Kingdom's huge pavilion, talking with the clerks, asking if items he saw were for sale.

A cheering, steadily growing crowd followed the Prince and his party to the Fairgrounds terminal of the Monorail featuring two high-speed trains linking the Fair with downtown Seattle, http://www.jackgordon.org/Century21/Releases/June1PrincePhilipGetsStirringWelcomeAtFair.htm

Early life and career of Barack Obama Jr. 1961 1962 1963

Barack Obama's parents met in 1958 while they were students at the University of Hawaii at Manoa. Obama's father, Barack Obama, Sr., the university's first foreign student from an African nation,[4] hailed from Oriang' Kogelo, Rachuonyo North District, in the Nyanza Province of western Kenya. Obama's mother, Stanley Ann Dunham, known as Ann, had been born in Wichita. They married on the Hawaiian island of Maui on February 2, 1961. Barack Hussein Obama, born in Honolulu on August 5, 1961, at the old Kapiolani Maternity and Gynecological Hospital at 1611 Bingham Street (a predecessor of the Kapiʻolani Medical Center for Women and Children at 1319 Punahou Street), was named for his father. The Honolulu Advertiser and the Honolulu Star-Bulletin announced the birth.

Soon after their son's birth, while Obama's father continued his education at the University of Hawaii, Ann Dunham took the infant to Seattle, Washington, where she took classes at the University of Washington from September 1961 to June 1962. She and her son lived in an apartment in the Capitol Hill neighborhood. After graduating from the University of Hawaii with a B.A. in economics, Obama, Sr. left the state in June 1962, moving to Cambridge, Massachusetts for graduate study in economics at Harvard University that Autumn.

Ann Dunham returned with her son to Honolulu and in January 1963 resumed her undergraduate education at the University of Hawaii. In January 1964, Dunham filed for divorce, which was not contested.[6] Barack Obama, Sr. later graduated from Harvard University with an A.M. in economics and in 1965 returned to Kenya.

23 December 1962 deal begins for release of survivors of Brigade 25506

About 1,334 men traveled on a seaborne force from Guatemala, of which about 1,297 actually landed in Cuba, plus an additional 177 airborne paratroops. An estimated 114 drowned or were killed in action, and 1,183 were captured, tried and imprisoned. Private sympathizers in the United States eventually negotiated to give $53 million worth of food and medicine in exchange for release and repatriation of Brigade prisoners to Miami starting on 23 December 1962. On 29 December 1962, President John F. Kennedy hosted a ‘welcome back’ ceremony for captured Brigade 2506 veterans at the Orange Bowl in Miami.

The following appeared in the October, 1975 issue of Gallery, a porno magazine which billed Fletcher Prouty as the "National Affairs Editor." Some people feel there is no credible way to justify associating oneself with such exploitative and demeaning media. Fletcher Prouty has told me that since the Ballentine paperback edition of The Secret Team was "disappeared" soon after it came out in February of 1974, it was very difficult for him to find publishers who would print his writings. From September 1974 to July 1975 he had 7 articles published in Genesis (another porno magazine), and from September 1975 to June 1978 he had 14 articles published in Gallery.

Up until the Ballentine paperback was squelched, he had been published in the likes of The Nation, The New Republic, (including cover-story features), and Air Force Magazine. It is a telling indictment of the reality of lack of public access to the mainstream corporate press, that a man like Fletcher Prouty-who served in the Air Force for 23 years, rose to the rank of Colonel, was a briefing officer in the Pentagon from 1955 thru 31 December 1963, serving also as Focal Point Officer (liason) between the DOD and the CIA, first in the Headquarters of the Air Force (1955 to 1960), where he set up and then ran the structures that supplied Air Force logistical (military hardware) support for CIA clandestine operations world-wide, then in the Office of the Secretary of Defense (1960 into 1961), and then in the Office of the Joint Chiefs of > Staff (1961 thru 12/31/63) where he ran the same support for all branches of the military-that a man possessing such critical first-hand experience and knowledge of the mechanisms, methodogy and factual history of CIA covert operations in this seminal period, would find his writings and analysis of these important issues essentially barred from the most generally accessible publications. As long as the conglomerate press in this country continues to increasingly restrict the range and variety of points of view being published, writers will resort to certain types of publishers they would not choose to go to if they had a better alternative.

The shocking nature of what you are about to read in this article makes it imperative that you be aware of some of the credentials and experience of the author.

From 1955 to December 31, 1963, Col. L. Fletcher Prouty was the Focal Point (liason) officer between the Pentagon and the CIA. During 1962 and 1963 he was Director of Special Plans (clandestine operations) in the office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In 1971 he was the president of the Financial Marketing Council, Washington, D.C.

He is the author of numerous articles and of The Secret Team, published by Prentice Hall (1973) and Ballantine Books (1974).

How was the Warren Commission kept from investigating and seeing evidence? This is the real issue. This is a crime to top the crime.

As we prepare now to celebrate the beginning of the third century of the founding of this country, we wonder if we live in the land of the free. We wonder if at least we still have a government of the people and by the people. Certainly, it is no longer a government for the people. The sound throughout the land is ugly: there is frustration, hate, and fear. We must act while there may still be time.

There is a grave conspiracy over the land. The people have come alive because of Vietnam and Watergate; but they have scarcely scratched the surface. A President and a Vice-President have been forced to resign. A President has been shot to death. Two Presidential candidates have been shot, one of them killed. Many of the President's men have been forced to leave, some have gone to jail; others are still under indictment.

Yes, history has been made by a series of murders, but not enough has been done to solve them. The trial of Watergate was the trial of the cover-up. There has been no trial about the real crime of Watergate. There has been no trial of the big power behind Watergate. The Hunts, Liddys, McCords, and the Cubans were not drawn into that drama solely for their own interests. They were working for someone much higher up. They were all pawns, just like Nixon was. This is a game for the biggest stake of all-absolute control of the government of the United States of America; and, with control of this government, control of the world. And yet the real crime underlying all of this has not even been identified, stated, and charged. The real criminals still walk the streets, run their corporations, control their banks, and pull strings throughout their political and financial machines.

This control mechanism did not start in 1972 with Watergate. It began, in a tentative way, in the Korean War era, when the military and the executive branch found out how easy it was to fool the Congress and the American public. And with that recognition, power-hungry and money-mad industrialists began to usurp more and more power. And when those rifles crackled over Dealey Plaza, in Dallas, Texas on November 22, 1963 and John F. Kennedy's brain was splattered across the road, they had made their move into the big time. They took over control of the President and of the Presidency. The man they had killed was no longer a problem and they had made certain that his successor, Lyndon Johnson, heard and remembered the sound of those guns. It is the sound of those guns in Dallas, and their ever-present threat, which is the real mechanism of control over the American government.

It is possible now to reconstruct the scenario of that day, and, with new information, to show why the murder of JFK may properly be called the "Crime of the Century." If we the people of the United States do not demand its resolution this year, it will stand in the way of a free election in 1976. It will doom a third century of democratic government in this country.

Almost everyone who has taken the time to do any reading and thinking about that crime knows by now that John Kennedy was killed not by a lone assassin, but by a group of hired "mechanics." Let's look at some of the hard facts of this murder and put to rest once and for all the “cover-up” report of the Warren Commission.

The Warren Commission categorically stated that Lee Harvey Oswald was the killer of JFK and that he acted alone. The Warren Commission says that Oswald fired three shots, only three shots, from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository Building and that his lair was at a window, number one from the right (eastern-most on the south side) on that sixth floor.

NUMBER 1. The Texas School Book Depository Building. Arrow points to window from which Oswald supposedly shot Kennedy. (photo by Willis.)

If one breaks this contrived Warren Commission story, then the fundament of the “lone assassin” theory is undermined. Break this weak theory and you are confronted immediately with an awareness of the existence of a massive conspiracy. And we are equally convinced that this group hired at least four expert “mechanics” (assassins). This group wielded control over elements of the Dallas police, the Sheriff’s office, the FBI, the Secret Service, and the CIA. This great cabal had control high enough in government, or at least in the councils of government, to be able to influence the travel plans of the President, the Vice-President and a Presidential candidate (Nixon), and all members of the Kennedy cabinet. They were powerful enough to have orders issued to the Army, and they were able to mount a massive campaign to control the media during and > after the assassination. They were able to have Jack Ruby kill Oswald and to transfer jurisdiction of the murder from Texas and then to effectively control the outcome of the Warren Commission review.

November 28, 1963 President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy, known unofficially as the Warren Commission

The President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy, known unofficially as the Warren Commission, was established by President Lyndon B. Johnson through Executive Order 11130 on November 29, 1963, to investigate the assassination of United States President John F. Kennedy that had taken place on November 22, 1963.

The U.S. Congress passed Senate Joint Resolution 137 authorizing the Presidential appointed Commission to report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, mandating the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of evidence. Its 888-page final report was presented to President Johnson on September 24, 1964, and made public three days later.

It concluded that President Kennedy was assassinated by Lee Harvey Oswald and that Oswald acted entirely alone. It also concluded that Jack Ruby acted alone when he killed Oswald two days later. The Commission's findings have proven controversial and have been both challenged and supported by later studies.

The Commission took its unofficial name-the Warren Commission-from its chairman, Chief Justice Earl Warren. - Wikipedia

I Edward Donegan heard LBJ who I suspect and J. Edgar Hoover who I suspect talk in a recorded phone call, it sounded staged, and in the dialouge Ford was mentioned. The conduct of Ford on the commision was to alter evidence, the autopsy bullet entrance location, to fit the contribved and armchair speculative conclusions of the Warren Commission who steared clear of information contradictory to the goal of their conclusions and ignoring and altering evidence they did have so their conclusion was not contradicted. On the commision was Alan Dulles who I and others believed worked with Vice President LBJ to assasinate JFK along with J Edgar Hoover and others.

The new president, Lyndon Johnson, himself from Texas, the state where the double assassination had taken place, faced with the risks of a weakening of his presidency and confronted with the results obtained by the Texas authorities, themselves seriously discredited and criticized, decided, after various consultations including in particular that of J. Edgar Hoover, the director of the FBI, to create a presidential commission of inquiry by decree (executive order no. 11 130) of November 29, 1963. This act allowed to avoid an independent investigation led by Congress and on the other hand not to entrust the case to the Attorney General, Robert Kennedy, deeply affected by the assassination and whose federal jurisdiction would have been applied in the event of withdrawal of the share of the State of Texas for the benefit of the federal authorities in Washington. -Wikipedia

December 1963 Malcom X Continues Saudi Mecca ties, resents JFK

Disenchanted with corruption in the Nation of Islam, which suspended him in December 1963 after he claimed that President John F. Kennedy's assassination was "the chickens coming home to roost," Malcolm X left the organization for good.

A few months later, he traveled to Mecca, Saudi Arabia, where he underwent a spiritual transformation: "The true brotherhood I had seen had influenced me to recognize that anger can blind human vision," he wrote. Malcolm X returned to America with a new name: El-Hajj Malik El-Shabazz.

In June 1964, he founded the Organization of Afro-American Unity, which identified racism, and not the white race, as the enemy of justice. His more moderate philosophy became influential, especially among members of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). https://www.history.com/topics/black-history/malcolm-x

1964 Assasintion of Malcom X, his postumous Autobiography

The Autobiography of Malcolm X is an autobiography written by American minister Malcolm X, who collaborated with American journalist Alex Haley. It was released posthumously on October 29, 1965, nine months after his assassination. Haley coauthored the autobiography based on a series of in-depth interviews he conducted between 1963 and 1965. The Autobiography is a spiritual conversion narrative that outlines Malcolm X's philosophy of black pride, black nationalism, and pan-Africanism.

After the leader was killed, Haley wrote the book's epilogue.[a] He described their collaborative process and the events at the end of Malcolm X's life.

Malcom X is photographed by Esquire Magazine holding a rifle looking out the windos suspiciously fearing assasination as his autobiography is upcoming and being censored. The Alex Haley comments in the boo suggest Malcom X feared groups far more powerfull than the Ilsamic competitors often thought of as his true assasins. Edward Paul Donegan asserts his story is tied to CIA FBI US DOD overthrow teams and the Vactican, among others.

Published posthumously, The Autobiography of Malcolm X is an account of the life of Malcolm X, born Malcolm Little (1925-1965), who became a human rights activist. Beginning with his mother's pregnancy, the book describes Malcolm's childhood first in Omaha, Nebraska and then in the area around Lansing and Mason, Michigan, the death of his father under questionable circumstances, and his mother's deteriorating mental health that resulted in her commitment to a psychiatric hospital.[4] Little's young adulthood in Boston and New York City is covered, as well as his involvement in organized crime. This led to his arrest and subsequent eight- to ten-year prison sentence, of which he served six-and-a-half years (1946-1952).[5] The book addresses his ministry with Elijah Muhammad and the Nation of Islam (1952-1963) and his emergence as the organization's national spokesman. It documents his disillusionment with and departure from the Nation of Islam in March 1964, his pilgrimage to Mecca, which catalyzed his conversion to orthodox Sunni Islam, and his travels in Africa.[6] Malcolm X was assassinated in New York's Audubon Ballroom in February 1965, before they finished the book. His co-author, the journalist Alex Haley, summarizes the last days of Malcolm X's life, and describes in detail their working agreement, including

Haley's personal views on his subject, in the Autobiography's epilogue

Haley coauthored The Autobiography of Malcolm X, and also performed the basic functions of a ghostwriter and biographical amanuensis,[15] writing, compiling, and editing[16] the Autobiography based on more than 50 in-depth interviews he conducted with Malcolm X between 1963 and his subject's 1965 assassination. The two first met in 1959, when Haley wrote an article about the Nation of Islam for Reader's Digest, and again when Haley interviewed Malcolm X for Playboy in 1962.

In 1963 the Doubleday publishing company asked Haley to write a book about the life of Malcolm X. American writer and literary critic Harold Bloom writes, "When Haley approached Malcolm with the idea, Malcolm gave him a startled look …" Haley recalls, "It was one of the few times I have ever seen him uncertain."[19] After Malcolm X was granted permission from Elijah Muhammad, he and Haley commenced work on the Autobiography, a process which began as two-and three-hour interview sessions at Haley's studio in Greenwich Village. Bloom writes, "Malcolm was critical of Haley's middle-class status, as well as his Christian beliefs and twenty years of service in the U.S. Military." Alex Haley's Autobiography of Malcolm X (Bloom's Guides) cited on Wikipedia

Wikipedia - Haley enlisted as a mess attendant. Later he was promoted to the rate of petty officer third-class in the rating of steward, one of the few ratings open to black personnel at that time.[13] It was during his service in the Pacific theater of operations that Haley taught himself the craft of writing stories. During his enlistment other sailors often paid him to write love letters to their girlfriends. He said that the greatest enemy he and his crew faced during their long voyages was not the Japanese forces but rather boredom.

After World War II, Haley petitioned the U.S. Coast Guard to allow him to transfer into the field of journalism. By 1949 he had become a petty officer first-class in the rating of a journalist. He later advanced to chief petty officer and held this rank until his retirement from the Coast Guard in 1959. He was the first chief journalist in the Coast Guard, the rating having been expressly created for him in recognition of his literary ability.

Haley's awards and decorations from the Coast Guard include the Coast Guard Good Conduct Medal (6 awards represented by 1 silver and 1 bronze service star), American Defense Service Medal (with "Sea" clasp), American Campaign Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal, World War II Victory Medal, Korean Service Medal, National Defense Service Medal, United Nations Service Medal, and the Coast Guard Expert Marksmanship Medal. The Republic of Korea awarded him the War Service Medal, ten years after he died. The United States Coast Guard dedicated the cutter formerly known as USS Edenton to Haley by recommissioning it as USCGC Alex Haley in July 1999. The cutter currently serves from Kodiak, Alaska.

After retiring from the U.S. Coast Guard, Haley began another phase of his journalism career. He eventually became a senior editor for Reader's Digest magazine. Haley wrote an article for the magazine about his brother George's struggles to succeed as one of the first black students at a Southern law school.

One of the assassins, a man named Talmadge Hayer, was captured by the crowd, then rescued from them and arrested by police. It was initially reported that another gunman was arrested on the scene, yet all reports of him subsequently vanished, and the initial report was never explained. The Deputy Police Commissioner reported that police protection had been offered Malcolm, but that he had refused the offer. Yet Malcolm had stated earlier that he had been trying to get police protection, and the police department had refused his requests.

Such contradictory reports, coupled with Malcolm's last-minute assertions that it was not the Muslims who were trying to kill him, have led to widespread speculation among his followers and admirers that he was the victim of some mysterious official conspiracy, perhaps involving the FBI or the CIA. Talmadge Hayer and two Black Muslims, however, were arrested, indicted for the crime, and were subsequently convicted. The case is officially closed, but it is unlikely that the rumors will ever be finally put to rest. Critical Essay Three Assessments of Malcolm X

My (Edward Paul Donegan) assertion is that Dr. MLK and Malcom X had talked over plans for CIA

FBI regime plans after being selected by J. Edgar Hoover and Nixon for them. Both were assasinated following Marilyn Monroe and JFK being assasinated and control over the investigations stared away from the person of greatest jurisdictional standing and most pertinent knowledge, RFK.

Robert Francis Kennedy, also known by his initials RFK and by the nickname Bobby, was an American politician and lawyer. He served as the 64th United States Attorney General from January 1961 to September 1964 and as a U.S. senator from New York from January 1965 until his assassination. Wikipedia Article: 582 of sgi.talk.ratical From: (dave “who can do? ratmandu!” ratcliffe) Subject: Indonesia 1958: Nixon, the CIA, and the Secret War Keywords: Nixon chaired the 5412 committee that ran the Indonesian “rebellion” Organization: Silicon Graphics, Inc. This was important administratively because by that time Frank Wisner, the CIA Deputy Director of Plans, had set up his forward headquarters in Singapore and at the direction of the 5412 Committee of the National Security Council, headed by Nixon, Wisner occupied that faraway headquarters himself. (It should be noted that in 1958 Allen Dulles was the head of the CIA, his brother John Foster Dulles was the Secretary of State, Eisenhower was President, and Nixon, as Vice President, chaired the clandestine affairs committee, then known as the “Special Group 5412/2.” In other words nothing was done in Indonesia that was not directed by Nixon. If an action had not been directed by the NSC, then it was done unlawfully by the CIA.)

In 1958 Allen Dulles would have brought such a major operation to the attention of the Special Group and he would operate with its approval. This was an essential step in national policy because it then empowered the Department of Defense to provide the necessary support requested by the CIA. Much of this fell within the area of my responsibility at Air Force Headquarters, and I was kept informed on a regular basis of approved action and of Nixon’s keen interest in this project.

1976 United States House Select Committee on Assassinations

The United States House of Representatives Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) was established in 1976 to investigate the assassinations of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King, Jr. in 1963 and 1968, respectively. The HSCA completed its investigation in 1978 and issued its final report the following year, which concluded that Kennedy was probably assassinated as a result of a conspiracy. In addition to now-discredited acoustic analysis of a police channel dictabelt recording, the HSCA also commissioned numerous other scientific studies of assassination-related evidence that corroborate the Warren Commission's findings.

The HSCA found that although the Commission and the different agencies and departments examining Kennedy's assassination performed in good faith and were thorough in their investigation of Lee Harvey Oswald, they performed with "varying degrees of competency" and the search for possible conspiracy was inadequate.: 2 The HSCA determined, based on available evidence, that the probable conspiracy did not involve the governments of Cuba or the Soviet Union. The committee also stated that the conspiracy did not involve any organized crime group, anti-Castro group, nor the FBI, CIA, or Secret Service. The committee found that it could not exclude the possibility that individual members of the national syndicate of organized crime or anti-Castro Cubans were involved in a probable conspiracy to assassinate president Kennedy.[3] However, some members of the committee would later state their personal belief that one of those groups was involved in the assassination, with Representative Floyd Fithian believing that the Kennedy assassination was orchestrated by members of organized crime.

Why Bush & the CIA Had John Lennon Killed

[image]

The topic of Jose Perdomo has always been extremely sensitive on this newsgroup (rec.music.beatles) for some reason.

As many of you know, Jose Perdomo was the doorman at the Dakota on the night John Lennon was murdered. What you may not know is Perdomo's name was withheld from the public for six years after Lennon's murder.

The following is a summary (Chapter 4 from my book, “Rethinking John Lennon’s Assassination …”) of how I was attacked on r.m.b. for discussing Perdomo too aggressively in the spring of 2003:

Recently [the author] discovered [about the doorman of Lennon] that someone named Jose Perdomo was a member of Brigade 2506 during the Bay of Pigs Invasion in 1961, a failed CIA operation to overthrow Fidel Castro. Perdomo’s full name was Jose Joaquin Sanjenis Perdomo, but he used his middle names, Joaquin Sanjenis, as an alias. He also called himself Sam Jenis. It was learned that Sanjenis worked closely with convicted Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis (deceased) for about ten years on the CIA’s payroll, running “Operation 40,” a black ops unit that performed assassinations, among other things. Born John Winston Lennon 9 October 1940 Liverpool, England Died 8 December 1980 (aged 40) New York City, New York, US

Lots of Propaganda songs of MI6 and CIA, then rejecting Imperial British Colonialism and Paul Mc McCartney Royal Songs

John Winston Ono Lennon[nb 1] (born John Winston Lennon; 9 October 1940 - 8 December 1980) was an English singer, songwriter, musician and peace activist who achieved worldwide fame as founder, co-songwriter, co-lead vocalist and rhythm guitarist of the Beatles. Lennon’s work was characterised by the rebellious nature and acerbic wit of his music, writing and drawings, on film, and in interviews. His songwriting partnership with Paul McCartney remains the most successful in history.

More than most of the other boys in the band, John Lennon became increasingly aware not only of the extent of corruption, co-opting and infiltration of the counterculture - most CERTAINLY including the rock music scene - by these same covert government intelligence elements.

Lennon was also aware than one of the “big guns” in the CIA/Tavistock/MI6 arsenal, LSD, had been having effect upon the population groups to which it had been funneled so extensively that was most unexpected on the part of the social manipulators-and to a large extent the effect was rather positive and beneficial.

Shortly before Lennon’s death at the hands of what beyond the faintest glimmer of a shadow a doubt was a mind-controlled, “Manchurian Candidate” type assassin deployed by Tavistock/CIA/MI6, Mark Chapman to terminate a “loose cannon”, Lennon had the audacity to massively and blatantly “out” the aforementioned consortium in a Playboy interview - in which he made note of LSD’s completely unforeseen liberating impact upon human society and civilization-pretty much thumbing his nose at the whole bunch and their whole trip; AND indicating as well that he was aware of the extent to which he and other pop musicians had been set up-to be used as dupes in massive social manipulation schemes.

Shortly afterward, New World Order head honcho and Satanist, globalist, CIA chief and Tavistock underling vice-president George Bush had Lennon slaughtered on the streets of new York; where he died in the arms of someone that a number of sources claim was the monarch agent deployed by MI6/CIA to keep the exceptionally intelligent Lennon constantly gravitating toward the social fringe; thereby keeping his potential influence at least minimized - Yoko Ono. That's NOT to say that even IF this last supposition is true, that genuine love and a fulfilling relationship did not exist between the two and that Yoko's "programming", just like John's, broke up and fell apart.

And what about those Beatles, anyway? Anyone who has heard the Beatles' live tapes recorded in 1961 and 1962 on the "Reeperbahn" in Hamburg, Germany realizes that this was an incredibly talented and energetic bunch of rockers who no matter what would have undoubtedly had a significant impact upon popular music and thus upon society itself, regardless of things which occurred subsequently in their saga.

And without any doubt being given access to state-of-the art audio and recording technologies and facilities stimulated their creativity quite a bit-for the benefit of all; "MR. KITE" includ

Jean Rosemary Shrimpton (born 7 November 1942)[4] is an English model and actress. She was an icon of Swinging London and is considered to be one of the world's first supermodels.

In other books I Edward Donegan assert she was tied to the British secretive Illuminati out of wedlock lines.

Between Yoko Ono, John Lennon, Jean Rosemary (repeat Jen Rosemary) shrimp soup variety the Anti-Vietnam War Anti- US Anti-CIA sentiment of these British MBEs was in doubt as still loyal the regime chnage politics they were pumping out White Album coy lyrics for, about birthdys and Helter Skelter DNA helixes under study.

All four Beatles were made Members Of The British Empire in 1965 for services to British industry. The Fab Four had brought millions into the British economy - but some commentators cynically suggested that the move was more of a PR stunt by the then-current Labour Prime Minister Harold Wilson to earn favour with younger voters.

Ringo Starr was happy to accept the award, which was announced in June of 1965 as the band were putting this finishing touches to their album and film Help! He later said: "I had no problem with it - none of us had any problems with it in the beginning. We all thought it was really thrilling."

Lennon had been uneasy accepting an honour from the Queen in the first place and by the end of the decade, he was even more opposed to being endorsed by the establishment.

His relationship with Yoko Ono had garnered criticism from the public, he'd been busted by police over an alleged drug offence and ridiculed in the press for his post-wedding "bed-in", in which he and Ono held a press conference in their honeymoon suite.

The "bed-in" was all part of John and Yoko's campaign for peace, started in response to the ongoing conflict in Vietnam. At the same time, the British government supported the Nigerian government in a civil war, which saw the unrecognised state of Biafra attacked and driven to famine in a bloody conflict that intensified across the summer of 1969.

In 1947 King joined the Central Intelligence Agency. Eventually he became chief of CIA's Western Hemisphere Division. On 11th December, 1959, King sent a confidential memorandum to Allen W. Dulles, the director of the CIA. King argued that in Cuba there existed a "far-left dictatorship, which if allowed to remain will encourage similar actions against U.S. holdings in other Latin American countries." (1)

As a result of this memorandum Dulles established Operation 40. It obtained this name because originally there were 40 agents involved in the operation. Later this was expanded to 70 agents. The group was presided over by Richard Nixon. Tracy Barnes became operating officer of what was also called the Cuban Task Force. The first meeting chaired by Barnes took place in his office on 18th January, 1960, and was attended by David Atlee

Phillips, E. Howard Hunt, Jack Esterline, and Frank Bender.

According to Fabian Escalante, a senior officer of the Cuban Department of State Security (G-2), in 1960 Richard Nixon recruited an “important group of businessmen headed by George Bush (Snr.) and Jack Crichton, both Texas oilmen, to gather the necessary funds for the operation”. This suggests that Operation 40 agents were involved in freelance work. (2)

It is known that at this time that George Bush and Jack Crichton were involved in covert right-wing activities. In 1990 Common Cause Magazinemagazine argued that: “The CIA put millionaire and agent George Bush in charge of recruiting exiled Cubans for the CIA’s invading army; Bush was working with another Texan oil magnate, Jack Crichton, who helped him in terms of the invasion.” (3) This story was linked to the release of “a memorandum in that context addressed to FBI chief J. Edward Hoover and signed November 1963, which reads: Mr. George Bush of the CIA” (4)

King officially retired from the CIA in 1967 but soon came back as a CIA consultant. He was CEO of the Amazon Natural Drug Company, known as a front for the CIA.

Joseph Caldwell King, the son of Warren Charles King and Jessie Calhoun Caldwell, was born in Brooklyn, New York on 5th October, 1900.

King worked for Johnson and Johnson in South America before joining the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs (OCIAA). He was stationed in Argentina from 1941 to 1945, where he was engaged in feeding deceptive information to Japanese agents. For his service in 1943 to 1946 as a military attaché in Argentina, Lt. Col. King was awarded the Legion of Merit. He oversaw Frank Sturgis.

Joseph Caldwell King died on 27th January, 1977.

Frank Fiorini (Sturgis) was born in Norfolk, Virginia, on 9th December, 1924. Six years later his family moved to Philadelphia. In 1942 Sturgis joined the United States Marines and during the Second World War served in the Pacific.

The following is a summary (Chapter 4 from my book, "Rethinking John Lennon's Assassination …") of how I was attacked on r.m.b. for discussing Perdomo too aggressively in the spring of 2003: "Chapter 4: FBI Surveillance on the Internet" http://www.jfkmontreal.com/john_lennon/Chapter04.htm You will notice that the following people attempted to stop all discussion of Jose Perdomo: - Tna Yzarc (later learned this was a screen name of Nick Andrews; it's "Crazy Ant" spelled backwards.) - Black Monk - Charlie Gauger (aka, Mister Charlie) - Ehtue - Susan from PA Recently I discovered that someone named Jose Perdomo was a member of Brigade 2506 during the Bay of Pigs Invasion in 1961, a failed CIA operation to overthrow Fidel Castro. It was learned that Sanjenis worked closely with convicted Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis (deceased) for about ten years on the CIA's payroll, running "Operation 40," a black ops unit that performed assassinations, among other things. This new information about Sanjenis introduces the very real possibility that Sanjenis may have been Lennon's true killer. This would explain why Nick Andrews, Black Monk, Charlie Gauger, Ehtue, and Susan from PA tried so desperately to stop any discussion about Perdomo (aka, Sanjenis) a year and a half ago when I first broached the subject. It appears that Nick Andrews, Black Monk, Charlie Gauger, Ehtue, and Susan from PA are not your garden variety Usenet Thought Police (spooks). These people are criminals, directly involved in the conspiracy to murder John Lennon. By obstructing public dialog about Sanjenis, most likely Lennon's killer, they made themselves part of a criminal conspiracy. Sanjenis's background is described in the following article: Jose Joaquin Sanjenis Perdomo, Lennon's true assassin(?) http://www.jfkmontreal.com/john_lennon/Usenet/Perdomo.htm Frank Fiorini (Sturgis) was born in Norfolk, Virginia, on 9th December, 1924. Six years later his family moved to Philadelphia. In 1942 Sturgis joined the United States Marines and during the Second World War served in the Pacific. After the war Sturgis attended the Virginia Polytechnic Institute before joining the Norfolk Police Department. In 1948 he became the manager of the Whitehorse Tavern. He also served in the U.S. Army (1950-52). This was followed by a spell as the owner-manager of Top Hat Nightclub in Virginia Beach. In 1956 Sturgis moved to Cuba. He also spent time in Mexico, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Panama and Honduras. In 1958 he made contact with the Central Intelligence Agency at the US Consulate in Santiago. Over the next few years he worked as an undercover agent for the agency. His control officer was Sam Jenis. Sturgis also became involved in gunrunning to Cuba. On 30th July, 1958, Sturgis was arrested for illegal possession of arms. However, he was released without charge. There is some evidence that in 1959 Sturgis had contact with Lewis McWillie, the manager of the Tropicana Casino. After Fidel Castro gained control of Cuba, Sturgis formed the Anti-Communist Brigade. In his book, Counter-Revolutionary Agent, Hans Tanner claims that the organization was "being financed by dispossessed hotel and gambling owners" who operated under Fulgencio Batista. According to a declassified FBI document Sturgis participated in anti-Castro leaflet-dropping raid over Cuba with Pedro Diaz Lanz, former chief of Cuban Air Force in October 1959.

Pedro Luis Díaz Lanz (July 8, 1926 in Havana, Cuba - June 26, 2008 Miami, U.S.) was Chief of the Revolutionary Air Force of Cuba under Fidel Castro, before and after the 1959 Cuban Revolution. Contents 1 Life in Cuba 2 Life after Cuba 3 Notes 4 See also 5 External links Life in Cuba In 1957, Pedro Díaz Lanz joined Fidel Castro's rebel group in Santiago, Cuba. He was employed as a commercial pilot with the airline Aerovías Q. He later acted as head of the Revolutionary Air Force, and during 1958 he smuggled weapons and ammunition from Costa Rica and Florida into Cuba by air.[1] After the Cuban Revolution on 1 January 1959, he was confirmed as head of the new Revolutionary Air Force as well as Castro's personal pilot. Within months, he became vocal about his opposition to the influence of communists on the new revolutionary government. On 29 June 1959, Fidel Castro relieved him of his post, and he left immediately by boat for Florida with his second wife and 3 of his six children, and reportedly with Frank Sturgis, a fellow anti-communist.[2] Life after Cuba On 14 July 1959, Díaz was interviewed by the US Senate Internal Security subcommittee, where he gave out the first account of Fidel's planned move towards communism.[2] On 21 October 1959 he carried out one of his most notorious acts, flying a twin-engined bomber (variously reported as a B-25 or B-26) over Havana while dropping anti-communist leaflets, along with his brother Marcos Diaz Lanz. Pedro Diaz Lanz piloted and Marcos Diaz Lanz threw the leaflets down from an open bomb hatch. The unsuccessful gunfire from armed forces on the ground caused injuries and deaths, leading to unsubstantiated reports of bombs being dropped from the aircraft.[1][2] By April 1960, he was recruited by the CIA and became a member of Operation 40, a group of CIA operatives who specialized in carrying out secret anti-Castro assassinations and acts of sabotage.[2] Then on May 27 of 1960, the Miami Herald published a list of names of pilots who were placed on a U.S. Government 'Blacklist' thereby prohibiting them from flying to Cuba; on that list was Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz.[3] Díaz committed suicide with a gunshot wound to the chest in 2008 at the age of 81 after years of poverty and depression.[4] Sturgis became involved with Marita Lorenz, who was having an affair with Fidel Castro. In January 1960, Sturgis and Lorenz took part in a failed attempt to poison Castro. It is also believed that Sturgis was involved in helping the CIA organize the Bay of Pigs invasion. Sturgis was also a member of Operation 40. He later explained: "this assassination group (Operation 40) would upon orders, naturally, assassinate either members of the military or the political parties of the foreign country that you were going to infiltrate, and if necessary some of your own members who were suspected of being foreign agents … We were concentrating strictly in Cuba at that particular time. Actually, they were operating out of Mexico, too." On 19th December 1961, the Border Patrol in Miami reported that Sturgis/Fiorini was involved in a CIA operation that was trying to overthroe Fidel Castro. An investigation carried out by the FBI suggested the operation was being financed by Sergio Rojas. Alexander Irwin Rorke, who was closely associated with Sturgis/Fiorini was interviewed by the FBI on 22nd June 1962. According to the agent: "In connection with the flights over Cuba, Rorke stated that Fiorini does not pilot the planes and acts for the most part as a co-pilot. The planes are rented in the United States and flown to bases outside the United States such as the Bahamas. In making the contract for the rental of the planes, usually someone other than Fiorini signs the contract, although Fiorini is in contact with local CIA agents in Miami relative to the details of the flight. Rorke stated that Fiorini has instructions that on these flights, if he is arrested or stopped, he is to notify the officers that they should telephone a number which is the number of the CIA office in the Miami area. Fiorini has also been informed, according to Rorke, that if anyone arrests him, CIA will get him out." According to the FBI agent: "Rorke went on to argue that he could not understand why the Bureau was interested now in the activities of Fiorini as all of Fiorini's actions are fully known to CIA in Miami and there should be a record of his activities on file with CIA in Washington, D.C. Rorke stated he knows for a fact that Fiorini has not done anything on his own and that whatever he has done in the past he has done on instructions from CIA … Rorke advised that in the event Fiorini would be arrested for his anti-Castro activities, he, Rorke, having good connections with a well-known newspaper chain, will make plenty of trouble for those involved." Alexander Irwin Rorke claimed that their contact man was "Commander Anderson of the United States Navy, who is assigned to CIA overt office in New York". This claim is supported by a declassified CIA memo's from Anderson to Robert Trumbull Crowley on 9th January 1961: "Alex Rorke phoned from Miami to report that personnel in Varona group and other groups in process joining Dr. Bosch - Commander (of) Diego Party. According (to) Rorke, Frank Fiorini has been power behind scene." In an article published in the Florida Sun Sentinel on 4th December, 1963, Jim Buchanan claimed that Sturgis had met Lee Harvey Oswald in Miami shortly before the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Buchanan claimed that Oswald had tried to infiltrate the Anti-Communist Brigade. When he was questioned by the FBI about this story, Sturgis claimed that Buchanan had misquoted him regarding his comments about Oswald.
